Main Street trench won't hurt downtown new sidewalk, paving

By GEORGE DERRINGER

New utility service for a proposed office and retail building on the site of the former gas station property at 611 Main St. will be underground before town streets are repaved.

Selectmen struggled with the schedule Monday night, trying to be sure neither the new brick sidewalks nor the paving yet to come will be marred by a trench across the street.

Boston Edison will put its electrical lines underground but, unlike most other utilities, first needs selectmen approval. Town manager Chad Maurer said street paving work will begin within a week or two and asked if Edison could finish its work by then.

Ed Chisholm, an Edison representative, said it could. But selectman Mark Lombardi wanted to know why selectmen hadn't been told of Edison's petition much earlier.

"Edison applied in May. The town engineer and the director of public works made their comments June 3 and June 6," Lombardi said. "Why didn't we get their comments until now?"

Objecting to what he saw as a usurpation of selectmen's power, Lombardi noted that "the professionals" had made their comments "but we vote. Say what you want about professionals, but you still have to deal with me."

Wade Welch, chairman of the selectmen, objected as strongly to Lombardi's comment.

"It's a Catch-22," Welch said. "If the professionals hadn't investigated and thought about the sidewalks, we wouldn't have seen any problem" with the application.

"All this is before the zoning board of appeals even approves the project. It says 'Come to Winchester and do whatever you want'," he said.

Welch said departments heads should be complimented, not criticized, for commenting. "This man (Chisholm) also shouldn't be held up. He's trying to coordinate his effort with our street paving."

Lombardi next criticized what he saw as an underlying assumption. "Edison applies for this and the department heads comment on it, all before there's even a hearing on the project June 19," Lombardi said. "They all assumed it (the project) would get an OK."

"All this is before the zoning board of appeals even approves the project. It says, 'Come to Winchester and do whatever you want'," he said.

At Maurer's recommendation, selectmen decided to wait to get more information before giving Edison approval for the underground line.

Other Boston Edison petitions fared better with selectmen. One on Park Street for underground lines to a condominium building met no opposition and a guy wire for a pole on Washington Street was approved with the stipulation that the wire be anchored on property belonging to St. Mary's Church.

In other action, selectmen:

- Appointed Dr. Peter Mencher to the council on youth.

- Observed a moment of silence to recognize the contributions of conservation commission chairman Elizabeth Howard, who passed away suddenly June 29.

- Signed a new contract with superior officers of the police department, as approved by town meeting early in June.

- Studied the minutes of the town hall building committee to determine that the Winton Club will probably be able to use the town hall auditorium for its annual cabaret show in 1987. Exterior work on the town hall, awarded to sole bidder P.J. Spillane and Co. of Everett for $802,350, will begin in July but interior renovations will be sent to bid late this year and work will not begin before Feb. 1, 1987.

Post office area will be always green

Solicitation of $1,200 to complete beautification of the islands in front of the post office will begin soon.

Members of the town beautification design review committee won approval of their plans from selectmen Monday night. The plans were made with help from landscape architect Joseph Hudak.

Three committee members met with selectmen Monday, describing their plan to beautify the area year-round. Annual plantings have been placed there by the Winchester Home and Garden Club but the new plan will also include three birch trees and some perennials to make "the islands green year round."

The committee already has $1,500 for the project but costs are likely to be around $2,700, said committee member Charles Tseckares. The front band of plants will be annuals, he added.

After learning that plantings, other than one birch tree in each island, will be kept less than 30 inches above the street, selectmen gave unanimous approval for both the project and fund solicitations.

Concerts, drama at Mill Pond will return

The Mill Pond Park next to town hall will be busy this summer.

A new summer outdoor concert series will be offered free at Mill Pond Park.

Concerts will begin July 16 and run for six consecutive Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. The series will occupy the same time and place formerly used for community band concerts until it disbanded.

The series features a different musical group each week with music ranging from contemporary and popular to jazz and classical. The first five groups include: July 16, Jeff Harrington Quartet; July 23, Winchester Flutes; July 30, Bedford Symphony Woodwind Quintet; Aug. 6, Commonwealth Brass Quintet; Aug. 13, Boston Saxophone Quartet.

The series is funded by the EnKa

Society and the Winchester Arts Lottery Council.

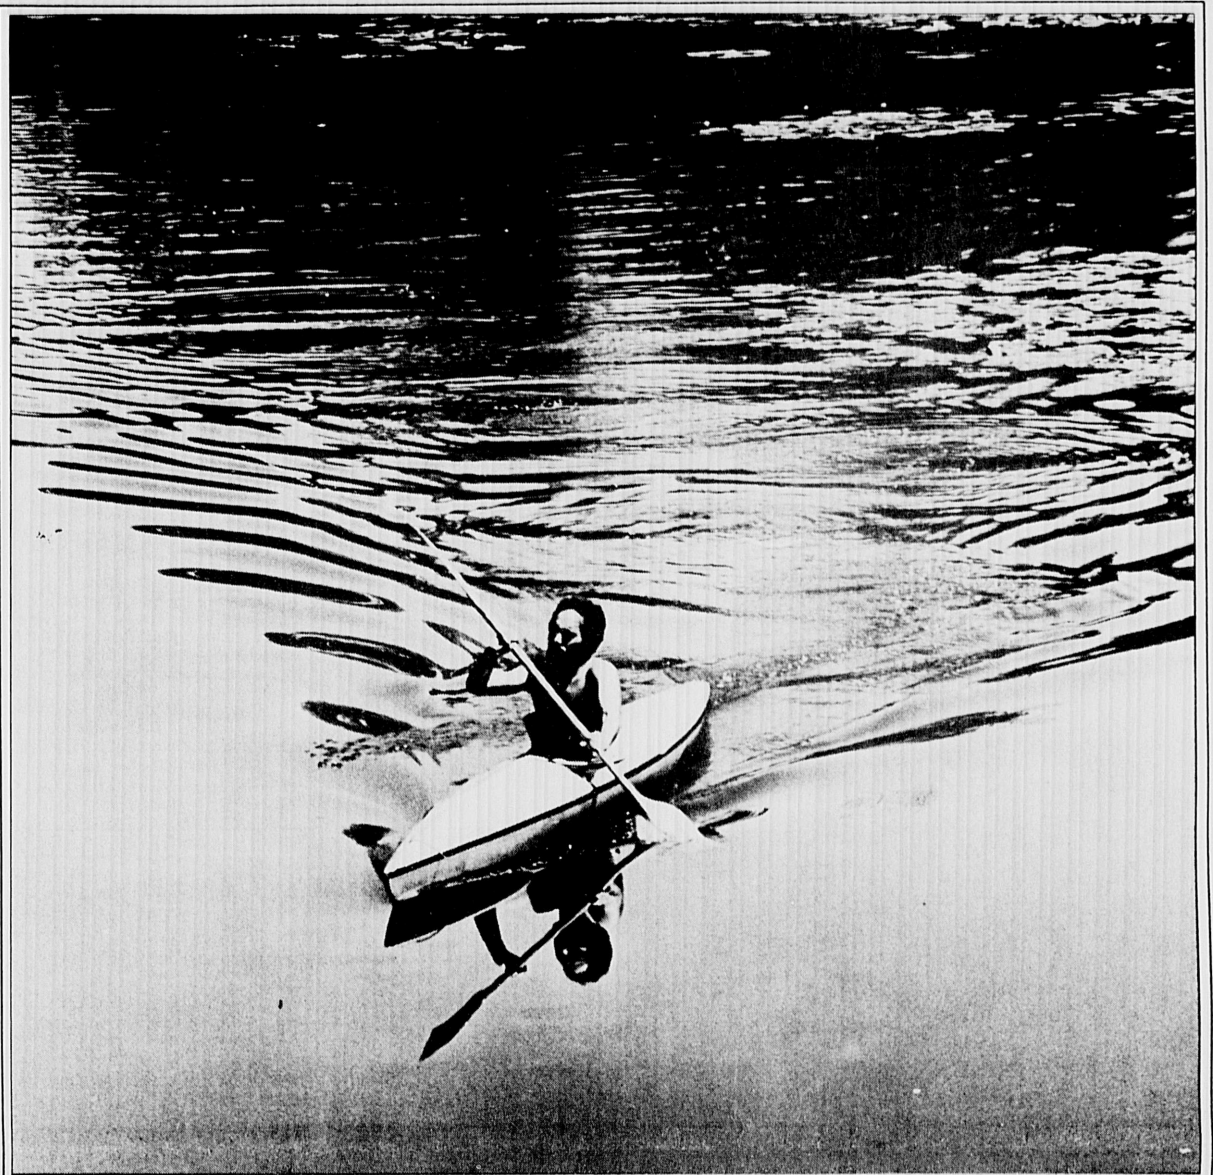

Schedules and further information are available at the recreation department the sponsoring organization, and through "The Culture Calendar," available at the recreation department, the library, the art gallery, Jenks Senior Center and Book-Ends.

In case of rain, concerts will be held in the town hall auditorium.

A dramatic presentation will be presented Sunday afternoon near the Winchester center Mill Pond.

Faith Fellowship Ministries of Winchester will bring the New Life Drama Company of Cleveland, Tenn., for a production at 3 p.m. in the park.

The public is welcome. There is no admission charge.

Town's water worries win support from MWRA board

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Many local residents won't drink the water unless they install their own filters.

Town officials are increasingly concerned about the purity of reservoir water and protecting it from those who think the water supply is a good place to swim.

Both groups won support last week from the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) advisory board. The board, faced with a growing demand for water and a shrinking supply of unpolluted water, told its bosses and its communities to do something right away.

Board members, including Winchester selectman Frank Sopper, said water must be protected from contaminations, leaks in the distribution system must be plugged and efficient-cy of water use increased. Sopper said details were not discussed.

Conservation is the answer, the advisory board said.

The board is trying to avoid adding a new source of water to the 60-community MWRA system, whose major reserve is Quabbin Reservoir in central Massachusetts. Proposals to divert river water, especially from the Merrimack River near the New Hampshire border, have met massive opposition.

Conservation is the answer, the advisory board said.

Long an advocate of both reservoir protection and conservation, Sopper thinks "economics are what's going to educate people."

Sopper said no method was devised at the meeting to enforce water conservation. Sopper's suggestion to his community was, "Think before you use water."

He also described various water-saving devices he uses in his home, such as shower savers and strainers for sinks.

Jim Courchaine of the department of public works' sewer and water division said Winchester needs to be educated about water conservation.

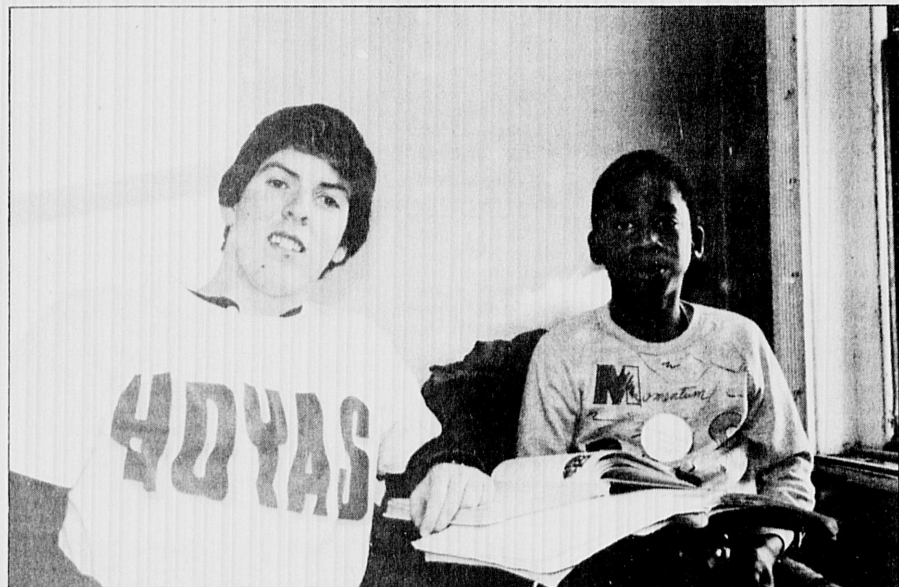

An official water ban has never been enforced in Winchester, he said.

If everyone was conscientious, said Courchaine, Winchester would not have to depend as much on MWRA's resources. He suggested educational brochures and media support as options.

More than 600 million gallons of water was pumped from Spot Pond, an MWRA reservoir, last year, according to Courchaine. This year, Winchester started pumping last Tuesday. Depending on rainfall and daily demand, Courchaine said Winchester will pump around 220 million gallons this year at the MWRA maximum of two million gallons per day.

Courchaine said because of an unexpected rain fall a month ago, the reservoir increased its supply by (Please see WATER, page 3)

Winchester-Roxbury tutors prove teenagers DO care

Bob Driscoll, left, of Winchester just might be tutoring the next Boston-area youngster to grow up, win a basketball scholarship and play for the Georgetown "Hoyas," like Patrick Ewing has already done.

By GEORGE DERRINGER

If modern kids don't care about others, at least 42 Winchester High School students don't know it.

Each Monday during the school year, 42 Winchester students marched onto a bus to continue a 14-year tradition of tutoring students in the Winchester-Roxbury Tutoring Program.

Kids from both areas benefit, according to all concerned with the voluntary program, officially sponsored by the outreach committee of the Parish of the Epiphany but in fact involving many Winchester churches and individuals.

It began for Winchester 14 years ago when the Rev. Neal Hastie, an Episcopal priest who started the St. James After School Tutoring Program 25 years ago at his Roxbury parish, came to the Parish of the Epiphany's adult class.

"The program actually began to serve Father Hastie's parish," said Nancy Budd, Winchester coordinator of the program. "It has since expanded and includes students from Matapan and other inner-city neighborhoods." Classes are at St. Augustine's and St. Martin's in the Roxbury area.

The Roxbury program has additional components, including Head Start for pre-schoolers, a summer program and tutoring for high school students but Winchester is involved only in the after-school program.

The program peaked this year with 42 high school students taking a bus to Roxbury each week to tutor young people in grades 1-4.

"Through working together, friendships often become close and the program provides a learning and growth experience for tutors as well as tutees," Budd said.

At first, Winchester's tutors all came from the Episcopal parish's youth group, but later the guidance department at the high school offered to help find talented and caring tutors. Youth groups from other churches also got involved.

But this year's record turnout of 42 high schoolers, almost twice as many as in any previous year, presented a new problem.

"Until last year, all the driving was done by volunteers," Budd explained. "But there was no way we could find enough people to drive 42 tutors to Roxbury every Monday."

The EnKa Society, some of whose members had been volunteer drivers for several years, came to the rescue. (Please see TEENAGERS, page 7)

POLICE LOG

Woburn drugstore robbers caught

Joseph Bari of Newton and Cindy Gordon of Cambridge defaulted their court appearances Tuesday after Winchester police arrested the two for receiving stolen property over $100 and Woburn police arrested them for larceny.

Winchester police arrested the two after they fled Osco Drugs in Woburn with more than $1,900 worth of over-the-counter drugs, vitamins and razor blades.

Winchester police observed a blue Ford Pinto traveling south on Cambridge Street with no inspection sticker. While chasing the car, police heard over the Woburn radio a report the same car was involved in a robbery at Osco Drug.

Police stopped the car at Everson Road and Samoset Road.

Bari was arrested for receiving stolen property over $100, operating to endanger, failure to stop for an officer and driving without an inspection sticker.

Gordon was arrested for receiving stolen property over $100.

Police arrest Woburn resident on OUI charges

Police arrested Michael J. O'Connor, 22, of Woburn for driving under the influence of alcohol, improper passing, speed greater than reasonable and proper, failure to stop for a red light/stop sign, operating to endanger and failure to stop for an officer.

Officer Peter A. Hersee Jr. observed a 1986 Chevrolet Monte Carlo traveling north on Cambridge Street.

Hersee followed the car as it turned onto Everett Avenue and shut off its headlights.

He arrested O'Connor and took him to the Winchester police station. O'Connor was later bailed for arraignment June 30. His case is continued for two weeks.

Police arrest Wilmington man on OUI charges

Patrick B. McNalley, 24, of Wilmington faces second offender charges if he is found guilty of operating under the influence.

Police arrested McNalley at about 10 p.m. June 30 for operating under the influence, driving with only a learner's permit, speeding and defective equipment.

Police observed two motorcycles traveling on Washington Street. One motorcycle, police said, had faulty headlights.

Police stopped the motorcycle on Washington Street in Woburn. McNalley failed field sobriety tests and was arrested and taken to Winchester station. McNalley refused the breathalyzer test and was later bailed for court June 30.

Police arrest 3 men at condos

Police arrested two juveniles and one Somerville man for possession of burglarious tools at the Wedgemere Condos on Washington Street at about 8:45 p.m. June 29.

Police observed suspicious activity at the condos. Police found burglarious tools in the Somerville man's 1977 Ford.

The man was expected to appear in the Fourth District Court in Woburn yesterday.

The two juveniles were arraigned June 30 at the courthouse and the case is continued.

Police catch 4 more at fells

Anyone caught swimming, fishing or sailing in Winchester reservoirs at the Middlesex Fells Reservation will pay between $100 and $150 in fines.

Last weekend, police arrested four more men.

Police arrested two East Boston men and one from Watertown at about 3 p.m. June 29 for trespassing. Also arrested that day was a Somerville man.

Monday, June 30

At 7:31 a.m., an employee of Rotondi Construction Company on Sunset Road reported damage to two trucks and a portable trailer, police said.

Sunday, June 29

At 7:30 p.m., police cited a 20-year-old Pond Street resident for driving an unregistered, uninsured car and attaching plates.

Officer Stephen P. Roche observed a blue Buick Skylark turn left onto Church Street from Cambridge Street with an expired inspection sticker. Roche pulled the car over and cited the man. The car was towed.

At midnight, police responded to a one-car accident at Bonnell Ford on Cambridge Street. A Billerica resident told police a signal light he drove into was not lit. The man suffered a cut on his head, police said, but refused treatment. The car was towed from the scene.

Friday, June 27

At 10:55 a.m., a resident reported his $4,500 pickup truck stolen from the Immaculate Conception Church parking lot. The man told police the truck was left with O'Keefe's service station for repairs. After repairs were made, the truck was parked in the church lot.

At 12:27 p.m., police reported vandals broke into four cars at a storage garage at the corner of Cross Street and Forest Street. The windshield and one window was smashed on a 1982 Volkswagen; a $75 AM/FM radio was stolen from a 1974 Dodge; a $75 AM/FM radio was stolen from a 1979 Buick Regal; and a $1,500 to 1,800 two-way radio from a truck.

Safety officer urges use of seat belts

Safety officer Kevin P. Mawn, Winchester's coordinator for the "Make It Click Challenge," is asking motorists to take an extra three seconds this holiday season to buckle up on every ride.

"During busy holiday weekends, the risk of highway injury and death is very high. With July 4 on a Friday this year, Massachusetts will have an extended weekend of high-risk travel," Mawn said.

"Make It Click" is a summer-long campaign asking people to buckle their safety belts and put their children in safety seats. The campaign is coordinated by the Massachusetts Passenger Safety Program and the National Safety Council.

"Last summer in Massachusetts, 116 motor vehicle drivers and passengers were killed and many more were injured during the holiday season beginning Memorial Day and ending Labor Day," said Mawn. He added, "We hope to make this summer a safer and more accident-free time."

People can decrease their chances of being injured in a car accident by 50 percent and of being killed in an accident by 70 percent by simply using seat belts and child safety seats properly.

"Once people start buckling up, they'll see how easy and comfortable this lifesaving habit can be," said Cindy Rodgers, director of the state's program.

Massachusetts law requires front and back seat occupants to use safety belts. State law also requires children under five to be secured in a car seat or seat belt. Since these laws went into effect, the number of automobile injuries and deaths in Massachusetts has greatly decreased, Mawn said.

Mahoney's, state mark new beautification area

State and local officials gathered June 24 to thank Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Nursery of Winchester for work done as part of the statewide "Adopt-A-Space" program, supported by the Massachusetts Nurserymen's Association.

Mahoney's "adopted" and beautified the median strip along Route 3 at the Winchester/Woburn line.

The program is part of a statewide beautification effort inaugurated by Governor and Mrs. Dukakis. Members of the Massachusetts Nurserymen's Association have "adopted" about 40 state-owned sites across Massachusetts, and are working hard to make ours one of the most beautiful states in the country.

At the Woburn/Winchester line, Mahoney's has donated expertise, time, materials and manpower to make dramatic improvements. Boulders were moved and a mixture of shrubbery, evergreens and flowering annuals have been used to create a most attractive site. Mahoney's will also maintain the area on an ongoing basis — including weeding, watering and clearing of litter.

Attending the ceremony were Paul Mahoney, Charlie Mahoney and Jim Amundsen of Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Nursery; August Schumacher Jr., Food and Agriculture Commissioner; Warren Shepard, Department of Food and Agriculture; Guy Paris, Department of Food and Agriculture; Jim Marnell, Department of Public Works; Judy Muggia, selectman; Bob Deering, selectman; John Murphy, alderman, Town of Woburn; Ed Pasquarello, alderman, Town of Woburn; and Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh, state representative.

There's more than one way to finance an education!

With educational expenses on the rise and financial assistance more restrictive, families are looking for alternatives to pay for school. At Winchester Savings Bank, you'll find loans specifically for students... loans for parents of students... and even loans for students or parents who own homes. And in most cases, there are no restrictions on age, the type of school you're attending (or plan to attend), or if you're a half-time or full-time student.

HELP Loans: Administered by the Massachusetts Higher Education Assistance Corporation, this federally sponsored program offers low-interest loans to undergraduate and graduate students. Parents are not required to co-sign, the first payment is deferred until after graduation and you have up to 10 years to repay.

PLUS Loans: This is also a locally administered, federally sponsored program that offers below-market rates to parents of dependent undergraduate students as well as to independent undergraduate and graduate students. Payments start within 45 days and the repayment period is negotiated.

Home Equity Lines of Credit: With a Winchester Savings Bank Home Equity Line of Credit, homeowners can use the equity in their homes to pay for the cost of education... or for whatever else they want. Lines of credit are available up to $150,000.

To find out more about financing your education, call 729-2130 or visit any office of Winchester Savings Bank.

TRAVEL UPDATE

by Alan Coffin and Josephine Vitello

GUADELOUPE

For a Caribbean vacation with a French twist, Guadeloupe approaches perfection. By day, one can bask in the sunshine beside turquoise Caribbean waters, and, at night, enjoy the pulsing rhythms of calypso music. Guadeloupe is officially part of France. The tricolor flag flaps over luxury beachfront hotels and lazy fishing villages. French is the language heard along the streets where numerous restaurants feature classic French fare or zesty local Creole cuisine. The French franc is legal tender. Thanks to a favorable exchange rate, U.S. dollars stretch farther in Guadeloupe than in many other areas of the Caribbean. This is especially true during the mid-April to mid-December low season.

May we extend our personal welcome to our new column and to our new office at 165 Washington St., 721-2095. The contest drew entries from more than 90 schools and more than 3,000 school children. Six savings bonds were donated by corporate sponsors.

Assessors won't visit all homes

Last week the assessor's office received calls and letters from residents concerned about their home revaluations.

An article in The Winchester Star said of 7,200 homes in Winchester, 1,500 homes were not actually entered in 1981 or 1983.

Two sets of letters were sent to those 1,500 homes in March, according to the assessors.

In 1990, assessors will enter all 7,200 homes.

Police make first heroin arrest in past three years

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

A Stoneham man faces heroin trafficking and possession charges after his arrest outside the Winchester Post Office.

Stephen Isleib, 35, of Stoneham faces a minimum five-to-20-year jail sentence if found guilty of trafficking and possession of what police believe to be heroin, according to Winchester town prosecutor Sgt. James R. Pierce.

Isleib's was the first heroin-related arrest by Winchester police in at least three years, Pierce said.

In related incidents the same night, two men were treated Winchester Hospital for multiple drug overdose.

According to Pierce, a lab analysis will determine what Isleib was carrying.

Persons found guilty of carrying 28 to 100 grams of heroin face at least five years in jail.

Police arrested Isleib about 8 p.m. June 27 after a conversation with another man police say they sent to make a drug purchase.

Police said they found 20 bags worth $700 of what is assumed to be heroin. Police impounded Isleib's 1980 Plymouth Horizon and arrested him.

Isleib spent the weekend in Winchester jail before being transferred to Middlesex County jail in Cambridge. Bail was set at $100,000 surety or $10,000 cash. He is expected back in court within 10 days, Pierce said.

Stoneham police later searched Isleib's house at 121 Franklin St. in Stoneham. According to reports, police found 148 bags of what they believe is heroin. Stoneham police arrested Robin Murray of 121 Franklin St. and charged her with trafficking. She was bailed at $50,000 surety and will appear in court in the next two weeks.

In a related incident about four hours before, Winchester police observed two men in the rear parking lot of Winchester Savings Bank at 278 Washington St.

John F. Scalley, 32, of Woburn, was arrested for possession of two hypodermic needles and a Woburn resident was arrested on a misdemeanor charge of receiving stolen property under $100. The property, police said, was a forged license.

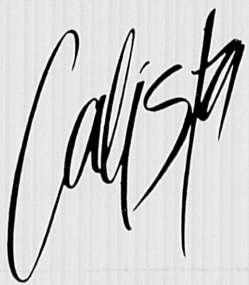

After the two arrests, both men were rushed to Winchester Hospital for emergency treatment of a multiple overdose.

The Woburn resident was arraigned in Fourth District Court in Woburn. He faces other warrants in Lawrence. He will appear in Woburn court again July 10.

Scalley was to appear July 2.

Cardinal Bernard F. Law recently dedicated the new ambulatory surgery unit at St. Elizabeth's Hospital of Boston to the memory of Dr. Samuel R. Gargano, late chairman of the hospital's department of surgery and a Winchester resident. The unit was planned by the doctor to meet the needs of patients undergoing surgical procedures on an outpatient basis. From left are: Law; Mrs. Lucia Gargano, widow of Dr. Gargano; Mrs. Beatrice Gargano, the physician's mother; and his daughters, Diane and Gina.

Winchester man returns home from Peace Corps stint in Africa

John Waite, son of Jack and Pat Waite of Appalachian Road in Winchester, has returned from Burkina Faso, where he served more than two years as a Peace Corps volunteer.

A 1983 graduate of U. Mass./Amherst with a degree in management, Waite worked as a small business advisor in the province of Ganzourou. He gave counseling in accounting, marketing, finance, and credit management.

Waite also worked on several other projects in his region including an irrigation system, tree nursery, vegetable gardens, fruit tree orchard and cereal production.

His village-level activities included village meetings, recreational events such as soccer and working alongside the natives in collective fields.

After completing his Peace Corps assignment, Waite worked as a management consultant for a private voluntary organization called Partnership for Productivity, which gives loans to small business and then provides management and financial counseling. Waite worked for the group for three months, also in Burkina Faso.

Waite plans to attend graduate school to obtain a master's degree in international business. He would eventually like to continue his work in developing countries.

For more information about the Peace Corps, call 223-7366, or write to Peace Corps, 150 Causeway St., Room 1304, Boston 02114.

John Waite, center, of Winchester, a Peace Corps volunteer, works with two young villagers in the tree nursery as part of a reforestation project in Burkina Faso, formerly known as the Republic of Upper Volta. Local people did all the work of the project.

Saltmarsh announces he's candidate for re-election

State Representative Sherman W. "Whip" Saltmarsh Jr. formally announced today his candidacy for re-election to the Massachusetts House of Representatives from the 34th Middlesex District.

A member of the house since 1975, Saltmarsh is a ranking member of the joint legislative committee on transportation.

Saltmarsh is the only member of the redistricting committee who also served on the last such panel in 1978.

"My candidacy is based on more than a decade of getting things done," Saltmarsh said. "And my first priority has always been and will always be the communities of Winchester and Stoneham."

"All major state-wide issues," said Saltmarsh, "are actually local issues, because they ultimately affect people and government at the local level."

Although he is a republican in an overwhelmingly democratic house, Saltmarsh said "productivity, not partisanship" has been the norm during his service.

He noted his recent appointment as vice chairman of a special house committee to study expansion of marine transportation.

"I've dealt first-hand with local problems as a town meeting member for 30 years, as a member of the board of selectmen for 6 years, one as chairman, and as Winchester's designee to the MBTA advisory board since 1964," he said. "I know the needs of local communities. And I know how to make sure state projects and programs reflect local concerns."

He noted such projects as Winchester center rehabilitation, off-street parking, road resurfacing and Aberjona River dredging and erosion control.

Saltmarsh also cited such accomplishments as increased penalties for drunk drivers, increased state scholarship aid, reduced MBTA fare for the handicapped, increased drug abuse penalties and increased exemptions allowing the elderly and surviving spouses to meet property tax obligations without fear of losing their homes.

Rep. George Keverian, right, speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, showed up June 26 for the formal announcement of Rep. Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh, left, that he would seek another term in office. Keverian, a Democrat, spoke in support of Saltmarsh and said he "wants to see Whip back" next year.

A native of Winchester and a graduate of Winchester High School, Saltmarsh was graduated from Boston College. His honors include Winchester Chamber Of Commerce man of the year; Massachusetts Municipal Association legislator of the year; and, this year, his election by present and former members of the house to the executive board of the Massachusetts Legislators Association.

Vrotsos earns bachelor's degree

Michael Wayne Vrotsos, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Vrotsos of 58 Swan Rd., received a bachelor of arts degree from Washington University in St. Louis.

He was among 2,106 graduates at Washington's 125th commencement.

Noreen Arcari named leader of Northeastern college class

A self-employed wife and mother of three, Noreen McDonald Arcari of Winchester attended Northeastern University part-time to earn a bachelor's degree in business administration with a major in management. She graduated June 22 with a 3.9 average.

Arcari recently received the university's alumni association "Professional Promise Award," given annually since 1947 to recognize seniors in each of Northeastern's undergraduate colleges for academic achievements and outstanding performance on their co-op jobs.

Arcari is a member of Sigma Epsilon Rho and Beta Gamma Sigma honor societies. Involved in Winchester's community affairs, Arcari served as 1986 Town Day Chairman, participates in town meetings, and coaches boys' soccer.

Arcari is a physical fitness specialist and has instructed fitness and gymnastic classes for 12 years. She plans to pursue a career in corporate fitness management and human resources.

Arcari and her husband John Arcari have three sons: Keith, 18; Robby, 17; and Andy, 14.

Local residents celebrate NAASR

Winchester residents were involved in a 30th anniversary celebration of the National Association for Armenian Studies and Research (NAASR) June 15 at Harvard University.

Mezzo-soprano Eva Medzorjian of Winchester joined musical performers in presenting Armenian and non-Armenian selections and receiving standing ovations.

Nishan Goudsouzian, publicity director, and Nancy Kolligian, ticket director, both of Winchester, spent a year planning the event.

Johnson elected by health group

Marie Johnson, Winchester Hospital director of volunteer services, was recently elected assistant treasurer of the Massachusetts Association of Directors of Healthcare Volunteer Services (MADHVS).

Johnson, a Winchester resident, has served as a Winchester Hospital volunteer for 12 years. She assumed the directorship of the hospital volunteer services in 1982.

Hospital president Eugene Loubier said, "Leadership and administrative skills are best recognized by your peers. For that reason, Marie Johnson's election to the MADHVS post is of no surprise to her hospital colleagues."

Johnson began her two-year term as MADHVS assistant treasurer June 11.

Stolow studies in Indian program

Michelle Stolow of Winchester is one of three Carleton College students taking part in the Associated Colleges of the Midwest India Studies Program.

Students from ACM colleges will study at the University of Poona June 16-Dec. 12. They will do course work on Marathi language, literature, history, philosophy, economics, political science, art and music. Each participant will also undertake an independent study project.

The university is located in Pune, about 120 miles from Bombay.

Paul and Charlie Mahoney of Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Nursery in Winchester accept the plaque which will designate the median strip of Route 3 at the Winchester/Woburn line as a site planted by Mahoney's as part of the governor's state beautification project. From left are Paul Mahoney, Jim Amundsen of Mahoney's, selectman Judie Muggia, food and agriculture commissioner Gus Schumacher, Charlie Mahoney, selectman Bob Deering, Jim Marnell of the department of public works, and Woburn aldermen Ed Pasquarello and John Murphy.

Rev. David Purdy wins major preaching award

The Rev. David A. Purdy, pastor of Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church in Winchester, was awarded the Wilbur C. Ziegler Award for Excellence in Preaching at the annual conference of the Southern New England Conference of the United Methodist Church at Springfield College June 5.

The award is given annually to a person who demonstrates excellence in preaching the whole gospel, addressing both personal needs and social issues.

Purdy was nominated by his congregation for the prestigious award. The nomination form was accompanied by many letters of support and testimony to his ministry, both in the church and in the community. Some of the social issues addressed recently in his sermons are: the goal of equal rights for women, understanding the painful dilemma of abortion, the problems of racism, the needs and struggles of refugees, the goal of ecumenism, and the suffering of less fortunate peoples.

Describing Rev. Purdy's preaching members of his congregation wrote: "Dr. Purdy, first and foremost, is always sincere. His preaching is always representative of the way he conducts himself personally... he ties his messages to contemporary events and/or issues in society and bases them on sound Biblical principles."

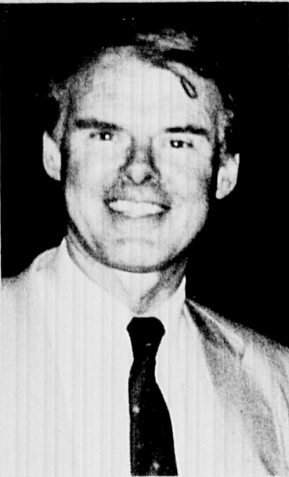

"David has a quiet way of challenging us to overcome faults not just in our own lives but in the larger context of society, whether it be Winchester, the state, nation or world... [he] never insists that we accept his viewpoint as the final word, but [he] encourages us to use what he says as a key to open the doors of our minds and hearts, and to get us feeling and thinking about these issues..."

"He weaves together effortlessly the roles of preacher, teacher and pastor... I glean new facts from Scripture, I learn of different perspectives for viewing the passage in question, and those sacred words are skillfully related to my life so that I am always left with ideas to ponder and new challenges to living my life as a Christian..."

"Through his actions as well as his superb preaching, David Purdy has taken a stand as a minister. For his leadership we are truly thankful and for his excellence in preaching we are grateful..."

The congregation of Crawford Church celebrated Purdy's award at a reception in his honor after worship Sunday, June 15. Receiving the award with him were his wife, Pamela, art teacher at Runkle School, Brookline; daughter Kristen, a student at Bates College; son Ronald, recently graduated from Winchester High School, who will attend Ithaca College in the fall; daughter Jessica, a student at Winchester High School; and son

Rev. David Purdy

Stephen, a student at Valley Forge Military Academy.

Purdy has served Crawford Church since 1978. He formerly served parishes in Middleborough and Springfield. He is past president of the Winchester Inter-Faith Council, serves on the board of directors of Hospice Care, Inc. and the Winchester Hospital Corporation, is a member of the personnel committee for A Better Chance and is an adjunct faculty member at Andover-Newton Theological School.

Alec Guinness film festival planned for library's summer

Alec Guinness is coming to the Winchester Public Library this summer, or at least his films are. The library is sponsoring an "Alec Guinness Film Festival" to be held every Thursday July 10 through Aug. 7. The films will be shown in the library meeting room at 7 p.m.

Scheduled films include:

July 10, Captain's Paradise, an adult comedy starring Guinness as a sea captain with two wives, each in a different port.

July 17, Last Holiday, in which Guinness plays the role of a man with six weeks to live who decides to make them the best of his life. This is a 1950 comedy-tragedy.

July 24, The Man in the White Suit, in which an ingenious inventor (Guinness) discovers a totally indestructible fabric, a "Frankenstein monster" for the clothing industry, which will stop at nothing to prevent the fabric's production.

July 31, The Lady Killer, the tale of five bank robbers posing as a string quintet, and sweet old Mrs. Wilberforce who accidentally discovers their plans. The gang must decide who will get rid of her, but as things proceed it becomes clear that Mrs. Wilberforce may get rid of them first.

August 7, The Lavender Hill Mob, in which comic adventures begin when a bank clerk steals a fortune in gold bullion and melts it into tacky replicas of the Eiffel Tower. When six of the statues are accidentally sold to a group of school girls, Guinness and his sidekick Stanley Holloway try to retrieve them, with hilarious consequences.

All films run approximately 90 minutes. Admission is free, so come for some "reel entertainment" at the Winchester Public Library this summer. For more information, call 721-7171.

The Winchester Public Library will be closed Friday, July 4, in honor of Independence Day. The library will reopen at 10 a.m. Monday, July 7.

Selectmen coordinate paving plans

- Granted a staging permit for a new sign at Esquire Tailors, 599 Main St.
- Recommended ringing bells in conjunction with the unveiling of the renovated Statue of Liberty but expressed confusion because Gov. Michael Dukakis' office listed the appropriate times in Eastern Standard (not Daylight) Time. Bell ringing is scheduled at 10:55 p.m. July 3 and 2 p.m. July 4.
- Accepted three donations from the EnKa Society: $1,000 each for the youth center and the recreation department's cultural arts summer program and $1,500 for the beautification design review committee.
- Granted a staging permit for Creations by Mo at 618 Main St.
- Reviewed the first draft of a "request for proposals" for development of the Woburn Loop, an abandoned railroad right-of-way in which the state maintains some interest, principally the power to prevent permanent structures. More discussion and a possible vote are slated at the July 14 meeting.
- Learned that selectman Judie Muggia was elected treasurer of the Middlesex County Selectmen's Association.
- Heard Lombardi report that "selectmen don't have to decide what color the dumpsters at the train stations are going to be" because no dumpsters will be placed there.
- After reviewing the plans, Lombardi concluded, "They're going to do a real good job."
- Also learned from Lombardi, who joined five MBTA officials and selectman Frank Sopper on a tour of the stations last week, that if the MBTA "had their druthers, there wouldn't be any murals at them. Every place which has murals has more graffiti."

A proposed mural for the Wedgemere station fell through this spring after gaining less than unanimous support from selectmen when state arts funding for the project was not approved.

• Heard a suggestion from Robert J. Carroll, similar to one he made in the June 19 issue of The Winchester Star, that joggers and hikers be issued permits to use the Middlesex Fells Reservation.

Such people could help police the area and protect the town water supply by reporting violators, Carroll said.

SENIOR SCENE

Senior luncheon will be July 16

On Wednesday July 16 at noon, Helen Hodgdon and her kitchen committee will serve a monthly soup and sandwich luncheon with a limit of 150 reservations.

The menu includes lobster salad rolls, coffee or tea and dessert. This will be followed by an informational talk by Michel Saraco, former Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, who will speak on the important subject of town government. Mr. Saraco has an encyclopedic mind, with extensive knowledge about town affairs, town bylaws and all areas of town government functions.

Saraco was a member of the finance committee, director of the Board of Health, served six years as a selectman, and was a member of the town charter committee.

He is known statewide on environmental health and is called throughout the state as a consultant on cases of pollution and other factors regarding health problems. He was the first recipient of the state award, a health plaque indicating that his services far exceeded the call of duty.

This is an opportunity to be informed about local government and to present questions following his presentation. Seniors should sign up at the reception desk for the luncheon.

Mailers at the Jenks Center prepare the monthly Winchester Senior Association newsletter and Council on Aging newsletter.

The keep well clinic is a valuable service that has been in operation since 1976 at the Jenks Senior Center. Agnes Mahoney, back left, and Audrey Smith check in at the clinic. Mrs. Ann Ciampa is the leader and head nurse of the health activity that meets during the year twice a month. This summer it will be open July 24 and Aug. 21.

Come Home" will be shown in color. This is the first major film in the popular series, relating the story of a poor family forced to sell their beloved dog, who undertakes a tortuous journey to return to them.

Starring is a very young Elizabeth Taylor with Roddy McDowell, Donald Crisp, Dame May Whitty, Edmund Gwenn and Elsa Lanchester.

Although the film is nearly a quarter of a century old, it is a compelling story that will be of interest to all who view it. During the changing of reels in the Jenks Senior Center meeting room, refreshments will be served. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend the showing of this film filled with pathos but ending on a happy note.

Building expansion at Jenks Center

All who pass Jenks Senior Center will note that the excavation is deep and wide. If all goes well, it is estimated that the completion of the addition will be soon after January 1987.

Nine hundred donors have contributed to make this possible.

To provide quality services for all seniors in town and to use their expertise effectively, extended space is essential. Plans placed on the drawing board less than a decade ago have been outgrown since the senior population has doubled in this short period of time.

This has a tremendous impact for both the present and the future for programs and services originating at the center.

for July 18

On Friday, July 18 from 1:00-3:15 p.m., the 1943 version of "Lassie

Appreciation is extended to the committee members who get the letters ready for the post office, folding and addressing consumers a full morning of steady work for more than a dozen people.

Mailers prepare newsletters

Each month, a dozen faithful mailers under the leadership of John Giuliani gather to prepare the Winchester Seniors Association and Council on Aging Newsletters for mailing to approximately 2,900 homes. In June, 54 people who have moved out of town but who desire to remain active at Jenks Senior Center received the newsletter.

Ward's Has A Gift
For Any Occasion

"A satisfied customer comes back," explains Don Ward, owner and proprietor of Ward's Gift Shop in Medford since just after World War II.

And, for the past 43 years, Ward's reputation for good service, reasonable prices, and standing behind his merchandise has kept them coming back.

Many of Ward's longtime customers have moved away but they still call to have china, crystal, or figurines shipped to as far away as Florida or California. He will ship to any part of the U.S.

Located at 24 High St. in Medford Square, Ward's carries one of the largest selections of Waterford crystal in the Boston area, along with 300 patterns of china including such well-known names as Royal Doulton, Minton, Pickard, Wedgwood, and Noritake.

Ward's also features a wide selection of limited edition plates, figurines, and collector's dolls. Among the 15,000-20,000 items in the store is one of the New England area's largest selection of figurines including such names as Lladro, Hummel, Royal Doulton, Anri, Kaiser, Sebastian, Francis Hook, and Precious Moments.

Ward's has an appropriate gift for any occasion and ready to assist customers in finding that "something special" is Dorothy, the shop's manager for the past 27 years.

Dorothy, and all the staff at Ward's strive to maintain "a personal touch atmosphere" which has been one of the trademarks of Ward's since it opened its doors. Dorothy and the crew at Ward's are on a first-name basis with most of their customers.

Although he has seen Medford Square change "like all squares change over the years," Ward and his employees have earned and maintained a reputation for personal service, quality, and low prices. "In fact," says Ward, "Word of mouth is our best selling point."

Visit Ward's the next time you need that special gift. Like so many, you will keep coming back.

Ward's is open Monday through Saturday, 9 to 5:30, Thursdays, 9 to 8:30.

Times Have Changed

And Choate and Symmes Hospitals Have Changed with Them.

Choate and Symmes Hospitals have provided quality patient care since the two acute care community hospitals were founded 80 years ago. Over time, as the meaning of 'quality' has changed, Choate and Symmes have changed too.

Today, 'quality' care at Choate and Symmes means comprehensive care. It is expertly trained staff, using up-to-the-minute diagnostic equipment. It is modern facilities, not only for our inpatients but for our outpatients as well.

Recently completed construction and renovation has enabled us to expand programs and services in new or renovated facilities, so that at the same time that we continue to provide quality care for our inpatients, we are meeting the comprehensive needs of our outpatients with:

- 24-hour Emergency/Walk-In Care Centers
- Round-the-clock comprehensive Home Care including respiratory and nursing services and Lifeline
- Surgical Day Care
- State-of-the-art Diabetes and Enterostomal Care
- Chemotherapy and Cancer Care
- Laser Services
- Special Procedures
- Diagnostic Laboratory and X-ray Services including head and body CT-Scanning
- Special Diagnostics (EEG, EKG, Echocardiography, Exercise Testing)
- Rehabilitation Services (Physical, Speech, and Occupational Therapy)
- Respiratory Therapy

... All available to you close to home.

At Choate-Symmes, we mean it when we say,
24 hours a day, our patients are our number 1 concern.

School committee's report card decision hurts schools

By CYNTHIA KRUMME

Tuesday, June 24, a majority of the school committee dealt a blow to the progress of enlightened education in Winchester public schools.

The committee did this in two ways: (1) by failing to support the much needed revision of the primary grade report card, and (2) by deprecating the work and expertise of a task force whose sole purpose over the last few months was to study and recommend a strengthened reporting system for the primary grades.

The two committee members who supported the task force report have my appreciation.

The three school committee members who voted against the changes in the report card have not seen a primary report card given to one of their own children in years and apparently time has dulled their sensitivity to the need for building self-esteem in young children, to giving parents a very clear understanding of the progress of their child, and to providing teachers with a conferencing form that allows them to adequately measure the individual progress of a youngster in order that that student might be helped to grow academically and socially.

I am not suggesting that being a parent of a young child is the only way this sensitivity could be learned; another clear option for school committee members would be to ask questions, talk with parents and students and otherwise seek out information.

Perhaps that would help avoid the following comments: It was reported in The Star that chairman pro tem Ronayne "couldn't come to grips with it" (the report).

This is an unfortunate statement from an educator, as the concept of self-esteem that was a focal issue in the report is fairly well understood in educational circles and, in fact, in the public at large.

The same school committee member also expressed his opinion that teachers might not be up to the task of filling out the questionnaire. Such a claim is in effect a charge of mass incompetence against Winchester's teachers and completely without foundation.

I believe he has made a serious mistake in his handling of this situation. As he speaks from the advantage of the chair of the committee, he is able to guide and sometimes sway debate and therefore has a special responsibility to the town.

School committee members O'Connell and Powers apparently endorse member Ronayne's comments as they voted as he did and backed up his statements with their support. Member O'Connell is quoted in the Times as saying "I haven't seen the report cards in place and I can't make a comparison. I'm overwhelmed."

Member Powers admits that first graders might benefit from a revised card but failed to listen to the experts on the task force when they explained that, developmentally, children all the way to grade three have very similar needs and should be looked at in a similar fashion.

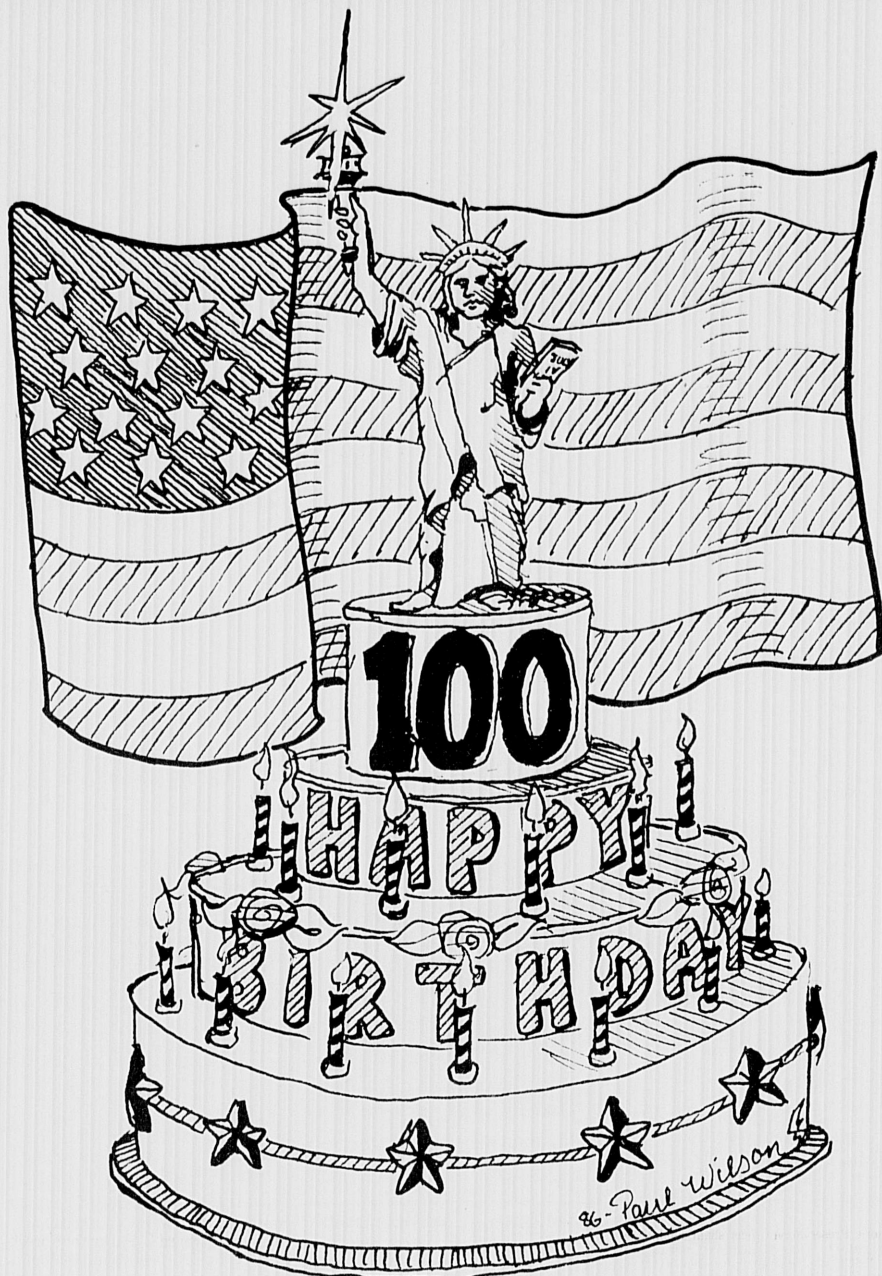

While the school committee seems not to have done its homework, the task force report reflects that they did do their homework. They looked at historical trends, polled parents and teachers, tested the product, reviewed current educational trends in both the literature and in practice, debated, argued and reviewed and in the end made a responsible, enlightened recommendation for the primary report card.

Their recommendation had the support of parents, staff and teachers. Then they came up against school committee. It is most unfortunate that the word "against" comes up so consistently with the current school committee where excessive ego and lack of support for teacher, staff and parent opinions have become the norm.

The task force should be commended for its work and members should be applauded for declining to go back to the drawing board.

I can't help but wonder if the current trend toward rejecting recommendations of people who have been charged by school committee to review and recommend might not result in the decline in the numbers of qualified volunteers, the loss of qualified personnel in the schools and the subsequent decline in the quality of education in Winchester.

I urge the school committee to reverse its action and accept the report of the task force, to end the current and continuing deadlock on most public matters of substance, and to work with the current school administration, staff and committees in furthering educational opportunity for the students of Winchester.

Mt. Vernon Street needs a park, not a parking lot

By DANIEL T. CHANE

Winchester has always been in the enviable position of having groups and individuals with foresight and sensitivity to the unique natural attributes of Winchester - and how to best preserve them for the enjoyment of all.

An excellent example of this is the fortunate "partnership" of Edwin Ginn and Forrest C. Manchester in the 1890's which resulted in the present large gentle sweep of parkland between Main Street and Wedgemere Station.

It is hard for us now to realize that in 1890, the area was a freight yard, and was also occupied by numerous industries owned by prominent Winchester citizens.

Winchester is 1986 has a greenbelt along most of the Aberjona River and Horn Pond Brook. These two waterways connect 11 open parks and recreation areas - and culminate in our most unique and visible attribute, the Mill Pond.

This park not only exists in its own visual atmosphere, but also provides innumerable vistas over a wide area of the center, further highlighting many architectural and natural treasures of the town - and in the process gives us all a sense of place and well being.

One of the nicest views for me is looking from the corner of Converse Place and Mount Vernon Street across the cool lawn, past the flowering shrubs and across the pond to town hall and the library.

This is also an important view for it provides excellent visual linkage between center - park - and the town hall/library complex.

It has been most upsetting to me to learn that the owners of this green space opposite the fire station plan, in the near future, to pave this lot and fill it with automobiles.

As a member of the planning board, I realize only too well some of the problems we have in the center with the automobile, and we will soon be updating a parking management study in order to better plan for the impact of automobiles in the central business district.

This impact must be planned well, and kept to a minimum, if we are to retain the pedestrian nature of the center with the new visuals that have been designed and built to attract people on foot to utilize and enjoy our downtown area.

Minimal impact to me, however, is not hot-topping a key open space on the west side of Mill Pond and then filling it with cars.

Yes, the lot is privately owned, but it is a lot that helps give Winchester a good feeling about itself. Because what happens to this lot impacts so much of what is good about the center green spaces, and the manner in which they link up, I submit that getting a few cars off the streets - especially before the new parking study is completed by the planning board - is of secondary importance to keeping the lot open for all.

Perhaps the owners of this lot, in the civic spirit of an Edwin Ginn or a Forrest C. Manchester, would be willing to negotiate with the town in transferring this precious open area over to all citizens of Winchester.

It would be a continuing vote of faith in the park system of Winchester, its enduring beauty, and the spirit of civic benevolence that has, over the years, made us the unique and attractive town we are today.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Borggaard asks help for deaf

TO THE EDITOR:

I find myself "up to my neck" trying to raise funds for the proposed enlargement of the Jenks Senior Center. As a trustee of that organization, I feel obligated to devote all of my efforts, at this time, to that end.

I have had to tell Father Coughlin of the Mark Seven Deaf Foundation that I can not take on any more fundraising duties this summer, despite my obvious interest in the deaf. I have a daughter who is deaf.

But because I am thoroughly convinced his summer camp for deaf children is a very worthy cause, I am asking you to publish his letter to me. I hope local readers may still be anxious and willing to donate a few spare dollars.

This is the only way I can think of to comply with Father Coughlin's plea.

Anyone who wishes may send a contribution, preferably by check, to me at 22 Franklin Road, Winchester 01890. Please make checks payable to "Camp Mark Seven" and I will see that they are forwarded to Father Coughlin.

Clarence Borggaard

ving the deaf in Asian countries except for one in Bangalore, India.

Perhaps you know of some organizations or people in your home area who would be sensitive to this need. I am trying to raise funds elseto comply with Father Coughlin's plea.

Anyone who wishes may send a contribution, preferably by check, to me at 22 Franklin Road, Winchester 01890. Please make checks payable to "Camp Mark Seven" and I will see that they are forwarded to Father Coughlin.

Choate-Symmes says 'thanks'

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to thank The Winchester Star for printing so many of our press releases during the year.

More than 2,000 residents have taken advantage of courses at both the Choate Hospital in Woburn and at the Symmes Hospital in Arlington. Many of these people mentioned reading about the program in The Star when asked how they knew of the event.

We appreciate the wonderful manner in which The Star is managed. We look forward to continuing our "partnership" of informing local residents of lectures, screenings, community meetings and programs.

Most sincerely,

Room service: tyke tells household when, where

By TERRY MAROTTA

We have a problem in our house: a person scarce tall enough to reach the doorknobs is running the place.

In particular he's running the nights.

From his crib, from a lying-down position, this scant scrap of humanity has figured out how to get Room Service.

The rest of us wait on ourselves around here. If we want a drink of water, we get up and pour one; if it's a peanutbutter sandwich we're after, we walk our old bones down to the kitchen and slather it up.

Not our toddler Michael, though; Michael lets his parents do the walking.

I'm not sure just when all this started, but it seems to me it was just after the pediatrician said to ease up on the bottles - "bubbies" in universal babytalk.

"But he likes his bottle so much," his fond foolish parents cooed to each other. "And he's just a baaby after all: what HARM can it do?"

We knew about bottle mouth, of course, the disfiguring type of dental decay that sets in when a baby is allowed to suck leisurely on eternities of bubbies, his teeth marinating for hours in a sauce of spit and sugar.

But there's nothing leisurely about the way this boy sucks: he vacuums the contents of a bottle like an Elec-trolix, then wings the empties across the room in joyful surfeit.

Bottle mouth is not going to be our problem with this child.

Being at his beck-and-call might, He's a baby still, of course. He's learning English as a second language to his native babble. He has trouble expressing certain ideas in the course of his day.

When he wakes up at night, though, the trouble vanishes.

"Juice bubba!" he yells into the furry darkness. "All gone juice bubba!"

His father stumbles to his crib then, hurriedly fetching forth the bubba stashed upstairs against this very contingency.

Michael pulls experimentally at it and casts it to the floor.

"Old bubba," he pronounces in withering tones, handing it back. "New one," he demands.

So Dad gropes his way down to the kitchen, at this hour the spooky keep of the cat who crouches atop the refrigerator, eyes peeled for hot hors d'oeuvres. He pours a new bubba and trudges back up with it.

But its nipple is blocked. "Bubba stuck," Michael tells him, near tears now. "Nother one."

And Dad goes looking for another one. Back down to the kitchen. He finds one. Screws it in place. Climbs the stairs.

Hands him this prime bubba that is neither old nor all-gone nor stuck. Michael takes a long pull, smiles an angel smile, hands the bottle back to his father and says, like a diner on-second-thought-changing-his-order, "Milk bubba."

Well, we're not such fools as all that in this house. Michael is told to settle for the juice bubba and settle for it he does. We all go back to bed.

And we hear, for the next quarter-hour, a song of many verses by a small man well-satisfied with the service in this hotel.

"Patty cake," he sings. "Happy Happy to you." "Big boy."

"Swing set," he continues. "Michael ball, MINE!"

And, back in the food vein, this reflectively with long thoughtful pauses between:

"Pea butter...Uhhhh, Pea butter Fluff. Uhhhh, M and M's...Mac'roni cheese. Lunch! YA! LUNCH!"

More Room Service, Michael figures, is just around the corner. A complete meal this time, perhaps.

We're a couple of suckers, this child's parents. We've been providing Room Service to one baby or another for going on 10 years now.

We run a first-class joint here, and no mistake. The wages are on the low side, admittedly.

But the benefits? Well, the benefits we can't complain about.

Notice Of Nomination To The National Register Of Historic Places

Winchester Center Historic District
The Winchester Center Historic District which consists of approximately 75 properties will be considered by the State Review Board in August for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places. The district is bounded by Church Street at the beginning of the Commercial Center to Dix Street and then north along the rear lot lines on the west side of Vine Street to Main Street where the boundary excludes new construction on the east side. At Mount Vernon Street the boundary follows the rear lot lines of commercial and institutional structures. The eastern boundary includes the First Baptist Church, Town Hall, Public Library and Lincoln School. Southern boundaries include McCall Jr. High School and the Unitarian Church.

The National Register of Historic Places is the federal government's official list of historic properties worthy of preservation.

BENEFITS TO HISTORIC PROPERTIES

* consideration in the planning for federally assisted projects.

* eligibility for certain Federal tax benefits.

* consideration of historic values in the decision to issue a surface coal mining permit where coal is located.

* qualification for federal grants for historic preservation when funds are available.

RIGHT TO OBJECT LISTING

Owners of private properties nominated to the National Register of Historic Places must be given an opportunity to concur in or object to listing in accord with the National Historic Preservation Act Amendments of 1980 and federal regulations 36 CFR Part 60. An owner or partial owner of private property who chooses to object to listing is required to submit to the State Historic Preservation Office a notarized statement certifying that the party is the sole or partial owner of the private property, as appropriate, and objects to the listing. For a single privately owned property with one owner, the property will not be listed if the owner objects. For a district with multiple ownership, or for a single property with multiple owners, the district or property will not be listed if a majority of the owners objects. Each owner or partial owner of private property has one vote regardless of how many properties or what part of the property that party owns. If the property cannot be listed because the owner or majority of owners objects prior to the State, the State Historic Preservation Officer shall submit the nomination to the Keeper for a determination of the eligibility of the property for inclusion in the National Register. If the property is then determined eligible for listing although not formally listed, federal agencies will be required to allow the Advisory Commission on Historic Preservation an opportunity to comment before the agency may fund, license, or assist a project that will affect the property.

Listing on the National Register automatically brings with it inclusion on the State Register of Historic Places. The State Register provides for review of State funded, licensed or permitted projects.

If an owner wishes to object to the listing of the property, the notarized objections must be submitted to Valerie A. Talmage, Executive Director, Massachusetts Historical Commission, 80 Boylston Street, Boston, MA 02116 by August 13, 1986.

These procedures do not guarantee that cultural resources will be preserved. Rather, they ensure that the historic value of listed properties will be considered during the planning stages of any federally sponsored project.

The Commission meeting will be held on August 13, 1986 at 1:00 p.m. at the Codman Estate, Codman Road, Lincoln. A copy of the nomination and the criteria under which properties are evaluated are available from the State Historic Preservation Officer upon request. For more information, please contact the staff of the Massachusetts Historical Commission at (617) 727-6470.

Andrew Thompson studies in Britain

Andrew Thompson of Winchester, a junior at Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster, Pa., recently returned from a three-week travel course in London. The course, organized by the government department at Franklin and Marshall, focused on contemporary British politics.

Along with 15 other F&M students and two professors from the college, Thompson met with four members of Parliament, as well as journalists from The Economist and The Daily Telegraph, two of Britain's leading publications. Students on the trip attended a briefing on British politics at the American embassy in London and met with a representative of the Confederation of British Industry. They also heard lectures by professors from the Royal Navy College and Sandhurst, which is similar to the U.S. West Point.

In addition, the class spent time in the galleries watching the House of Commons and House of Lords in session.

The F&M students traveled to Oxford University for a lecture at Lady Margaret Hall and to Salisbury for a session on the regional administration of the National Health Service.

The purpose of the course, organized by Robert C. Gray, chairperson of the government department, and Kerry H. Whiteside, both associate professors of government, was to immerse students in British politics.

Thompson is a 1984 graduate of Winchester High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Thompson of 48 Samoset Road.

THE EASY WAY TO HOUSEHUNT

If you've been househunting on your own, you've probably been relying on the classified ads or driving through your favorite neighborhoods in search of "For Sale" signs. A good Realtor can save you time and gasoline, making your search easy and efficient.

Agents learn about homes as they go on the market, and the best values may sell before they're ever advertised! Good agents often beat the sign installation crews to the scene! Since the agent has seen so many of the available homes, he will be able to rule out many of the ones that don't fit your tastes or needs, saving you the trouble of having to go through them. With the increased use of the Multiple Listing Service, an agent can show you listings of colleagues from other firms, as well as those listed by his own company. He can also give you any information you need about nearby public transportation, schools, shopping, and recreational facilities.

16-under team wins second title

By GEORGE DERRINGER

For the second year in a row, the Winchester boys 16-and-under soccer team captured the state championship last weekend at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

"The four fullbacks did a super job. Toward the end of the season, they seemed to be able to handle anything," said coach Theo deVrieze.

"They only allowed one goal during the last seven games, all against top-notch competition at the Natick tournament and the state tournament," he said.

Four members of the new championship squad are veterans of last year's title team. The 1986 team was 10-0 in league play and 19-0 overall, including seven victories at the end of the year.

At last weekend's state tourney, the Winchester crew open with a 2-1 triumph over Duxbury. The score reflects neither Winchester's domination of the game nor its early scare. Duxbury took a 1-0 lead in the first half.

"At halftime, I told the team to relax and play their game," deVrieze recalled. "We needed two goals and we got them."

Vandy French was credited with both Winchester scores, one assisted by Mike McGeehan and the other by Paul Capodanno.

A "grudge match" followed in the state semifinals as Winchester faced Ludlow, the outfit that has knocked off Winchester three times in the previous four state tourneys.

"The last time Ludlow beat us was only six weeks ago, when we were playing to determine which team would advance to the regional tournament," deVrieze said, recalling a 3-2 overtime loss.

Winchester blanked Ludlow 2-0 this week but again had a bit of trouble putting the ball in the net. The first half was scoreless.

In the second half, Winchester went ahead after French was tripped in the penalty box and Paul Erbafrina booted one home on a penalty kick.

The second score came on a rebound kicked in by Jack O'Callaghan.

"Ludlow dominated the midfield but our fullbacks were strong and our goalie didn't have to make many saves," the coach said.

Sunday night, Winchester shut out Bridgewater 2-0 in the state final.

"It was a funny game because there was a strong wind from one end of the field to the other," deVrieze said. Winchester had the wind at its back in the first half.

"We totally dominated the first half but we had trouble scoring again," the coach said. But about 20 minutes into the half, Erbafrina scored in the far corner of the net on a free kick he booted low past a wall of Bridgewater defenders.

Holding only a 1-0 lead, Winchester hardly looked forward to the second half and facing the wind.

Bridgewater came out like gangbusters and dominated the play," deVrieze said. "But goalie Andy Shao was super, making a lot of saves in a few minutes."

About 15 minutes into the second half, the tide turned. "We started playing well again and we dominated the rest of the way," the coach said.

Erbafrina scored the insurance goal on a give-and-go with McGeehan in the second half.

Despite its championship in the state tourney, Winchester lost one of the wrong games during the season to Ludlow and will not advance to the regional tournament.

Members of the state championship squad include goalie Shao, fullbacks Steve Goudsouzian, Stephen Reeve, Mark Bortman and David Ducharme.

Halfbacks Erbafrina, O'Callaghan, Rob Kean and Cort Boulanger; Forwards McGeehan, French, Jason MacConkey, Capodanno and Ken Fowler; and coach deVrieze.

Mike Schoenegge and Michael Fieleke were also members of the squad but did not play in the state tournament.

State amateur in Winchester

For the sixth time since 1919, the Winchester Country Club will host the Mass. Golf Association's State Amateur Championship during the period July 8 through 12.

This marks the 78th amateur tournament, with the Winchester Country Club having hosted the event in 1919, 1931, 1937, 1952, and 1975.

Seven hundred and thirty golfers throughout the commonwealth participated in the qualifying competition held at seven locations: the Tonic Golf Club, Williamstown; Woods Hole Golf Club, Falmouth; Hampden Country Club, Hampden; Tedesco Country Club, Marblehead; Concord Country Club, Concord; Holden Hills Country Club, Holden; and the Plymouth Country Club, Plymouth.

One hundred and fifty qualified to take part in the competition beginning on Tuesday at Winchester.

Seven members of the Winchester Country Club are included in the group that will tee off on Tuesday including: Gerard Kenny, Tim Legere, Carroll Lowenstein Jr., Paul Martin, William Martin, Stephen Maskell, and John Whittemore.

Thirty-six holes of stroke play will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 8 and 9, to determine who will continue on to the match play on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 10, 11 and 12.

Eighteen holes of stroke play will be held on Tuesday and 18 on Wednesday by each of the qualifying players.

The first and second rounds of 18-hole match play will be held in the morning and afternoon of July 10. The quarter-final 18-hole round is scheduled for the morning of July 11 and the semi-final round is scheduled for the afternoon.

The final 36-hole round will be played on Saturday, July 12.

The setting for the championship competition, the Winchester Country Club is considered the 12th oldest golf course in the United States and considered one of the state's finest championship golf courses.

The Winchester Golf Club was formed in 1897, from 38-acre tract of land in Winchester.

In 1902, the members voted to abandon the course and incorporated under the name of the Winchester Country Club and purchased 61 acres of land on the line between Arlington and Winchester.

Additional land was purchased in 1915, and in 1916, the course, covering 175 acres, was enlarged from nine to 18 holes.

Baseball camp openings remain

Openings are left in both sessions of the Middlesex Baseball/Softball Camp to be held July 28 to Aug. 1, and Aug. 4-8 in Winchester.

The camp, run by veteran Somerville High baseball coach Joe DiSarcina, is for baseball players age 6-15 and for softball players 16 and younger.

The camp will stress fundamental skills of hitting, fielding, throwing, baserunning and pitching through close instruction and drills.

For registration or other information, call 721-2361, or write Middlesex Baseball/Softball Camp, c/o Joe DiSarcina, 3 Wagon Wheel Road, Winchester 01890.

Rockets take 1st in girls tournament

The Winchester Rockets, a girls-under-10 team in the Winchester Soccer Club's spring program, won first place in their division June 21-22 at the Needham Soccer Classic.

The Rockets accumulated two victories and one tie in round-robin play and each player earned a special trophy for her effort.

The Needham Classic is designed to provide tournament play for youth teams in the recreational BAYS soccer league in the metropolitan area.

Winchester played in Division II of the BAYS league during the spring regular season and finished second with five wins, three losses and two ties.

WHS girls impress at soccer clinic

Eight Winchester High School girl soccer players became coaches for a day June 24 when they put on a three-hour clinic at the Museum of Science in Boston.

Coach Chris Scanlon said the girls did "an excellent job in a confined area, kind of like a goldfish bowl" during their stint at the museum's sports festival.

Girls involved included Laurer Suvak, Debbie Maida, Leslie Strazullo, Robyn Rogers, Melissa Skehan, Debbie Nowell, Kellie Dewar and Joanne Shusta.

"The girls gave an outstanding demonstration of flexibility and did a good job coaching, sometimes one-on-one and sometimes up to five-on-one," the coach said.

Onlookers were impressed, he reported. "One Burlington mother said her daughter learned more at our clinic than she had all year on the soccer team," he said.

About 100 people attended the clinic.

Globe honors six athletes

Six Winchester High School athletes were honored among 350 athletes and coaches at the 1985-86 Boston Globe All-Scholastic Banquet June 21.

Representing Winchester were soccer stars Chris Verhaegen, Julie Guarnotta, Deborah Maida and Sarah Porell, and football standouts Dennis Clarke and Mike White.

The banquet featured speakers Joan Benoit-Samuelson, 1984 Olympic marathon winner, and John Morris, former New England Patriot. Begun in 1901, the All-Scholastic sports program covers Eastern Massachusetts and numbers among its alumnae Doug Flutie, Pat Ewing and Tony Conigliaro.

Verhaegen, a junior, was a key member of this year's basketball team and played second doubles on the tennis team, as well.

Guarnotta, who played on the girls' basketball team and was a steady performer at the triple-jump and 220-yard dash, will attend the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill next fall.

Maida is also on the track team and will return next fall to lead the Sachemettes.

Porell will attend Holy Cross and may find herself lined up against her old teammate should Holy Cross face girls' soccer power North Carolina in the fall.

Clarke, who recently played in the Shriners' football classic, will attend Harvard University in the fall.

White, another Shriner player this year, will attend Boston University.

Five to participate in the Procession

When the Bay State Games opening ceremony gets underway Friday, July 11, at Boston College's Alumni Stadium, five athletes from Winchester will take their place in the "Athletes Procession" as it winds around the track.

Roger Baldacci, Dom Divencenzo, Alex Puchulu, Gregory Falcone and Guy Polino — four wrestlers and one diver — will compete against 4,000 of the state's finest athletes in the 1986 Bay State Games Finals.

Puchulu will compete in both the boys' scholastic and the mens' open division. Falcone will compete in the scholastic division, while Baldacci and Divencenzo will compete in the open division.

The fourth annual finals will feature 19 Olympic sports Saturday and Sunday, July 12-13. Events will be held at various university facilities throughout the Boston area.

Diving competition begins at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, July 12, at Harvard University's Blodgett Pool.

Wrestling competition begins at 10 a.m. Saturday, July 12, at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Dupont Gym.

For tickets or more information, contact Nancy S. Gorman at 727-3227, or write Bay State Games, P.O. Box 8336, Boston 02114.

Reading softball tournament slated

The Reading Men's Softball League will hold its fourth annual USSSA Open B/C slow pitch softball tournament Aug. 1-3 at the Birch Meadow Park and Joshua Eaton School field in Reading.

Competition will be double-elimination and will feature the "two designated home-run hitters" and "additional hitter" formats.

Team trophies will be awarded for first-, second- and third-place finishers. Individual trophies will be awarded to the most valuable player and best defensive player. Travel bags will also be given to members of winning teams.

The entry fee is $125 for USSSA teams and $140 for non-USSSA teams. Interested players may apply by calling 944-1721 or by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope to Reading Men's Softball League Tournament, 179 Lowell St., Reading 01867.

Entries must be received by Friday, July 25.

Five elected to new posts at Winchester Savings

Winchester Savings Bank president Robert B. Nickerson recently announced the election of five people to new positions during the annual meeting of the bank's corporators.

Phyllis Grell and Thera R. Barile were elected assistant treasurers. Warren F. Russell was elected to assistant vice president. Russ Rosenberg Jr. and Henry W. Stenquist Jr. were elected vice presidents.

Mrs. Grell's election promotes her to the officer level and to supervisor of the N.O.W., ATM and accounts processing departments. She is responsible for planning, scheduling and executing the diversified functions of these groups. A native of Roxbury now residing in Stoneham, Mrs. Grell had over 20 years' experience in management before her employment with the bank in 1983 as supervisor of the N.O.W. department.

Barile's election promotes her to the officer level and to supervisor of the IRA/Keogh, customer service and safe deposit box departments. She is responsible for directing the many facets of customer contact and for managing the retirement planning and safe deposit services of the bank. She began her banking career in 1973 as a teller and advanced into the customer service area as manager of the IRA/Keogh department. A native of Boston now residing in Everett, she actively enjoys aerobics and weight training and is pursuing a degree in paralegal studies and management at Newbury College.

Russell, formerly an assistant treasurer, is the bank's branch coordinator, having held that position since 1985. He is responsible for the supervision and coordination of all branch activities and for the control of the bank's automated teller machine network. Russell began his banking career in 1975 as a teller and advanced into administration as a head teller and branch manager. He and his wife Marianne reside in Malden.

Rosenberger, formerly an assistant vice president, is the bank's senior loan officer, having held that position since 1985. He is directly responsible for the administration, management and coordination of the operations and activities of the mortgage, consumer loan and commercial real estate loan departments. Rosenberg began his banking career in lending in California and has a strong background in investment financing, loan structuring, negotiations, and participation programs. A native of Pennsylvania, he and his wife, Susan, reside in Andover.

Stenquist, formerly an assistant vice president, will also be the bank's senior operations officer, having acted in that capacity since 1985. He is responsible for the administration and coordination of the bank's operations and security functions. Stenquist began his banking career in 1955 as a teller and advanced into bank management/operations as an assistant treasurer.

A native of Woburn, now residing in Burlington, he and his family are active members of the Weekend Wanderers, a camping group, and have traveled throughout the United States and Canada. He served as Grand Chief of the Independent Order of Vikings from 1983 to 1985 and is serving as Junior Past Grand Chief until 1987.

'Summer Places' at Winchester library

A colorful new exhibit, "Some Summer Places," is on display in the art gallery of the Winchester Public Library now through July 20.

The works, in a variety of media, including paintings, photographs, prints, pastels, paintings and collages, have been loaned by the Cambridge Art Association's Art Rental Program. All 10 works in the exhibit are available for sale or rental from the Cambridge Art Association.

Rental books are now available at the library as a new service to patrons. The titles, all current best sellers, are located in the lobby new book area, and may be rented for one week for $1 and 20 cents for each additional day.

Additional copies of all rental books are available from the library, either on the shelf or by reserve. Rental books are an additional service to those patrons who do not wish to reserve a copy of a recent best seller and then wait for it to become available.

The rental collection will be constantly changing as new books are bought for it on a regular basis, assuring Winchester residents of speedy access to some of the most popular books of the moment.

The Friends of the Winchester Public Library provided the money to purchase books for the rental collection, and will receive all proceeds from them.

During the summer, the adult department will be open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday.

The junior library will operate from 10 a.m. to 5:50 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday.

Both departments will be closed weekends. Fall hours will resume the week after Labor Day.

HEALTH

Babysitting class listed

Babysitter jobs are plentiful in summer, but only the most qualified students will be trusted with the parents' most prized possessions.

To earn those qualifications, students between 11 and 15 years old can learn new and vital safety measures by enrolling in a babysitter training course. The course includes some standard first aid techniques, obstructed airway skills, accident prevention, fire safety, home security and the use of emergency phone numbers. Also, topics on ethics, telephone tips, discipline, diapering, mealtime and bedtime and child development are discussed.

The program will be offered at the Choate Hospital in Woburn in three sessions, which will meet from 9 a.m. to noon July 8, 10 and 15.

The program will be offered at the Symmes Hospital in Arlington Fridays, July 11, 18 and 25 from 2 to 5 p.m.

Upon completion of the program, participants are eligible for the optional babysitter registry. This matches parents who are looking for sitters with qualified sitters who live in the same area.

Class size is limited. A $20 fee covers all materials. For additional information, call Choate at 933-6700, ext. 377, or Symmes, 646-1500, extension 2291.

Looking for a mortgage? Let's get together after work.

Now you don't have to skip lunch or take time out of your working day to apply for a mortgage. Medford Savings is staying open 5 p.m. until 8 p.m. every Monday and Tuesday night—just to accept mortgage applications—and just at our 29 High Street Main Office.

That's right. All month we'll be open late for Medford Savings customers, and newcomers, who want to purchase or refinance a home. And because we're working overtime, you can expect a verbal commitment in just 8 to 10 days.

So if you're looking for a mortgage, call us for the necessary appointment. And we'll make a date to get together—after hours. If you want more information on the current rates, call 395-7700, extension 224.

Use this coupon as a reminder of the date and time of your appointment.

I have a meeting to file my mortgage application with

The Winchester Star OBITUARIES

Margaret Howard

Margaret Elizabeth von Wodtke Howard, 46, of Winchester died suddenly June 29 in France.

She is survived by her husband, John H. Howard, and her sons, Mark S., Timothy J. and Frederick V. Mrs. Howard was the chairman of the town's conservation commission, on which she had served since 1982.

Also surviving are her father, Henry von Wodtke of New York and her brothers, Henry of Winchester and Mark of California.

A memorial service will be conducted at 8 p.m. Monday, July 7, at the First Congregational Church on Church Street.

Joseph A. Zaffina

The family requests, instead of flowers, that memorial donations be sent to Winchester Trails, in care of Winchester public schools, 131 Horn Point Brook Road, Winchester 01890.

Joseph A. Zaffina, 61, of Winchester died unexpectedly June 25 at Winchester Hospital.

A lifelong resident of Winchester, he was educated in Winchester schools and graduated from Winchester High School in 1941.

A self-employed building contractor, he had owned his own firm, Joseph A. Zaffina Building Contract, for 25 years.

He was also associated with Deck House Inc. of Avon and was vice president of the firm for 15 years until his death.

Mr. Zaffina was a World War II veteran, serving with the military police in Europe. He was a member of Abernethy Post 3719, Veterans of Foreign Wars in Winchester.

He was also a commodore at the Point of Pines Yacht Club in Revere and had built his own boat.

What To Do

Clockwise: one of the scenic vistas at Bobby's 2,000-acre ranch; riders explore one of the nine guided trails; manager and trail guide Marion Hight shows riders around the ranch; Harmony Koch, 10, seems comfortable on her horse.

Saddle Riding the range beginners, experts can

Looking for something new and exciting to do?

Are museums becoming less appealing as the weather gets warmer?

Is a trip to the beach too much of a hassle?

Before resorting to the TV set for entertainment, why not try some horseback riding?

Bobby's Ranch Inc., one mile behind the Acton Mall on Route 2A, offers trail rides from 9 a.m. until an hour before dusk for $10 an hour Wednesday through Friday and $15 weekends and holidays.

Bobby's Ranch started with four horses 14 years ago as a small pleasure-riding business.

At one point, the business grew to 52 horses yet always remained a family operation.

Nine horses are currently available for trail rides.

"It is the only facility in the west suburban area offering trail rides," says Bob Haigh, President.

The 2,000 acres of conservation land, woods, and farmers' fields bordering the ranch provide a varied landscape for the rider.

"You can go, if you let your imagination go out a little bit, from Maine to Iowa to the desert all on one ride," says Haigh.

Concerned about a lack of equestrian ability?

Relax! Bobby's Ranch serves mostly beginning and intermediate riders.

Most visitors ride in the company of an experienced trail guide.

For those who have never been on a horse, and may be hesitant, Haigh says, "Come on down. We'll put you on a quiet horse. If you're really that hesitant, just walk him around in the ring for an hour...go at your own pace."

Those willing to hit the trail are often divided into two groups — beginner and intermediate — and follow separate courses based on their riding abilities.

As well as the trail, the selection of horse is based on a rider's experience.

"Quite often we have riders who will start in very inexperienced," says Haigh.

"They'll ride the same horse, which they're happy with for two or three rides, and then they'll say, 'Can I have a horse with a little more spirit?'

"Fine, if the trail guides feel that you're ready for that, they'll suggest the next horse up the ladder."

Most horses have learned the trails through repetition and know what is expected of them at different points along the way, says Marion Hight, Manager and Trail Guide.

At the beginning of a ride, riders receive some of the basics — how to use the reins to stop the horse and to turn it right or left.

Later on the trail, most riders get the chance to take the horse for a short trot, a quicker pace than a walk, but slower than a canter or a gallop.

To avoid being bounced too much while a horse is trotting, riders receive some instruction in posting.

As Haigh explains to beginning riders, "A horse is going up and down quite fast as you're sitting there going bump, bump, bump...What posting involves is to stand up on one beat — you take a beat standing and sit down on the next one and stand again."

"You get in rhythm with the

What To Do

up: is easy at the ranch, enjoy some horse sense horse...It takes the bump out of it. You're not sitting there jitterbugging."

Intermediate-level riders can learn how to take a good sharp turn at a canter or make quick stops.

While trail guides at Bobby's Ranch can teach skills as advanced as bareback jumping, Haigh is cautious about offering opportunities for expert-level riding.

Haigh cites safety and the inexperience of most riders as his main concerns in limiting expert rides.

"A lot of people have more confidence than they have experience," he says.

It doesn't take an expert-level horse to provide the thrill of a good ride, says Haigh.

People coming to the ranch often enough and long enough, and judged by Haigh to be good horsemen as well as good riders, are offered a lease program, which discounts their riding costs.

With the lease program, riders can act as if a horse were their own and take it out without a trail guide.

In addition to the excitement of riding, visitors find an organized effort. The emphasis is on coordinating trail rides throughout the day so that everyone receives the full hour's worth of riding, says Hight.

Riders may also find themselves becoming attached to particular animals as they learn how to handle them and understand their unique personalities. The horses enjoy being patted and touched as they are being ridden, Haigh says.

Some people often return to ride a favorite horse, eventually buying the horse and boarding it at the ranch.

While most horses used for trail rides are of the dependable quarter horse breed, Belgian work horses are used for hay rides and sleigh rides, popular during fall and winter.

Hay rides and sleigh rides, booked by appointment, cost $75 an hour and are ideal for parties or company outings, often at night, says Haigh.

Beginners who enjoy their first trip to the ranch and want to return may consider a riding lesson or two, to develop the skills and confidence necessary to handle a horse better.

In good weather, Bobby's Ranch holds lessons at an outdoor ring for $15 an hour.

Up to nine people may arrange to ride together; however, such large groups are usually easier to accommodate on weekdays.

Families need not forego an outing to the ranch because they have small children. Lead ropes, used to keep a child and small horse under the trail guide's control, are free if a parent does the leading.

A pony in a ring is suitable for children under 10. "We've had three-month-old kids on ponies," says Haigh.

Then for those who can't get enough riding, the ranch will arrange two- or three-hour rides that may take a person as far as Littleton Center or the Carlisle Town Forest.

There are plenty of routes to follow within the 2,000 acres - a total of nine different guided rides.

Safety is an important concern at the ranch, but all visitors are required to sign a waiver before riding which relinquishes Bobby's Ranch from liability in case of injury.

To make reservations, call the ranch at 263-7165.

Comedy nears Simon, legends in Boston

A 'Secure' hit on Broadway

REVIEW

Social Security, at Broadway's chummy Ethel Barrymore Theatre, W-47th St., is a very funny show!

Summarily dismissed, pretty much, by New York critics, this laugh-a-minute funfest has prospered primarily by word-of-mouth commendation.

True, Andrew Bergman's light domestic comedy is not unlike early Neil Simon, with its parade of one-liners and visual gags, stock stereotypes, and predictable plot. It's like that old cliché about Chinese food—an hour after you've eaten, you're hungry again! You'll identify quickly with all the characters; more important, you'll enjoy the play.

The stellar cast, led by Marlo Thomas and Ron Silver, works at breakneck pace under Mike Nichols' taut direction and, to dispell any misconceptions, Social Security refers to the best type of social security—the arm provided by a man for a woman to lean upon.

Barbara and David Kahn (Thomas and Silver) are a vibrant, affluent, childless couple. They are dealers in abstract art (subjective matter), own a gallery, and live in a sleek New York Eastside apartment (nice set by Tony Walton) with nary a care in the world. Indeed, after 17 years of marriage, a waltz is still enough to turn them on and make them melt behind the living room couch for all sorts of unmentionables—even in the afternoon.

It is just such a compromising situation that Barbara's frugal, sour-pussed sister Trudy (Joanna Gleason) and her schlemiel husband, Martin Heyman (Kenneth Welsh), an accountant "who works like a dog," stumble into when they pay an unexpected visit.

Trudy is bitter about everything. She demeans art: "People are such idiots! They just walk in and pull out their checkbooks!"

When she questions why two hanging abstracts have different worth, David explains by making an analogy of the two sisters, noting that the two paintings, "one goes up in value while the other levels off."

But Trudy has not come to discuss art; rather, the presence of the girls' demanding mother, 78-year-old Sophie Greenglass (Olympia Dukakis), a professional hypochondriac and busybody, in her home, Trudy insists the situation is impossible! Sophie's presence has made her and Martin impotent. Her life, both inside and out of the house, is in shambles.

To top it off, Trudy has discovered her 18 year-old daughter, a college coed in Buffalo, has moved out of the dorm and is co-habiting with two males. Trudy blames Barbara for all her ills, for taking her daughter to see "the filthy Picasso show" which contributed to her delinquency!

Trudy and Martin are on their way to Buffalo and they've brought self-pitying Mother along—bad hip, walker, constant barbs and all—to dump on David and Barbara! The shock leaves Barbara virtually comatose as Sophie enters with "Now I'm living with my fancy daughter!"

Mom sticks her nose into everything, from silver to groceries ("Le Seur peas...$1.09...I didn't know I was living with Elizabeth Taylor!"). The plot thickens when Barbara and David invite the internationally acclaimed artist, 98-year-old Maurice Koenig (Stefan Schnabel) for dinner.

Suffice to say the Sophie's parting words in this audience-pleaser are, "The fire never really does go out...it's good to know!"

Legends Martin and Channing come to Boston

Legends!, a new comedy starring Mary Martin and Carol Channing, opens 7:30 p.m. July 23, at the Shubert Theatre in Boston.

Martin and Channing, Broadway legends of the first rank, are together on stage for the first time in their illustrious careers. The limited engagement ends Aug. 9.

Written by James Kirkwood, Pulitzer Prize-winning author of A Chorus Line, and directed by Britain's Clifford Williams, Legends! provides the setting for two Hollywood actresses of "a certain age" who are sought to star together in a Broadway show. Their fame, talent and magic are surpassed only by their hatred for each other. Theirs is a wickedly funny feud, exploding with venomous verbal barbs, until some surprising truths are discovered beneath the laughter.

Legends! is a back-stabbing, upstaging, tongue-lashing tour de force that puts a warm glow—and even a little love—back into show business.

Legends!, which has just concluded successful engagements in Dallas, Los Angeles, New Orleans, San Antonio, San Francisco, San Diego and currently in Phoenix, was reviewed as "A bitchy, loving, funny valentine" by Variety; "Polished and Witty" by the Dallas Morning News. L.A.'s KNBC-TV reported, "As touching as it is hilarious. Wonderful indeed!" And columnist Liz Smith noted that "Broadway-bound 'Legends!' bested anything New York theatre has mounted in ages."

In Legends!, Martin adds the character of Leatrice Monsee to her unforgettable repertoire of stage roles—Nellie Forbush, Peter Pan, Maria von Trapp and Annie Oakley.

As Sylvia Glenn, the quintessential vamp, Channing shines with the same glitter that made theatrical history of her roles as Lorelei Lee in Gentlemen Prefer Blondes and Dolly Levi in Hello Dolly!

The performance schedule is Tuesday through Saturday, 8 p.m., with 2 p.m. matinees Wednesday and Saturday, and additional matinees at 2 p.m., July 24, and 3 p.m., July 27.

Ticket prices range from $35 to $17.50.

Ivy league

The Harvard-Radcliffe Summer Theatre has announced three plays for its sixth summer season in the Loeb Experimental Theatre, 64 Brattle St., Cambridge, near Harvard Square. The season, running through Aug. 23, includes works both modern and classical, American and European, farcical and dramatic.

The schedule includes Cloud 9 by Caryl Churchill, directed by Marya Cohn, June 26-July 12; Woyzeck by George Buchner, directed by Daniel McGrath, July 17-Aug. 2; and Buried Child by Sam Shepard, directed by Marya Cohn, Aug. 7-23.

Cloud 9 is a daring farce, a tongue-in-cheek parody of stereotypes and sexual roles that revels in the humor and the sorrow of men and women trying to be as others see them.

Woyzeck, by the noted German playwright, suggests the style and character of Brecht, although Buchner lived almost a century before Brecht. The ensemble and experimental play explores both physical and spiritual suffocation as it tells the life story of the soldier Woyzeck.

The final offering, Sam Shepard's Pulitzer Prize-winning Buried Child, portrays a vision of a grass roots American family somehow gone tragically wrong—twisted by a secret hidden in the back yard.

As in past years, Harvard-Radcliffe Summer Theatre also stages a Monday Night Series of original and innovative works, conceived, directed and acted by ensemble members. Schedules are available at the box office.

HRST performs Tuesday through Sunday nights at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $5.50 for adults and $3.50 for students and senior citizens. Season passes, offering a reduced rate to all three shows, are also available. For further information, call the box office between 1 and 9 p.m. at 864-2630.

Great Woods' great line-up

Concerts by country music superstar Willie Nelson and by The Moody Blues are scheduled during the fourth week of the Miller Music Series at the Great Woods Center for the Performing Arts in Mansfield, Mass.

Willie Nelson, whose original songs are among contemporary country music classics, brings his show to Great Woods, July 11.

A native Texan, Nelson began his career as a disc jockey and freelance songwriter. After moving to Nashville in the early 1960's, he began writing songs for such stars as Patsy Cline, whose recording of Crazy reached Number One on the charts.

In 1972, his breakthrough album Shotgun, established him as a talented singer, as well. In the years since, a string of country hits including On the Road Again, Blue Eyes Crying in the Rain and You Were Always on My Mind, he has become the "father figure" of country music. Tickets are priced $18.50-$16.50 for reserved seats; $13.50 for lawn.

The Moody Blues, who perform July 13, are a supergroup whose creative approach to music has endured for over two decades. This remarkable consistency, combined with their unique blend of romance and fantasy put to pop melodies, has generated sales in excess of 40 million albums. Each release, including Days Of Future Passed and this year's The Other Side Of Life, exemplifies the group's full orchestral arrangements and thought-provoking lyrics. Special Guest is The Fixx.

All performances in the Miller Music Series begin 7:30 p.m. The 15,000 seat facility offers a diversity of programming including classical music, jazz, folk and dance, in addition to the popular artist series. Great Woods is located off State Road 140 at the junction of interstates 495 and 95; take exit 6A off I-95 South to Exit 11 on I-495.

Tickets for the Miller Music Series concerts are currently on sale through Ticketmaster: 1-800-682-8080 (or call in Boston (617) 523-6633). Tickets may be purchased at Ticketmaster outlets.

The nationally renowned New England Ragtime Ensemble, conducted by Gunther Schuller, is in concert at Great Woods July 12 at 8 p.m. The concert is the second event in the "JSTrust Festival '86," a summer-long series which includes classical, folk and jazz music and dance.

Formed by Gunther Schuller in 1973 to perform his re-orchestrations of long-lost works by Scott Joplin, the New England Ragtime Ensemble is credited with the popular ragtime revival of the 1970s.

Originally composed entirely of students at the New England Conservatory of Music, Ensemble members are now among Boston and New York's finest freelance musicians.

The New England Ragtime Ensemble received the 1973 Grammy Award for the best chamber music performance of that year, and has performed at the White House for President Ford, President

Shakespeare in Lenox

Anthony And Cleopatra by William Shakespeare opens 8 p.m. on July 9 outdoors at the Mount in Lenox, Mass.

Shakespeare and Company's production, directed by Tina Packer, will run Tuesday through Sunday until Aug. 31.

Anthony and Cleopatra are one of history's most notorious couples. The play is a vibrant tragedy set in Rome, Athens and Egypt, its players disunited by duty, loyalty and love.

Anthony, the quintessential Roman Soldier, is consumed by the charm of the spectacular Cleopatra. As their passion threatens the stability of the times, we are witness to "all that is won and lost."

Tina Packer will direct a cast of 35 in this all new production. Packer, Artistic Director of Boston Shakespeare Company as well as Shakespeare and Company, is joined by Nels Hennun who will stage the combat scenes.

Entering its ninth season at the Mount, performances are 8 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday. Prices are: weekday lawn, $13; weekday chair, $14.50; weekend lawn, $15; weekend chair, $16.50. Discounts are available for students and seniors. For tickets and information call (413) 637-1197.

Fanny opens at Goodspeed

Fanny begins performances July 2 at the historic Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam, Connecticut.

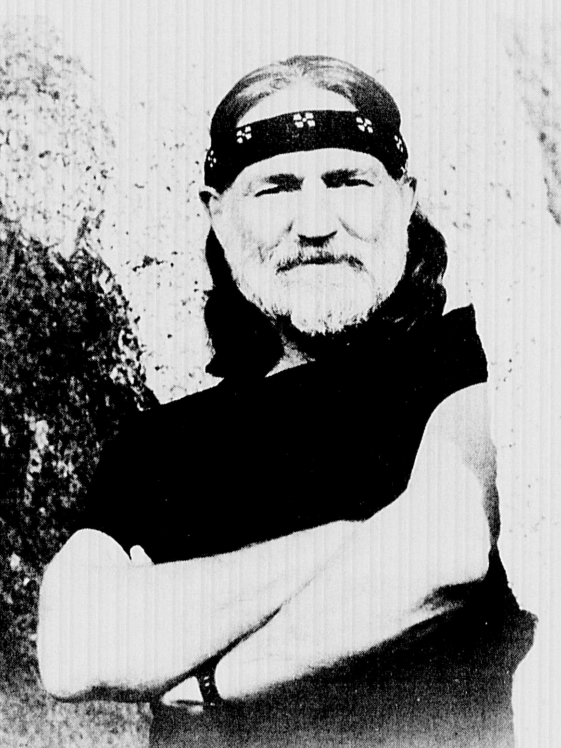

In the title role, Karen Culliver plays the winsome, spirited girl of the Marseilles waterfront.

A Goodspeed newcomer, Culliver played Luisa in The Fantasticks Off-Broadway during the time that record-breaking hit was filmed for the Lincoln Center Archives.

As Panisse, David Hurst plays the salty, good-natured sailmaker who tries to win Fanny's heart.

Hurst's credits include the lead in Romanoff And Juliet at London's Piccadilly Theatre, a role he took over from Peter Ustinov; and Merlin in Broadway's Camelot with Richard Burton.

Curtain times are Tuesday thru Fridays, 8 p.m.; Saturday 5 p.m. and 9 p.m.; Sunday 5 p.m. and a Wednesday matinee at 2:30 p.m. For tickets call (203) 873-8668.

PRICE IT RIGHT

Human nature is predictable and there is a better than even chance that you'll put the wrong selling price on your home if you set the price on the property yourself. You may price it far above its fair market value because of sentimental attachment, expenditures you have made, or heeding a well-meaning friend's advice. A home remaining on the market for months due to over pricing frequently becomes a White Elephant, it eventually sells for a much lower figure than it would have brought originally, had it been priced realistically.

On the other hand, you might under-price it because of your unfamiliarity with the local market. That would be financial folly. Your safest bet is to list your home with a realtor who will help you price it correctly from the start and sell it for the highest and best price with the least amount of inconvenience to you and your family.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee.

Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

Audi Remanufactured Parts. Built Like New. Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuilt" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit — alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts — is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts. The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

Heating coil was $200G fire cause

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

A heating coil used to wrap pipes to keep them from freezing sparked a $200,000 fire that gutted a Wedgemere Avenue home Monday afternoon.

Fire Chief Robert McElhinney said the accidental fire started because the coil was never unplugged.

The resulting four-alarm blaze at 12 Wedgemere Ave. sent six Winchester firefighters and one from Arlington to the hospital.

McElhinney estimated damage to the 100-year-old home at $200,000.

He said the department was called at 4:31 p.m. When firemen arrived, smoke was visible only from the south side rear of the house.

McElhinney said no one was home when the fire broke out. The owner, Gabriel Caggiano, left town that morning on a business trip and his wife Mary was at work. The Caggianos have lived in the home for 20 years and have five children.

Within an hour after the first call, aid came from Somerville, Woburn, Melrose, Medford, Stoneham, Malden, Reading, Arlington and Lexington fire departments.

All Winchester "call firefighters" were summoned and all off-duty firefighters were called in.

The chief said the fire was contained by about 6:30 p.m. but a truck remained there with firefighters until 10 p.m.

Six Winchester firefighters, including McElhinney, were taken for treatment to Winchester Hospital and Choate Symmes Hospital in Arlington.

According to a public relations employee at Winchester Hospital, firefighters Tom Joslin and Joseph McGrath were admitted for the night and treated for smoke inhalation and heat exhaustion. Arlington fireman Ronald Mullane was treated and released.

Fireman Larry Larsen was treated and released. Firemen Michael Beaton, Capt. Norman Delorey and McElhinney were treated and released at Choate Symmes in Woburn, according to a hospital public relations employee.

McElhinney said "a lot of the men were treated on the scene." Firefighters rushed in and out of the home and took hose baths at every opportunity.

McElhinney said the temperature was close to 100 degrees outside but "inside it was more like 150 degrees."

"I think the house is salvageable," McElhinney said Tuesday. The third floor was destroyed and the first and second floors suffered extensive water and smoke damage.

"(The fire) went a long time unnoticed," said the chief. He said it was probably burning about an hour before smoke was visible and firemen were called.

The chief said fire between wall partitions allowed flames to climb rapidly to the second and third floors.

Mary Caggiano said, "When I pulled in the driveway, I could see the smoke." Caggiano left that morning. (Please see FIRE, page 2)

State's standard tests threaten local control, school officials claim

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Local control in Winchester schools is rapidly slipping away from Winchester teachers, administrators and parents across the nation.

As a result of an education reform law passed in July 1983, all students in grades 3, 7 and 11 this spring were required to take uniform state-administered exams. The scores are graded on a collective, not individual, basis.

The state will take on a new task this fall.

According to David Ackerman, curriculum superintendent of Winchester schools, the state plans to take control of minimum competency tests. In the past, these tests were made up and administered by separate school departments across the Commonwealth.

The concern that Winchester students are being tested too much is valid, said Ackerman. Students in grades 1-3 also took state tests this spring. Those tests have been given for the last five years but are not state-mandated.

Overall, Winchester students scored well above national averages, scoring better than about 75 percent of their peers across the nation.

However, in comparison to 1985 results in Winchester, seventh graders scored lower across the board, said Ackerman.

He attributes this result to different academic ability levels of this year's seventh graders.

The step test is a national test developed by an educational service. It tests basic skills, reading, vocabulary, writing, listening, math concepts and math computation.

Students in grades 3, 5 and 7 are also tested on their academic ability.

"They're the state putting the testing will be done on a collective basis so results will probably read like a 'best-to-worst' kind of list," said Ackerman.

"I support the state's direction, provided the tests are good and the process is done well," Ackerman said. "People will make unfair and uninformed decisions based on the state's interest in improving education but suggests a different, more workable approach.

Ackerman suggested the state should ask personal and localized educational plans for each school and town across the Commonwealth.

"The state shouldn't insist that everything be cut out of a uniform cloth," said Ackerman.

Ackerman is concerned about how the state will publish the results of the first-year standardized tests. The state expects results to be compiled and published by October or November. National comparisons will not be available until March 1987.

"They say there will be no publicity," he said. But he said, "I don't believe it." By publicizing the results, he said, state officials might send the wrong message to the public.

Grading will be done on a collective basis so results will probably read like a "best-to-worst" kind of list, said Ackerman.

"People will make unfair and uninformed decisions based on the state's interest in improving education but suggests a different, more workable approach.

Security warning signs cause dissension among neighbors

By GEORGE DERRINGER

Small yellow signs installed by American Alarm of Winchester in front of about 100 homes in town are:

(1) a good way to deter burglars, or (2) a violation of the town's sign ordinance.

The answer appears to be: (3) both.

In the mind of acting building commissioner Arthur Gallagher, the signs are a clear violation of the town's sign-by-law. The signs have the house number in the center, in the largest type, but also declare "Security by American Alarm and Communications Inc." They are installed in front of homes with the firm's anti-burglary systems.

According to the sign-by-law, single homes in residential districts may have only one sign in front of or attached to them: street number signs and/or the name of the occupant.

Advertising is not permitted. Dick Sampson, owner of American Alarm, admits he may have erred when his company installed two signs in front of many of his clients' homes. But he points out that the by-law allows signs to be up to two square feet in area.

"Our signs are less than one square foot in area," Sampson says. Controversy began when Gallagher wrote to Sampson, informing him that American Alarm's new signs violated the town by-laws.

Gallagher also asked Sampson for a list of the homes where signs had been installed. He says Sampson refused to give him the list.

Sampson says his company only installs the bright yellow signs with red lettering. "The signs belong to the

Clock's running for town hall's exterior renovations

The clock is running for exterior renovations of the town hall.

Exterior work, including badly needed repair to the bell tower, will be completed within 270 days after June 27.

The deadline is during the final week of March 1987.

The contract calls for work on the bell tower to be completed by November, after which workmen would be required to enclose the tower in a protective covering.

Only one bid was received for the project, originally projected to cost $1.2 million.

P.J. Spillane and Co. of Everett submitted the only bid at $892,350. The actual cost will be higher because of architect's fees and changes made in the specifications as the project continues. The final cost, however, should be less than $1.2 million, said assistant town manager Mark Twogood.

Spillane applied for a building permit within the required 10 days, and the permit was granted June 27.

"Not only did the contractor apply for the building permit, from the building inspector, within 10 days but it was granted within 10 days," Twogood said.

Discussion of interior renovations, scheduled to be sent out for bids late this year, is continuing at 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday by an oversight committee created by town meeting.

Last week, the committee met with representatives of several town boards, including the planning board, the commissioners of trust funds, the assessors and the zoning board of appeals.

Committee members learned what space each group needs and what kind of furniture is necessary.

Other discussion included coordination of a new phone system with the renovation project and possible improvement of the computer system.

The data processing center, now on the lower level of the building, will be moved with computer to the third floor, now used only for storage of records.

The status of a data processing committee created a few years to investigate and purchase the current computer system is unknown, however.

"We're not really sure if the committee was created for one purpose or if it was supposed to be a continuing oversight committee," Twogood said. The committee has not met for some time, he added.

Major street repaving work gets underway this week

Winchester center's street improvement program began this week. Streets scheduled for improvements include Church Street (Rangeley Road to the rotary), Converse Place, Laraway Road, Main Street, Mystic Valley Parkway to Elmwood Avenue, Mount Vernon Street, Thompson Street, Waterfield Road, and Winchester Place.

The first phase of the program, the reshaping and removal of excessive bituminous concrete from the street, is accomplished by "cold planing." This phase should be completed by July 11.

The remaining work, raising of manholes and catch basins, resurfacing and restriping parking spaces and traffic lines, should be completed by Labor Day.

Traffic and parking will be disrupted during construction, but cooperation will expedite the process, said Don Serrator, director of the town department of public works.

If there are any extraordinary difficulties, residents may contact the department at 721-7100.

Should this sign and 100 others like it be permitted in Winchester residential districts? The issue is bubbling under the surface with some saying it's a violation of town by-laws and others claiming it's an effective deterrent to crime. The signs, like this one, are usually placed in front of shrubbery. (George Derringer photo)

The Winchester Star POLICE LOG

Monday, July 7

At 3:47 a.m., a Cambridge Street resident called police to report an attempted break-in. The resident said he was in his bedroom when he heard an intruder in the upstairs hallway. According to the resident, the man fled when he called out to him. Nothing was stolen, police said.

Sunday, July 6

At 1:47 p.m., a police officer arrested a Medford man for trespassing with his car at Winchester reservoir in the Middlesex Fells Reservation. The man is scheduled to appear in Fourth District Court in Woburn today.

At 6:20 p.m., a High Street resident told police a firecracker smashed her front window and cracked a window in the back of her home.

At 7:57 p.m., a Coolidge Road resident told police someone vandalized their in-ground swimming pool. The resident found a clear plastic five-gallon container of motor oil on the cement deck of the pool. He also told police last week his $1,073 pool pump was stolen.

Saturday, July 5

At 10:58 a.m., a manager at the Winchester Country Club told police a Hemingway Street youth, who is not a member of the club, was signing tabs for food and the pool. The club did not press charges.

At 7:20 p.m., a Squire Road resident slammed into a Boston Edison pole on Squire Road. He told police he was changing the radio station when he drove into the pole. Damage was more than $500, police said.

Friday, July 4

At 7:49 a.m., a North Gateway resident told police someone vandalized his Jeep. The rear windows were slashed and two tires on the passenger side were slashed.

At 10 a.m., police responded to a car accident at the intersection of Main and Salem streets. A Woburn resident hit the rear of a car driven by another Woburn resident. No citations were issued. Damage was minor to one car.

At 10:05 a.m., a Grove Street resident told police someone stole her $150 10-speed red bicycle from the front of her home.

At 1:45 p.m., police summoned a Boston resident for trespassing at the Fells. Police found the resident's three dogs swimming in the south reservoir.

At 3:31 p.m., police arrested a Stoneham man for trespassing with an internal combustion engine at the middle reservoir.

Police observed a yellow dirt bike traveling on a roadway near the water's edge at the middle reservoir.

Thursday, July 3

At 11:45 a.m., Plymouth police called Winchester police to report a car found. Police found a 1968 blue Ford that was stolen from 666 Main St. June 30 around 6 p.m. No damage was reported.

At 4 p.m., an Arlington man lost control of his car and landed on top of a stone wall at Hutchinson Road and Foxhunt Lane. The car was towed. No injuries were reported. The car suffered damage to the undercarriage.

At 5:27 p.m., a Burlington resident told police his $5,500 1984 Toyota was stolen from Main Street between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

At 6:19 p.m., police arrested a Pond Street resident for an outstanding motor vehicle warrant from Woburn police.

Police observed the man in his driveway having a party. Police arrested the man and took him to the station.

The warrant was for driving without an inspection sticker and failure to stop at a stop sign. He was bailed at 7 p.m. for an appearance in Fourth District Court in Woburn July 8.

Wednesday, July 2

At 10:10 a.m., police cited a Reading resident for operating an unregistered car.

Police observed the car driving on Main Street by Herrick Street without an inspection sticker. Police pulled the car over and cited the resident for driving an unregistered car.

Camp Sunshine ready for kids

Fill a two-week period with activities, fun games, and creative art projects. Add two groups of 20 four- and five-year-olds and four energetic counselors.

The result? The Winchester recreation department's first session of Camp Sunshine.

The session, titled "We Are The World," gave the children a chance to make new friends, learn new games, and enjoy special activities such as a balloon lift-off, water fun, and a flag parade.

Campers also got a chance to bowl a few rounds at the Woburn Bowladrome and then head back to the camp, located at Muraco School, for a pizza party.

With the success of the first session behind them, counselors Susan Fennell, Darcy Fitzgerald, Michael Trabucco and Susan White are "ting into the swing of things" next session, "Movement."

for work and had not been home all day.

She rushed across the street to report the fire, and her neighbor said she heard explosions in the house.

Caggiano and her daughter Gabrielle clung to each other during early phases of the blaze when only heavy dark smoke was visible.

Thick dark smoke spewing out of all third floor windows chased away hundreds of curious spectators several times during the fire.

At about 5:35 p.m., Wedgemere Avenue was shrouded in smoke and the house was no longer visible from the street. The chief said he received no reports of other damage.

Firefighters evacuated the home before the third floor exploded into flames. McElhinney said three ladder pipes and six hand lines were used to contain the fire. He said the water supply was plentiful.

Betty Rutherford of 30 Calumet Rd., directly behind the Caggiano residence, watched the fire, and said, "I don't like seeing those flames." "I was on the telephone and I looked out the window and saw smoke coming from the laundry room. I saw it coming out the back door."

Rutherford said the Caggiano family had been remodeling the home for a daughter's wedding reception this fall. "They had done a beautiful job," she sighed.

Firefighter Fred Tustin was off duty when the fire broke out. Tustin recently completed his seven-week training at Massachusetts Fire Academy in Sudbury. Monday's fire was a first for him.

"It was a good way to get a first taste of what the job is like," said Tustin. "It was hot."

Tustin said the heat was debilitating, especially for a person carrying an extra 60 pounds of wet weight.

Firefighter Joe Skerry said he spoke with owner Gabriel Caggiano, who told Skerry the loss of the entire third floor was particularly upsetting because all the family picture albums and mementos were kept there.

Mary Caggiano, right, who has lived at 12 Wedgemere Ave. in Winchester for 28 years, and her daughter, Gabrielle, watch as the house burns Monday afternoon. Nobody was home when the fire broke out, apparently starting in the laundry room, according to Chief Robert McElhinney. (George Derringer photo)

REAL ESTATE TODAY

Ann Blackham C.R.B.

IF YOUR HOME IS SPECIAL

You have often heard that it makes sense to buy or build a home whose price fits the neighborhood profile. That's nice for everybody in that neighborhood except the one who has the most expensive home. The house may be well worth the extra cost—perhaps the view is exceptional or the construction unique or the amenities (grounds, pool, decorating, etc.) superb. How does this seller receive full value for such a home?

Have an experienced agent draw up a complete listing of your home's features and amenities. With a probable-buyer profile, ads can be targeted directly to those most interested. If the potential buying group is small, the agent may find it necessary to widen his or her normal advertising range. It's appropriate, the brochure can be designed with copies sent to names on a select mailing list.

If your home is fairly priced according to the features offered, you should receive the full value you expect.

No. 1 in Winchester because we care. It's more than just a business with us... it's you, since the professional service we provide for you that is the cornerstone of our continued success... that's why more buyers and sellers select ANN BLACKHAM & CO. to be their Real Estate broker.

Security signs may violate town laws

drops to two or three homes per 1,000 per year."

The alarm company owner says strict enforcement of town by-laws against security signs is counter-productive. "To pretend burglary isn't a problem doesn't help solve the problem," he says.

"Flower bed signs," the industry's term for American Alarm's warnings, "are widely used all across the country, except in New England," Sampson says.

American Alarm serves homes in 40 metropolitan communities, Sampson says, but its signs have caused comment only in Winchester. "In fact, people in our business know of only one other community in the country where the signs were challenged," he says.

In that town, Shaker Heights, Ohio, town fathers originally declared the signs a violation but changed their minds after listening to residents.

"The town voted 7-0 to approve the signs," Sampson says. "The issue is whether the individual homeowner has the right to protect his property."

The next step is undetermined. Gallagher says Sampson filed out a request for a variance for a yellow sign at his own home on Sheffield Road. He has not yet filed the request with the zoning board of appeals, although he has until July 25 to make the agenda for the August meeting.

Sampson, however, has already written to the planning board, asking it to propose an amendment to the sign by-law in time for a decision at the fall town meeting.

His proposed amendment would allow homeowners to have signs in front of their home designating house number, residents' names and/or security signs.

"But since the house number is already the most prominent feature on the signs, the by-law could already be construed to permit the signs," he adds.

Choate-Symmes will provide psychiatric services to area

Choate-Symmes Hospitals is now providing psychiatric emergency services for the Mystic Valley catchment area of Arlington, Lexington, Burlington, Winchester, Woburn and Wilmington.

For the past three years, psychiatric emergency care has been provided by Crisis Response of Norfolk Human Services, under contract with the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health. During that time, Crisis Response was headquartered at the Symmes Hospital division in Arlington.

Since the Choate-Symmes psychiatric unit is located at the Choate Hospital division, "Our plan is to provide 24-hour, seven-day-a-week psychiatric emergency services on site through the Choate Emergency/Walk-In Care Center," said Dr. Kenneth M. Minkoff, Choate-Symmes' chief of psychiatry.

"These services will also include emergency psychiatric evaluations for residents of the six-community catchment area, as well as prescreening consultations required for all admissions to the Mystic Valley Unit of the Metropolitan State Hospital."

Psychiatric emergency care will be provided under the $250,000 contract to anyone who needs it, regardless of diagnosis or ability to pay.

"Our team will have the capability to provide mobile emergency psychiatric intervention at one's place of employment, court or police station, home, school, or social service agency such as day treatment center or nursing home. Staff psychiatrists will be available for emergency psychiatric evaluations following initial screening by a mental health clinician," Minkoff said.

John Longo, program director for the Mystic Valley Crisis Response Center of Norfolk Human Services, has been retained as program director for Choate-Symmes; and Susan Johnson, R.N., currently the psychiatric emergency services coordinator at Choate, will be clinical supervisor. Lawrence J. Fuhrman, M.D., psychiatrist on the Choate-Symmes Active Medical Staff, will serve as medical director.

"Our staff is fully qualified to evaluate anyone in any kind of psychiatric crisis or psychiatric emergency, as well as to provide diagnostic assessments in determining whether short-term crisis intervention alone is appropriate or whether the patient should be referred for outpatient or inpatient treatment."

warranted judgments," he said. Ackerman said, "I think they're putting more emphasis than is justified at this time. It works against community governance in schools."

"Local autonomy has gone out the door," said Ackerman.

Cummings' success result of hard work

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

While most children were playing games after school, Winchester developer William Cummings had other distractions keeping him amused.

At the tender age of 7, Cummings spent his afternoons hard at work washing windows for nominal wages.

Today, at 49, Cummings is one of Winchester's most successful developers.

Cummings vividly recalls his after-school job washing windows above a liquor store in Medford. He says he doesn't know why he had such a desire to work. But he says, "There weren't many kids in my neighborhood."

Cummings worked his way through high school and Tufts University, where he commuted for two years and lived on campus for the remaining two years.

Before learning how to design and erect buildings, Cummings dabbled in various and sundry jobs.

During high school and college, he worked at Brigham's Ice Cream Store here in Winchester.

Before leaving Brigham's, he was given the opportunity to work as a replacement manager at several other stores while managers took vacations.

"It was a great job. There was a lot of challenge," says Cummings.

Paying for his own college education, he says, "gave me a great feeling of independence. I wanted to do it myself." He grants, however, that the financial burden of going to college then can't even compare to the huge fees parents and students face today.

Cummings' drive and ambition to persevere and excel has been integral to his success in the business world.

"I always took work seriously, no matter what I was doing. It's determination and perseverance," he stresses, that yield success.

Before he pursued his keen interest in developing buildings, Cummings ran a successful fruit juice business in Medford. The combination of determination and willingness to overcome impeding obstacles provided Cummings with the opportunity to hit a gold mine of sorts.

When Cummings bought the company more than 20 years ago, only one part-time employee remained. He bought an old manufacturing plant in Medford.

"I bought it because it was time to work in my own business," he said. Of course he said this was a risk, but he said, "I tend to take things as I find them — and make the best of a situation."

Within a few months, Cummings turned the company around into a profit-making $1 million operation.

The secret to his success, he says, was selling fruit juice syrups to colleges and universities. Cummings said his idea was fresh and colleges and universities were taken by the idea. This ended up being 90 percent of the company's business.

Cummings' latest business venture is approaching completion. Place Lane is a new condominium development in Woburn. He says the complex is attracting both "yuppies" and middle-age couples whose children have moved away from home.

A four-winged building with a main lobby, the complex stretches to the size of two professional football fields.

Cummings no longer wears a hard hat when he stops in to monitor progress on his new development. However he revels in every last nitty-gritty detail.

Whether the task is consulting with Cummings perceives two types of business managers.

The first type, "type A," he describes as a manager who approaches his business "from a distance. They operate efficiently, impersonally. They are more sophisticated, intellectual," he explains.

Cummings describes his approach as a "type B." He is a hands-on manager. "He is very much involved in as many details and is good at delegating responsibility."

"Knowing details is my style," he says, because a person can not always rely on other people for information and direction.

And details are something his four workers on shower doors or checking proper installation of appliances, Cummings is well-versed and on the scene.

"Knowing details is my style," he says, because a person can not always rely on other people for information and direction.

And details are something his four children know about. His eyes twinkle as he smiles. Cummings recalls Saturday day trips he took with his children.

Somewhat there was always a delay when he planned outings with his children. While en route to the zoo or the park, if he spotted a building on the way that caught his eye, he would stop the car to examine the architectural make-up inside and out.

His children's voices still "haunt" him. "Daddy, do we have to look at another building?"

Along with his latest investment, Place Lane Condominiums, Cummings Parks continues to grow. The site, on Washington Street in Woburn, consists of 22 buildings including service firms, banks, travel agencies, restaurants and day-care facilities.

Cummings says sometimes he feels guilty spending so much of his time at work, and loving it. But he does see a lot of his family because he budgets his time.

Cummings and his wife Joyce are the parents of Daniel, 19, Kevin, 18, Marilyn, 16 and Patricia, 10.

Cummings says, "Often times I work when the rest of the family is sleeping. I frequently see the sunrise."

Irene Michelson to study Freud in Los Angeles

Winchester resident Irene Michelson has been awarded a fellowship by the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) to participate in a 1986 program of summer seminars for secondary school teachers at Occidental College in Los Angeles.

As an NEH summer fellow, the Winchester public school's special education teacher will undertake an intensive critical study of seven central texts from the writings of Sigmund Freud.

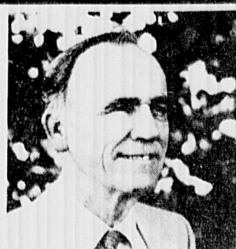

"Our purpose will be to acquire first-hand a reasonably comprehensive knowledge of Freudian analytic method and theory," says John Swift, associate professor of English and director of the seminar.

In the seminar, "Freud: The Origins of a Modern Mythology," participants will examine Freud as an influential thinker in psychology, as well as viewing his texts as historical and literary documents in their own right, according to Swift.

Teachers selected for this program receive a stipend from the NEH to cover the study and living expenses of the five-week session.

LENDERS TIGHTEN GUIDELINES FOR HOMEBUYERS

In some parts of the country, record numbers of homeowners are defaulting on their mortgages, and lenders are looking for ways to cut their losses on future loans. If you're applying for a loan, you can expect your lender to scrutinize the mortgage application more closely than they may have in the past.

Some lenders are asking for much more verification of customers' liquid assets. First, they want to be sure that you aren't borrowing any part of your down payment. Any large deposits into your checking or savings account may need some explanation of where they came from. If you got part of your funds from a relative, you might be required to have a gift letter stating that the money wasn't a loan. If you've sent in late payments on installment loans, you may have to write a letter offering reasons why you were delinquent. Therefore, the process of applying for a loan can involve more paper work and red tape than was the case in years past.

The professionals at Bixby & Porter Company Realtors are knowledgeable about financing and can help you through the loan application process. If there's a move in your future, please call us at 729-7000 or stop by our offices at 33 Thompson St., Winchester.

Colonial Travel Can Customize A Vacation To Fit Your Wants And Needs.

Whether your vacation takes you across the state, across the country, or around the world, whether your needs are more toward the economy vacation, or money is no object, or whether you prefer the excitement of the fast lane or serenity of seclusion, Colonial Travel, located at 564 Main St., Winchester, can customize a vacation to fit your wants and needs.

With more than 27 years of experience as travel agents between them, Colonial's co-owners Elaine Mahoney and Tony Sampson have tailored vacations for thousands of satisfied clients to all corners of the globe.

"What many people don't realize is travel agents don't charge a service charge," explains Elaine. "Our fee does not affect the price our client pays."

Instead, booking through a travel agent is not only easier, but it can also be cheaper. With access to plane fares, hotel rates, and car rental fees at their fingertips on computer, Tony and Elaine can assure you the best rates and can book a reservation simultaneously.

In addition to helping you get the best rates, Colonial can make your vacation more pleasant by meeting your needs with corresponding accommodations ranging from standard to deluxe or superior.

"Some people prefer to travel alone, while others want the security of a group," explains Elaine. "Some travelers want a more free schedule while others prefer a guided tour. In any case we will make the arrangements to fit their needs."

Some other benefits of booking through travel agents include their knowledge of special discounts, their awareness of the atmosphere, weather conditions and economic state of the place you are traveling to, and their ability to assist you in planning and getting ready for your vacation.

Tony and Elaine can assist you with passport needs, rate of exchange, and will make you aware of any other necessary information to make your trip easier and more enjoyable.

Has Colonial Travel seen any effects on European bookings as a result of the situation abroad?

"Bookings to Europe are down," explains Elaine, "but that has led to a noticeable increase in bookings to places like Hawaii, the Caribbean, Bermuda, cruises, and U.S. destinations."

In any event people are vacationing and the smart ones are letting Colonial Travel find them the vacation they desire at the price they want to pay.

To have Colonial Travel arrange and fit your vacation to your needs, call Tony or Elaine at 729-4700 or visit their office at 564 Main St., Winchester. They are open Monday through Friday 9-5, Thursdays till 8 p.m., 11-3 on Saturdays, and both Tony and Elaine are available any other time by appointment.

STAR SPORTS

Mary Jo Curley, center in a group of three at right, of Winchester, is helping in a unique eight-week Saturday program for young people with disabilities at the New England Rehabilitation Hospital in Woburn. Seated at left is Jack Starett of Rockport, who was born with cerebral palsy but later swam across the English channel. Starett gave encouragement to members of the class.

Hockey applications available

The Winchester Youth Hockey Association has made available applications for the upcoming 1986-87 season at the Winchester recreation department.

Interested parents and youth can stop by the office at McCall Junior High School between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. to pick up a form.

Participants aged 3-17 are eligible. Programs are geared toward age and ability and a beginner "in-house" program is run for younger skaters and non-skaters.

For more information, write to Winchester Youth Hockey Association, P.O. Box 145, Winchester 01890.

4 on soccer team

Four Winchester players, the most allowed from any one town, will fight for Massachusetts soccer honors in the annual Bay State Games this weekend.

Chosen by coach Dan McMillan for the girls' scholastic all-star team that will compete for the Metropolitan Region in the games were Leslie Strazzullo, Jean Cullen, Kellie Dewar and Debbie Nowell.

"Fifty-two girls tried out for the team but I could only pick four from any one school," McMillan said.

McMillan said Winchester girls were particularly outstanding and "far superior in soccer skills" to players from some other areas. "It speaks very well for the development program of the Winchester Soccer Club," he said.

The Metropolitan Region, which includes all of metropolitan Boston, is one of six regions which will compete in the Bay State Games. The team will open competition at 11 a.m. Thursday, July 10, at Boston College, meeting the Southeast Region. That team includes most of the South Shore and Cape Cod.

The Metros will play again at 9 a.m. Saturday but at Tufts University, meeting the Northeast Region team from the North Shore as far distant as Salisbury.

"If we win those games, we'll play again Sunday in the medal round at BC's Daly Field in Brighton," McMillan said. "I think we have an excellent shot."

Woburn stuns Cosmos in soccer

By DAVID MOORE

Undermanned and overconfident, the Winchester I Cosmos of the men's Twilight Soccer League were surprised 3-1 by a stubborn Woburn team last Thursday at Skillings Field.

Playing without their only legitimate goalie and missing several key forwards, the Cosmos still controlled most of the game, but were unable to kick balls into the net.

"Most of our players were either already at the Cape, or had their minds on getting there after the game," explained Winchester's Drew Schneller.

"We still managed to keep play down at their end. I think they got off about five shots on us and they scored on three of them."

With 10 minutes left, the Cosmos' Rob Horne gave Winchester its only goal of the game.

The revenge was sweet for Woburn, which lost 3-1 in its first meeting with rival Winchester June 10.

The Cosmos are now 6-1-1 and one game behind unbeaten arch-rival Wakefield, whom the Cosmos tied earlier in the season.

The Cosmos play Wakefield for first place in the league tonight at 6:30 at Skillings Road.

COMMENT

Very quietly, bright yellow signs in front of about 100 Winchester homes have been making neighbors angry with neighbors.

The signs installed by American Alarm, a Winchester-based company, warn burglars that a security system is installed at the home. They also include a house number, which American Alarm owner Dick Sampson says is helpful for emergency vehicles, especially at night.

Town officials say the signs are illegal, primarily because they are a form of advertising, which is not permitted in residential districts.

American Alarm says the signs are good for deterring crime.

Both sides are right, which is usually true in any controversy. The democratic way to solve the problem is to take it to town meeting in November.

When the sign-by-law was written, nobody thought about security alarm warning signs. Now the issue has come up and should be decided by town meeting.

Does Winchester want to change its laws to allow the signs, which arguably succeed in deterring crime while being much less attractive than flowerbeds alone? Winchester should decide.

Winchester Kernels

The tragic death of conservation commission chairman Margaret Howard deprives Winchester of one of its most devoted and hardest-working advocates of conservation and planned development of the town.

The recently completed "Winchester Open Space and Recreation Plan," an updated and revised version of a 1977 plan, was largely completed due to Mrs. Howard's vision and leadership. Much of the open space planned for acquisition in 1977 has since been developed as housing.

Soon after the new five-year plan was completed, Mrs. Howard became an articulate spokeswoman for it.

The plan devised by her and other conservation commission members includes town acquisition of 16 parcels of land, development of a town swimming pool, adoption of a wetlands-by-law, development and maintenance of more playfields, creation of passive recreational areas and development of a pathway system connecting waterways, ponds, parks and playfields.

Others will be needed to continue the work of Mrs. Howard for the benefit of Winchester.

Anyone who wonders why motorists don't obey the law regarding pedestrians in crosswalks hasn't been walking around residential neighborhoods too much.

That's not the only law frequently ignored by too many.

Monday morning, we took a 10-minute walk on the edge of the center and were accosted by three dogs with varying amounts of hostility.

None was on a leash or under the control of anyone in the vicinity, although it appeared that each dog was simply wandering in front of his own house, growling at anyone foolish enough to think the sidewalks are public ways.

Perhaps an unannounced round-up of unleashed dogs is in order. Dog officer Nick Molea says fines for violations start at $20 and increase.

Open meetings are really open to all

By GEORGE DERRINGER

A couple of weeks ago we wrote an editorial about open government and open meetings. The editorial got mostly positive response.

During the discussion, however, some distressing facts came to light. Many people sincerely believe they aren't allowed to attend meetings of government boards. Some think only reporters and invited guests are allowed.

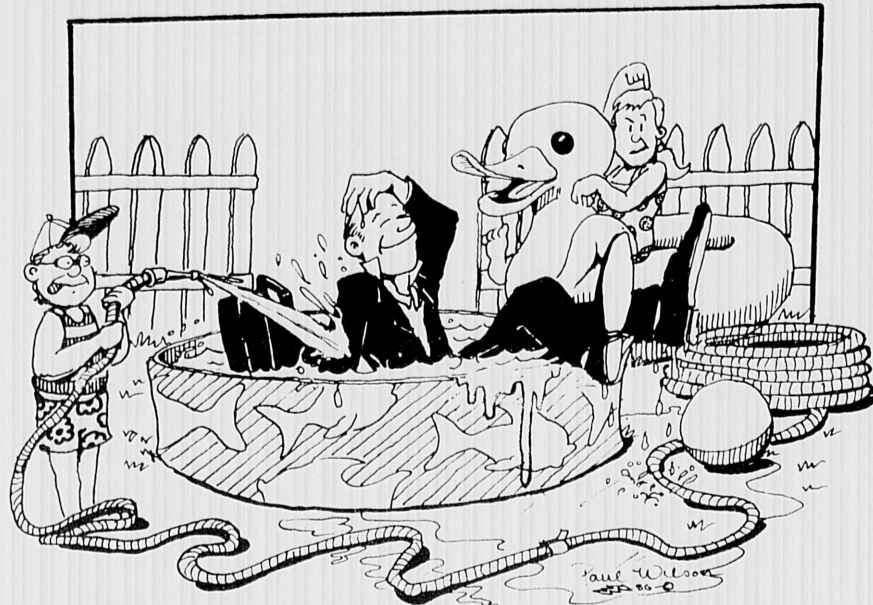

That's wrong. All meetings of town agencies, without a single exception, are open to the public. It doesn't make any difference where you live. An open meeting is an open meeting to everyone.

Massachusetts law does allow public officials to call "executive sessions" for seven specific reasons, but they may be called only during an open meeting. A recorded, public vote is required before an executive session.

Thankfully, Massachusetts law does not mention the press. Reporters have no special rights under the law, which is as it should be. We just ask more questions.

In the long run, open government benefits everyone. As town governments go, Winchester is pretty good.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Maggie Howard

A tribute to Mrs. Howard

TO THE EDITOR:
Maggie Howard, who suddenly left us all at 48 years of age, was not only a great family homemaker and gardener but one of Winchester's most effective office holders.

She had a genius for gentle persuasion but always firm and quietly and beautifully got things done. She was most active in scouting, chaired the Winchester Conservation Commission and the Winchester Trails and to each gave her unstinting devotion.

Like so many of us, she hated to see the whittling away of Winchester's remaining open lands and beauty spots. She was undaunted by the intricate complexities of conservation laws and initiated, as chairman of the conservation commission, a master plan which was about to be implemented.

Such vibrancy and grand commitment brought honor to Winchester and to us all. The loss of Maggie is a very great one for all of us.

Fran VerPlanck

Garden Club also mourns

TO THE EDITOR:

The Winchester Garden Club joins the many friends, organizations and the Town of Winchester in mourning the loss of Margaret Howard.

The Club would like to recognize her many contributions, not only to the Club but also to the community.

Although she was a member of the Club for only a short time, her capabilities as well as her grace and charm were immediately appreciated. The Club held her in esteem, and had high expectations for her future.

Her interests centered around the outdoors and the natural world. Of course she had her own garden of flowers and vegetables. This involvement brought her, soon after her arrival here, to Winchester Trails.

She rose quickly to the presidency there, but especially enjoyed sharing her knowledge and enthusiasm with school children on Trails walks.

The club was proud that she was out Town Conservation Commission chairman. She demonstrated her leadership ability in strengthening its position of concern for the quality of environment and advocating the benefits of maintaining open spaces.

The Club extends its deepest sympathy to her husband and family. Maggie's warm personality and wide smile will be greatly missed.

Most sincerely
The Winchester Garden Club

Letter grades are harmful

TO THE EDITOR:

I am very concerned about the school committee's decision to allow letter grading to continue in the primary grades. Children are just in the beginning stages of a lifetime of learning.

Letter grades do not allow for risk-taking, which is so important to early learning. Letter grades give little attention to the whole child and his or her individual development and learning style. They place too much emphasis on the end product, rather than the process and joy of learning.

Unless grades are weighed, boys are at a disadvantage because their development at age six is already six months behind that of girls of the same chronological age.

Having to meet a grade level expectation puts undue stress on some children at the primary level and can set them up for failure throughout their schooling.

It appears to me that the votes to continue letter grading were based on limited knowledge of how children learn. Not accepting the teachers' recommendation implies lack of respect for their understanding of early childhood literature and what is best for young children.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

The House and Senate, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on 8 roll calls and local representatives' votes on 11 roll calls from the week of June 30 - July 4.

1987 Budget (H 5600): House approved 138-22. Senate approved 33-1.

The House-Senate conference committee version of the fiscal 1987 budget.

Supporters said the package was a fiscally responsible one including a record amount of local aid.

Opponents said the package was loaded with waste and patronage and offers no relief for taxpayers.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

AIDS (H 5491): Senate 21-18, approved an amendment to a bill prohibiting any employer from requiring an AIDS test as a condition of employment. The amendment would allow a health care facility to require such a test as a condition.

Amendment supporters said hospital employees should be tested since they deal with blood and people who can catch diseases.

Opponents said sponsors of the amendment are misinformed and claimed there is no justification to single out hospital employees for involuntary AIDS testing. They said it will only needlessly feed the public hysteria.

Kraus voted no.

Cigarettes (S 452): Senate 21-15, gave initial approval to a bill banning the sale of tobacco products in any health care facility except nursing homes.

Supporters said cigarettes are a leading cause of disease and should not be sold in hospitals.

Opponents said education and warnings are the solution and argued it was unfair to ban the sale.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it.

Kraus voted yes.

Malpractice (S 2030): Senate 39-0, gave unanimous approval to a medical malpractice reform bill including a controversial provision placing a $500,000 cap on pain and suffering awards unless there is a loss of a bodily function, substantial disfigurement or other special circumstances.

Supporters said the bill addresses many problems, is fair to both sides and will help stop soaring insurance rates.

Kraus voted yes.

$500,000 Cap (S 2030): Senate 31-8, rejected a malpractice amendment removing the Senate language of a $500,000 cap on pain and suffering awards which can be exceeded in certain circumstances and replacing it with the House-passed language imposing a strict $500,000 cap without exemptions.

Amendment supporters said a strict cap is better because it has no loopholes. Some opponents opposed any cap.

Others said the Senate cap is a key part of the bill which is a balanced compromise.

A Yea vote is for the strict House $500,000 cap. A Nay vote is against it.

Kraus voted no.

Premiums (S 2030): Senate 32-5, rejected a malpractice amendment freezing medical malpractice insurance premiums until June 1987 and forgiving rate increases from 1983-1986.

Amendment supporters said the Joint Underwriting Association (JUA) has a $300 million reserve and argued it is unfair to make doctors pay retroactive hikes.

Opponents said the amendment will cost $60 million in already due premiums and argued this is an unconstitutional amendment which will hurt the JUA.

Kraus voted no.

Reporting (S 2030): Senate 28-11, rejected an amendment striking a section of the malpractice bill requiring persons in the public and private health care fields to report any person who there is reasonable basis to believe is in violation of any regulations of the Board of Registration in Medicine.

Amendment supporters said this mandatory reporting provision is too broad and could create problems.

Opponents said the provision encourages good faith and uniform reporting of violations to protect the public.

A Yea vote is against the reporting requirement. A Nay vote is for it.

Kraus voted no.

Claims (S 2030): Senate 33-4, rejected an amendment to a malpractice bill section providing for insurance surcharges for doctors with a higher than average number of claims brought against them and credits for those with no claims.

The amendment would change the section and use the number of judgments rather than claims.

Amendment supporters said claims are only an accusation and argued a doctor should only be surcharged when found guilty.

Opponents offered no arguments.

A Yea vote is for the amendment changing the wording to "judgments." A Nay vote is against the amendment.

Kraus voted no.

Appliances (H 6106): House 138-7, gave near final approval and sent to Old Blue: years of wrong living finally catch up to her

By TERRY MAROTTA

We'd had some fun in my old blue car over the years.

We'd filled it with kids and rock 'n roll, taken it to drive-ins and to the beach, talked in it, slept in it and hauled Christmas trees and refrigerators home in it.

I'd written more than a few columns in it, slouching against the door on the driver's side, my legs sticking out the window.

Lord knows we'd eaten in it enough times. The stiff and tiny fingers of a thousand French Fries slept beneath the back seat, and I myself had christened it, in its third week of life, by accidentally smearing blueberry yogurt onto its once-plush upholstery.

Old Blue had begun life respectably enough, but she'd changed slowly, through years of wrong living, from the sleek and snazzy boat of former times into a disgrace, a wheezing and battered derelict, a disreputably old thing of rude noises with a bad digestion.

So after six months of watching her swoon during rainstorms and boil like a witch's cauldron when you drove her over 30, we knew the time had come to put her to sleep and buy a new one.

Cagey was how we were going to be about negotiating this new car's purchase.

We'll play it cool, we told each other, and not get pressured into buying the first car we see. We'll get a deal. "Hey," we'll tell the salesman, "we can wait forever."

And so we walked, one creaking-cold day, into the showroom of a place specializing in mini-vans, that near-universal mode of suburban transport, that covered wagon of the 1980's.

I was dubious. To my way of thinking, a mini-van was a teacher's pet, a Donny Osmond, a goody-two-shoes kind of a vehicle. I had no experience driving anything so respectable.

A mini-van looks like a toaster, like a kid's lunchbox, like the auto industry's answer to sensible shoes. If you're accustomed to piloting a car like a gangster might drive, it's hard to imagine yourself behind the wheel of a lunchbox.

So I walked up to one of these babies, sneering audibly.

Then I saw the way the rear door slides back instead of opening out. I DID get one of old Blue's doors sheared off once by opening it on the street side.

I saw the configuration of seats that allows passage from the first row to the second and from there back to the third. I HAVE startled a few motorists in the past, upending myself to tend to emergencies arising behind me, yards of bare leg waving in the high thin air of the highway.

I saw the way the van's seats moved around or out altogether, for the easy transport of odd bulky items like refrigerators and Christmas trees. My heart began to race.

But my husband held out for cagey. He circled the car the way men will do, sporting a bluffer's smirk of contempt and whistling softly.

The salesman took one look at my face and said could he wrap it up for me. I glanced at my mate, who shrugged in acknowledgment of this sudden change of heart.

"No need to wrap," I answered. "I'll wear it home."

Eighteen hours later, with a few options glued into place, wear it I did - my lunchbox, my prairie schooner, my sweet, dependable well-mannered van.

And now my life is different. I pass through the aisles of my new car, serene as a railroad conductor taking tickets.

We switch seats, on long rides, with an unbelievable ease, depending on who needs his pants changed, who'd like to hang a pinwheel out the window, who simply must sit up front next to the radio.

An element of adventure has departed from our life since this new car came along. An element of conventionality has entered it.

I keep encouraged, though. We're breaking it in, slowly but surely.

The mute applause of many new fingers of French fries fills its interior.

And just yesterday, it was I and not one of my three antic offspring who worked the Mocha Fudge ice cream so expertly into the upholstery of the front seat.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. DiGiovanni

Katherine Addie and Michael J. DiGiovanni were married last month

Katherine Marie Addie and Michael Joseph DiGiovanni were married May 3 at St. Mary's Church in Winchester. The Rev. George J. Butera officiated the double ring ceremony with a nuptial mass.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. R. Vernon Addie of Peabody and Mary P. Addie of Winchester.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a romantic matte taffeta gown with a silk bodice, full bouffant skirt accented with chantilly lace and an attached chapel train.

Her veil was a silk flowered floral wreath accented with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses, white lilies, white freesia and ivy.

Kimberly McDonnell of Abington was maid of honor for her cousin. Bridesmaids were Karen McDonnell and Susan Gannon, both of Abington and cousins of the bride. Christine DiGiovanni and Martha DiGiovanni, sisters of the bridegroom, and Diane Matthews, a friend of the bride, all of Winchester.

They wore tea-length empire blue jacquard taffeta puffed sleeved gowns with sweetheart necklines. They carried bouquets of blue delphiniums, peach roses, white tulips, white freesia and ivy. Also, they wore baby's-breath wreaths. The maid of honor's wreath was accompanied with white roses and blue delphiniums.

Charles Bonanno III of Medford was best man for his friend. Ushers were Matthew DiGiovanni, brother of the bridegroom, Robert Addie, brother of the bride, Patrick Gannon, cousin of the bride, from Abington and Matthew County, David Larson, friends of the bridegroom.

The reception was at Salem Country Club in Peabody. After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Somersworth, N.H.

The 1957 Ford Thunderbird owned by Dom Mazzola of Belmont will join more than 75 others at the annual show of the Classic Thunderbird Club of New England from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, July 13, at Bonnell Ford in Winchester. Ralph Bonnell's own 1957 and 1960 T-birds are also expected to be exhibited.

T-bird show in town Sunday

Nearly 100 classic Thunderbirds are expected to gather Sunday in Winchester for the annual Classic Thunderbird Club of New England show.

The show, including a number of original 1955 two-seater T-birds, is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, July 13, at Bonnell Ford on Cambridge Street.

A total of 34 trophies will be awarded, including one chosen by spectators for the "People's Choice Award."

The New England club has nearly 200 members but is affiliated with the Classic Thunderbird Club International, which has more than 21,000 members as far flung as Europe and Australia.

The 1986 show is the 11th annual event for the New England club. The public is invited, said Dom Mazzola of Belmont, chairman of the board for the club.

In case of rain, the show will be held Sunday, July 20.

Casey to open headquarters

Paul Casey, Democratic candidate for the Massachusetts House of Representatives from Winchester and Stoneham, has invited the community to the opening of his campaign office.

The official opening is scheduled from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 16, at 6A Montvale Ave. in Stoneham. The office is the first of its kind in Stoneham in more than a decade, Casey said.

Casey is the first Democrat who has attempted to represent Stoneham since redistricting displaced former Democratic Representative Paul Means.

Casey will be available to discuss any issues and concerns over light refreshments during the opening. Interested people who can not attend are invited to visit during the regular business week.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh, center, receives a plaque for his efforts on behalf of the handicapped from Sheri McCann, left, and Carol Donovan, executive director and president respectively of the Central Middlesex Association for Retarded Citizens.

Retarded citizens' group honors efforts of Saltmarsh

State Rep. Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh Jr. (R-Winchester) has been honored by the Central Middlesex Association for Retarded Citizens (CMARC) for his support and hard work expended on behalf of handicapped people.

Saltmarsh was presented the "Appreciation Award" plaque by Sheri McCann, executive director of CMARC, a private, non-profit organization serving handicapped people and their families.

CMARC noted that most recently Saltmarsh joined in a Winchester town meeting effort to appropriate $4,500 to fund nine local CMARC clients.

"I'm very honored at this award," said Saltmarsh. "As a member of the state legislature, I've participated in the planning and drafting of programs to help the handicapped. But it is here, on the local level, that the fight to help the handicapped must really be won," he said.

"CMARC epitomizes the type of program that works. Its programs are geared to encouraging each client to reach his or her maximum potential and highest level of independent functioning," Saltmarsh said.

Martha Johnson earns degree

Martha Johnson of Winchester was one of 177 seniors to graduate at commencement exercises June 1 at William Smith College in Geneva, N.Y.

Johnson, daughter of Mr. Susan P.

Johnson and Bradford J. Johnson of Belmont, majored in sociology while a student at William Smith College. She received a bachelor of arts degree.

McCann earns doctoral degree

Joan Celia McCann, daughter of Helen L. Celia of Winchester and the late Vincent J. Celia, Assistant Attorney General, recently graduated from Fordham University in New York, where she was awarded a doctor of education degree.

McCann, a graduate of Medford High School, is principal of Fox Meadow School, Scarsdale, N.Y. She holds a cum laude degree from Tufts University and a master of arts from the University of Michigan.

She is listed in Who's Who of American Women, Who's Who of the East, Who's Who of the World, Who's Who of Educational Administrators and International Biographies.

McCann, who began her teaching career at the Gleason School in Medford, is an IDEA fellow of the Charles Kettering Foundation, a member of Phi Delta Kappa, the International Garden Club, and Chi Omega.

She lives with her husband Dr. William J. McCann, also of Medford, and her children Susan and Peter, in Pelham, N.Y.

Local league leader visits D.C. convention

Gail O'Reilly, president of the League of Women Voters of Winchester, recently returned from a five-day national convention of the organization in Washington, D.C. She joined 1,800 other delegates and observers from all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Convention highlights, she said, included a "mobilization for tax reform" rally with Sens. Bob Packwood (R-Ore.) and Bill Bradley (D-N.J.). O'Reilly also met with Senators Ted Kennedy and John Kerry of Massachusetts to urge support for the tax reform measures passed June 24 by the Senate.

A national League of Women Voters lobbying program was adopted. It includes work on natural resources, social policy including health care, day care, public welfare and public education.

Two studies were also authorized. They will deal with human needs and with agricultural policy.

Membership in the Winchester League, which is currently considering a town-wide "hazardous household waste" collection, is open to anyone over 18 and does not require an invitation.

For more information, call Susan Cutler at 729-4563.

Library hosting annual New England Book Show

From now to July 21, the Winchester Public Library is celebrating the art and design of the book. The library has been chosen again this year as a host to the touring New England Book Show, sponsored by Bookbuilders of Boston.

The 35 winning volumes were chosen from 158 submitted by New England publishers as examples of their best work. The books were judged in September for quality design and production and for appropriateness of cost and craft to the intended market.

Juvenile, trade, professional, and elementary/high school books were judged in separate categories. Sadly, no books in the EL/Hi category were judged worthy of an award, since in the words of one judge, textbook publishers are "producing some really aesthetically abusive stuff."

Among the volumes singled out for quality design and production are a book of animal fables from India, several textbooks, including one on accounting, "Creating Rosie the Riveter," illustrated with posters from the World War II era, several art books, and David Macauley's "Baaa."

Book show volumes are on display in the lobby. From there they go to Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine.

Junior library events
The junior library is open Tuesday and Thursday evenings until 8:30 this summer. For the first time in several years, and in response to changing patron needs, the junior library will have evening hours.

To celebrate "Pajama Story-times" are scheduled from 7 to 7:30 p.m., July 22 and Aug. 5 and 19. The sessions are designed for children 2½ to 5 years of age, who are urged to wear their pajamas.

Every Tuesday and Thursday night, the junior library will be open for browsing and checkout of books, magazines, records, cassettes and kits. Children may also sign up for the "Dinomite Dinosaur" reading program.

The staff has created extensive displays celebrating the dinosaur this summer. Stop by some evening to check them out.

"Captain's Paradise," starring Sir Alec Guinness as the captain with wives in two different ports, is the featured film tonight in the Winchester public library's "Alec Guinness Film Festival." The film is free, as is the popcorn, and starts at 7 p.m. For more information, call the library at 721-7171.

Gertrude Parker is one of many senior members who have worked on a hand-stencilled quilt for the annual Fall Fiesta Fair Oct. 1 and 2. Tickets are available at the Jenks Senior Center.

The Winchester Home and Garden Club has contributed funds and expertise to the Jenks Senior Center. Mrs. Vincent Berger, left, is president of the club, Mrs. Walter Dignam is program chairman and former president and Mrs. Raymond Delaney is treasurer.

The Winchester Star SENIOR SCENE

Walter Dignam, new president of the Winchester Seniors Association, addresses the membership. Dignam also chairs the senior fund raising committee.

Construction is underway at Jenks

The excavation for the Jenks Senior Center building addition is yawning deep and wide. Very soon the footings and foundations will be in place and the construction will rise out of the depths.

Much has had to be accomplished before the actual building can take place. The Jenks Center management construction team is pleased with the progress to date and all seniors look forward to the day when there will be a grand opening of the added facilities.

More than 900 donors have contributed to the fund-raising campaign and their interest and generosity has helped to lay a firm foundation for increased programs and services at the center. Each contributor has played an important role in preparing for the future.

Garden club donates gifts

Before the birth of the Jenks Senior Center, the Winchester Home and Garden Club was the first civic organization to contribute funds for landscaping the grounds around the building. The club's generosity and planning produced beauty for the pleasure of the entire community.

Golden rain trees at the entrance to the building greet all who visit the center. The gorgeous Queen Elizabeth rose bushes on either side of the front lawn bloom from May to November. Overlooking the water and surrounding the patio are flowering shrubs, azaleas, roses, and flowering bulbs, all planned to reflect their color and grandeur during growing season.

Three trees on the front lawn are also gifts from the club. The club gave a sizable donation to fund-raising efforts for more landscaping.

A large debt of gratitude is extended to club members for sharing their knowledge and expertise.

Grayson is Harvard Fellow

Paul John Grayson of Winchester recently received the Arthur W. Wheelwright Traveling Fellowship from Harvard University Graduate School of Design.

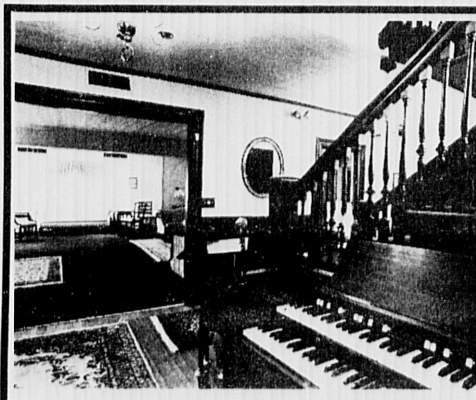

The fellowship, established in 1935, is offered to encourage academic and professional development through travel and study of architecture outside of the United States.

Grayson will study how other nations manage social and financial issues of care of the elderly and how those policies are translated into housing. He will travel to Japan, Israel, Western Europe and Scandinavia to research trends in these nations and consider what concepts are transferable to America.

Over the past decade, Grayson has developed a strong interest in elderly care through his architecture and master planning work of institutional and private clients.

Grayson has been in private practice since 1956. He worked for Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, I.M. Pei & Partners, and The Stubbins Associates, Inc. before founding his own consulting firm, Grayson Environments for Living, in 1972.

OBITUARIES

J. Chandler Hill

J. Chandler Hill, 73, formerly of Winchester, died unexpectedly July 2 in Essex, Conn.

He was the son of the late J. Clarence and Elsie S. Hill of Athol and was born there in 1913.

He graduated from Deerfield Academy in Deerfield in 1932 and from Colgate University in Hamilton, N.Y., in 1936. At Colgate he was a varsity letter swimmer for three seasons and tried out for the 1936 Summer Olympics.

After college, he taught English at Governor Dummer Academy in South Byfield from 1936 to 1942.

Mr. Hill entered the U.S. Navy in 1942 as an ensign and served in both the Atlantic and Pacific fleets.

Also in 1942, he was married in Winchester to Ellen Rivinius at the Rivinius family home on Main Street.

After his discharge from the Navy as a lieutenant commander, Mr. and Mrs. Hill lived on Highland Avenue.

His career for more than 30 years after the war was in the publishing field. Until 1956 he was with Houghton Mifflin Co. as an editor and director in educational activities.

In 1956 he became the director of educational services at Reader's Digest, serving there until 1972. He then became managing editor of the Pequot Press of Chester, Conn.

The firm is now known as the Globe Pequot Press and is a subsidiary of Affiliated Publication Inc., which also owns The Boston Globe.

At Pequot, he edited historical books and created "The First New England Catalogue," a collection of New England-produced crafts and of places to visit in New England.

From 1980 until his retirement in 1983, he was director of the Lyme Fine Arts Academy in Old Lyme, Conn.

Mr. Hill leaves his wife, Ellen (Rivinius) of Essex; two sons, John C. Hill Jr. of New York City and Dr. David R. Hill of West Hartford, Conn.; a daughter, Nancy H. Lyons of Winchester; and three grandchildren.

Memorial services were held July 7 at St. John's Episcopal Church in Essex, Conn. Burial will be at a later date in Wildwood Cemetery.

Winchester.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Colgate University swimming team, Hamilton, N.Y. 13346.

C.H. Hamilton

Dr. Clarence Herbert Hamilton of Winchester died July 6 at the Fair-lawn Nursing Home in Lexington. He was 100 years old.

Born in Des Moines, Iowa, in 1886, he grew up in Davenport, Iowa. He attended the University of Chicago, earning a B.A. degree in 1910 and a Ph.D. in 1914, with concentrations in philosophy and psychology.

From 1914 to 1927, Hamilton was a missionary to China, where he served as professor and department head of western philosophy and psychology at the University of Nanking. In 1927 the war between the Communists and the Nationalists came to Nanking, resulting in shooting in the streets. Mr. Hamilton and his wife and four small children returned to the States.

For the greater part of his professional career, from 1931 to 1952, Mr. Hamilton was a professor in the Graduate School of Theology at Oberlin College in Ohio. While there, he taught courses in far eastern religions and philosophy, and the history of Christian missions, among others.

Although he retired in 1952, he continued to teach at a number of universities and colleges as a visiting lecturer or professor: Columbia, Chicago, Union Theological Seminary, Hamilton College, Mt. Holyoke College, Wheaton College (Mass.) and Tunghai University, Taiwan.

As a scholar, he specialized in far eastern philosophies and religions, with emphasis on Buddhism. He wrote three books, the best known of which is "Buddhism, A Religion of Infinite Compassion," in which one finds edited selections of Buddhist thought translated from Sanskrit, Chinese, Japanese and Tibetan literary sources.

His major achievement in the field of translation was that of "Wei Shih Er Shih Lun, The Treatise in Twenty Stanzas on Representation Only." This translation is from the Chinese text of Hsuan Tsang of the T'ang Dynasty; it deals with Buddhism's metaphysical idealism.

In addition, he wrote numerous monographs, articles in professional journals, and book reviews dealing with Christian missions, far eastern religions and philosophies.

Mr. Hamilton was a long term member of the American Oriental Society (President 1949-50), the Far Eastern Association (a director) the American Theological Society, the American Council of Learned Societies, and the American Association of University Professors.

In 1916 he married the late Lulu Snyder of Muncie, Ind., who was also a missionary in China then. They had four children: Ruth Hamilton Potts of Greenville, S.C., Miriam, Hamilton, Berliner of Fort Worth, the late Harry Edward Hamilton of Columbus, Ohio, and Robert Lee Hamilton of Winchester.

They are also survived by 10 grandchildren including Thomas W. Hamilton of Winchester and William A. Hamilton of Woburn, formerly of Winchester, and eight great-grandchildren.

Nina Dolben

Nina Mulcare Dolben, 72, of Winchester died July 2 at Mount Auburn Hospital in Cambridge after a long illness.

Mrs. Dolben was the widow of Joseph Dolben of Winchester.

Born in New York City, Mrs. Dolben was raised in Cambridge and moved to Winchester after her marriage to Joseph Dolben in 1941.

She graduated from Mt. Holyoke College in 1934 magna cum laude and was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Mrs. Dolben received her master's degree in economics from Columbia University in 1935.

She had a distinguished career with Harvard Business School, contributing to several major works sponsored by the institution. The most significant of these was the "Weapons Acquisition Process — An Economic Analysis."

She retired from Harvard Business School, where she served as a research associate from 1938 to 1976.

Mrs. Dolben was a member of the Winton Club, Mt. Holyoke Club and the Florence Crittendon League.

Among her survivors are: her three children, Joseph A. of Springfield, Thomas of Chicago and Hollis H. of Marshfield; a sister, Miriam Mulcare of Cambridge; and sisters-in-law Marjorie D. Sheffield of California and Mary Patricia Mulcare of Winchester.

Funeral services were July 9 at the Ripley Chapel of the First Congregational Church. Arrangements were made by the Ciro Cincotti Funeral Home in Medford.

Memorial donations may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Annie Duffy

Annie Duffy, 87, of Medford and Winchester died July 1 at a Somerville hospital. She was the sister of Elizabeth O'Hagan and Winifred Boyie, both of Ireland, and the beloved cousin of Julia F. Grant and children Roger Grant, Kathleen Flynn and Sally H. Goulding, all of Medford, and Peter B. Grant of Melrose.

She is also survived by several nieces and nephews in the United States, Ireland, England and New Zealand.

She was also the dear friend of Dr. John W. Gahan and family of Winchester.

Funeral services were conducted July 3 from the Gaffey Memorial Funeral Home in Medford, followed by a funeral mass in St. Joseph's Church.

Interment was in St. Lawrence Cemetery, O'Meath County Louth, Ireland.

What To Do

Summer beckons travelers around New England sights

The summer joys of New England are no secret to anyone. Not to the crusty old Yankee who summers here as a matter of course.

Not to the midwesterner who believes he's sure to fall in love with old Cape Cod.

Anyone who loves sandy beaches or stony mountains, isolated nature trails, big city culture, the historic or the avant-garde will find it all within a few hours drive of Greater Boston.

For many reasons, tourism in Greater Boston has never been better.

Over 9.6 million visited in 1985, according to Becky Heinz of the Greater Boston Convention and Visitors' Bureau, and 11 million — up 15 percent — are expected in 1986.

The drop in gasoline prices also encourages more people than ever to tank up and see the area by car.

Here are some ideas on where to go to get the most fun out of this summer.

The staff, called "interpreters," are trained to impersonate known Pilgrims and to develop the mindset of the persons they portray. They dress in period clothing, speak in the dialect of the day and live the daily routines of a colonial farming community.

Archeological remains indicate the Wampanoag campsite rests on an actual pre-Columbian Indian summer settlement. At the campsite, visitors can sit inside a wigwag, a dome-shaped abode made of bent saplings, and experience a native American environment.

Special events — from historically-documented weddings to fur tradings, military musters and a visit from the Massasoit Indians give visitors a sense of the past.

Special re-enactments this summer include: a Wampanoag campsite wedding, July 19; a doorstep wedding, Aug. 2; and a General Muster, Aug. 30.

Plimoth Plantation is open daily 9 a.m.-5 p.m. For more information, call 746-1622.

And more

More living history can be found in old Sandwich.

Dexter's Grist Mill, where cornmeal has been ground, bagged and sold since the 17th century, is still in operation.

Just 500 yards away is the old Hoxie House. Built in the 1680s, it is the oldest house on Cape Cod.

Both sites are open daily until 5 p.m. They're located on Water St. Call 888-0352.

The Hancock Shaker Village, in western Massachusetts on Route 20, was an active Shaker community between 1781 and 1960.

Today, it's a living testament to the industry of its bygone originators.

Visitors can view the herb garden, the poultry house, the Brick Dwelling, which housed the community dining room, kitchens and retiring rooms, the meeting house, and the unique round stone barn.

Shaker-style meals are served at 1 p.m. Sundays, in the authentic Believer's Room. Reservations are required for meals.

Other special events this summer include: the 23rd annual Shaker kitchen festival, July 28 - Aug. 2; Shakers' Landing Day, Aug. 3; and the annual Shaker crafts and industries festival, Aug. 16-17.

For more information, call 746-1622.

Old Sturbridge

Old Sturbridge Village, also on Route 20, authentically recreates an early 19th century farming village on a woody, 200-acre site.

More than 40 restored buildings on the grounds include a water-powered carding mill, an up-and-down sawmill, blacksmith shop, bakery, a parsonage, printing office, and a Quaker meetinghouse.

Where history repeats itself

Those who crave more than just a little taste of history can visit one of the area's many "living history" museums.

The nation's beginnings are relived daily at Plimoth Plantation, on Route 3A, three miles south of downtown Plymouth.

The museum depicts the area with a 1627 Pilgrim village, a Wampanoag Indian campsite, and a full-scale replica of the Mayflower II. The presence of "colonists" engaged in real-life activities brings the museum to life.

What To Do

From left: sheep grazing on the common is an everyday experience at Old Sturbridge Village, where the 19th Century still flourishes (photo by Robert S. Arnold); two women cool off in a tidal pool one hot afternoon at Halibut Point, Rockport. Gloucester Harbor offers scenic vistas from its past and present seafaring days (photo courtesy of Mass. Department of Commerce and Development).

Wingaersheek Beach and Good Harbor Beach.

All feature public facilities; parking can be scarce, however, for late-comers, especially on weekends.

Cold-but-beautiful aptly describes the waters of Plum Island, off Route 1 or I-95 in Newburyport. While half the beach is closed for bird-nesting areas, visitors still have a long beach with trails through dunes and marshes, and a strong surf.

There is ample opportunity for bird-watching, fishing and picnicking. There are toilets but no eating facilities or picnic tables. Parking is free, but the lots fill up early, especially on weekends.

The white sand and gentle slopes make Crane Beach a popular North Shore attraction. There are complete facilities for swimming, fishing, hiking, and birdwatching. It's located on Argilla Road in Ipswich. Admission is $6 per car, weekdays; $9 per car, weekends.

The waters of Cape Cod beaches tend to be warmer than Boston's, and, with over 300 miles of sandy beaches, the Cape offers plenty for swimmers.

Route 6A, on the bay side of the Cape, winds past the towns of Sagamore, Dennis, Brewster, Orleans, Eastham, Wellfleet, Truro and Provincetown — all of which offer public beaches with facilities.

Following Route 28, bathers can take in the public beaches of Falmouth, Hyannis, Dennis Port, Harwich and Chatham.

Freshwater swimmers can take to the following shores: Walden Pond in Concord; Damon Pond in the Willard Brook State Forest in Ashby; Street Point Beach in Sturbridge; the Holland Pond recreation area; Hampton Pond, Route 202 in Westfield; and Charlemont in the Mohawk Trail State Forest, off Route 2. All offer boating, fishing and hiking. Parking fee is $3.

Revere Beach claims to be the 'first public beach in the United States,' and, in its heyday, it was one of the most famous and popular beaches in the country.

Today, joggers trot along the seawall, and residents enjoy occasional Sunday concerts in the old pavilion. Picturesque Singing Beach in Manchester, off Route 127, was named for the squeaking sound the white sand makes as one walks on it. It is a 5/8-mile cove with toilets and a snack bar for the public. It can also be reached via the B & M Rockport train.

Gloucester's beaches, located off Route 128, include Stage Fort Park at Gloucester Harbor, Since campsites fill up quickly in summer, it is best to find one early in the day. Check-out time is 1 p.m. Pets must be kept on leashes and are not allowed in swimming areas.

The National Park Service's Visitor Center, 242-5642, or the Appalachian Mountain Club, 523-0636, can provide extensive information on camping, hiking, bicycling and canoeing throughout the area.

C'n I canoe...

Ferry across Boston Harbor for a night on Bumpkin or Grape Island; but bring food and water as the camping here is rustic. For permits, call 740-1605.

Lovell's Island, 727-5290, offers lifeguard-supervised swimming as well as camping, which is $5 per night.

North of Boston, campers can take to Harold Parker State Forest, off Route 125 in North Andover, which offers 3000 acres of woods plus swimming, boating, picnicking, riding trails and bicycling. Also, 134 campsites, with showers and flush toilets, are available at $6 a night.

At Salisbury Beach State Reservation off Route 1, campers can enjoy swimming, fishing, bicycling, boating and 488 campsites with showers and flush toilets for $6 a night. Campsites with electrical hookups are $8 a night.

Go west

Head west for mountain greenery.

The Mohawk Trail State Forest, Route 2 in Charlemont, offers 6,457 acres of woods with hiking, fishing, swimming, plus 56 campsites with flush toilets as well as five log cabins, which cost only $8 and $10 a night. The cabins are available by early reservation. The phone number is 339-5504.

The Mt. Washington State Forest, off Route 41 or Route 23, includes over 3,000 acres of forest, the scenic Big Bash Falls, plus fishing, hiking, riding trails and camping for $1 a night. Visitors can also hike to campsites on Mt. Washington, less than two miles away.

Tenting tonight

Except for the Boston Harbor Islands, where campsite reservations are required, all other state-run campsites are available on an unreserved basis, with a maximum allowable stay up to 14 days.

Bullpen palls for 3 hours, Bennett so so

Bullpen strikes out

Review

During the course of Bullpen, at the Hasty Pudding Theatre, 12 Holyoke St., Cambridge for an open-ended run, a sports announcer comments, "They say that baseball is fifteen minutes of excitement crammed into three hours." And that, pretty much, sums up this agonizing "late inning Red Sox comedy."

There are lots of problems in this bullpen, and most of them fit squarely on the shoulders of author Steve Kluger, who has written a script with the most flimsy of plots and populated by caricatures.

He barely scratches the surface of his characters, leaving us with a motley group of unsympathetic characters, male chauvinists all, that we don't give a hoot about. They have to be the sorriest, most inept, most immature bunch of wimps alive!

Peter Koso has designed a very functional set, but Larry Blamire's direction is uneven. The cast acquits itself admirably, but what can they do with a play that's about as exciting as the Red Sox being 15 runs behind in the last of the ninth inning?

The action takes place in the Boston Red Sox bullpen at Fenway Park, Boston, on a Saturday afternoon next summer, and focuses on the anticipated arrival of a pitching phenom. Promoting him from a farm team to the parent club signifies that one of the bullpen crew will be dropped from the Bosox roster.

So, while restricted to the claustrophobic confines of the bullpen, with its "puky green walls," four pitchers and a catcher attempt to starve off boredom. They engage in small talk, one-upsmanship, horseplay, and lots of locker room conversation. Generally, they are sex-crazed. They jibe each other, bait each other, and get points for having the answers to baseball trivia.

The diverse group includes catcher Boomer (Peter Fox), married to Caroline, who opted to go see the Hall of Fame on his honeymoon, prompting his bride to tell him he should have married his chest protector. His wife has since left him and he has started to play the field. He's a Vietnam vet, with a plate in his head and gimpy knees.

Ripper (Artie Gerunda), a Harvard grad, single, who aspired to be a math teacher, is a crackerjack with crossword puzzles, and survives on his forkball. He "hit the bottle" and has recently returned from a drying out center.

Moose (Vince Lucchesi) is the elder statesman, married, and a pitcher who has only his knuckleball left.

Beyond being an expert at baseball trivia, Tank (Eddie Frier-son) is a "bird brain." He's a non-swearing country boy that's mightily slow on the pickup.

Frito (Bobby DiCicco), uncouth and uneducated, is a "groupie grad" that is always in heat. He's in a slump, with two wins and nine losses in his last eleven outings. He idolizes Bruce Springsteen and dreams of being a rock star.

The only black, Duke (Wesley Thompson), has an aversion to changing his smelly underwear. He wears a rabbit's foot for luck, snorts coke, and has been married for 12 years and is afraid to fool around.

Boomer learns that his wife has obtained a divorce... in the third inning. Later, he realizes that she's been messing around with Ripper, leading to fisticuffs. However, the more serious aspects center upon the anxieties and insecurities of many a professional athlete, untrained for any other vocation, their position tenuous at best, and eventually facing the prospect of "back to the parking lot."

What "Bullpen" needs is a little less bull and a lot more substance!

Bennett gives lackluster show

Review

It is doubtful that any of the capacity crowd that witnessed Tony Bennett's opening night performance at the North Shore Music Theatre would ever walk across the street to see him again. His was a tired, boring, lackadaisical effort. As one spectator observed as she and her party departed at intermission, "He lacked spark." And, since Bennett has never been known for his scintillating wit or dynamic charisma, it made matters even more debilitating.

Bennett arrived on stage 15 minutes later than scheduled looking like he had slept in his clothes on an overnight flight. His blue silk jacket was rumpled and wrinkled and far too tight to accommodate the ample girth around his midsection. His dark slacks appeared like those set aside for "use while gardening." And his all-enveloping hairpiece looked like a reject from Planet of the Apes. His total demeanor smacked of a "couldn't care less" attitude and a total disregard for patrons.

Acoustically, the show was perfect, which didn't help Bennett's lot. It simply amplified the deterioration of what was once a beautiful vocal instrument. Bennett's voice has developed a raspy, throaty quality. His range is forced. He speaks-sings throughout, his voice often breaking, and rarely hitting the rich, mellow tonal qualities of his earlier years that made him a star.

Hard Times, the Dickens' tale adapted by Stephen Jeffreys, runs through July 20 at the Gloucester Stage Theatre, 2 Main St. Performances are Wednesday through Sunday. For tickets call 281-4099.

Even worse are Bennett's stage affectations. He has developed a most annoying gesture, that of raising his arms to the heavens after each number, like he is giving absolution to those gathered there. For the most part, audience reaction was polite at best.

That Bennett's show runs only 90 minutes including a lengthy intermission is a blessing in disguise.

His back-up trio (Ralph Sharon as musical director and pianist, Jo LaBarbara on drums, and Paul Langosch on bass) perform instrumentally throughout the show to give Bennett a breather. Indeed, the highlight of the evening is a fine piano solo (a la Duke Ellington) by Mr. Sharon.

However, one performer does not a season make, and there are many more headliners on tap at the North Shore Music Theatre—The Pirates of Penzance (June 30-July 5), Jesus Christ Superstar (July 7-19), Frankie Valli and the Four Seasons (July 13), The King and I (July 21-Aug. 2), Harry Belafonte (July 27), A Chorus Line (Aug. 4-16), Tom Jones (Aug. 10, 17, 19), The Golden Boys of Bandstand (Aug. 18), Paul Anka (Aug. 20), The Clancy Brothers with Robbie O'Connell (Aug. 21), Johnny Mathis (Aug. 22-23), The Judds (Aug. 24), Debbie Reynolds (Aug. 25-Sept. 6), and Loretta Lynn and the Coalminers (Aug. 31)—which should more than make up for this sorry experience.

Second-rate musical scuttles Publick

Review

Quilters, in its New England

premiere at the Publick Theatre (through July 19) is a quaint, folksy musical that traces the lives of women who moved West during the 19th century and helped tame America's wild and woolly frontiers. It reflects their hopes and dreams, hardships and triumphs through song, dance and storytelling.

While the company gives an honest effort, it is scuttled by a second-rate vehicle.

That Quilters, with book by Molly Newman and Barbara Damashek, experienced a relatively short-lived run on Broadway is readily understandable. Much of the problem is that the show has no sustaining plot, rather a connecting thread—quilting. It is presented in a series of vignettes, roughly 35, and while all the sketches and ditties vary, there is a sameness, like the prairie, no peaks and no valleys, that tends to become redundant and tedious.

Ms. Damashek's music (and lyrics) is basically hoe-down, with a calypso (?) thrown in for good measure.

In fairness to the company, they do succeed in capturing the flavor and spirit of the period, all calico and covered wagons.

Direction by Spiro Veloudos, Publick's artistic director, is solid and insightful, and under his guise, the show flows smoothly. Robert Odorisio's sets are innovative, Marianne McCoy's dances, sprightly, and Michael Condon's light design is most effective.

Prominent in the hard-working, all-female cast of seven are pretty Deborah Schoenberg and perky Lisa Troy. Others, who portray different characters in each segment, are Sarah McKendree Bonham, Stephanie Dizio, Faith Justice, Karen Jill Oster and Mandy Peek.

Each character unfolds a distinctive pattern or block symbolic of events enacted on stage and throughout the play. As women weave their tales, the corresponding quilt blocks are sewn together. The swatches of fabric represent their happiness and heartbreak, memories and prayers, fortitude and despair—the patchwork quilt, their legacy to future generations.

By the final scene, they have completed a finished quilt, ten feet by fifteen feet (produced by some 500 women throughout the six New England states), composed of bits and pieces of the women's lives—from a wedding dress to swaddling clothes—a testament to the strength, creativity and spirit of all pioneer women.

Special note is due The New England Quilters Guild who contributed their expertise in the execution of the 17 quilts featured in the mounting to ensure the play's authenticity.

The Publick Theatre performs outdoors at Christian A. Herter Park, Soldiers Field Road, Boston (directly across from WBZ-TV on the banks of the Charles River).

They open with Shakespeare's "The Tempest" on July 30. Call 720-1007.

Johnson at helm for Hard Times

Grey Cattell Johnson, associate artistic director for the Gloucester Stage Company, is at the helm of their summer season's curtain-raiser, Charles Dickens' Hard Times, which runs through July 20. Johnson's mounting marks the first American production of the British hit, adapted for the stage by Stephen Jeffreys.

Hard Times is set in Coketown, a working class mill town in northern England and follows the fortunes of the Gradgrind family.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Be cooperative and go back over work to correct errors. Explore things of interest and be willing to dig deep for financial rewards. Legal and written matters are favored and your recent performance could be vindicated.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Don't take on more than you can handle and ask for cooperative support. Accept an invitation to meet some interesting people. Avoid a serious confrontation by being willing to make compromises — don't fight 'em, join 'em!

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Make that extra effort in dealing with responsibilities involving your job and/or dependents. Express your feelings to others and keep communication lines open. Be open to a friendship that could become a productive partnership.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Indulge your adventurous spirit and you could make some remarkable discoveries! Your creativity is high, compliments are heaped upon you and an exciting new romance may be part of the picture. Past efforts are rewarded now.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Restrictions could lift now; listen to some wise counsel, take advantage of opportunities and move forward with confidence. Stay flexible in a domestic situation and don't force issues. Be more attentive to the needs of a loved one.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Listen to wise advice if contemplating a change of residence. Be realistic — translate your ideas into practical, working concepts. Your financial picture improves. Correct past errors and get ready for a new start.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Spend some time on yourself — improve your personal appearance. If you deserve a raise or promotion, now is the time to ask for it! Action and adventure are accented; you can make a bold move now that will impress others.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Seek confidential information, trust your intuition and the help you need is at hand. Your magnetism is high — follow through on your big plans and go for the brass ring! Other people could be remarkably generous to you now.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — A relationship could be restrictive because you're allowing too much dependency — is it good for either of you? Someone behind the scenes may back you financially or benefit you in other ways. Apply yourself dutifully.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Your charm and magnetism will work to great advantage with someone in authority now. Be subtle and tactful — don't force issues and you come out ahead. Get out of your rut, make new contacts and meet fascinating new people.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Trust your intuition and take advantage of a deal that could come your way. Make yourself available, combine business with pleasure and contact bright, creative people. Others are watching so keep work performance top-notch.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Any new romance now is more light-hearted than serious. Take the time to plot out your life goals and future directions. A relationship built on dependency could be reaching an end and you may come to a parting of the ways.

What About Art?

By Meredith Fife Day

A rose stretches tentatively across the teacup in Joan Lenore Jordan's black and white oil painting, giving it a delicate balance in both form and image.

Poetry in still life

There is something distinctly disarming about the paintings of Joan Lenore Jordan, now on exhibit at The Gallery at Henri IV in Cambridge.

Relatively small and without aggressiveness in color or brushmark, these fragile, humble pictures appear to evidence a genuine commitment by the artist to a world that she is both responding to and creating at the same time.

Objects are selected with thought and care, then combined, placed and painted with a feeling for their physical integrity and poetic implications.

"I am interested in both the literal and the abstract aspects of still life painting. I spend some hours composing the objects, as painting them seems meaningless unless the composition strikes me metaphorically or abstractly (in terms of the created shapes, shadows, and spaces)," explains Jordan.

Jordan's still life objects are in some ways like a cast of repertory players: they appear over and over in different roles, slightly to very changed settings, and varied combinations. A kitchen knife, an oddly wobbly ceramic horn, a delicately flowered teacup, two pears, a lace dolly, a small elegant china swan change their personalities and their emphases — their roles — as they make their appearances.

Always more than mere carriers of form, Jordan's objects are almost narrative in their presentation.

"Often I deliberately attempt to convey an idea, as in Maenad's Dresser. Then I may choose the objects for their personality. These paintings have been described as 'staged,'" says Jordan.

At other times, the literal quality of metaphor seems to come through of its own accord, or without my conscious deliberation... this aspect of art intrigues me. I also like the possibility of combining landscape and still life."

In Desert Parade, with its open space and mid-plane horizon, Jordan combines the landscape and still life in a way that both, in their altered states, have an enchantment by the other.

It is to Jordan's credit that she can invest her objects with a certain tender, gentle and caring quality while giving their presentation enough whimsy to keep them from becoming ponderous.

There is a total lack of pretense in these pictures. They are illuminated by a sense of the poetic in the context and in the painting.

The Gallery at Henri IV is located upstairs at 96 Winthrop St. in Harvard Square and is open nightly at 5:00 p.m. Call 876-5200.

Oilcolors, wire drawings

Michael Jacques of Winchester calls his pictures "oilcolors." Painted in oil on clay-coated paper, they have the fluid transparency and freshness that is more often associated with watercolor than oil painting.

"When I try to work in an opaque manner, they get kind of dull," said Jacques of his paintings at a recent gallery talk in Lexington.

Yet the artist is able to use certain techniques with the oil that would not be possible with watercolor.

For example, after the paint has been thinned down with turpentine, Jacques can "wipe out" areas that have been put down on the paper. Were he using watercolor, the porous surface of a non-coated paper would have absorbed the pigment and neither the color nor image would yield so readily to change or dissolution.

Jacques' paintings, on exhibit at Lexington's Gallery on the Green, draw from familiar Boston scenes and locations as diverse as the Dover T. Station and the Common's swan boats.

The mood changes appropriately.

Dover Station At Dawn takes on an ominous tone as dark, melancholy blues and greens are silhouetted somberly against a paler sky.

Swan boats are seen through the supports of a bridge which serves as a unifying pictorial and compositional device. The paper's white surface pushes forward in the swans' forms as the graceful boats pink bottoms float serenely on dappled, liquid blues and purples.

In addition to his paintings, Jacques exhibits open wire sculptures which he referred to as "3-dimensional drawings."

Encouraged by his sculptor brother to "get off the paper," Jacques began to use wire from a spool to "draw in the air."

The subject of these sculptures are animals, frequently pets of the artist's friends and family, and his own beagle, Barney. They are all lively, personable, and alertly observed with humor and charm.

"I'm not sure they're sculptures, so I think of them as wire drawings," explained Jacques. Admitting having been "enamored" of sculptor Alexander Calder's circus series, Jacques saw Calder as "a guy playing seriously."

Indeed, when Jacques talked of "drawing in the air" with the "liquid line" of his wire, one sensed the "play" of his work a very important component in the process of creating both the flat and 3-dimensional pieces.

Light and airy, with recurring moments of wit, Jacques' sense of play comes through in the finished works as well.

Gallery on the Green is located at 1837 Massachusetts Ave. in Lexington. Hours are 10 to 5 Tuesday through Saturday. Call 861-6044.

What To Do

Hostage balances tragedy, comedy

By CATHY MCCARRON

Director Nora Hussey's adaptation of Brendan Behan's The Hostage, playing through July 19 at the Village Coach House in Brookline, walks the fine line between the sublime and the ridiculous, and keeps its balance.

The Irish-born director has transformed the attic of the Village Coach House restaurant into a shabby Dublin boarding house whose renters include prostitutes, a transvestite, and an old war hero wearing a kiln and bagpipes.

With bawdy humor, a smattering of storytelling, song and dance, and laments, The Hostage yields the tragic-comic essence that is Ireland itself.

The characters' ale-induced laughter floats on their tears for Ireland's sorrowful situation which is brought home when their rooming house is chosen to harbor a young English prisoner captured by the IRA to counterbalance the impending execution of an Irish lad in Belfast.

The characterization of a naive English soldier, (Scott Dienstbier), allows The Hostage to mock the absurdity of English-Irish politics. The youth knows not why he has been taken and says "in London, there are thousands of Irish, and no one bothers them."

But that is life in senseless, war-torn Ireland, a futility that Hussey dramatically emphasizes through sparse staging and an intimate theater whose size makes the characters' plight tangible.

As Leon Uris once wrote of Ireland, "there is no future, only history repeating itself." Brendan Behan sadly brings that to life in his timeless work, The Hostage.

What's Healthy? Getting Ready For Giving Blood

What should you expect when you give blood?

When you go to give blood for the first time, be prepared for a fairly thorough screening involving questions and an assortment of simple tests.

First, the kinds of questions that the American Red Cross requires of its donors: They will ask your age, since donors must usually be between 17 and 65.

Also a series of medical questions will be asked, including whether you have ever had jaundice, hepatitis, malaria or heart disease.

They will also inquire if you take self-injected drugs because of the hazards this can pose to potential recipients of the blood.

The growing threat of AIDS has brought about another series of questions.

Some of these are: have you had night sweats? Unexplained fever or weight loss? Lumps in the neck, armpits or groin? Discolored areas of the skin or mouth? Persistent cough, or persistent diarrhea?

The tests are simple and harmless.

Your temperature, pulse, blood pressure and weight are taken — and not once, but twice by two different people.

If both the medical history and the tests reveal no problems and you weigh over 110 pounds, you'll normally be allowed to give a pint of blood.

What frightens most people, however, is not the questioning or simple tests administered, but rather the needle inserted for drawing blood.

Such fears are usually exaggerated in the person's mind, especially if giving blood is a new experience.

All Red Cross volunteers who draw blood are registered nurses experienced in drawing blood as painlessly as possible.

The only pain most people experience is a slight prick when the needle is inserted — but that lasts for just a few seconds.

Once the needle is in place, you will be asked to squeeze a ball or bicycle grip to help the blood flow into the bag.

Most people fill the pint container in 15 to 20 minutes. Afterwards you will rest for 10 minutes, eat a pastry, and drink juice, soda or water.

You will be asked to drink plenty of fluids and to eat good meals for the rest of the day.

You will also be told not to do anything too strenuous and to get a good night's sleep.

Giving blood involves careful screening to protect the donor as well as the recipient.

If you have never given blood, the experience won't only be different, it will also be life giving.

SPECIFY WHAT STAYS OR GOES WITH A HOUSE

The Purchase & Sale contract may be the most important document in the sale of a home. In order to save a lot of aggravation, post-sale bickering, and possible law suits, the gray area of which items will stay with the house and which the Seller will take away should be spelled out specifically in the contract.

Know the difference between chattels which can be picked up and moved without leaving nail holes, and fixtures which have been attached with the intention of their becoming part of the real estate. The Buyer expects fixtures to remain with the property.

Items like wall-to-wall carpeting, smoke alarms, and fireplace equipment should be specified as remaining as fixtures or being taken as chattels in the contract to avoid confusion.

Two commonly troublesome items are the TV antenna and fancy lighting fixtures; people form strong emotional attachments to chandeliers. Rather than get bogged down over such matters, simply make sure your offer stipulates that all fixtures remain except specific ones you're willing to up to the Seller.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee.

Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

Good News for the Weekend Mechanic

Audi 5000S Sedan

If you do your own repair work, do the job right with genuine Audi replacement parts. First of all, they fit, so if you take your Audi apart Saturday morning, you know the parts you bought will get you back on the road without another trip. Second, every part has a 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty. At Audi, we care as much about your car as you do.

Toxic waste group asks old-timers' help

By MAUREEN QUINAN

The newly formed toxic waste committee will ask longtime residents to identify possible hazardous sites around town.

The committee, formed as a result of a spring town meeting vote, Tuesday night briefly discussed plans to deal with potential hazardous toxic waste in town.

Before the board schedules a public hearing, it will invite several longtime residents to the next meeting. The residents, familiar with potential toxic waste sites, will include former chairman of selectmen Mike Saraco, town meeting member Mike Connolly and planning board member Dan Chane.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 5, in the board of selectmen's room at town hall.

Director of Public Health Joe Tabbi suggested inviting a Department of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE) employee to provide guidelines for identifying and dealing with toxic sites.

"Where do we start? We could conceivably go around town checking every piece of land. We need a boundary," said Deering.

In the next couple of months at least one public hearing will allow residents to air their concerns about waste sites.

Selectman Bob Deering, a committee member, suggested identifying probable waste sites and bringing to full town meeting a request for funds for testing.

Member Robert Dewald said, "I think we have to do a lot of library work and also talk to people who have lived in town 50 or 60 years and know about the industries that were operating back then."

"Where do we start? We could conceivably go around town checking every piece of land. We need a boundary," said Deering.

Member Dr. Warren Taylor, chairman of the board of health, said the focus will be on the downtown area because of industry growth.

Dewald said, "My personal concern is to make sure we don't have any contamination sites near the schools."

He cited Hudson Industries as a threat because it is near Muraco School's playground. The Hudson site, off Cross Street, was a concern at spring town meeting. Developer Angelo Marotta hopes to build 72 condominium units on the site. Selectmen tabled the proposal after Marotta's presentation in March.

No action can be taken until November's town meeting because a change of zoning would have to be approved.

"We need to make sure we look at all school playgrounds to determine those are safe from waste," he said.

Deering suggested informing the public of what toxic waste is and its potential hazards.

The board briefly discussed the board of health's authority in looking at privately owned properties. Until more research is done, the board will defer a decision.

The committee wrapped up business early, just in time to see Red Sox Roger Clemens throw the first pitch of the all star game.

But tests say beach is safe

Leonard Beach, the town-owned swimming beach on the Abenona River, is safe from bacteria and toxic chemicals.

The state Department of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE) and the town board of health reached the same conclusion after recent tests, both said the area is safe.

The beach's proximity to the former Hudson Industries hazardous waste site on Cross Street has caused worry, said Joe Tabbi, health director for the town.

Soil at the Hudson site contains high levels of metal, especially arsenic, chromium and mercury. Citizens have worried about possible contamination of the river and the swimming area.

Tabbi said several recent visits to the pool were made with a representative of the DEQE.

"Based on environmental inspection, taking into consideration hydrologic and geologic factors, the DEQE engineer felt there would be no problem with contamination of this site from the Hudson Industries property," Tabbi said.

Soil at the Hudson site contains

Nonetheless, the board of health and DEQE conducted tests of the water and sediments at Leonard Beach. Samples of groundwater from a well used to supplement Leonard Pool and of sediment from the perimeter of the pond were tested.

According to DEQE, metal concentrations in groundwater samples were below the levels for drinking water as set by the federal Clean Waters Act.

No standards exist for metal concentrations in soil sediments, but DEQE concluded sediments in the soil in the Leonard Beach area are in the range considered to represent background (naturally-occurring) levels.

"As a result, DEQE determined that there does not appear to be any public health threat due to metal contamination of Leonard Pond's sediments or water," Tabbi said.

The board of health has been monitoring Leonard Pond each week for bacteriological quality and has found levels well below state standards for bathing beaches. Tabbi said.

Marotta 'disappointed' as Journalist-in-Space ends

Terry Marotta of Winchester, one of 40 national finalists for a ride on the space shuttle, will have to wait several years for her chance.

Marotta's column has been published weekly since 1980 in The Winchester Star.

The "Journalist-in-Space Project" has been put "on hold" for several years, according to Eric Johnson, director of the project for the Association of Schools of Journalism and Mass Communication.

"I'm disappointed," Marotta said. "But I'm going to stay in the program."

Marotta was first chosen as one of 100 final candidates and then named as one of the 40 remaining national finalists.

"The experience has been very good," she said Monday. "I've learned a lot through the process and read a lot of material about space."

The free-lance journalist, whose weekly column began in The Winchester Star, said she would write to Johnson this week.

"I'm going to tell him that I'm still interested. I'm going to be living at the same address for the next 50 years, so when they're ready, they can call," she said.

The National Space and Aeronautics Administration (NASA), the subject of much criticism since the explosion of the space shuttle Challenger in February, said it would not resume the Journalist-in-Space program "until NASA is able to identify a definite mission which could include a journalist participant."

Earlier, the 40 finalists were to be interviewed in Washington this fall in the next step of the process.

Marotta said the process of selection, which included interviews with many journalists, had one fringe benefit.

"My column is running in the metropolitan dailies in Indianapolis and Minneapolis now," she said. More than 60 other papers also use the column Marotta writes each week in Winchester.

Hospital neighbors worry about past, future projects

By GEORGE DERRINGER

Tension between Winchester Hospital renovation programs and the hospital's neighbors flared again Monday night as neighbors brought their worries to selectmen.

Sally Kincaid, chairman of the "Neighborhood Study Group" in the area, said the hospital violated town by-laws at 6:30 a.m. June 20 when a contractor hired by the hospital blocked a road with bark mulch.

That incident had been resolved, she said, but "our deeper concern arises from the fact that the hospital is beginning a series of building and reconstruction projects that will extend over the next few years."

"We believe a timely discussion of methods to prevent further violations of the town's by-laws is needed," Kincaid said.

The neighborhood group has met with Charles Briva, project director for the hospital, several times and had "strenuous" discussions, she said.

Kincaid told selectmen any construction project in town should be more carefully monitored "by laws," she said.

"Construction means dumpsters, heavy trucks, more traffic, piling of materials and more noise," she said. "The town by-laws are the only protection for our quality of life."

She said other neighborhoods shared her concerns, particularly when a major construction project is underway. But the hospital neighborhood is unique, she said, because "the hospital is now in its second decade of construction."

"The impact on this neighborhood is particularly severe. There is no buffer zone and no green space. When the hospital hiccups, the neighborhood hears it," she said.

Wade Welch, chairman of the selectmen, recalled that he is a member of a group which supported to the hospital's request for a state "certificate of need" for expansion.

"I regard the hospital as a valuable community resource," he said.

"That's unchallenged," Kincaid said.

Town manager Chad Maurer described the incident leading to the complaint as part of a beautification program but said an eager contractor started too early in the morning.

The hospital and the neighborhood generally agree not to work before 7 a.m. after 5 p.m. or on weekends.

Maurer said the hospital had contracted with the police department for traffic control at the site.

The contractor, however, was (Please see HOSPITAL, page 18)

Hattie Osborne, 102, seated, received the Boston Post cane last week at her home at the Aberjona Nursing Home. On hand for the official presentation of the cane, given to Winchester's eldest citizen since given to the town by the old Boston Post newspaper more than 60 years ago, were Dorothy Osborne, left, daughter of the recipient, and selectman Judie Muggia. All of Woburn Loop won't be sold by fall's town meeting

By GEORGE DERRINGER

Too many questions and too few quick answers mean only part of the Woburn Loop may be ready to sell by the Nov. 3 town meeting.

More than three years after the town voted to acquire the abandoned railroad right-of-way, selectmen began discussing its disposition Monday night but found more questions than answers.

Selectmen quickly agreed on only one point: The Loop should be sold, not leased.

But other passages in a rough draft of a "request for proposals" were much less settled. Town engineer Jake Garcia wrote the draft "to start the process."

Some selectmen favored disposing of the entire property, stretching from Skillings Road to Cross Street, at one time. Others said dividing the area into two sections, north and south of Swanton Street, would make disposition easier.

Selectman Bob Deering said the draft's suggestion that the town "will be responsible to obtain any necessary zoning changes" for buyers was a poor idea.

"The bidder should have the property with the knowledge he must apply for any zoning changes," Deering said.

The draft also says the town would look most favorably upon bids which seek to exchange housing sites for all or part of the Loop.

"The bidder should have the property with the knowledge he must apply for any zoning changes," Deering said.

The draft also says the town would look most favorably upon bids which seek to exchange housing sites for all or part of the Loop.

Selectmen quickly agreed on only one point: The Loop should be sold, not leased.

But other passages in a rough draft of a "request for proposals" were much less settled. Town engineer Jake Garcia wrote the draft "to start the process."

Some selectmen favored disposing of the entire property, stretching from Skillings Road to Cross Street, at one time. Others said dividing the area into two sections, north and south of Swanton Street, would make disposition easier.

Selectman Bob Deering said the draft

Police arrest Arlington woman on OUI charges

Police arrested an 27-year-old Arlington woman for operating under the influence of alcohol on Cambridge Street near the Winchester Boat Club at 2:20 a.m. July 11.

Police stopped a silver Renault Fuego after observing the car swerve across the marked yellow lines on the road.

Officer Eric A. Benson Jr. arrested Jacqueline A. McCarthy on charges of operating under the influence, failure to stay in marked lanes and driving without registration in her possession.

McCarthy was bailed for appearance at Fourth District Court in Woburn. She is due back in court in two weeks.

Monday, July 14

At 3:34 a.m., police responded to a breaking and entering on Harvard Street. Stolen was a $400 VCR from the living room. Entry was gained through a dining room window. The incident is under investigation.

At 1 p.m., police cited a Woburn man for driving an unregistered car south on Forest Street. The car was towed.

At 9:06 p.m., a 1979 Cadillac Eldorado was stolen from a Taft Circle driveway.

At 8:45 p.m., an Everett Avenue resident told police someone broke into two of his cars and stole a $700 camera, a $250 camera, a $325 pair of binoculars and a $250 digital depth finder.

At 11:45 p.m., a Burlington resident told police someone struck the left front fender of his car while it was parked on West Chardon Street. The incident happened between 7:30 and 11:45 p.m.

Sunday, July 13

WINCHESTER REAL ESTATE TODAY

GRANTEE/GRANTOR WHO'S WHO

In our columns, we write for the general public. Therefore we always refer to buyers and sellers because readers understand this and that's all that counts. However, when you read over legal documents concerned with the purchase or sale of real estate, or if you happen to pick up a book on real estate written from a legal point of view—you'll often see the words grantor or grantee which refer to the same parties. You will also see the shortened word "grant" used often. It deserves an explanation.

A grant is the transfer of real estate by a written contract. A private grant is the transfer of real property from one person to another. A public grant is the transfer of property from a government to a person.

A grantor is a person who transfers real estate by deed. In other words, the grantor is the seller.

A grantee is a person who receives real estate by deed. You guessed it—the grantee is the buyer.

Thank You Winchester Savings

There's more than one way to finance an education!

With educational expenses on the rise and financial assistance more restrictive, families are looking for alternatives to pay for school. At Winchester Savings Bank, you'll find loans specifically for students... loans for parents of students... and even loans for students or parents who own homes. And in most cases, there are no restrictions on age, the type of school you're attending (or plan to attend), or if you're a half-time or full-time student.

HELP Loans: Administered by the Massachusetts Higher Education Assistance Corporation, this federally sponsored program offers low-interest loans to undergraduate and graduate students. Parents are not required to co-sign, the first payment is deferred until after graduation and you have up to 10 years to repay.

PLUS Loans: This is also a locally administered, federally sponsored program that offers below-market rates to parents of dependent undergraduate students as well as to independent undergraduate and graduate students. Payments start within 45 days and the repayment period is negotiated.

Home Equity Lines of Credit: With a Winchester Savings Bank Home Equity Line of Credit, homeowners can use the equity in their homes to pay for the cost of education... or for whatever else they want. Lines of credit are available up to $150,000.

To find out more about financing your education, call 729-2130 or visit any office of Winchester Savings Bank.

Workers from the Boston and Maine Railroad install a pigeon net under the Waterfield Road bridge to prevent birds from roosting there. Action by the board of health, state officials and the railroad resulted in the installation of wire netting between the bridge's girders to make it safer to walk under the bridge. Selectmen change rules for sewer pipe connections

By GEORGE DERRINGER

After weeks of wrangling, Winchester selectmen voted unanimously Monday to require sewer connections through a 10-foot length of cast iron pipe.

Several town department heads offered conflicting views on the question, although state plumbing codes allow either cast iron or poly-vinyl chloride (PVC) entry pipes.

Selectman Bob Deering said he was unconvinced requiring cast iron would be either enforceable or a benefit to the town.

Selectman Frank Sopper, however, said Jim Courchaine, head of the water and sewer division of the department of public works, is "our resident expert."

Courchaine said he "would prefer 10 feet of cast iron coming through the foundation as has been the past practice."

In the end, selectmen voted to concur.

Selectmen also amended the proposed new sewer regulation to allow no exceptions. In its first draft, the new regulation would have allowed exceptions by the director of public works.

Selectman Mark Lombardi said the regulation should allow exceptions only with approval of selectmen but most of his counterparts said they didn't want to "get into the plumbing business."

In other business, selectmen:

- Promised to decide within two weeks whether to paint a new crosswalk on Waterfield Road, across from the post office. Peggy Schleicher appeared at the meeting to ask for the crosswalk. Most selectmen seemed to agree it would be a good idea.

- Granted a staging permit for a new awning to Lawrence Davis, who is purchasing the Continental Cow at 32 Church St. He will change the name to Davis Fine Foods and expand the specialty food store's stock, Davis said.
- Sopper asked, "Are canopies a way of getting around our sign-by-laws?" He wondered if the laws might need to be changed but voted in favor of the staging permit. Davis will return to the board to ask for a common victualler's license.
- Approved a petition from Boston Edison to install underground service to 611 Main St. Work will be complete before the street is repaved.
- Granted permission for the Winston Club to use the town hall auditorium for its annual cabaret show Jan. 26-31, 1987. Town hall interior renovations will not begin before then.
- Agreed to put about 2,000 cubic yards of material taken from the Aberjona River banks in the Swanton Street area at Wildwood Cemetery. Ralph Johnson, chairman of the cemetery advisory committee, said the material would be beneficial, provided it is neither contaminated nor stockpiled. It should be spread immediately, he said.
- Material will be produced when an anti-erosion project is done in the riverbank area.

- Decided to have weeds removed from Mystic Lakes taken to the transfer station and added to the pile of other grasses and organic material there. Work will begin in late August or early September.
- Granted a staging permit to Evangelos Horiatas for extending the brick front on 564 Main St., which houses Heritage Trail Antiques and Colonial Travel, to 550 Main St., which is home to Simms Jewelers, a flower shop and a vacuum cleaner repair shop.
- Agreed to submit the Winchester Center improvement project to the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities for consideration in the first "Governor's Design Awards" competition.
- Learned that Gerard Polcari has been elected chairman of the finance committee and Lorna Tseckares has been elected vice chairman.
- Congratulated Alan Macdonald on his election as the third member of the town's retirement board. Other members are town controller Joe Bonner and Charles R. McNutt.
- Received a letter from Roger Berman, chairman of the town's fair housing committee, criticizing delays in implementing the low- and moderate-income housing program approved by town meeting.

Berman said the housing oversight committee should be formed immediately. Selectmen responded by naming the committee, which will have its first meeting at 7:45 p.m. Monday, July 21, at town hall.

Committee members, all town meeting members, are James Tedesco, Eva Arnett, Thomas Schmitt, Patricia Wells, David Mortenson, Robert Frank, Alice Warren, Gordon Grant and John Wile.

- Officially dissolved the old town hall advisory committee, which has been replaced with a new project oversight committee created by town meeting.
- Accepted an invitation to the dedication of the Robert M. Winn Square at 10 a.m. Saturday, July 26. The square is at the intersection of Main and Swanton streets.
- Presented two ideas to town manager Maurer for comment next week. Lombardi suggested the department of public works should be reorganized and Sopper said the building commissioner's and assistant building commissioner's positions should be replaced by one building commissioner and one "zoning administrator" whose sole job would be to enforce zoning by-laws.
- Decided to put a long list of reports from the dog officer on the agenda for the July 21 meeting.

CRUISING FOR A SAVINGS

Comparing cruises and cruise ships is difficult. There are, however, some basic strategies that can provide a foundation for an intelligent selection. Size is important because it is generally true that the more space there is per passenger, the more comfortable is the ship. The number of crew members per passenger also is important. A wise traveler compares per diem costs with the price of duplicating the itinerary by alternate means. That is, one should compare the amount it would cost to fly to the same ports, stay at local hotels, and buy all one's meals. These figures and comparisons are available from your travel agent and are a good indication as to why cruises have become so popular.

Whether a cruise is in your future or you are considering White Water River Rafting FAIR WINDS TOURS, LTD. can handle all your travel arrangements. It's not necessary to travel to the far west. Weekend trips from Boston are available to both the Kennebec and Penobscot Rivers in Maine. Ask for the details. Keep in mind there is never any charge to you for taking advantage of our knowledge in the world of travel. We are located at 165 Washington St., 721-2095. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30.

One of the prime lures of ocean travel is that the cost of a cruise is all-inclusive.

Thomas Raleigh promoted by Price Waterhouse firm

Former Winchester resident and accomplished athlete Thomas L. Raleigh Jr., has been appointed co-chairman of operations and deputy senior partner of Price Waterhouse, according to Joseph E. Connor, chairman and senior partner of the firm.

Raleigh, a Winchester resident from 1957 until his recent appointment, was formerly responsible for the firm's Northeast region and partner-in-charge of the Price Waterhouse Boston office.

Raleigh succeeds John W. Zick, who is retiring. Residing in the firm's national headquarters office in New York City, Raleigh will serve as chairman of the operating committee and will direct planning and development of the firm's 100 U.S. offices. In addition, he will be responsible for the national finance and human resources activities of the firm.

"Raleigh has demonstrated a deep commitment to Price Waterhouse and outstanding administrative and strategic planning expertise. His plans to enhance the firm's human resources, financial planning, and computer capabilities will generate significant growth opportunities for the firm and our clients," Connor said.

Raleigh joined the Price Waterhouse Boston office in 1953. In 1958 he was selected to participate in the managers' exchange program in Australia and in 1962 was admitted to the firm's partnership. Raleigh was appointed partner-in-charge of the Boston office in 1972. He became a member of the Price Waterhouse policy board in 1973 and a member of the management committee in 1981.

While in Winchester, Raleigh served as president of the Princeton Association of New England, the New England Lawn Tennis Association, the Youth Tennis Foundation of New England, and the Longwood Cricket Club, among other positions. He was also a member of the United Way cabinet and the Thorndike Pond Conservation Association board of directors.

In addition to his professional and civic accomplishments, Raleigh has developed a reputation as a tennis player. He has won many singles and doubles titles on the New York and New England tennis circuits and was ranked in the top five in men's singles and 35- and 45-and-over categories in New England.

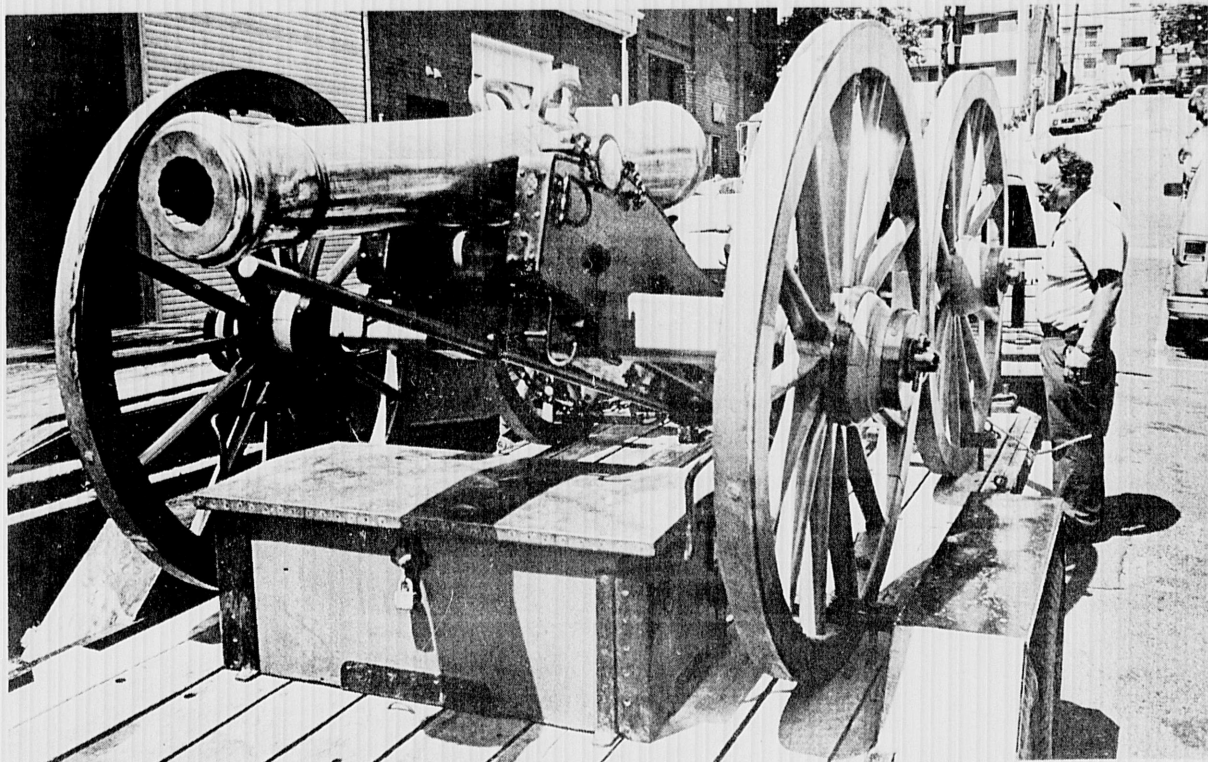

He received his bachelor's degree in economics from Princeton University in 1950 and a master's degree in business administration in accounting from Syracuse University Graduate School of Management in 1951.

Raleigh and his wife Ann reside in New York City. They have four children: Thomas III, Katherine, Nancy and John.

Price Waterhouse is a firm of independent accountants and tax and management consultants.

Richard Lopez, left, of Winchester is given a Joseph L. Dorsey Award by Thomas O. Pyle, president of Harvard Community Health Plan, during a recent awards dinner. The honor is bestowed annually upon individual staff members for "excellence, commitment and extraordinary effort on behalf of Harvard Plan and its members." Lopez is a chief of internal medicine at the health maintenance organization's Medford center.

Cannons rolled through Winchester streets Friday morning as Peter Jorgensen, former publisher of The Winchester Star and five other Century Newspapers, removed three of his biggest prize antique cannons from the Star building. Peter and Kay Jorgensen are still publishing several specialty magazines dealing with antique firearms and cannons, and the Civil War.

Anti-burglary tips offered

Since summer is a prime vacation time away from the home, warm weather holidays may turn into burglars' workdays.

"The likelihood of homes being robbed in the summer is 15 to 25 percent higher than during the remainder of the year," says Richard L. Sampson, president of the Massachusetts Security Contractors Association. He offers the following precautions.

- Don't discuss vacation plans publicly, but do inform neighbors and close friends of vacation itinerary.
- Don't leave the house looking "turned off." Window shades should not be uniformly closed.
- Lamps should be set on timers at different times. Also, outside lights left on for three consecutive days are great signs for potential burglars.

• Keep telephone answering machine messages ambiguous. "I can't come to the phone right now. Please leave your message and I'll call you back as soon as I'm available" suggests to the caller that someone may be home at that moment, in one hour or in one month.

• Also, use business addresses on luggage tags since burglars proof airport departing baggage sections for suitcases with home addresses.

• Most important, law enforcement officials, locksmiths and electronic security experts agree that good locks and good alarm systems work hand-in-hand to protect homes from burglary.

Natural family planning class set

St. Barbara's rectory, 138 Cambridge Rd., Woburn, will begin natural family planning classes at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 19.

Classes will provide information about planning or postponing pregnancy by identifying the days when conception is possible. The natural methods are as effective as any method of birth control when used properly, class organizers say. These methods may be used by women in all phases of childbearing years.

Sessions will be conducted once a month for four consecutive months. To register, call St. Elizabeth's Hospital, department of community health services at 789-2430.

Frieda Lang honored by Medford schools

Frieda A. Lang, local clinical and counseling psychologist, was recently honored at a dinner sponsored by the special education department of the Medford Public Schools.

Lang has worked in Medford for 23 years, first as a counselor and in the last 10 years as a psychologist. She was presented with a citation from the Massachusetts legislature and another from the City of Medford for outstanding service.

As a city-wide psychologist, her work focused on treating children with various learning problems by counseling their parents. She has led many parent groups as well as working with parents individually.

Lang has written "Parent Group Counseling: A Guidebook" for counselors who wish to work with parent groups. She has also written several articles and was editor of The Parent Counseling Association Journal for one year.

She was president for two terms of The Parent Counseling Association of New England and currently is a member of the executive board of the New England Psychological Association. She is also a member of the American Psychological Association, the Massachusetts Psychological Association and the American Association for Counseling and Development.

Lang holds three degrees, including a doctorate, from Boston University. She has also worked as a teacher, principal, and counselor in schools in Norwalk and Stamford, Conn., Marshfield and Quincy.

She is currently associated with the local Counseling Resource Center, and resides with her husband William and son Andrew in Winchester.

Katherine Welch, center, of Winchester received the "Volunteer of the Year" award at the annual Volunteers Association luncheon at New England Rehabilitation Hospital in Woburn. The presentation speech was made by William Allard of Burlington, director of special services. At right is Shirley Lundin of Woburn, a member of the medical records department, where the volunteer of the year served for many years.

AFS exchange student says Malaysia has pleasant odor

By ERIC MORTENSEN
Special to the Star

The first thing I noticed in Malaysia, besides heat, was the aroma. All 17 American Field Service (AFS) students noticed it instantly outside the airport.

We had all been on airplanes for 28 hours, anticipating an introduction to our summer home. But the smell was incomparable to anything I had encountered, subtly beautiful and strong.

I think it's caused by the perpetual humidity but it first seemed like a mix of sweet-smelling smoke, fruit and freshness. None of these elements was either dominant or positively identified.

I will never forget this aroma. Welcome to Asia.

I sit here writing and sweating, wearing only a "surong," a traditional Malay skirt. I have been in Malaysia for 10 days and it seems like months.

I have been staying with a Malaysian family through AFS, an international program designed to give students total immersion in a foreign culture. The program is certainly effective.

AFS is new in Winchester and is looking for people with open minds and imaginations to join for a year or a summer.

But this is definitely no vacation. First I received an orientation in the States, in my case in New York. Volunteers there do a good job of scaring you by emphasizing that you will be alone in a totally new world.

You are naive in regards to the new culture and it's no joke.

Once you arrive, it's incredible. It's not all fun and games and there are ups and downs, but it's endlessly fascinating.

During orientation at Universiti Malaya, I discovered a bizarre form of hell — I got sick. The beautiful smell was gone. For more than 24 hours I was in too much pain to move. I lost all track of time and reality, but I think it was more than 24 hours!

Anuar, our chaperone, gave me a medicated drink and put some salve on my temples. I soon recovered, though it was still some time until I was back to normal. Then the heat turned evil.

That all sounds bad, but it's expected that your body may go through some difficulty adjusting to new food and new insect bites. But when my "family" picked me up, things instantly turned around and I was introduced to a spectacular equatorial country.

Malaysia is composed of three races, the Malays, the Indians and the Chinese. The Malays are Islamic and stay with other Malays.

The Chinese, who are Buddhists, stick together and the Hindu Indians associate mainly with other Indians. These races do, however, live in harmony.

I live with a Malay family in a kampung (village) in Selangor, a province in West Malaysia.

Malays are interesting people. They are beautiful in a unique and different way. I compare them to a Japanese fan. When folded, they are not special and easily go unnoticed.

But if enough time is provided and you take observant and outgoing steps, the fan will unfold, crease by crease, to reveal a vibrant and exquisite image, full of confidence.

If, on the other hand, the fan is ignored, it reverts to an unimaginative still life in but a flick of a wrist. I am determined not to let this happen to my view of the Malay culture, which is fascinating and strongly tied to devout Islamic belief.

As a group, the 17 AFS students in Malaysia are strung together in a fine spider web. Each string is important and supports all others, but each string is also strong individually. A stimulus sends ripples over the whole web.

I personally feel extremely accepted and I often imagine myself as the spider, connecting and keeping things together, although I know the web will still be sturdy in my absence.

This analogy represents my new friends in AFS, whom I will meet again at the end of the summer.

Sunsets here are fantastic. As the red globe passes below the jungle wall of palm trees, the evening sky takes on a pink pastel tint. Shadows of monumental clouds fade into darkness as the night comes to life.

(Eric Mortensen will be a junior at Winchester High School in the fall. He is the son of David and Jean Mortensen and is spending the summer in Malaysia as an American Field Service summer exchange student. The Winchester AFS chapter was organized last fall.)

Rebecca Lynch, left, and Caitlin Butler are appropriately clad at the Winchester Public Library's first "Pajama Storytime" of the summer July 8. Other such events are scheduled at 7 p.m. July 22, Aug. 5 and Aug. 19.

Hospital support groups address common needs

"You're not alone."

That's the message Winchester Hospital support groups share with patients, and their families and friends, who face a major illness or new stresses.

Through the social services department, the hospital offers individual support groups for cancer patients, parents who face the loss of a newborn, families who must adapt to the changing needs of an aging relative and parents of asthmatic children who wonder if the disease limits their children's abilities.

"While each of these groups is different, all address the common need to share problems with others who face a similar experience," according to social workers Jeanne Dube and Barbara Bryant, leaders of the Cancer Support Group.

The group has met twice a month for over six years. "We still have one of the original patients who started with the group. Even though she's in remission from her disease, she comes to the group to give and receive support," Dube said.

Patients and their families who attend the group get the chance to voice their concerns about how a patient's disease affects his or her life, whether it means facing the uncertainty of cancer, the problems of frequent hospitalization, dealing with the side effects of therapy or learning about the practical aspects of a good diet or where good community resources can be found.

The group also gives patients a chance to express feelings they might not let out at home. One patient, a 40-year-old woman who is the divorced mother of three teenagers, told Dube she likes to attend the group because "This is my chance to vent my anger about having cancer," without worrying my family."

Members of HOPE, or Help Other Parents Endure, share experiences with other parents who have gone through a miscarriage or lost a new infant.

The group, headed by Bryant, is attended by both mothers and fathers and has met monthly for over four years. "Some parents attend only once or twice, while other members stay with the group throughout the mother's next pregnancy as a means of continued support," she said.

In addition to the group discussion, HOPE members publish a quarterly newsletter, have a telephone support network to answer questions of other parents and offer a list of library resources about coping with the death of a new infant.

Another Winchester Hospital group certain to gain in importance as it reflects the needs of an aging population is "You and Your Aging Relative," led by nurse Dorothy Roemer.

Roemer, who started the monthly group in 1981 as part of her work in completing a master's degree in counseling, said middle-aged children of elderly parents can obtain several benefits from attending the group.

Some of the main reasons individuals attend the group are: to better understand their parents' behavior; to avoid panicking in a crisis situation; and to vent anger and learn to improve the relationship while maintaining a sense of priorities in their lives.

Many in the group are middle-aged women who have always been seen as the caretaker. They find themselves "sandwiched" between their parents and their own children's needs, often not attending to their own, Roemer said.

She cited the case of one woman whose elderly father constantly monopolized her time once he moved in with her so that she rarely got to be alone with her husband or children. The woman felt guilty about approaching her father with the problem.

"She received the 'okay' from the group to have the courage to say she wanted some time to herself. She needed the group's support to know she deserved her own time," Roemer said.

One emphasis of the group is that members are encouraged to let their elderly parents remain responsible for their own decisions as long as possible. The children should not feel guilty about setting clear limits on how much they can do for an aging parent, Roemer noted.

One of the newer support groups at the hospital is PAK, or Parents with Asthmatic Kids, headed by social services director Elizabeth Kenney.

The group focuses on educating parents about their child's disease and often features staff physicians as speakers and discussion leaders. Past meetings have addressed defining asthma in children, how allergies play a role in the disease, the use of drug therapies and psycho-social aspects of the disease.

"We're here to tell parents what resources are available for their child," Kenney said.

Anyone interested in joining a Winchester Hospital support group should call the social services department at 729-9000, ext. 3104, for the fall schedule. All of the groups are free of charge.

Library begins compact disc collection program

Compact discs have arrived at the Winchester Public Library, with 60 classical, rock, jazz, and country music titles forming the nucleus of the library's newest collection.

Additional titles in all categories have been ordered and should arrive soon.

In many record stores, compact discs sales already rival those of traditional record albums. The discs, about the size of a 45-rpm record, are played on a special player which uses a laser beam to "read" microscopic pits on the aluminum surface of the disc and reproduce the sound.

Compact discs offer several advantages to the library and its patrons. The quality of the recorded sound is usually much better on discs than on records and tapes because all the mechanical problems of sound reproduction have been eliminated.

In addition, because compact disc players do not touch its surface, the disc cannot be scratched or damaged during play. This means that the 20th person to check out the CD from the library will hear the same quality sound the first user got. Compact discs are sturdier, so the library will not have to replace them as it does scratched or warped record albums.

The library will purchase records, audio cassettes and CDs for the audio-video collection. Patron use of the three formats will determine the proportion of the budget used to purchase each type of recording in the future. Patrons who wish to recommend purchase of a particular title in any format are urged to do so by filling out a request form at the library's reference desk.

The initial group of titles include works by an eclectic group of artists and composers including Glenn Miller, Bach, Handel, Vivaldi, Stravinsky, Aretha Franklin, Bruce Springsteen, Willie Nelson, Van Morrison, Joan Baez, Joe Jackson and various Windham Hill artists.

Compact discs are stored with the audio cassettes, near the circulation desk, and will circulate for two weeks, just as record albums and audio tapes do.

Reel entertainment

Tonight's entry in the library's Alec Guinness Film Festival is "Last Holiday." Guinness plays the part of a man with six weeks to live. He determines to go out with a bang, to make his final weeks the best of his life. The film is a comedy-tragedy with an unexpected twist at the end.

Other films in the series include: July 24, "The Man in the White Suit"; July 31, "The Ladykillers"; and Aug. 7, "The Lavender Hill Mob."

"Last Holiday" will be shown at 7 p.m. in the meeting room. The film is free (so is the popcorn) and open to the public.

Winchester Public Library children's librarian Joan Barron reads to a group of pre-school children during the first "Pajama Storytime" July 8 at the library. Additional pajama storytimes are scheduled at 7 p.m. July 22, Aug. 5 and Aug. 19. (Wes Schmale photo)

ABOUT TOWN

Breenan promoted to executive VP

John J. Breenan, son of Francis P. and Mary G. Breenan, 36 Central St., was recently promoted to executive vice president of Vanguard Group, Inc., Valley Forge, Pa.

Vanguard Group is a mutual fund and investment company with total assets exceeding $20 billion, and is one of the largest funds in the country.

Breenan is a 1972 graduate of Winchester High School, where he played soccer, hockey and lacrosse. He continued his participation in these varsity sports at Dartmouth College.

After working at New York Bank for Savings for two years, he attended the Harvard Business School, from which he graduated in 1980.

He now lives with his wife Catherine and two children at St. Davids, Pa.

Six on Suffolk dean's list

Six Winchester students were named to the dean's honor list at Suffolk University in Boston for the spring semester.

They include recent graduates Charlene J. Pelleriti, Kathleen M. Cogan and Lori A. Jackson, current seniors Mario J. Pelleriti and Salvatore Giacalone and junior Scott R. Nolan.

Beth Nowell earns Marquette honors

Beth Nowell of 68 Nelson St., a freshman at Marquette University in Milwaukee, was named to the school's dean's list for the spring semester.

Marquette students must maintain a grade point average of 3.5 to win the honor.

Parsignault on dean's list

Berklee College of Music announces that Jennifer C. Parsignault, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Parsignault of Winchester, has earned placement on the Berklee College of Music dean's list for the spring semester.

Upon graduation from Berklee, Parsignault, who is majoring in music production/engineering, will quality as a multi-skilled professional able to respond to a variety of musical challenges.

Three admitted to Supreme Court

William Burke O'Leary and Cheryl Sbarra O'Leary of 29 Vine St., and David G. Saliba of 3 Lagrange St. were among 75 Suffolk University Law School alumni admitted to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court in a special admissions session in Washington, D.C., May 19.

The group was presented to the court by Herbert Lemelman, associate dean of Suffolk Law School.

Merrimack names two to dean's list

Kathleen Anne Mortenson and Nancy Marie Shannon, both of Winchester, have been named to the spring 1986 dean's list at Merrimack College in North Andover.

Mortenson is a junior accounting major and Shannon is a senior accounting major.

Jeremy Gilbert and other aspiring thespians showed off their skills during four brief plays at McCall Junior High School July 11. The produc-

Conservation commissioners honor Howard's memory

Margaret Howard, the late Winchester Conservation Commission chairman, was the subject of a tribute by chairman pro tem Jerry Cura at the commission's first meeting since Howard's sudden death.

The tribute was read into the minutes as a partial expression of the debt owed to her by the Commission, the Town of Winchester and the cause of conservation, Cura said.

Later, the commission elected Cura chairman, and issued orders of conditions for work to proceed on Upper Mystic Lake weed control, Aberjona riverbank erosion control and town hall brickwork.

The text of the tribute follows:

It was with deep regret that the Winchester Conservation Commission recently learned of the death of its chairman, Margaret Howard.

The commission recognizes the great debt which it and the people of the Town of Winchester owe to Chairman Howard. Her unfailing efforts on behalf of conservation and her devotion to assuring the future environmental quality of Winchester stand as a memorial to Maggie and as an example of the level of dedication necessary from those who would fill a civic responsibility.

She discharged her responsibilities with competence, cheerfulness and an optimism that had a momentum of its own. These qualities carried the Conservation Commission to recent achievements which would otherwise be left undone and perhaps even unimagined.

Chairman Howard handled most of the details and routine of the commission. She was the point of contact for developers, town officials and citizen groups who appear before the commission in the ordinary course of its business.

Even in her desire to protect the public interest and assure that all development projects in Winchester complied with the requirements of the Massachusetts Wetlands Protection Act, she was always fair and even-handed to all concerned parties.

Chairman Howard's record of accomplishments in the past two years of her tenure extend far beyond the routine duties required of a Conservation Commission Chairman. During the past two years, she led, inspired and cajoled the commission to rewrite and substantially modify the Winchester Open Space and Recreation Plan.

Although she took much of the burden upon herself, Maggie displayed an admirable managerial talent for recognizing the skills of individual commission members, delegating work, and coordinating the logistics inherent in the publication of any municipal document. Her tireless efforts from first draft to final printing resulted in a clear plan for open space management and acquisition for Winchester.

It should be noted that without this document the town would be unable to qualify for state funds for the purchase of conservation land. Maggie's persistence in finalizing the Open Space and Recreation Plan has obvious implications for the future of Winchester's physical environment.

Also under Chairman Howard's guidance, the Conservation Commission has established an environmentally sound policy regarding the treatment of ponds in Winchester. With assistance from the Conservation Commission, the town applied and qualified for a grant from the state to conduct intensive engineering and scientific studies of Wedge Pond.

This spring, town meeting authorized the town's share of the funds necessary to perform this study. Again, Chairman Howard's foresight was apparent. Upon successful completion of this study, Winchester will be eligible for considerable sums of state money to restore and improve the quality of Wedge Pond.

Perhaps the most significant accomplishment of Maggie Howard's chairmanship was her insistence that the Conservation Commission petition town meeting to establish a position for a conservation administrator. This spring town meeting saw the wisdom of this proposal, and for the first time in its history Winchester will have a municipal employee whose sole function is to maintain and improve the environmental quality and safety of the town and its people.

This accomplishment is much in keeping with Maggie's nature, for it will relieve future chairmen of much of the administrative burden which she took upon herself.

The Winchester Conservation Commission will continue to work at the high standards set by chairman Margaret Howard. However, we will miss her leadership and her skill. We will miss her foresight and her imagination. Most of all, we will miss Maggie's warmth and her friendship.

NET aids schools group

New England Telephone (NET) has joined with the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, Inc. to support quality elementary education in the six New England states.

The association is based in Winchester.

In a recent ceremony, Jacqueline Jung, NET public relations manager, presented association president Peter K. Guinness with a $5,000 company contribution to purchase computer equipment.

The New England Association, which has provided academic accreditation to public and private colleges, secondary and junior high, middle schools, and vocational, technical career institutions for more than 100 years, recently expanded its services to include public elementary schools in New England.

"The new computer equipment will help us bring the new grade school evaluation program on line easier, coordinating evaluation data more efficiently," Guinness said.

Town will try to buy green space

Selectmen will see if the owner of a "green space" on Mt. Vernon Street, across from the public safety building, wants to sell.

After learning the planning board also favors keeping the area open, they voted Monday night to approach Mohammed Akbarian, owner of the lot, to see if he would rather sell than turn the area into a parking lot.

Mark Lombardi abstained from the vote, noting that the Mill Pond office building adjacent to the lot would need more parking spaces if it were built today.

"We all agree the present parking is inadequate but when a person wants to take some cars off the street, we don't want a parking lot," Lombardi said.

Selectman Judie Muggia agreed with Lombardi's observation but suggested a compromise. "My suspicion is that ALL of the lot isn't needed for parking. There could be a parking lot expansion and still leave room for green space," she said.

In a letter to selectmen, planning board chairman Maryann McCall Taylor said her board "feels strongly the town should keep the lot as an open space and hopes and the board of selectmen concur and will act on this matter of immediate concern."

COMMENT

A can of worms

Winchester selectmen need to be very careful how they go about disposing of the Woburn Loop.

The town could be opening a giant can of worms. All five selectmen had the problem on their minds Monday when they began discussing the Loop but Mark Lombardi came closer to saying it directly than the others.

Lombardi said an unsuccessful bidder is going to be angry. It makes little difference whether the bidder is rejected in favor of another or he's rejected because the town decides to keep a certain parcel for itself.

"As soon as there's a name attached to a proposal, somebody's going to say he's rejected because Lombardi doesn't like him," the selectman said.

Precisely. The town must create a specific set of criteria for judging various proposals. Without it, the town is going to be sued and you don't have to be too smart to know that.

It would be nice to think selectmen could hold open court, consider any and all proposals and pick the ones that seem to make the best sense in the interests of "the whole town."

It would also be unrealistic. Instead, selectmen must have a way of judging proposals, perhaps even with the infamous "weighted scoring system," or the Loop may never get out of court.

George Derringer

Downtown green space

Selectmen voted Monday to approach the owner of the green lot at the corner of Mt. Vernon Street and Converse Place about buying all or part of it.

The idea was suggested on this page two weeks ago in a guest column by Dan Chane. He had an excellent suggestion.

Although Winchester center certainly needs more parking, the corner in question actually serves as part of the green belt surrounding the Aberjona River. It ought to stay.

Selectmen studiously avoided using the words "eminent domain" in discussion of the property, knowing full well that the concept of confiscating private property is not altogether popular.

With luck, the subject will be moot. The town looks better with at least some green space in the area. A compromise between expanded parking and green space makes sense for everyone.

GUEST COLUMN

Ronayne refutes charges against school board vote

By MICHAEL R. RONAYNE

Cynthia Krumme's article entitled "School Committee's Report Card Decision Hurts Schools" which appeared in The Star July 3 came across to me as being largely uninformed and based on second-hand information.

In referring to the June 24 school committee meeting which considered the report card proposal, Krumme states: "The three school committee members who voted against the changes in the report card have not seen a primary report card given to one of their own children in years..."

This statement is false on its face and had Ms. Krumme been present at the meeting she would have known this.

Moreover, it is silly to suggest that school committee members' judgments are determined by the current ages of their children.

Further, Krumme thinks my remark that I "couldn't come to grips with the report" meant that I was saying that I didn't understand the report or its rationale. Anybody who listened to the almost two hour discussion and heard that phrase in context would come to a different conclusion.

Much more serious is the following excerpt from Krumme's article: Ronayne "also expressed his opinion that teachers might not be up to the task of filling out the questionnaire. Such a claim is in effect a charge of mass incompetence against Winchester's teachers and completely without foundation."

This kind of rhetoric is laughable. The charge is ludicrous. Anyone present at the meeting knows that I questioned the ability of anyone to successfully utilize the proposed report card process as presented, and in no way challenged the competence of the Winchester teachers.

On the contrary, since joining the school committee in 1983, I have been an outspoken supporter of our teaching staff in word and in deed. The public record will demonstrate that I hold our teachers in the highest regard.

Indeed, at the June 10 meeting, I again publicly commented on the teaching excellence in our system following the presentation of the national awards for our elementary science program. Anyone remotely attentive to school committee doings should be aware of these positions.

Additionally, the fatuous charges that the school committee is deadlocked on most public matters of substance and is non-supportive of teacher, staff and parent opinions is outrageous.

An examination of the minutes of school committee meetings for the past few years, available at the public library, will show that the school committee has not been deadlocked on most matters of substance and will show that the school committee has voted with the administration and its advisory committees on the vast majority of substantive issues.

We analyze proposals in a critical (in the best sense of the word) and analytical way, in public as required by the open meeting law, but such an exercise is positive and necessary and should offend no one. Reasonable people may disagree in a reasonable way and no responsible school committee will "rubber stamp" the superintendent's proposals.

No school committee members should respond to unreasonable pressure and be intimidated against expressing an honest opinion and voting as conscience dictates regardless of other "expert" or non-expert opinion.

As for ad hominem remarks such as "where excessive ego... has become the norm," let me just say that these may be useful political tricks for some people to use during an election campaign, and I dealt with such last March and the voters responded, but they shed more heat than light when people are working for consensus and a sense of community.

For the record - the school committee did not reject the report card proposal out of hand or put down anyone's efforts or opinions; rather a majority of the school committee was not prepared to vote for the proposal in its present form on that evening for specific reasons.

As announced at the meeting, the system will continue to address the question and in all probability the first grades will test such a new system beginning in September.

(Ronayne is chairman of the Winchester school committee.)

A lot of second marriages today

By TERRY MAROTTA

You see a lot of second marriages around these days. With the divorce rate being what it is, anyone living in the married state today is likely to be living there with a second partner.

I saw a couple holding hands at the movies recently, the husband of which I was pretty sure fell into this category. He was a mature man wearing cowboy boots, gold chains, and forty-plus years.

His wife was thinner than he, more attractive, if you can compare men's looks to women's, and younger by half a generation.

I knew that they were married because each wore a wedding ring, that they were married to each other because they didn't cuddle or coo like the singles that sat all around them.

I have a bad habit of picturing the lives of strangers as I watch them in public.

I close my eyes and a little screen of surmise pops up in my mind on which appear scenes from their lives.

In the case of this couple, the screen showed a man who had lived a far different life with his first wife than the one he was sharing with her successor.

I saw a guy who, in his first marriage, never bothered to pick up his socks, let alone take turns feeding the baby.

I saw him rising from the table after supper, walking away from the chicken bones and broccoli stumps to spend the evening in silent male contemplations.

Now though, in this second marriage, I saw the same man cleaning up after the supper, even preparing it at times; not just feeding the baby, but changing it too.

It could be that I saw all this on my small screen because I'd seen it in my own circle of acquaintances; the husband, married afresh, has learned a few things about creating harmony in the home, and is putting them into practice.

The second wife reaps the benefits of this education. She gets a warm open guy who pitches in around the place and shares his feelings.

The first wife gets the house, the children he never helped her with, and a diminished income on which to raise them.

The sad thing is, this newly tender husband, like the man I saw holding his wife's hand, is the same one who lived at such an emotional distance from her predecessor.

He seems to have changed so now, grown up, some might say, grown out perhaps. His first wife would hardly know him.

Do people change this much, really, in the course of lifetime? Obviously the warm new husband always dwelled somewhere inside the old, more aloof one. Does rounding the bend into middle age help draw the inner man out?

Do the years open him up more and help him relate on levels of greater intimacy with his spouse?

Or is it the pain of watching one marriage crumble that inspires him to try harder with the second?

Certainly the routines of daily life and its inevitable friction conspire to build walls between people. But it seems, too, that some folks just stop trying - fall into predictable roles and rote responses and slowly become strangers toward each other.

Marriage isn't easy, heaven knows. You can't put one together, dust off your hands and say "That's that." You have to build it new every day.

And any marriage is imperiled at any time, as far as I can see, just because of the centrifugal forces operating on the family in our society.

It's worth the extra effort to keep one's own marriage alive and close, whether it's marriage with a first spouse or marriage with a second.

I had no business judging that man who sat in front of me at the movies, or even speculating about his personal life. I just sensed suddenly how hard it is for any one of us flawed and petty humans to live in harmony with any other.

It isn't easy casting your lot with one other person over the long haul. It isn't fun at first, putting up with all his odd and grating imperfections.

If you're lucky, though, and you stick with it, you learn, in the end, to love someone else as much as you love yourself.

All our progress as a race has hinged upon this principle.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

The House, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' votes on roll calls from the week of July 7-11. Two roll calls from late sessions during the previous week are also included in the report.

Return Surplus- House 102-35, rejected a move to suspend rules to allow introduction of resolutions urging Governor Dukakis to return surplus revenues to the taxpayers.

Supporters said taxpayers are entitled to these revenues that have been estimated at as high as $1 billion.

Opponents said the state has given communities record amounts of local aid, noted the surtax is being repealed and claimed money has to be saved for future problems.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

Insurance II (H. 187) - House 126-10, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a bill prohibiting insurance discrimination based on gender.

Supporters said the ban will stop discrimination against women in all cases of insurance including health, disability and life.

Opponents said the bill could result in higher premiums for women and disregards many statistics regarding life expectancy and illness.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Wetlands (S. 1179) - House 145-1, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a bill which would include wildlife habitat under the wetlands protection act. The bill adds wildlife habitat protection to the list of values a local conservation commission must consider when determining what conditions it may impose upon a developer building in a wetland area.

Supporters, noting the specific definitions and the rules and regulations would be developed by a Technical Advisory Committee, said the bill will protect wildlife and ensure that wildlife habitat protection is considered when building projects are reviewed.

Some opponents said the bill is vague and poorly drafted. Others said it goes too far and may unnecessarily bring construction to a halt.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Surtax (H. 5880) - House 138-6, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a bill providing for immediate repeal of the 7.5 percent surtax and an acceleration of a new exemption schedule.

Supporters said this will save taxpayers $180 million.

Opponents said the money should be used to fund programs.

A Yea vote is for the bill.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Deficiency Budget (H. 6161) - House 125-14, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a $126 million fiscal 1986 deficiency budget. Key provisions include $75 million in student scholarships and some $6 million in salary increases for state managers.

Supporters said this fiscally responsible package will close out the books on fiscal 1986.

Opponents said the package is full of unnecessary items and provides no tax cap and little tax relief.

A Yea vote is for the package. A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Board of Regents (H. 6161) - House 93-56, rejected an amendment striking a section of the budget providing $12 million for payment of prior years' obligations of a data processing system under the Board of Regents.

Amendment supporters said this board has consistently overspent its budget and is involved in poor and perhaps illegal practices.

Opponents said the poor practices are being monitored but claimed the bills must be paid to avoid interest charges.

A Yea vote is against the $12 million.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Housing Court (H. 6161) - House 124-13, approved an amendment giving the Administrative Judge of the Boston Housing Court a salary equal to that of an administrative judge of the trial court instead of one equal to that of a regular judge.

Supporters explained this would restore a salary which was taken away from Administrative Judge Daher when Daher refused to bow to pressure and appoint a political favorite as a clerk.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

MBTA (H. 6161) - House 122-25, rejected an amendment striking a budget section providing $175,000 for a House and Senate Ways and Means Committee study of the assessments and reimbursements of the MBTA.

Amendment supporters said this is a $175,000 patronage haven and claimed the study could be done for a lot less.

Opponents said the amount is reasonable for a study that is very important.

A Yea vote is against the $175,000.

Saltmarsh voted no.

State House (H. 6161) - House 140-4, rejected an amendment reducing funding for preservation and restoration of art objects in the state house from $200,000 to $41,000 and eliminating a section allowing the chairman of the State House Arts Commission to serve as Executive Director of the project and be paid from these funds.

Supporters said the $200,000 is excessive and questioned why this unpaid chairman is suddenly becoming a paid director.

Opponents said the chairman has spent full time on the project and is entitled to a $20,000 salary and argued the $200,000 is necessary to preserve valuable historical items.

A Yea vote is for the amendment.

Saltmarsh voted no.

Emergency Fund (H. 6161) - House 107-31, rejected an amendment striking a budget section providing $800,000 for a reserve fund for the Secretary of Administration and Finance to meet emergencies.

Amendment supporters said this was a slash fund for the administration and questioned why the legislature should put money into a fiscal 1986 emergency fund when it is already fiscal 1987.

Opponents said the fund makes good business sense and noted it includes many safeguards including certification of the emergency and approval by the legislature's Ways and Means Committees.

A Yea vote is against the $800,000.

Saltmarsh voted no.

Elderly Income (H. 6161) - House 77-68, rejected an amendment eliminating the 10 percent tax on a portion of unearned income for persons over 65. The amendment eliminates the tax for these individuals on unearned income up to $3000 and up to $3600 for joint filers.

Supporters said the elderly need this tax relief which can easily be funded by the state surplus.

Opponents said the state cannot afford the $45 million revenue loss and noted it only helps the wealthy elderly.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

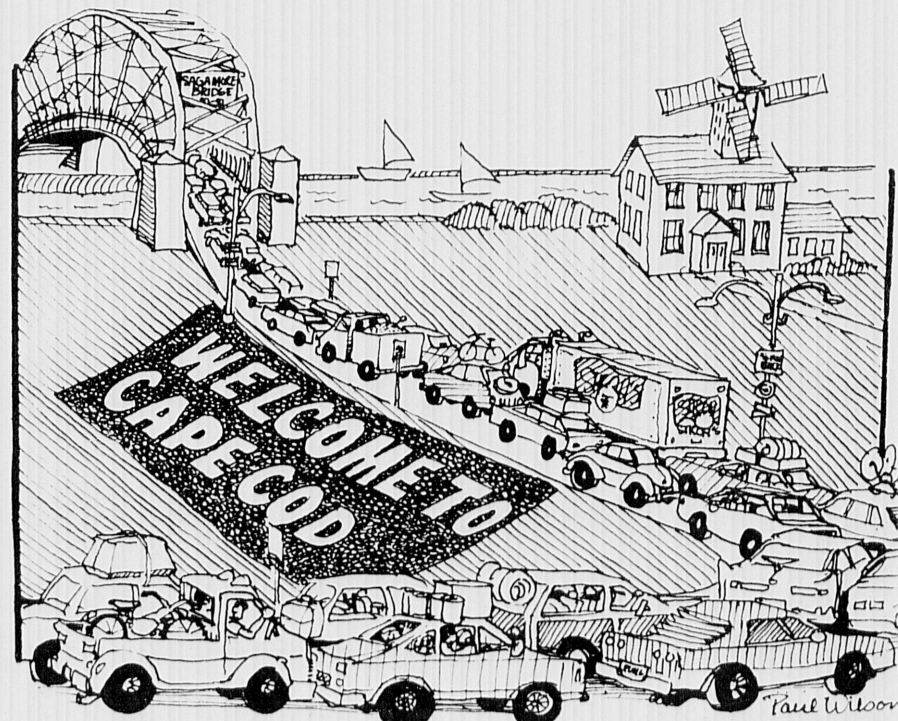

Rollover (H. 6161) - House 118-24, rejected an amendment striking two sections of the budget which rollover unspent fiscal 1986 money in over 300 accounts and reappropriates the money for fiscal 1987.

Amendment supporters said this should not be rolled over and spent but should go back to the general fund.

Opponents said many of the items are capital projects extending over a period of years.

The Senate, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' votes on roll calls from the week of July 7-11.

AIDS (H. 5491) - Senate 22-17, gave near final approval and sent back to the House a bill prohibiting any employer from requiring an AIDS test as a condition of employment and prohibiting any health care facility or doctor from testing for AIDS or releasing a person's name or test results without first obtaining written consent.

'Grand Reunion' benefits Scholarship Foundation

A recent unique event meant a generous donation to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation.

As the result of a "Grand Reunion" last September, the Winchester High School classes of 1953-56 made a contribution of $2200 to benefit Winchester students needing financial assistance for post-high school education.

The Grand Reunion was initiated by the Class of 1955 which wished to do something different for its 30th year.

After contacting past friends in two classes below and one above, a committee of about 18 organized "the weekend event of your lifetime."

Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm greenhouse was donated by Paul ('53) and Doris ('55) Mahoney for an opening reception Friday night. A harbor cruise with party following at the Winchester Tennis Center filled Saturday night. And a picnic at Winning Farm on Sunday brought the gala weekend to its conclusion.

Organizers included class representatives Joan Bird ('53), Mary Alice Norris ('54), Charles Govostes ('55), Gail McElheney ('56) with some good management help from Arthur Gorrasi ('55).

Since there was no good way to divide up the obvious financial success of the event and no way of knowing if anything similar would follow with these particular classes, the Winchester Scholarship Foundation was the chosen recipient. Ray Jenkins ('55), treasurer for the event said, "it was the most logical thing to do."

Thanking Jenkins, David Mortensen, Winchester Scholarship Foundation president, wrote, "In a time of soaring educational costs, the gift will be most welcome and necessary. You and the members of those classes are to be commended for all you have done."

"We were pleased to hear that the Grand Reunion was such a success and we thank you for sharing the financial success with the young people of the town."

The foundation gives scholarships to students after careful and confidential review of each application and when all other avenues of funding have been exhausted. Checks can be mailed to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation, Box 174, Winchester 01890. All donations will be gratefully received.

Board of appeals will consider American Alarm yellow signs

Yellow signs installed by American Alarm in front of the homes of some of its customers will be considered at the August meeting of the zoning board of appeals.

Dick Sampson of Winchester, owner of the security company which caused some stir when neighbors objected to the signs bearing the company's name, said he has submitted an application to the appeals board for a variance. The variance would apply only to his own sign, however.

American Alarm, headquartered in Arlington, installed about 100 of the bright yellow signs in Winchester.

Some neighbors objected, either because of the appearance of the signs or because of their feeling that homes without the signs would be more likely targets for burglars.

Sampson contends the signs are common in other areas and cites statistics to show they deter crime.

Registration

Registration for session II tennis lessons begins July 14 at the recreation office at McCall Junior High School.

Special tennis attractions include a Prince clinic July 22 at Palmer Street Courts in cooperation with Medford Square Sporting Goods. Tennis professionals will provide instruction, and Prince racquets will be supplied. There will be prizes, drills and ball machines.

Times are 9:30 a.m. for beginners, 11 a.m. for adults and advanced beginners and 1 p.m. for adults and kids. There is no charge for Winchester residents.

There will be a bus from McCall Jr. to Longwood Club in Newton, leaving 10:30 a.m. July 25 for the quarter-finals and "Ellesse Day."

Tickets and transportation cost $10 and sign-up is in advance at the Palmer Courts.

The New England Lawn Tennis Association novice tournament will be Aug. 4-6 (rain dates Aug. 7-8). All participants enrolled in session I and II of the tennis program are eligible. There will be trophies and awards. There is a $1 fee and sign-up is at the Palmer Courts.

Pop Warner sign-up slated

Because of many requests from Winchester youths to participate in the Woburn Pop Warner football program, the Woburn Pee Wee Football Association will have a registration session in Winchester.

Registration is scheduled from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, July 19, at the Sons of Italy hall on Swanton Street.

Boys from eight to 14 years old are eligible. Proof of age is required from all candidates. No further registration dates are planned.

Adult tennis class offered

Another session of adult tennis instruction offered by the Winchester recreation department will begin Tuesday, July 22.

Sessions will continue each Tuesday and Thursday for four weeks. Beginners' sessions are scheduled from 6 to 7 p.m. with intermediate instruction from 7 to 8 p.m. at the high school tennis courts.

There is a fee of $15 per person and a registration deadline of Friday, July 18.

Local native brings home medal

By DIANA PHILLIPS

A Winchester native has returned from England with more than just fond memories of a British holiday.

Twenty-seven-year-old Peter Kermond took home a gold medal for his rowing performance at the 147th Henly Royal Regatta in Henly-on-Thames, England.

The five-day annual event is considered by many to be the Wimbledon of rowing. Kermond's performance there brings him closer to his goal of Olympic competition.

Kermond and three teammates, all members of the Cambridge-based Charles River Rowing Association, beat a crew from Nottingham County, England, to capture first place in the lightweight, four-man-without-coxswain division of the international regatta. The process of elimination in that division began from a field of 32 crews.

Kermond's was one of only two U.S. crews to win first place in their event this year. The other winning crew was made up of Charles River Rowing Association members also.

The regatta, which takes place the same week as Wimbledon, differs from traditional rowing competitions, says Kermond. The "Henly mile" runs a bit over the standard 2000-yard course. Also, the races are matches between two crews rather than among several competing at once.

The social aspect sets it apart too. The abundance of champagne, strawberries and cream make it "like a giant lawn party," says Kermond.

During his only other trip to the regatta, in 1980 with his college crew team, Kermond and his rowing mates were defeated.

Kermond sees his achievement at Henly as a stepping stone to an ultimate goal—rowing in the Olympics. Although lightweight rowing is not yet an Olympic event, he is hopeful that it will be by the 1988 games.

A Winchester native, Kermond began rowing as a freshman at Belmont Hill and competed throughout high school. He was also a member of the University of Pennsylvania crew team during his years there.

Since graduating college, Kermond has rowed with the Charles River Rowing Association, a group which follows a rigorous, year-round training program set forth by the directors of the U.S. national team.

This summer, Kermond is one of the 18-20 top rowers in the country invited to a national training camp in Philadelphia. He hopes his performance at the camp and in upcoming competitions in Houston and Canada will be good preparation for the world championships in August. He's "going for the gold" this year, after he and his crew received a silver medal at last year's world championships.

Good showings in these competitions are also important to Kermond since the U.S. national team is selected based on rowers' performances in them.

The road to a seat on the national team is paved with hard work, according to Kermond. Training is intense. During the warmer weather, it includes two rowing sessions daily, 6-8 a.m. and 6:30-8 p.m. He also runs and works out with weights. In the winter, the training takes place indoors in the rowing tanks at Harvard.

On top of his daily training, Kermond works for City Gardens of West Newton, an interior landscaping firm. He says his employers are "incredibly supportive" both financially and as far as scheduling around his rowing commitments.

Recently married, Kermond now resides on Winter Street in Arlington with his wife Adrienne, a lifelong Arlington resident. She does not resent the demand that rowing has made on her husband's time. "Seeing Peter's dedication and hard work has turned me into a fan of the sport."

Kermond believes that success in rowing comes from achieving "the perfect balance between teamwork and individual performance."

"Each crew must be able to work in total unison," Kermond says. This means synchronizing to the narrowest degree each body and blade movement. Yet, he says, "individual strength and endurance" are monumental.

Kermond acknowledges the lack of public awareness about rowing and attributes this to the sport's amateur status. "There isn't the attraction of the big money prizes associated with professional sports."

Despite the absence of much public attention, Kermond plans to "keep plugging" until his aspirations of national, hopefully Olympic, competition are fulfilled.

STAR SPORTS

Debbie Nowell Europe bound

By DAVID MOORE

When it comes to girls' high school soccer, is there a distinctive Winchester type?

"Definitely so," says Frank Amato, coach of a select girls' team from Massachusetts that includes Winchester High School junior Debbie Nowell.

"What is most common is their attitude, their discipline on the field and willingness to learn. I've coached a lot of players and I can honestly say that Winchester seems to outshine the rest in this regard — just first-class all around."

Amato, a former soccer coach at Harvard University and North Andover High School, will lead his team on a soccer tour of Holland, West Germany and Norway. The team leaves for Holland today and returns from its 21-day tour Aug. 7.

When the team resumes training in Holland's National Sports Center, Papendal, Nowell will hold down center-halfback, perhaps the sport's most demanding position.

Many soccer teams look to their center fielders to control the game's tempo, pushing the ball up on the attack and bolstering the defense during an opponent's strike.

Above all, the center-back must have what Amato calls "tactical sense."

Tactical sense, or the ability to read the game, is a skill Europeans seem to have mastered better than their American counterparts.

The reason, says Amato, is the Europeans' greater exposure to the sport, as well as greater interest in subtle strategy.

"Europeans take their soccer much more seriously than the average American," Amato explains. "Besides, our team is made up of girls from 12 different teams with 12 different playing styles. I have to mold them into a team pretty quickly."

The team will rely on Nowell for a good measure of its tactical strength against the Europeans.

Debbie's a playmaker," says Amato. "She's patient, tackles well, and attacks and defends well."

Nowell has developed her skills since the first grade. Like many Winchester stars past and present, she is a product of Winchester Youth Soccer, as well as Boston Area Youth

Debbie Nowell

Soccer (BAYS).

This summer, she also competed in the Bay State Games.

She is a speed skater for the Bay State Speed Skating Club and runs the one- and two-mile events for the Sachemettes in spring track.

During their soccer tour, Nowell and her teammates will travel by luxury ocean liner between cities like Kiel, Germany, Oslo and Copenhagen. In Copenhagen, team members will stay in private homes in the suburb of Skovlunde.

The climax of the eight-game tour will be the team's participation in the Norway Cup Football Tournament. Nowell's team will vie for the cup with a host of European club teams in the under-19 age group.

Nowell, who hopes to play college soccer some day, says she's "looking forward to playing ... to everything."

Quinn defeats Martin 3 and 2

The 78th Massachusetts Golf Association State Amateur Championship ended in the rain on Saturday morning with Fran Quinn Jr., beating Bill Martin 3-2 in the final round.

Seven members of the Winchester Country Club, host for the sixth time, had qualified in state-wide competition, with six of them making it through the medalist play to the match play.

Three of these, Steve Maskell and Bill and Paul Martin were still in the competition as the players reached the quarter-final round late in the week.

Paul Martin, one of two sons of former two-time amateur champion Ed Martin, was medalist among the 150 qualifiers who opened play on Tuesday with a 143, 72-hole score.

Winchester club champion Steve Maskell was second with a 146, and Bill Martin was sixth with a score of 148.

Gerard Kenney, Carroll Lowenstein and John Whittemore of the Winchester contingent, also qualified for the match play competition with scores of 154.

Tim Legere of Arlington and the Winchester Country Club missed the cut with a 164.

As the match play moved along, there appeared the possibility that the final could be an all-Winchester event, and that it could possibly come down to a match between Bill and Paul Martin.

Whittemore lost his opening match competition 1-up to Jim Ruschioni, and Gerard Kenney after defeating Steve Graham in a 19-hole match, lost in the second round again in 19 holes to Ted Rockwell.

Maskell, opened up with a 2-1 victory against Steve Salah, and then defeated Paul Cortese 1-up before losing to Rockwell by the same margin in the quarter-finals.

Carroll Lowenstein also went 19 holes before defeating Scott St. Clair, but then lost to Bob Bradley 4-3.

Bill Martin had opened with two impressive victories, defeating Bob Small 7 and 6, and then stopping Jim Deveney 6-5.

He got by Kevin Hester and defeated Ruschioni 4-3. Hester had earlier upset defending champ Steve Tasho.

Paul Martin defeated Fordie Pitts Jr. in a long 21-hole match and then got by Don Satterfield 5-4.

But, just when it appeared that the all-Martin final might take place, Quinn defeated Paul Martin 3-2 and then moved into the finals with a 2-up victory over Bob Bradley.

There were some interesting sidelights to the five-days of competition. Ed Martin had won the title twice in four years in 1948 and again in 1951. Son Paul was the medalist this year at Winchester and Bill battled his way to the finals.

Fran Quinn Sr. had made it all the way to the finals in 1974 and 1981 before losing, but this time a Quinn was to make it all the way when Fran Jr. birdied the 16th hole in the Saturday mist with Bill Martin running out of holes in the 3-2 loss.

Bulldogs bite Cosmos

By DAVID MOORE

"He who commands the sea has commanded everything," said the ancient Greek philosopher Themistocles.

Chances are good that, were Themistocles alive today, and had he been at Skillings Rd. field last Thursday, he would have altered his statement.

"He who commands the air has commanded everything," would be his words.

The Wakefield Bulldogs, 9-0-1, controlled the air to beat the Winchester Cosmos 1-0 and secure first place in the central division of the Mens' Twilight Soccer League.

And it was hard to walk away from Thursday's contest without wondering whether a bit of intimidation hadn't snuck into the Cosmos' ranks.

The Bulldogs' Jim Havey and Joe Hayes played more like werewolves than men and, late in the game, had to be controlled by their teammates.

The Cosmos' Drew Schneller, however, doesn't take the rough stuff too seriously.

"We go into every Wakefield game expecting very physical play," says Schneller. "We have a very aggressive team, too, you know. Wakefield just beat us to the ball. I think they got every single headball!"

True enough, though the Cosmos still managed to play Wakefield evenly throughout most of the first half. In fact, the Cosmos almost found themselves with an early lead when Bob Gulla, up from sweeperback, found some kicking room just outside the penalty area.

Gulla blasted a hard shot that Wakefield goalie Dave Menninger barely trapped against the top bar before swatting it over for the cornerkick.

Minutes later, Wakefield's Mike Barrett clanged one off the Cosmos' goal post as goalie Steven Driscoll lay helplessly on the ground.

Barrett then missed another semi-breakaway shot when Driscoll came out from the net and cut off his angle.

Driscoll played very well at goal, blocking several blistering shots.

The Bulldogs got the game's only goal midway through the second half; it was the perfect play.

Pete Hemme brought the ball up the right wing and hit a long cross that curved about 10 feet in front of the net. Barrett, running hard from the left wing, took the cross and headed it fast beyond the reach of the flying Driscoll.

Then Havey and Gayes proceeded to defend their lead with a vengeance. At one point Havey looked as though he might attack referee Sal Gulino, who seemed to have left his yellow card at home.

"We lost the game at midfield," explained Schneller. "If we play them again we'll have to control the middle."

The Cosmos are now 7-2-1 with games against MIT, Saugus, Cambridge and Everett I remaining.

"We won't see Wakefield again until round one of the tournament," said Schneller, "assuming we get there."

The top two teams from each division qualify for the championship tournament.

WINCHESTER STARS

Doug Knouse

Knouse named the Chiefs

By GEORGE DERRINGER

They're "The McCall Chiefs" now and you can see their name all over town, even on the school's notebooks. But not everyone knows why.

Doug Knouse of Winchester gave the school its nickname as part of the project that made him, at 14, one of the youngest Eagle Scouts ever. Only one Boy Scout in 1,000 becomes an Eagle Scout.

After two years in Cub Scout Pack 525, Knouse joined Boy Scout Troop 503, becoming a Star Scout in August 1984 and a Life Scout in February 1985, one year before becoming an Eagle Scout.

As his service project, Knouse chose to research, design and construct the new McCall Junior High School "logo" that adorns the auditorium wing of the school and is used on all the school's official documents.

Evander French, principal of McCall, was the keynote speaker during the Court of Honor that elevated Knouse to the Eagle Scout rank.

"The superintendent of schools identified as one of his six major goals for the school system the building of a real sense of community in each of the schools, where students, staff and parents feel good about the school and work together to make the schools the best possible," French recalled.

At McCall, which students attend for only grades 7-8, building community would be a very difficult task, French said. Creating new things that would be "distinctively McCall" would be necessary.

Doug Knouse and his father, Paul, agreed that creating a school logo would be Doug's Eagle Scout project.

"The old logo, McCall Spartans, went back to a time when we had two Grade 7-9 junior high schools in Winchester," French said. "It had no meaning for our current students."

Knouse had to work with French, the McCall student council, the student council advisor, and others to get ideas for the logo. Approval and actual design would take even longer.

"Thanks to Doug Knouse, we are known as the McCall Chiefs," French said.

Knouse, now a freshman at Winchester High School, said he hopes to make marine biology his career. "I'm going to get certified in scuba diving as soon as possible," he said.

Troop 503, one of the oldest troops in continuous existence in the United States, has been sponsored by the First Congregational Church since 1917. Larry Keats is the current scoutmaster.

At the high school, Knouse is active in several programs. He is an honor student, a member of the band and played freshman soccer last fall. He is active as well in the young people's program at the First Congregational Church.

He has also taken part in Outward Bound camping programs in North Carolina and Oregon.

Kenny earns Bay Path prize

Colleen Kenny of Water Street was the recipient of a 1986 Bay Path Junior College alumni association book award for excellence in her business studies at Winchester High School.

Her award, funded by the Boston Chapter of the Association, was one of 57 presented to young women in Massachusetts and Connecticut secondary schools this year, and is a part of the association's goal of fostering leadership among women in business and community service.

A member of the class of 1987, Kenny was selected by the faculty of her school's business department based on her academic accomplishments and school citizenship.

Robert McWade

McWade leads Chamber group

Robert McWade of Winchester has been elected as the first president of the Boston Leadership Forum.

Created by the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, the new group is composed of those who have earned honorary life status in the chamber.

A loan officer in the Worldwide Financial Services group of the Bank of Boston, McWade said the Leadership Forum will attempt "in some small measure, to improve the quality of life in Greater Boston."

Among the group's activities are presentations of scholarships, one major local community service each year, and representation of the chamber at special events.

Groh named to TV post

Continental Cablevision of Winchester has appointed Steve Groh production coordinator of the Winchester local origination facility.

Groh's responsibilities include programming of WNCH TV-19, administration of video equipment available for public use and organization of television production courses.

Human services director named

Mayra Rodriguez-Howard of Winchester was appointed director of the new Northeastern Massachusetts Human Services office.

Rodriguez-Howard is the first person hired by the state to coordinate human services efforts in the Merrimack Valley and North Shore, including the area bounded by Chelsea and Everett in the south and Methuen and Newburyport in the north.

Johnson lands Florida sailfish

Newton S. Johnson of Winchester recently landed a 48-pound sailfish during a fishing trip in Key West, Fla. Johnson earned a citation from the Key West Fishing Tournament for his catch.

Two graduate at Mass Bay

Linda Gurrissi, a management major, and Signe M. Ulwick, a liberal arts major, from Winchester, graduated June 1 from Massachusetts Bay Community College in Wellesley Hills.

Hartunian gets psychology degree

Mary Hartunian of 63 Middlesex St., Winchester, received a bachelor of arts degree in psychology from North Adams State College May 31. She is the daughter of Virginia Hartunian of Winchester and Harry Hartunian of Arlington. There were 459 graduates.

Linda Spiller on college dean's list

Linda J. Spiller of Winchester is on the spring dean's list at Colby-Sawyer College.

Spiller majored in sports science and sports management at the college in New London, N. H.

Normand Girard

Girard leads hospital group

Normand Girard, of Winchester, president of Somerville Hospital, was recently elected chairman of the board of trustees of the Massachusetts Hospital Association (MHA). The MHA, a not-for-profit trade association, serves as an advocate for Massachusetts hospitals, provides education programs for its 180 members, and informs the public about Massachusetts hospitals and health care issues.

Before joining Somerville Hospital in 1966, Girard was assistant administrator of Griffin Hospital, Derby, Conn., and executive assistant for professional services, New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center in New York.

He has served as chairman of the Metropolitan Boston Hospital Council and was president of the Hospital Superintendents Club of New England.

Girard holds a baccalaureate degree from the University of Connecticut and a master's in public health from Yale University.

Girard and his wife, Nancy Sue, have four children.

Camp Sunshine openings remain

The Winchester recreation department still has a few openings for the third session of Camp Sunshine.

The camp offers a morning session from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and an afternoon session from 12:30 to 3 p.m.

The camp is located at Muraco School. The two-week session runs from July 21 to Aug. 1.

The session, titled "Hooray For Hollywood," will offer many special activities for children, including water fun, puppet day and dress-up day. A trip to the North Shore Music Theatre to see "Pinocchio" is also scheduled.

Parents may register four- or five-year-olds at the recreation department, 458 Main St.

Ostomy support group to meet

The Northwest Ostomy Support Group will meet from 2 to 4 p.m. Wednesday, July 23, at Symmes Hospital in Arlington and from 7 to 9 p.m. at Choate Hospital in Woburn.

John Halpin, enterostomal nurse clinician at Choate-Symmes, will discuss "Summertime." Dana Moore from Coloplast will display new ostomy products at the meetings, which will also allow time for questions and for mutual support.

Additional information about the meeting or the organization, which always welcomes new members, can be obtained by calling Halpin at Choate or Symmes Hospitals.

Bloodmobile at K of C in August

An American Red Cross bloodmobile will visit the Knights of Columbus hall in Winchester from 3 to 8 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 6.

Red Cross officials reminded potential donors, "The Red Cross doesn't need blood. Patients do."

Lauren T. Fidalgo, center, of Winchester, a senior at Suffolk University in Boston, receives a certificate of membership in the school's chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, the national English honor society. Presenting the induction award are Jessica Ladd, chapter president, and Frederick C. Wilkins, chairman of Suffolk's English department.

The Winchester Star ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Epic Brass Quintet to close Cloister Series

Thursday, July 24, the Epic Brass Quintet will present a program of classical and popular music in the cloister garden of the Parish of the Epiphany, 70 Church St. The concert will be at 8:30 p.m.

The quintet have performed at the Kennedy Center, Washington, D.C., in California's Crystal Cathedral, and St. Mark's in Venice. During the summer of 1985 the group toured England, Scotland, and Poland. Other tours have taken these dynamic, young musicians to Canada and many areas of the United States. They were the grand prize winners of the 1986 alliance auditions, an honor which includes a Carnegie Recital Hall debut in New York next March.

The July 24 concert will be the last event in the cloister garden Series for this summer. These outdoor musical events, now in their seventeenth season, are presented in an attractive garden courtyard at the church.

The public is cordially invited. Adult tickets for $4 and student tickets for $3 may be obtained at the door, or by contacting the church office weekdays mornings at 729-1922. In case of rain, the concert will take place in Hadley Hall, adjoining the garden.

'Winchester Flutes' to give free concert

'Winchester Flutes' will present the second free concert in a summer series organized by the recreation department at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 23.

The ensemble is composed of four flutists:

Heidi Baxter is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music, a faculty member of the Winchester Community Music School and a free-lance musician;

Lois Cornils is a graduate of Eastern Washington State University, a participant in the fellowship program at Tanglewood, a member of the Arlington Philharmonic and a faculty member of the Winchester Community Music School;

Amy Flemming, a graduate of the California Institute of the Arts, is on the faculties of the Belmont and Winchester Community Music Schools and is a free-lance musician;

Mary Haller works at Symphony Hall in Boston and plays with the Boston Civic Symphony and the Mystic Valley Chamber Orchestra.

The July 23 program will include works by Mozart and Pachelbel, whose work has become popular through the film "Ordinary People," and other composers.

Funds for the concert series have been provided by the EnKa Society and the Winchester Arts Lottery Council. Schedules are available at the recreation department.

In case of rain, concerts are held indoors.

The Epic Brass Quintet will perform at 8 p.m. Thursday, July 24, at the Parish of the Epiphany.

"We do all the basics that other drycleaners do, we just do them better."

In a world where quality workmanship and door to door service seem like relics of the past, Faulkner's Cleansing, located at 437 Franklin St., Melrose, offers both of these to area residents.

For more than 38 years Faulkner's Cleansing has served the cleaning needs of Winchester residents and has built up a reputation for quality workmanship that has made them a trusted name in drycleaning and has made many Winchester residents lifelong customers.

Faulkner's not only drycleans all the usual items including pants suits, dresses, and coats, and cleans and presses shirts, but they also go one step further — Faulkner's inspects every article of clothing and replaces buttons or sews seams at no charge.

"We do all the basics that other drycleaners do, we just do them better," explains owner/proprietor Francis Hardy.

As far as service is concerned Faulkner's Cleansing offers something we tend to associate with past decades — door to door service. At no extra charge Faulkner's will pick up and deliver your drycleaning to your house.

Every Tuesday and Thursday their truck goes through Winchester for convenient door to door service. There is no extra charge for this convenience and customers can arrange for free pick-up and delivery by calling Faulkner's Cleansing at 665-6300.

In addition to cleaning all the usual items, Faulkner's also cleans various household items including slipcovers, draperies, and bedspreads. They are also experts at cleaning both suede and leather garments.

And, if you don't have the space around your home or apartment to store seasonal garb, Faulkner's offers storage for anything from furs to wools. Box storage is available in which you receive a large box to store your clothes which are cleaned and pressed just prior to pickup, and ready to wear when you retrieve them by calling Faulkner's Cleansing several days in advance.

For quality workmanship and the customer satisfaction which has been the trademark of Faulkner's for more than 38 years, or for convenient door to door service at no extra charge, come into Faulkner's at 437 Franklin St., Melrose, or just pick up the phone and call them at 665-6300.

Faulkner's Cleansing is open Monday through Friday, 7-5, Saturdays, 8-5.

The Winchester Star SOCIAL NEWS

Nina Anne Marie Ebel Bruce Kendall Nichols exchange wedding vows

Nina Anne Marie Ebel and Bruce Kendall Nichols were married July 12 at the First Presbyterian Church of Greenwich, Conn. The Rev. Richard Stearns performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Ebel of Riverside, Conn. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew L. Nichols of Winchester.

Heidi M. Ebel was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Stephanie R. Nichols, sister of the bridegroom, Karen A. Porter, Susanah M. Dixon and Suzanne Sorrentino.

Daniel M. Gilbert was best man. Ushers were Denton S. Ebel and Christopher C. Ebel, brothers of the bride, Peter A. Bobbe and Owen C. Young.

The bride is a graduate of Greenwich High School and a 1986 graduate of Yale College. She will begin studies at Harvard Law School next fall. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Arthur D. Seybold of Plainfield, N.J., and the late Dr. A. D. Seybold, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Ebel of New Haven, Conn.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Winchester High School and a 1986 graduate from Yale College. He is employed by Little, Brown & Co. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Nichols of Wellesley and Mrs. Stephen W. Grant, all of Wellesley, and the late Mr. Stephen W. Grant.

A reception was held at Riverside Yacht Club. After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will live in Cambridge.

SENIOR SCENE

Women from the flower arrangement workshop display their flower arrangements. Grace Dignam is the instructor.

Flower arranging workshops underway

A 5-week course in flower arrangement, instructed by Grace Dignam and Elaine Delaney of the Winchester Home and Garden Club, has met with instant success. Dignam and Delaney have been involved actively in the club for many years carrying out one of its purposes concerning "Keeping America Beautiful."

Education is a primary goal. Workshops began on July 7 and will be continued weekly on Mondays, July 21, 28, and Aug. 4.

The instructors are emphasizing the mechanics of flower arrangement, with attention given to hiding materials like pinholders. Developing an awareness of what is available, especially in wild flowers such as daisies, Queen Anne's lace, primroses, cornflowers, and other seasonal blossoms including weeds, quickens observational skills and artistry in general arrangement of simple but beautiful specimens.

The large class is enthusiastic about the program. There will be visits by flower arrangement judges. Attention will be given to the types of containers to use for artistic display: mass, triangular and Ikebana, the Japanese symbols of heaven, earth, and man in producing an eye-catching arrangement.

Construction at Jenks in progress

The expansion of the Jenks Senior Center is well along the construction road. The footings have been laid, the forms in place, and the cement is being poured for the foundation.

With good weather and clear sailing, an early date after the beginning of 1987 is anticipated for the grand opening.

Over 900 donors have sent contributions, but the initial goal has not been reached as yet. To carry out the plans, more people must be involved in this gigantic undertaking.

Winchester residents who have not yet responded are urged to do so as soon as possible.

The most recent list of donors is being compiled and will be published in the pages of the Star in the near future.

Double-decker bus trip set

On August 20, a double-decker bus trip is scheduled to visit Arnold Arboretum following lunch at the Union Oyster House in Boston, the oldest restaurant in the city.

There must be 65 people for the trip. The double-decker is the first to go through the gardens. Sign-ups can be made after the receipt of the August newsletter.

Results of a medical history, a physical examination, bone density measurement and diet information will determine final eligibility for the study. Volunteers will receive some remuneration each year while being studied.

It is advisable to have the permission of personal physicians before volunteering to be a part of the research. Contact USDA Human Nutrition Research Center on Aging at Tufts University, 711 Washington St., 11th floor, Boston 02111.

Volunteers needed for network

Transportation volunteers are needed for Neighbor Network, an emergency shelter program for adolescents, ages 11-18. Shelter is provided through a network of foster homes for a period not exceeding 45 days.

Although offered under the auspices of the Woburn Council of Social Concern, the program serves 15 towns throughout the Mystic Valley and Concord/Acton areas.

All volunteer drivers will be reimbursed per mile. The greatest number of children in the program at any one time is seven. Winchester has four host parents.

Any offers for help with transportation will be greatly appreciated. Contact Jeanette Baird at 729-0040, president of the Winchester Unitarian Alliance.

Volunteers needed for nutrition research

Tufts University is beginning a study to determine the extent to which calcium supplements help prevent loss of bone in women. Volunteers are being recruited to participate in this study. About 350 women in the age range of 40 to 70 years of age and who are not taking estrogen will be asked to be studied for five years.

Korean War veterans to be honored by state

A tribute to Korean War veterans is scheduled at the Massachusetts State House at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, July 27.

Winchester resident Andrew F. Antipapas, consul general of the U.S. Embassy in Seoul, South Korea, will be present.

Massachusetts is the first state to enact July 27 as Korean War Veterans Day.

The three-year war (June 25, 1950 to July 27, 1953) killed 54,246 American, 1,620 from Massachusetts. American wounded totaled 103,284 and 8,177 were missing in action. Thirty-three years later, the fate of 389 American prisoners of war is still unknown.

Legislation to authorize construction of a Korean War Memorial in Washington has not yet been approved.

OBITUARIES

Margaret Butters

Margaret C. Butters, 91, of Winchester, died July 5 at a Belfast, Maine, hospital.

Born in Reading, Mrs. Butters was the wife of the late Arthur E. Butters Sr. who died in 1963.

She graduated from Wheelock College, Mrs. Butters was a member of the First Congregational Church and was a longtime summer resident of Bayside, Maine.

Among her survivors are: her two granddaughters, Carol Waldron of Camden and Sandy Butters of Old Town, both in Maine; one grandson, James Butters of Norridgewock, Maine; two great-grandchildren; a daughter-in-law, Marilyn B. Butters of Norridgewock; and several nieces, nephews and cousins.

Funeral services will be held at a later date for the convenience of the family.

Friends may make memorial donations to the First Congregational Church, Winchester 01890.

Arrangements were made by the Rackliffe Funeral Home in Belfast, Maine.

Myrtle Bell

Myrtle Lawrence Bell, 102, formerly of Winchester, died July 14 at her daughter's home in Lexington.

Born in New York City, Mrs. Bell was the wife of the late Herbert M. Bell. She and her husband moved from Brooklyn, N.Y., in 1908 and lived in Sea Cliff, Long Island, before moving to Winchester.

Among her survivors are: her daughter, Thelma B. Seaton of Lexington, formerly of Winchester; three grandsons; two step granddaughters; 15 great-grandchildren and eight great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be private and at the family's convenience. Burial will be private.

Funeral arrangements were made by Douglass Funeral Home in Lexington.

Willis O. Hooker

Willis O. Hooker of Exeter, N.H., a resident of Winchester for 20 years, died July 10.

He was the husband of Mary Alice (Van Buren) and the father of Nancy H. Ake of Winnetka, Ill., and Susan H. Drum of Billerica.

He also leaves a brother, Allen N. Hooker of Yarmouthport.

Mr. Hooker was a 1940 graduate of Yale University and served as a lieutenant in the U.S. Navy in World War II.

Employed by the Polaroid Corp. for 32 years until his retirement in 1975, he served as a town meeting member while a resident of Winchester.

Memorial services were conducted Tuesday at the Exeter Congregational Church. Burial was Wednesday in Sturdivant Falls, N.Y.

Memorial gifts may be sent to the New Hampshire Association for the Blind, 25 Walker St., Concord, N.H. 03301.

Adventure Connection plans more teen

Although half the summer is gone, the recreation department's "Adventure Connection" for junior and senior high school students has more to come.

A photography workshop is planned July 28 to Aug. 1 with Michelle Guzowski of the Boston College literary magazine as instructor.

Participants will learn by doing in the darkroom, developing their own negatives and printing their own pictures.

TV production will be taught Aug. 4-8. Topics will include editing, lighting, and participants will Channel 14.

Three planned for the summer: a trip to New York City, a trip to the scheduled.

Frank Montuori, supervisor of the Adventure Connection, will provide information to 7125 or visit the recreation department at 58 Main St.

NOVENA TO MARY, QUEEN OF ALL HEARTS

O Mary, Queen of All Hearts, Advocate of the most hopeless cases, Mother, most pure, most compassionate, Mother of Divine Love, full of divine light, we confide to your care the favors which we ask of you today.

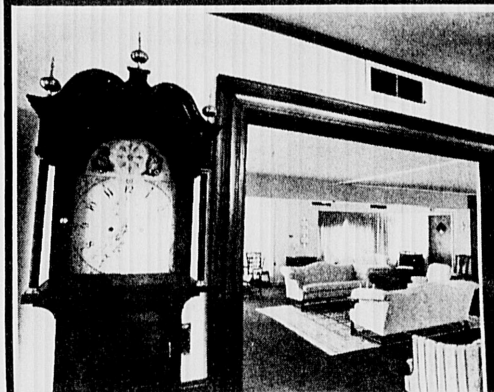

Consider our misery, our tears, our interior trials and sufferings! We know that you can help us through the merits of your Divine Son, Jesus. We promise, if our prayers are heard, to spread your glory, by making you known under the title of MARY, QUEEN OF ALL HEARTS, Queen of the Universe.

Grant, we beseech you, hear our prayers, for every day you give us so many proofs of your love and your power of intercession to heal both body and soul.

We hope against all hope. Ask Jesus to cure us, pardon us, and grant us final perseverance.

O Mary, Queen of All Hearts, help us. We have confidence in you. (3 times) put a two-family Chapter 203 low- to moderate-income house on part of the Loop just south of Cross Street. State officials have not determined whether that site is appropriate or if Salvucci will allow housing on the right-of-way.

Lombardi agreed. "I don't want the state to tell us we can build low-income housing on the Loop but we can't build anything else," he said.

Land values of Loop property are also highly dependent on whether the land can be used for housing, Lombardi said. He said selectmen might designate a "base price" for the land, especially if the frontage areas can be used for housing.

"But if it's all backland, that's a different story," he said.

At Lombardi's suggestion, selectmen unanimously agreed to ask Rep. Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh to hand-carry a letter to Salvucci, asking for a public hearing about uses of the Loop. Saltmarsh has offered to do so in the past.

Town manager Maurer cautioned selectmen to develop a list of criteria for evaluating proposals.

"By what criteria are we going to judge the proposals? The highest bid?

Those which combine private use and beneficial effects to the town? The kind of use? Tax return? The bidders will want to know," he said.

Welch praised Maurer's suggestion and immediately rejected using the "high bid" as a criterion. "A developer could outbid everyone, divide the property into house lots and make a killing," the chairman said.

Selectman Deering wondered aloud if the criteria should be made public.

Maurer said the town could set restrictions on use of the land "far in excess of the zoning by laws," if it chose to do so.

"I thought the abutters would get first choice," Sopper said.

"Being an abutter has to be close to the top of the list in our criteria for judging bids," Lombardi agreed.

"Are we going to keep any of the property for the town?" Sopper asked for the third time.

"By our next meeting, we ought to have a definitive answer to Mr. Sopper's question," Welch said.

Deering suggested the town should divide the Loop into potential lots, if only to simplify the disposition process. He suggested all abutters beam dimes to the center line of the Loop, either to the center line or the distant side, to create the potential lots and assign their numbers.

After meeting initial resistance, Deering convinced all four of his counterparts to create such a map. Selectmen will use copies of a previous report by John Brown Associates to discuss the Loop again at their 7:30 p.m. meeting Monday, July 21.

unaware that a permit from the department of public works was needed to work in a public way. Unfortunately, Maurer said, no mechanism existed for the police department to be sure a permit had actually been issued.

Kincaid thanked Maurer for responding to complaints early that morning but wondered if a designated "on-dutyman" should be appointed.

"That's us," Welch said. "The responsibility to enforce the by-laws ends up with the selectmen. Most people saw the policemen at the site that morning and assumed the project had been approved."

Brwa, the hospital's spokesman, said officials there "feel bad" the contractor was in the street at 6:30 a.m.

The hospital has a commitment to working with the neighbors," Brwa said. "It's for everyone's benefit. And I meet with the neighborhood study group about every two months."

Brwa speculated that "some hospital renovation projects have been happening all along" but neighbors were now aware of them because officials always inform the neighborhood study group of them.

"We have received an energy grant for a new boiler to be installed this fall and that will block the street," Brwa said. "We also have to install a new roof every 10 years and sweep the garage every year."

A major project in the works, however, is a full renovation of the maternity services area at a cost of $4.5 million. Construction will begin in early 1987 and continue through fall 1987, Brwa said.

So far, Brwa said, he has spent about eight hours discussing plans with neighbors in an attempt to draft a "statement of understanding" with them about the project. He agreed the talks should be called "strenuous."

Brwa will present the complete plan to selectmen during their Monday, Aug. 4, meeting.

Selectman Frank Sopper called the incident an illustration of a townwide problem. "There is a vacuum in how the town monitors construction," he said. "Nobody monitors to see that construction workers aren't taking over the neighborhood."

Sopper said the town should "assign somebody to visit construction sites every morning and afternoon" to see that by-laws are enforced and "that the neighborhood is not suffering an undue hardship."

Kincaid said the neighborhood study group serves the same purpose for its area but is "self-appointed and has its self-interest" at heart. "A third party would be an improvement," she said.

Sopper said a third party might also help make townspeople more willing to call. "The public has a fear of calling town hall," he said.

Self-help group directory ready

When anyone has a problem it helps to talk with someone who has had similar problems.

Simply finding others who have "been there" and finally realizing "you are not alone" can be a great relief. Mutual help support networks ("self-help" groups) do this and more.

"Self-help" is a growing movement in Massachusetts as in the rest of the country, according to Nancy C. Stutzman, Extension home economist with the Middlesex County Cooperative Extension.

Massachusetts Cooperative Extension at the University in Amherst has recently published the second edition of a directory of mutual help support networks throughout the state. This 96-page directory titled "Support Networks in Massachusetts: A Listing of Self-help Groups" is available free from Middlesex County Extension, 116 Everett St., Concord 01742.

The self-help movement grew rapidly during the 1970's in this country, and these member-run, peer-oriented groups have come to be recognized as a valuable component of the overall network of human services. Often successful collaborative relationships evolve between group members and interested professionals who act as group sponsors.

The directory lists groups throughout the state in twelve categories: addictions, bereavement, disabilities, domestic violence, health, mental health, parenting, seniors, separation/divorce, sexuality, singles, and women.

What To Do

Taking a ride Reading: trains

Model railroaders create their own worlds and that's part of the hobby's appeal, says Winchester resident and modeler Peter Arnott.

Although most children, especially boys, get a train set for Christmas, one year, model railroading is nothing like "playing with trains."

The fascination is far more than running electric trains around in a circle. Instead, modelers create miniature worlds. The challenge is to make the small version as much like the original as possible, always to exact scale.

The more materials, trains, track and scenery included, that can be made from "scratch," the better.

For generations, most Americans got their first exposure to model trains through a Lionel train set. "But because I'm English, I got a Hornby train set," Arnott recalls.

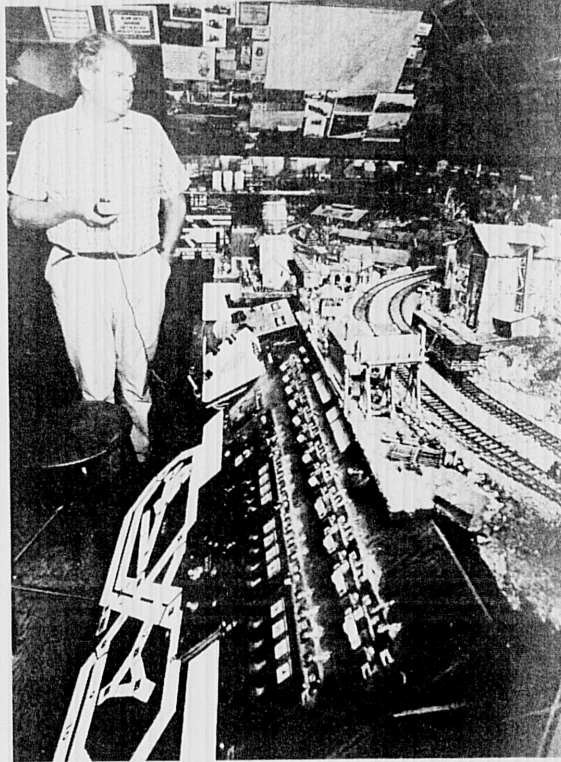

When he was older, his parents sold the trains because he was considered "too old" for them. "But recently I saw an identical set selling for $350 in an antique shop," he says ruefully. "They're museum pieces now."

Years later, after he and his wife Eva had moved to Iowa, Arnott picked up a model railroad magazine at the newsstand. The magic returned.

"I got excited about model railroading again, just by reading about it. I realized it is a very scientific hobby," he says.

But there was no room in the Arnott home for a model railroad layout. Undeterred, Arnott began building models, both in kit form and from scratch.

In 1969, he took a position in the drama department at Tufts. Eva was sent to find a house in Massachusetts.

"Model railroads were in his mind," Eva recalls. "I flew out here to find a house but I had one definite instruction: The house had to have room for a layout."

The age of the house and its architecture didn't matter so much. The house just had to have an attic suitable for a model railroad," she says.

They found the house in Winchester.

The first layout took five years to build. It's set in New Hampshire around the turn of the century. It can vary the exact period from 1870

What To Do

By George Derringer

on the tantalize

'Through a railroad layout, I create a complete sphere of activity I control.'

to 1924, depending on which stock (railroad equipment) I run," he says.

Another larger layout was built later, all around the first. Roughly modeled after the Boston & Maine Railroad in Western Massachusetts, it can be varied in time from about 1940 to the present.

"Most people stick with one historical period," Arnott says. "I like old-time locomotives and steam but I also like the modern diesels."

Another layout is planned in Arnott's Herrick Street basement and will be set in Great Britain during the 1930s. He has already begun collecting equipment for it.

Family members appear throughout Arnott's layouts. Daughters Jennifer and Catherine are found in place names, railroad names and even in a family car on the layout. Jennifer is riding a horse in one bit of raiiside scenery.

"There are lots of family in-jokes on the layouts. And the Volkswagen convertible is my wife's favorite car of all time," Peter says.

Peter and Eva, both involved in the theater for decades both on stage and off, delight in one bit of scenery.

"There's a graveyard on the layout and each gravestone bears the name of someone Peter doesn't like," Eva says.

"Mostly actors," Peter explains. "Fortunately, most of them have long since failed on their own, quite aside from my graveyard."

Other jokes include the name of Incoate, Mass. Incoate is a chiefly British word meaning "formless."

Creating a real world in miniature requires research. The Arnotts visit railroads and take pictures to be sure the colors of models are correct. "I'm also a fan of prototype (full-size) trains, partly to keep my modeling honest," Peter says.

No model railroad is ever done. Arnott says, although one does run out of space for major projects after a while.

"You spend the rest of the time refining the detail or replacing things, either because I have a better idea or I can do it better now," Arnott says.

The hobby, though specialized, has grown steadily over the years. "It's now possible to purchase new things, like HO-scale animals and birds. Recently, a British company began selling scale-model squirrels. I ordered 100 and the bag weighed more than the models," Arnott says.

Arnott has a particular love for animal models and modifies some commercial models for his own purposes.

"I have an HO-scale raccoon I made from an HO cat," he says.

"And a moose, which is really a horse, suitably altered."

HO is one of several scales in which modelers work. The most popular scale, HO is neither the smallest nor the largest available.

Increasing in popularity is "live steam," a model railroading spin-off in which modelers build their own tracks in the back yard and run genuine steam engines along them.

In Massachusetts, "Beverly Live Steamers" is best known. The signs do not lead people to a seafood shack, although some have made the mistake, Arnott says.

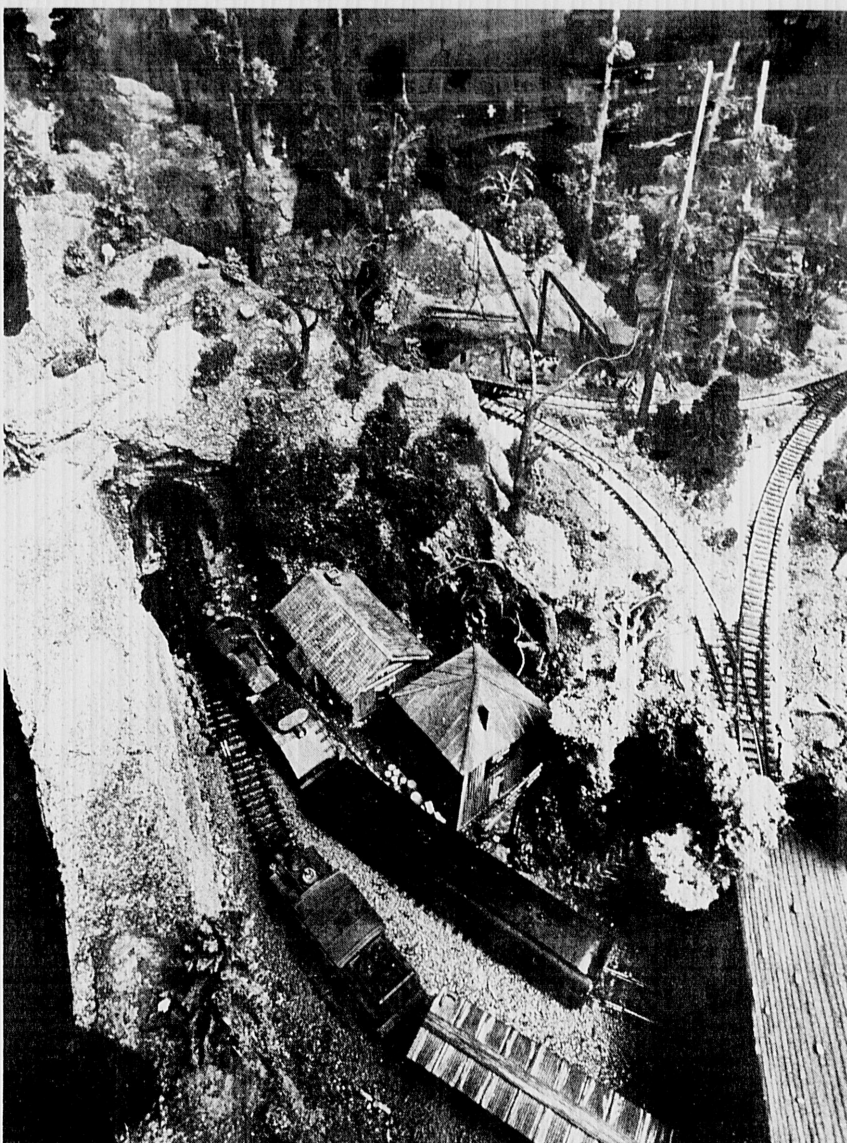

Arnott is not yet committed to building a "live steam" layout but he has obviously tinkered with the notion.

"What we're all doing is modeling nostalgia," he says. "We can rebuild the world through model railroading. And it's interesting that the most popular period is the late 1940s and the early 1950s."

Arnott likes directing plays because it allows him to create a sphere of activity over which he has complete control. Things turn out as he wants them to.

"Model railroading appeals to the same interest," he says. "Through a railroad layout, I create a complete sphere of activity I control."

Though Arnott never builds (Please see TRAINS, page 9)

Celebrating trains of all sizes

Trains of all sizes for people of all sizes will be enjoyed, loved and celebrated next week in Boston when three railroad-oriented groups gather for a common national convention.

The week is not an industry show at all, but an event for ordinary people who "just love trains," organizers emphasize.

During the week "rail fans," as aficionados of real trains are called, and "model railroaders" will be able to ride trains (including the beloved T1), see railroad movies, ride trolleys, take a train to a clam-bake, visit a trolley museum and ogle model railroad lay-outs in several locations.

Entitled "Minuteman '86," the convention is a joint production of local chapters of the National Railway Historical Society, The Railroad Enthusiasts and the National Model Railroad Association.

Headquarters for the July 21-27 convention are at the Sheraton Boston.

Most events are designed to attract the public as well as members of the three sponsoring organizations.

Organizers expect about 3,000 members to attend.

One sad note, however, concerns plans for a steam locomotive to pull fan trips to North Adams and Portland, Maine.

Organizers were unable to provide the needed liability insurance after Conrail, which owns most of the track, had its own liability insurance canceled.

Even the London insurance market wouldn't touch the policy.

Instead, an unusual diesel locomotive will operate a special convention train to Albany July 26 and to New London, Conn., July 27. Other rail trips include: the Cape Cod & Hyannis Railroad July 22; the Providence & Worcester Railroad July 23; the Valley Railroad and Mystic Seaport July 24; and the Bay Colony Railroad July 25.

Even art lovers will find something to like about the train convention.

The Boston Chapter of the National Railroad Historical Society will sponsor the first International Railway Art Exhibition July 22-27 at the Boston Center for the Arts, 535 Tremont St.

Many of the artists will be on hand as well. They include members of the Society of Steam Artists and the Guild of Railway Artists in Great Britain.

But trains big and small will be the major focus. For fans of the real thing, a display of railroad equipment from first-generation diesels to the latest microprocessor-controlled giants will be available.

For fans of model railroads, and there are many beyond the lucky few with enough space to construct their own permanent lay-outs, a trade show is planned July 25-27 at the Sheraton and trips to club layouts are available.

Clinics and seminars for active model railroaders will be conducted throughout the week.

A special tour for history buffs will take visitors each day to The Granite Railway, built in 1826 to haul granite for the Bunker Hill Monument from quarries in Quincy to the Neponset River for water shipment to Charlestown. The tour will include the quarry, portions of the roadbed, the wharf and restored artifacts and replicas.

Perhaps of more interest to out-of-town visitors than area residents will be tours of the entire length of each "T" line, perhaps including an inspection of the Orange Line's new underground Southwest Corridor.

Further information about the convention is available by calling the Sheraton during the event. Registration desk hours will be noon to 8 p.m. Sunday, 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, 7 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday and 7 to 11 a.m. Saturday.

"We thought by having a joint convention of the three organizations, we might have a greater impact and greater interest for the general public, which is certainly invited," said John Wilson of Wayland, national director of the Boston Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society.

What's On The Boards

Hard Times a triumph for theatre

Hard Times proves the best of times

Review

Hard Times, an epic drama now on the boards of the Gloucester Stage Company through July 27, is a dazzling triumph.

The adaptation of Dickens' classic novel by English playwright Stephen Jeffreys, a monumental task, is truly magnificent. Direction by Gray Cattell Johnson is his most sterling effort yet and is, quite simply, brilliant.

And the quartet of actors that comprise the ensemble, bringing to life 19 characters—Sandra Shipley, Paul O'Brien, Al Mohrman and Stephanie Clayman—are awesome and towering!

Hard Times is the equivalent of watching (live) a dozen episodes of Masterpiece Theatre during a three-hour span. Indeed, so taxing is the challenge to cast and crew that the GSC revised its Saturday schedule, with showings now timed for 3 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Staged in the round on Jim Fenhagen's cleverly designed, sparse set, the action takes place in Victorian times and examines life and economic conditions in the working class mill town, Coketown, in northern England. It focuses on the fortunes of Mr. Thomas Gradgrind, headmaster of the local school, and his two children, Tom and Louisa.

Gradgrind is an upright man, a strict disciplinarian who believes all decisions must be based on fact, figures and rules, nothing on emotions. Louisa, approaching womanhood, finds warmth and solace only in the companionship of her brother and would make any sacrifice on his behalf. Tom is an opportunist whose goal in life is a lofty position in the town bank.

Louisa's lone friend has been classmate Sissy Jupe, daughter of a lowly circus clown. When Sissy's father runs off, leaving Sissy in hopes that she might find a better life, Gradgrind benevolently takes her in as a household servant, promising her continued education, but restricting her association with Louisa.

Mr. Bounderby is the town's leading citizen—loud, pompous, fat and unattractive. A bachelor, he owns the mill and the bank and controls just about everything in Coketown. He derives immense pleasure in recounting his humble beginnings and "how he pulled through . . . nurtured on drybone and sawdust." He has always been covetous of Louisa and eventually asks for her hand in marriage.

Gradgrind, being groomed for Parliament with Bounderby's aid, is delighted. Although contemptuous of Bounderby, Tom sees the union as an opportunity to insure his own future. No one cares how Louisa feels and she has no choice but to agree to the older man's proposal. Only Sissy frowns upon the merger, creating a rift between the two women.

Mr. Bounderby's home is tended to by a Mrs. Sparsit, "a lady born and bred," whose husband deserted her, and who has designs on Bounderby. When he enters the house to blusteringly announce his betrothal plans "like a dog who was coming directly from the pantry," he softens the blow by offering her alternate living quarters above the bank, a position there, and financial benefits. But, Mrs. Sparsit is a woman to be reckoned with.

For Louisa, the marriage proves disastrous, accomplishing little more than protecting Tom's position at the bank. Tom becomes a wastrel, into excessive drinking and gaming, with Louisa constantly paying off his debts. Enter Mr. Harthouse, an attractive bounder, who uses Tom to ingratiate himself with Louisa. Meetings between the two become frequent, with Harthouse professing his affections while wooing her sympathies, referring to himself as "a great pyramid of failure." Meanwhile, the ever-vengeful, ever-spying (a la Miss Marple) Mrs. Sparsit suspects a tryst and attempts to corner the pair. The chase scene that follows is one that even the Keystone Kops could not duplicate! It is hilarious! And the second act closes out with a gorgeous, emotion-packed scene between the distraught Louisa and her father.

There are many sub-plots. The major one concerns Stephen Blackpool, a weaver who works at the loom in Bounderby's mill. Blackpool is a compassionate, sensible human being caught up between union and management and who is eventually ostracized. His wife has left him and become a derelict; still married, his love for his wife will never be resolved. He makes a fervent plea for compromise and understanding. It is through Blackpool that Dickens approaches unions, working conditions, mines that "kill without need," the laws of the land, divorce, and "a whole system based upon self-interest."

Along the way are all sorts of wonderfully delineated characters—a mysterious old woman who spies on Bounderby; Sleary, a speech-impaired member of the circus troupe, tough union delegate Slackbridge, the Union Chairwoman; and the rabble-rousing Mary Stokes, an outspoken union worker.

The quartet of actors exudes style and elegance, and executes the many roles with distinction.

Also worthy of kudos is the light design by Douglas Kirkpatrick, costumes by Jeanine Burgess and Sue Gochenour, and dressers Amy Weiner and Martha Almy and crew members Tony and Frank Gentile, who keep the flow moving at a driving tempo.

Rags not all milk and honey

Review

Broadway-bound Rags is a musical drama that follows the plight of the teeming masses that crossed the Atlantic in steerage, crammed in the holds of ships like so many cattle, to reach the land of the free and the home of the brave, a country of religious and political tolerance, a new world of opportunity with cities devoid of ills and streets paved with gold. What these immigrants found instead was an ambivalence of strengths and weaknesses, not unlike Rags itself.

At the Shubert Theatre through July 19, Rags is a serious and ambitious work, verging on modern opera. Its major asset is star Christine Andreas, who has, at least temporarily, taken over the demanding role of Rebecca. Twice nominated for a Tony Award, Andreas could easily win the statuette with her lovely, resonant voice, her significant acting abilities, and her stunning tour-de-force performance.

Rags contains a preponderance of narrative songs, somewhat heavy-handed, that do much to carry along the plotline. Indeed, a weak point of Rags is that its creators—book by Joseph Stein and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz—try to explore in depth so much material that the show could easily sink into the Hudson River. This, in turn, restrains the input of composer Charles Strouse, who is obliged to keep his music on the same level. What is needed to turn the show around is some professional choreography, far more ethnic humor, more romantic ballads and comedy routines.

Rags succeeds admirably in capturing the tempo and the flavor of lower Manhattan in the early 1900's, with its predominantly Jewish character—the smells, the sights and the sounds.

It opens with a group of immigrants aboard ship, then on to the cattle bins of Ellis Island. Aliens had to be met by a relative, so when Rebecca, travelling with her young son David (Josh Blake), finds that her husband is missing, she is vouched for by Avram (Dick Latessa), who has come for his daughter Bella (Judy Kuhn), befriended by Rebecca during the long voyage.

Avram lives with his brother and sister-in-law and the addition of the new arrivals makes six living in a one-bedroom flat. Rebecca finds work in a sweatshop sewing piece goods. Avram, a former teacher and scholar, peddles tinware from a pushcart.

Rebecca's search for her husband proves futile. The "children of the wind" are confronted by all sorts of experiences—con men at the docks, protection money payments to thugs, arrogance at the hands of earlier arrivals, sub-standard living conditions in tenement houses, songs composed for a penny, a fractured Hamlet, peddling rags . . . and wearing them.

Rebecca becomes friends with Saul (Terrance Mann), the Union shop organizer and goes to night school to learn English. Her husband Nathan (Larry Kert) shows up, totally Americanized, with aspirations of being selected ward leader by Big Jim of Tammany Hall.

Young Bella has a puppylove relationship with Ben (Lonny Price). Bella's end is tragic, while Rebecca sheds her European ways and asserts herself as a free-thinking, independent human being.

Most memorable songs are the pretty blues number, Blame It On The Summer Night, and Dancing with the Fools, both rendered by Andreas. Judy Kuhn does a sensational job on the title tune, Three Sunny Rooms, a hilarious comedy number, is sung by Marcia Lewis, who portrays a middle-aged widow with her cap set for Avram.

Sets by Beni Montresor are clever and functional (his Statue of Liberty seems like the Colossus of Rhodes), costumes by Florence Klotz are authentic of the period, and, with Peter Fitzgerald's sound design, you can hear perfectly from anywhere in the house.

Hopefully, with some changes, Rags will go on to riches.

What About Art?

By Meredith Fife Day

Dark shadows and a lone orange lawn chair provide striking contrasts in Louis Berenberg's pastel, Rosa Rugosa #3.

Seven artists in Lincoln

The summer months are sometimes considered an "in-between" time for Boston area galleries and museums.

The viewing public is looking at work in galleries on the Cape or museums on the north shore, while urban and suburban galleries prepare for the season to begin in September.

But there is no dearth of satisfying and exciting exhibits in the area now.

The Institute of Contemporary Art and other galleries feature new and emerging talent; the Museum of Fine Arts has four fine exhibits—the Boston School, masterpieces from the McIlhenny Collection, Picasso prints and Morris Louis' paintings; the Mills Gallery at Boston Center for the Arts exhibits winners of its annual drawing competition; and the Massachusetts Artists Foundation fellowship recipients' and finalists' work is on view at the Federal Reserve Bank Gallery through Aug. 22.

In Local Color: A Second Look, Clark Gallery of Lincoln, continues its commitment to recognize, support and promote Boston's developing talents, reintroducing seven area artists chosen from its previous Local Color exhibits.

Each artist is represented by five to 12 works, giving the viewer a sense of the direction and vision of each.

The variety and range strike the right chord, too, providing—with the exception of purely abstract painting—a sampling of current thought, style and means of working among area artists.

Joy Hanken's clay pieces represent three-dimensional work in the exhibition. Curvy creatures with bellies to the ground, sporting curls and non-menacing spikes on their backs plop down happily next to a Garden of Earthly Delights.

Resting on its birthday cake of a base, this garden invites adults to remember the childhood wonder of a world unfolding and the inventions and fantasies that accompanied it.

"My experience in teaching clay to children has helped open up my own imagination. They help keep me honest and playful," the artist says.

Hanken is one of three artists in the exhibition who make aggressive use of the color black. In her work black is a crisp and sharp contrast to the subtle melting of pale yellows, greens and pinks, and warm amber incised lines next to it.

Similarly, the black in Elizabeth Rickett's pastels lends stark drama to the contrasting delicate translucence of large organic forms.

Both the coloristic and psychological tone of Louis Berenberg's big pastel drawings seem set by the deep, opaque blacks of his suburban landscapes' shadows. Neither the bright orange lawn chair nor the hot pink flowers in Rosa Rugosa warm or soften the cold mystery of those blacks from which all else seems to emerge and could disappear into momentarily.

Shadows are important, too, to the energetically painted figurative oils of Nancy Flanagan.

The effectiveness of light to describe and model form is given bravura treatment in her work.

A dramatic point of view in Figure 3, in which the subject is viewed from above and gazes up anxiously at the painter/viewer, is supported by the drama of her face being lighted on one side and pushed into the shadows on the other.

Flanagan's use of warm neutrals and manipulation of light give richness to her colors that imbues a quiet milky blue with a near electrical charge in its context.

A very different handling of color and light characterize Deborah Friedman's small oils on wood. Bright yellow-greens and deep earthy reds are set against a white-grey light that gives scenes of Pompeii's crumbling walls, unconnected columns and partially-abstracted frescoes a surreal character befitting Friedman's painstaking detail and selection of motif.

The paintings of Nancy Day and Roberta Paul round out the exhibition and identify more readily with abstract painting than the other artists' work.

Though both painters use imagery and are consistent in their choice of subject matter, their allegiance is not necessarily to the literal depiction of its form.

Day's subject is rocks. Her palette is light and the rocks take on an ephemeral character, denying their weight and substance. She paints them as single shapes in an airy space so that two or more with in one painting have a relationship of attracting and repelling one another.

Roberta Paul's oil stick paintings' tropical motifs are big brightly colored shapes that pattern and decorate her surfaces. Serpentine stems and fronds, ruffled flower petals and swelling thalo green leaves threaten to engulf the compressed space between their flattened form and the actively configured walls close behind them.

A viewer might respond to these works as gaily decorative or inexplicably visceral.

Such a range of responses is a certainty, if not in any one artist's work, then surely in the entirety of this widely diverse and very good exhibit.

Located in the mall at Lincoln Station, Clark Gallery is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. Local Color: A Second Look will continue through Aug. 9. Call 259-8303.

Gallery talks at the ICA

Boston — July 20 and 27. In conjunction with the sixth annual Boston Now exhibition, focusing on painting this year, are Sunday afternoon gallery talks by exhibiting artists. Brian McFarlane and Donald Shambroom will discuss their work this Sunday at 2:00. Next Sunday, July 27, the two talks will be presented by Nelson and Tim Steele. The exhibition is on view through Aug. 24.

Midnight to 2 a.m.	Tenth sign following
2 to 4 a.m.	Eleventh sign following

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Accent is on career or public image and you could get a promotion if one is deserved. Stand behind a good friend and make teamwork your goal now. You're especially persuasive at this time — you think and talk very well.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Don't get bogged down with petty matters — keep your eye on the future and your broader goals. New authority and responsibility are part of a possible promotion on the job. Be innovative, imaginative and follow your hunches!

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Get out and about — make contacts and listen to some excellent ideas or advice. Review your life and decide exactly where you want to go from here. Discard old things; make changes, reach for the stars and go for the brass ring!

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Partnerships of all kinds are accentuated and a pleasant reunion may be in store. Get good advice about finances and you could make a bundle or a desired loan may come through. Be willing to help someone with a problem.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Be more flexible and willing to change your mind or compromise. Be confident but not demanding, listen to suggestions and explore new ideas. Look beneath the surface of a sticky situation that involves other people's money.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — A relationship may be getting more intense and you should feel confident about your romantic life. Finish up jobs you've let slide — be practical. Let others take the initiative and be especially cooperative.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Changes may occur in your residence or at your base of operations — you may feel that your domestic and professional life are at odds. Don't let others become overly dependent on you. Be realistic about a personal relationship.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Conflict and tension with loved ones can best be handled with tact and your acceptance of more responsibilities. Seek ways to become more stable and productive. Extend yourself socially — you'll be charming and magnetic!

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Your judgment in finances may be unrealistic now so get good advice from experts. Romance is favored and you may find high adventure quite close to home. This is an excellent time to host a unique kind of entertainment.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — The ball is in your court now, so make your power play! A big money deal or investment could mean giving up any limited ideas about income. Use your fresh, original ideas — get in on the ground floor of a new enterprise.

AQUARIUS: (Jan 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Discriminate between people who really need you and those who only want to use you. Discourage over dependency in loved ones. You can make an important new beginning romantically. Stick with a project to completion.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — An emotional confrontation will require compromise on both sides but you can work it out. Go out, be active, make contacts, organize your work and clear the decks for new beginnings. Accept the invitation for a romantic trip.

What's On the Boards?

amination of the forces that drive a young soldier to insanity and violence. It is based on the true stories of several 19th-century army recruits who murdered their lovers. The central character takes his name from the defendant in a celebrated case who claimed innocence by virtue of insanity and was later hanged.

Georg Buchner died at the age of 23, leaving a small but powerful legacy of radical, brooding works. His death scant days before the completion of Woyzeck prevented him from ordering the nearly-thirty scenes of this sprawling, visionary play; the HRST ensemble production, directed by Daniel McGrath, takes advantage of this ambiguity by repeating key moments of the action and using the company as a dramatic tide to wash the characters through the courage of the story. "Buchner has a Shakespearean sense of sweep and language," says McGrath, "and Woyzeck is important not only for the text, but also for the potential that the text contains."

Noting that Woyzeck is the first play to have a proletarian hero, McGrath calls it "a remarkable piece of social criticism, sharp in its delineations and fascinating in its philosophical and theological concerns."

Woyzeck will be performed Tuesday through Sunday nights. Tickets cost $5.50 for adult and $3.50 for students with valid identification. After Woyzeck closes on Aug. 2, Sam Shepard's Pulitzer Prize-winning drama Buried Child will run from Aug. 7-23.

The Experimental Theatre is located in the Loeb Drama Center, 64 Brattle St. in Cambridge, near the Harvard Square stop on the Red Line and the Harvard Station bus terminus. For more information call the box office, open daily 1-9 p.m., at 864-2630.

Tintypes celebrates America

Tintypes, a musical devoted to the years 1891 to 1920 and featuring fifty songs by the likes of George M. Cohan, Scott Joplin, Irving Berlin and Victor Herbert, opens the summer season at the Nickerson Theatre, Norwell, July 18 and runs through August 30.

Performance times and prices for the performance of Tintypes are: Tuesday through Thursday, 8 p.m.; Friday, 8:30 p.m.; Saturday 2 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.; Sunday at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Prices for Friday and Saturday evenings are $16; for all other performances $13.

A detailed brochure on the new season may be obtained by calling 871-2400, or writing the Nickerson Theatre, 30 Accord Park Drive, P.O. Box 272, Accord (Norwell), MA 02108.

The theatre is conveniently located off Route 3 South. Take Exit 14 to Accord Park, Norwell.

Locomotives, saying they require "technological skills I don't have," he says model railroading satisfies some of his technological curiosity.

"In my ordinary life, I don't get electronic challenges I find in my hobby," he says.

Modelers must do a good deal of electronic work for layouts and Arnott says he has learned a lot. "But it's a safe arena. If I make a ghastly mistake, nothing absolutely terrible will happen."

Other disciplines are required for model railroading on a serious scale. "You must know a bit of geology, a bit of botany, something about industry and existing transportation systems, as well as modeling skills," Arnott says.

Like all other Massachusetts model railroaders, Arnott looks forward to the national convention of three railroad groups July 21-27 at the Sheraton Boston.

His layout will welcome some of the 3,000 visitors expected, with 20 at a time taking buses to Winchester to see his work.

But it will hardly be Arnott's first National Model Railroad Association convention. He's been to those as far away as Orlando and Winnipeg in recent years.

And he expects to learn more at some of the convention's clinics and seminars.

OUR EMPLOYEES TAKE GOOD CARE OF OUR PATIENTS. WE TAKE GOOD CARE OF OUR EMPLOYEES.

At Hillhaven Corporation, we believe good patient care requires even more than the modern facilities and top-notch medical care we offer. It requires people—the kind of RN's and LPN's that provide personal as well as professional expertise. We also understand the value of such employees. That's why at our Walden House facility, we offer the outstanding benefits a fine staff deserves.

RN LPN

We offer a Monday through Friday work schedule with no weekends required. Some of our other excellent benefits include a weekend work program in which you can work 12 hours and get paid for 18, and a reliability bonus program that entitles you to an extra check as you accumulate hours. If you prefer, you can even have pay in lieu of benefits.

Hillhaven's greatest benefit, however, is the rewarding opportunity for RN's and LPN's to grow both personally and professionally, by working with some of the most touching of clientele—the elderly.

For an interview appointment, please contact Helen McNabola, DNS, at our Concord facility, at 617-369-6889.

SELL HOME YOURSELF?

I'm sure you've heard it said: "Why should I sell my home through a REALTOR? I can sell it myself and save a lot of money." Right? Wrong!

This kind of thinking usually turns out to be financially unwise. The prospects will usually start by mentally deducting the commission and then start negotiating from there. On the average, a homeowner saves little or no money when he sells his/her own home. In fact, the opposite is often true. A lot of time is wasted showing homes to unqualified curiosity seekers and many possible sales are lost because the owner did not possess the experience to financially structure a viable sale in today's fast-changing money market.

As a private seller you're at a great disadvantage in the intricate areas of financing, negotiating and protecting yourself from all sorts of do-it-yourself pitfalls. You've got a strong investment in your home. It makes sense to list it with a REALTOR. He or she will sell without any disappointment and for the best price and in the shortest amount of time.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee. Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

Audi Remanufactured Parts. Built Like New. Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuilt" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit — alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts — is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts.* The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

*Ask for Autobahn or Audi Limited Warranty at our Parts Department

They've met Chrysler's tough service standards. And yours.

THE 1986 SERVICE PROFESSIONALS

When your Chrysler-built car or truck needs service, it's good to know where to get superior service. But how can you be sure?

Easy. Just look for the Service Professionals sign. The dealership that has it, really earned it. By consistently meeting Chrysler's high standards of training, facilities and equipment.

And most important, by getting high ratings in satisfaction from customers like you.

That's why you can always count on Knox Dodge, and others like us across the country. Not just for good service. But for superior service. Every time.

Knox Dodge has been in the same location and in the same family selling and servicing Chrysler Corp. vehicles for over fifty-four years.

Call us for any of your transportation needs at 666-2200, we're over the line on Broadway in Somerville.

POLICE LOG

Local man arrested in Arlington

Arlington police arrested a Winchester man last Tuesday and charged him with both stealing a car and breaking into two apartments.

Nicholas Auerio Jr., 31, of 38 Pilgrim Dr., was arrested at 1:20 p.m. at Park Terrace in Arlington.

He was charged with larceny of a motor vehicle, breaking and entering to commit a misdemeanor, and breaking and entering to commit a felony.

Police said they received information that a man was driving a stolen vehicle in Arlington. They observed a 1979 Cadillac sedan parked in the municipal lot. Police said that when they approached the Park Terrace apartments, a man ran out of the apartment he was in, and knocked on the door of an apartment across the hall.

Police say the resident of the apartment who answered the door did not want to let the man inside, but the man forced his way into the apartment and told the occupant to be quiet. Police arrested Auerio in the resident's apartment.

Thursday, July 17

An Arlington woman's car was damaged at 11:45 a.m. while it was being towed by a truck which struck a utility pole at Wildwood Street and Albamont Road.

The car, owned by Ruby Cook, was being towed by a truck driven by David Russell, 25, of Chesterford Road. The truck couldn't negotiate a turn from Wildwood to Albamont, police said. It was owned by Mal's Towing of Arlington.

A Cross Street resident suffered minor injuries when the car he was driving struck two parked cars on Cross Street, police said. He was taken to Winchester Hospital at 10:40 a.m. for treatment.

The driver's Cadillac sedan struck two cars owned by John Mangano of 17 Cross St. Police cited the driver for speeding.

Steven J. Rotondo, 26, of Medford was arrested on a speeding warrant issued by state police in Weston.

Winchester police learned of the warrant after stopping Rotondo for a traffic violation at the intersection of Main Street and Skilling Road.

Friday, July 18

At 4:33 p.m., a Somerville man suffered a broken wrist when the motorcycle he was driving collided with a car, police said.

David Sued, 18, was wearing only a pair of shorts when he collided with a car turning into the Winchester Savings Bank parking lot on Main Street. He was taken to Winchester Hospital for treatment of cuts and scrapes after hitting the right front fender of a car driven by Joseph Quigley Jr., 36, of Harvard Street.

Sued was cited for improper passing.

Lawn and shrubs of two Salem Street homes were damaged Friday by a motorcyclist. At 12:30 a.m., Joseph Davis of 32 Salem St. said he heard a screech of tires, looked out and saw a red American Motors Gremlin drive across his lawn and one at 29 Salem St.

Police traced the auto license number to a Clark Street resident, who admitted doing the damage, police said. He was cited for leaving the scene of an accident involving property damage.

Saturday, July 19

A Cox Road home was reported ransacked, police said. The couple said the break took place late Friday night or Saturday morning. The intruder apparently forced open a bathroom window.

No estimate of the missing items was completed.

A Winchester Department of Public Works truck was damaged when it was struck by a car that rolled into it while the car was unoccupied.

The owner of the car, a Highland Avenue resident, told police he left the car on Mt. Vernon Street with the engine running while he went to a convenience store. The car apparently slipped into reverse, crossed the rotary and hit a town truck under the railroad bridge.

The auto owner was cited for leaving a car unattended with the motor running.

Tuesday, July 22

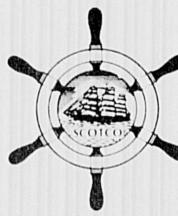

A Salisbury Street resident reported damage to two family vehicles parked at her home. The damage took place between 7 p.m. Monday and 7 a.m. Tuesday, she said. Police are investigating.

At 5:03 p.m., an Oneida Road resident reported that someone had entered his parked car and removed a wallet containing about $30 from it. No other damage or theft was reported.

At 8:48 a.m., a Dean Road resident reported that someone had thrown an egg against his house during the night. The resident told police he had no idea who the culprit might be.

Dance to benefit Bellino, paralyzed in truck accident

The "Friends of Mike Bellino" will hold a dance to benefit Mike Bellino, a 21-year-old Winchester youth who has been left paralyzed as a result of a recent automobile accident in Gloucester.

Bellino is the son of Anthony "Moose" Bellino, owner of Bellino's Pizza Restaurant on Main Street. The young man suffered permanent damage to his spinal column when the truck in which he was a passenger was involved in a head-on collision.

Doctors offer no hope he will walk again.

The dance will be from 7 p.m. to midnight Saturday, Aug. 23 at the Sons of Italy Hall on Swanton Street. Bellino's friends are working very hard to make the event a big success.

There will be dancing to the D.J. "Music Platter," a hot and cold buffet, door prizes and many raffle items donated by local friends and business people.

Winchester's State Rep. Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh will be the master of ceremonies.

For tickets please call chairman Beth DePrimeo at 933-1626 and leave a message.

A fund has also been started in Bellino's behalf, and anyone wishing to help, send contributions to The Anthony Bellino Fund, in care of The Century Bank & Trust, 2309 Mass. Avenue, Cambridge, 02139.

Bellino is at the University Hospital in Boston, and will be confined there for quite some time.

Thank You Winchester Savings

There's more than one way to finance an education!

With educational expenses on the rise and financial assistance more restrictive, families are looking for alternatives to pay for school. At Winchester Savings Bank, you'll find loans specifically for students... loans for parents of students... and even loans for students or parents who own homes. And in most cases, there are no restrictions on age, the type of school you're attending (or plan to attend), or if you're a half-time or full-time student.

HELP Loans: Administered by the Massachusetts Higher Education Assistance Corporation, this federally sponsored program offers low-interest loans to undergraduate and graduate students. Parents are not required to co-sign, the first payment is deferred until after graduation and you have up to 10 years to repay.

PLUS Loans: This is also a locally administered, federally sponsored program that offers below-market rates to parents of dependent undergraduate students as well as to independent undergraduate and graduate students. Payments start within 45 days and the repayment period is negotiated.

Home Equity Lines of Credit: With a Winchester Savings Bank Home Equity Line of Credit, homeowners can use the equity in their homes to pay for the cost of education... or for whatever else they want. Lines of credit are available up to $150,000.

To find out more about financing your education, call 729-2130 or visit any office of Winchester Savings Bank.

DECIPHERING ZONING MAP

If you are looking for a new home in a new area, it is possible that you have secured a zoning map of the town. The problem is—if you are not in the business of building or selling real estate, the zoning code numbers and abbreviations will make the map just about meaningless. Here's a quick course.

The general zoning abbreviations are usually "R" for residential, "C" or "B" for commercial business, "I" or "M" for industrial manufacturing, and "A" for agricultural.

Each of these classifications have subgroups. For example, "R-1" for single family residential; "R-2" for two-family houses; "R-3" for larger apartment buildings. Similarly, "M-1" may stand for light industrial use and "M-2" may refer to heavy industrial use.

Zoning regulations and classifications protect your buying interests. If you're purchasing a single-family home, you probably want to be reassured that a factory or shopping center isn't going to go up next door.

Woburn Loop deeds will have restrictions

By GEORGE DERRINGER

Restrictions will be in the deeds when the town sells parts of the Woburn Loop to abutters or anyone else.

Selectmen agreed Monday that a major restriction will prevent anyone from acquiring several parcels on the abandoned railroad right-of-way and putting them together for a new purpose. But construction will not be completely banned unless state officials decide so.

Left unresolved were questions about whether Woburn Loop parcels can be used to make "buildable lots" from previously "unbuildable lots" abutting them and whether parts of the Loop could be used as driveways to previously land-locked parcels.

Selectmen plan to request proposals from individuals who want to buy parts of the Loop, now owned by the town.

First, however, they must determine whether the policy of state Transportation Secretary Frederick Salvecci not to allow building on former rights-of-way will be enforced here.

Selectmen hope to bring proposals to the November town meeting for disposition of all of the Loop between Cross and Swanton streets.

Frank Sopper and Wade Welch took pains to make it clear that a "request for proposals" is not a fancy name for another professional study.

"It means we want neighbors and others to bid on the land," Welch said. "You don't need a consultant or a lawyer to make a bid."

Selectmen also made a final decision to divide the Loop property into identifiable small parcels for the bidding process. In general, the Loop will be divided in half, down the middle of the right-of-way, with abutters' property lines mentally extended to the center line of the old tracks.

We should see if there's any general interest among the neighbors for keeping some of the land as green space," selectmen Judie Muglia said. She said she wanted to hear from area residents if they wished the town to retain some part of the property.

Sopper tried again to convince his fellow selectmen that some of the Loop property south of Swanton Street should be declared "not for sale" right now. None agreed.

Specifically, Sopper wants the town to keep the property just east of Main Street and south of Swanton Street to provide a park for that neighborhood. He also wants to keep the portion closest to Skillings Road.

Sopper said no "requests for proposals" should ever be sought for those lands. "What I want to avoid is getting an innovative proposal that might be too tempting," he said.

Other selectmen said the portion of the Loop south of Swanton Street is not being considered for sale this year and no decision needs to be made now.

Two streets which abut the Loop north of Swanton Street were discussed. Hill Street, which had been divided by the Loop, will remain town property but will not be opened as a through street, selectmen decided.

Arthur Street presented a bigger problem. Long used as a parking lot behind the old bowling alley, the official street's status is uncertain.

Selectmen will meet with the planning board at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 4, to determine its wishes in disposition of the Loop property.

In the interim, town engineer Jake Ciarcia will make overlays for town property maps to show the small parcels to be sold and advice will be sought from assessors to help selectmen adopt pricing guidelines.

Finally, the town will pursue its request to Salvecci for a public hearing on the use of the Loop property. The hearing is to determine whether low- and moderate-income housing can be built on the Loop but the outcome will also have a direct bearing on whether other parts of the property could be used for buildings.

In other action Monday night, selectmen:

- Granted a common victualler's license to Lawrence Davis, new owner of the Continental Cow. Davis will rename the specialty food store "Davis Fine Foods" and expand the store's offerings.

- Scheduled a hearing on several barking dog complaints as part of their Aug. 4 meeting.

- Agreed to meet with a representative of A & T Realty, developer of a subdivision south of Sussex Road near the town forest, during the Aug.

4 meeting. A pipeline through the forest will be required to bring water to the neighborhood.

Heard a brief debate on whether the correct process had been followed in preceding weeks when a new regulation requiring cast iron pipes through building foundations was adopted.

Bob Deering said the process "fell apart" because a matter deferred for further information was put back on the agenda and a decision was made without the requested information.

Sopper disagreed. "The process was followed to the letter," he said. "The water department requested we go back to requiring cast iron. I went to the town manager and asked to put it on our meeting docket. Four department heads said they wanted cast iron. Somewhere between then and our decision, three of them changed their minds. I don't know why. But the process was followed."

Selectmen voted unanimously to change the town codes.

EAST MEETS WEST

Hong Kong successfully blends East and West into a location that is at once spiritual, lively and serene. Even those who have never before been to the Orient immediately feel at home in this city of contrasts. Its lofty mountains frame brightly colored junks bobbing in the water. The comparison is to its towering skyscrapers, sparkling new subways, and endless glass-and-marble shopping arcades. In this duty-free port, shopping is part of the life force. With the recent government fixing of the Hong Kong dollar, the tourist has greater buying power than ever. It makes this an ideal time to enjoy the city's pleasures and attractions.

Make your next vacation the most enchanting one you have ever taken whether or not you decide to visit the Orient. Our staff at FAIR WINDS TOURS, LTD. stays abreast of everything in the world of travel so we can make suggestions to you that will meet your personal tastes and most important your budget requirements. Come see us at 165 Washington St., 721-2095 and let us play a major role in your next vacation or business trip. Our services are free. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5.

Fine Hong Kong custom tailoring takes a minimum of 3-6 days. Fittings should take place early in one's trip.

Italian Carnival will move to fall weekend

By GEORGE DERRINGER

The Italian Fiesta Carnival of the Society of the Blessed Virgin Mary will not be expanded to four days this year, as organizers had hoped.

The carnival is scheduled Sept. 12-14 at Leonard Field, about a month later than in past years. The Italian Fiesta was revived in 1978 but had existed for about 50 years after the turn of the century.

Selectmen rejected an argument that four days are needed in order for the charity to turn a profit but did agree to let the carnival move one day to Sunday.

John Mercurio, spokesman for the carnival, said its basic format would be the same as in past years with an emphasis on bringing families, "especially older families who may have moved away" back to the area.

He said a fourth day is needed because the carnival "has been just about a break-even event for us." Carnival companies also said Sunday hours "would greatly increase the possibility of making a profit," he said.

The Society of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the carnival sponsor, has also hired a new amusement company. The new company will be Rockwell Amusement and Promotions, the same firm used by the EnKa Society for its annual fair in May.

Selectmen hesitated a long time before giving approval to the carnival, however. They based their objections both to noise in the Leonard Field area and to damage done by carnivals to playfields.

"It looks like you've expanded this into something like EnKa," said selectman Bob Deering. He also objected to the original proposal for Thursday night hours because school is in session Friday.

Selectman Judie Muggia also noted the objections of the recreation department and the department of public works, who said the carnival does great damage to the playfields.

"The town has just begun a multi-million dollar project to improve its playfields," she said.

Muggia said, however, that the town has no policy about playfields and it would be unfair to allow one charity and not another to use the fields. "We have no policy and our fields suffer," she said.

Muggia said all carnivals should be moved off grass and on to concrete.

Mercurio said his group would work closely with the town to minimize damage to the fields and said the carnival's neighbors "have been very good to us." Carnival organizers police the area after the carnival, he said.

Mercurio admitted, however, that a rock band last year created "more noise than there should have been. We're not doing that again."

Selectman Frank Sopper said the fiesta's request for four days "seems like a long time. This seems to be getting out of hand. That location is not ideal for a large carnival over a long time. I'm having trouble with it."

Sopper asked, "EnKa has two nights. Why can't you do the same?"

"We don't have the tradition or the resources of EnKa. We're a small-scale operation," Mercurio answered.

In a compromise, Muggia and Mark Lombardi moved to allow the carnival three days, Friday night through Sunday afternoon, provided the town is consulted about the arrangement of the midway and parking of heavy trucks.

Deering still objected. "I can't support Sunday, Friday and Saturday should be sufficient," he said.

Deering voted against granting a permit for the event but the other four selectmen voted in favor.

A new policy regarding carnivals may be in the works, however. A week after the Italian Carnival, on Sept. 22, selectmen will consider adopting a new policy regarding carnivals and fairs on town property.

No details of the policy have been written yet.

New housing committee will hear views, ideas of selectmen

Selectmen will meet with the new Special Study Committee on Low- and Moderate-income Housing at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 24.

David Mortensen, elected chairman of the committee created by the recent town meeting, said his group wanted to move quickly.

"We want to begin our fact-finding," he told selectmen Monday night. "We plan to meet with the housing authority, the selectmen and other boards and committees as soon as possible, hopefully within the next week."

The new committee conducted its first meeting Monday night when six of the nine members named by moderator John Sullivan were sworn in.

The committee is to monitor all low- and moderate-income housing activities of town boards, keep town meeting members abreast of developments and report back to town meeting.

Mortensen was the principal speaker in favor of the committee's creation. He expressed frustration with the lack of coordination in the town's attempt to fulfill its promise to provide seven units of Chapter 705 "affordable" housing.

Town meeting eventually approved seven units but all seven have potential problems winning approval from the state Executive Office of Communities and Development (EOCD).

A three-unit site on Palmer Street was not inspected in advance by the state; single-unit sites on Lockeland Road and Cambridge Street fly in the face of the state's preference for multi-family units; and a two-family unit on the Woburn Loop near Cross Street is in doubt unless the state department of transportation abandons its policy of allowing only "passive" uses for former railroad rights-of-way.

Summer fun often hazard

People find numerous ways to enjoy the time they can spend away from the normal routine. But, such relaxing hours actually can be more hazardous than those spent on the job. Here are a few reminders from the Middlesex County Cooperative Extension, division of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Whatever the leisure activity, be prepared to do it competently, whether it is biking, swimming, boating, driving all-terrain vehicles or other activities that involve significant risk of injury. Develop and practice skills in a safe place before attempting the activity.

Have the proper equipment. Buy goods of the best quality that can be afforded. Wear the appropriate clothing, including protective gear and the necessary protection from sun, wind, water or poisonous plants and animals. Read and heed instruction manuals supplied with the equipment.

Alcohol figures in many summer recreation accidents. If consuming alcohol, do so in moderation and never to the point of impairment when taking part in activities requiring normal alertness.

Drive defensively whenever travelling. Obey traffic laws and make sure the vehicle is fit and ready to perform well, to minimize the likelihood of irritating trouble or time-wasting breakdowns.

Don't overdo it. Choose activities that are right for you. To avoid unnecessary health and accident risks, stop before becoming exhausted. Allow children to participate only in activities within their individual ability ranges.

Local physician teaching family practice to pupil

Dr. Ron Backer of Winchester is helping bring back the tradition of the family physician to modern medicine. Backer is teaching a medical student from the University of California, Davis (UCD) what it's like to be a family doctor.

It's a first-hand educational experience the school and the doctor hope will encourage more young medical students to specialize in family practice, according to program director Dr. Joseph Scherger, an associate clinical professor of family practice at UCD.

Patti Culross, a second year medical student, has been assigned to observe and work in the doctor's office for four weeks this summer under the UCD Family Practice Preceptorship Program.

By serving as a preceptor, or teacher, an established family physician can provide a medical student with hands-on experiences ranging from taking patients' medical histories and conducting physical exams to managing the business side of a medical practice, Scherger said. In addition, preceptors serve as role models and help their students appreciate the family doctor's role in the community, he pointed out.

Since it became a recognized medical specialty in 1969, family practice has been encouraged to correct a strong post-World War II trend toward narrow medical specialties and subspecialties, which left the United States with a shortage of well-trained generalists.

But today's family physicians follow the general practice tradition, but receive more training than GP's of the past, he related. After graduating from medical school, family doctors complete three years of advance residency training and must be certified by the American Academy of Family Physicians every six years. They become, literally, experts in dealing with the common health problems that bring most people—regardless of their age or sex—to the doctor.

"Family physicians are trained to provide continuing, comprehensive health care to the entire family unit," said Scherger. "Their training gives them the ability to confidently handle a wide variety of common problems, from sick infants, to orthopedic injuries, to chronic diseases in the elderly."

Increasingly, the American public is relying on family physicians to manage most of its health problems. The trend is being encouraged by both governmental and private health insurers because of the efficiency and cost-effectiveness of having a family doctor act as a person's "entry point" into the health care system.

Family doctors are also trained to emphasize disease prevention and health maintenance, Scherger added.

Students in the UCD training program learn subjects not conventionally taught in the medical school classroom. "They get a chance, for example, to observe the business aspects of managing a practice—managing records, planning finances, hiring staff and working effectively with a partner," said Mary Lou Swisher, program manager in the UCD department of family practice.

The students are not the only ones who benefit from the program. "The participating physicians are stimulated to keep abreast of the latest medical developments by having an inquisitive student in the office," said Scherger. "It's a good stimulus all the way around."

Patients enjoy the added attention that an eager student brings to their cases as well, Swisher said. "The patients get a thorough review by both their regular doctor and the student. Those who see the students often are jazzed by the experience—they usually get to talk with the student much longer than they can with the doctor."

Swisher described the student's responses to the program as "very positive" in past years. "The preceptorships give the students an overwhelming amount of confidence that they can, in fact, become doctors," she noted. "Most of the students report that the experience reinforced their career decision to go into family practice."

Family practice has consistently been one of the most popular specialties among UCD medical students.

Restaurants comply with liquor rules

Winchester restaurants have not abused the revised liquor and food by-law, according to Winchester Sgt. James Pierce.

"We have been doing sporadic inspections of all restaurants and haven't seen anyone in violation. We haven't received any complaints," Pierce said.

Selectmen voted to change the wording of the town by-law about a month ago to reflect the original intent of the by-law.

Now in any of the three restaurants in town with liquor licenses, including The Dover Grille, Maximilian's Cafe and Ristorante Lucia, a customer must order a dinner to have more than one drink. Potato skins and nachos, among other popular snack foods, are considered appetizers, not meals.

Also, anyone ordering dinner can not order more than two drinks before dinner is served.

Winn Square to be named

Athletic League. He was an elected town meeting member for many years and also served appointments on the finance committee and the recreation department's advisory committee.

"The location of the square is particularly appropriate," Saraco said. "Bob Winn spoke at nearly every town meeting to urge that something be done about the old Swanton Street bridge," he said. "And his sense of humor and good will became the hallmark of all his personal contacts."

Winn spent 43 years with the postal service. He gained considerable fame for his work as a mailman on the campus of Tufts University, where he became the unofficial cheerleader for Tufts athletic teams.

After Saturday's dedication ceremony, a reception is planned at the Sons of Italy Hall on Swanton Street. Joseph Galella, president of the Christopher Columbus Club, will host the reception. Everyone is invited.

Land near forest is debate subject

Muggia says, "the conservation committee has a fairly limited interest in acquiring the land north of Sussex Road. They know they can't afford it at market value, it's not town forest land, and it will not add to the town forest."

"The conservation commission does not indicate a strong interest in acquiring the land," she said.

This land, however, is listed eighth on a priority list of 16 areas which should be acquired "to fulfill the goals and objectives of the conservation commission's Open Space and Recreation Plan."

The commission has no say in the proposed pipeline.

"The proposed route does not go through wetlands, so it doesn't affect the conservation commission," said newly elected chairman Jerry Curran.

If the selectmen approve the pipeline, the land north of Sussex Road which may be added to the town forest will have more potential for development since water will be accessible.

The addition of land to the town forest is not a new idea. Since Winchester acquired the forest in 1941, it has added more than five acres, creating a "green belt" between Winchester and the metropolitan area," says Winchester resident Richard Parkhurst.

Parkhurst, for whom the forest is named, convinced Winchester citizens to vote for acquisition of the land in 1941. Many citizens had fond memories of playing in the area and wanted to keep it as open space.

The developer of the portion south of Sussex Road awaits the Monday, Aug. 4, decision of the selectmen.

No mechanism for actually acquiring lands "which should be acquired" according to the Open Space Plan, including the area north of Sussex Road, has been put into effect.

meadow out," she says. Jill's story is not unusual. A drug user for four years, she attributes her problem to peer pressure and problems with her parents. "It was a form of escape," she says.

"The relationship had love in it, but love that wasn't shown. I was supposed to assume it," she says.

"My family just doesn't show affection. My first family did," she says.

"They accepted me into their home... a girl who has a history as a drug abuser. It was a gift from heaven," she says.

Jill gave up smoking pot after four years and continued to have problems with her parents.

"I don't hate them," she says. But I don't consider them my favorite people to be with. Right now it's up in the air. I want to block it out of my mind right now," she says. Sadly, she says, "I consider it pretty much over."

Jill says she's made several attempts to talk to her parents and cooperate and they refused.

Jill is enrolled in college and living away from home. Her plans are ambitious.

"I'd like to maybe major in psychology," she says. Jill says because she's had so many problems growing up, she thinks adolescents need counselors and psychologists to understand them.

And she says, "I've been through a lot."

PLAN ON SELLING YOUR HOUSE NEXT WINTER?

Curb appeal is crucial whenever a house is on the market. The overall impression made by the landscaping and the exterior of the house often determines whether or not prospective buyers will want to go inside and how they will react to the home's interior.

If you decide to put your home on the market when the winter months roll around again, you may not get the extra help that Mother Nature often provides during the rest of the year, and it's doubly important to make the house itself look as good as it can. Flowering plants or colorful foliage won't be present to help dress-up your front yard. If your home has peeling paint or if the trim is not fresh looking, fix-ups may be in order before the "For Sale" sign goes up.

If there's a move in your future, the professionals at Bixby & Porter Company Realtors are ready to serve your real estate needs. Call us at 729-7000 or stop by our offices at 33 Thompson St., Winchester.

Bedford Symphony Quartet to perform

The Bedford Symphony Woodwind Quartet will be the next attraction in the summer series of free concerts sponsored by the Winchester recreation department at Mill Pond Park. The quartet's appearance is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 30.

Principal wind players of the new Bedford Symphony comprise the quartet. The symphony gave its first public concert in April and next week's performance will be the first for the woodwind quartet.

Members of the group include: Pamela Sezzin, who is also manager of the symphony, flute; Jill Mahila, oboe; Anne-Marie Fiore, clarinet; Eleanor Dill, bassoon; and Andrea Menousek, French horn.

Selections on the program include works by Haydn, Amy Beach, Sousa, Joplin, Mancini and others.

Funds for the free concert series have been provided by the EnKa Society and the Winchester arts lottery council. Schedules and further information are available at the recreation department office.

In case of rain, concerts are held in the town hall auditorium.

Joseph Roderick celebrates 100th birthday with friends

By GEORGE DERRINGER

Joseph Roderick of Winchester had two parties to celebrate his 100th birthday Sunday.

A family party was held Sunday in the community room of the Mary Murphy Apartments, a Winchester Housing Authority project on Palmer Street. Monday, drivers from the Meals on Wheels program of Winchester Hospital brought a cake and several drivers who deliver Roderick's meals for another celebration.

Born in Cohasset, Roderick married Sarah F. McGinniss in Revere about 79 years ago. She died in 1973 at 86.

The couple had only two children, M. Lorraine Forte of Bradenton, Fla., and J. Douglas Roderick of Silver Spring, Md.

The centenarian has seven grandchildren, however, including Kenneth Roderick Forte of Burlington, Janice E. Forte of Somerville, Paul S. Forte of Woburn, Dr. Mark D. Forte of Fairfield, Calif., Joan E. Carlberg of Darnestown, Md., Ellen M. Roderick of Silver Spring, and John F. Roderick of Wilton, Conn.

The family also includes five great-granddaughters and two great-grandsons.

Roderick lived in Revere, where he worked for the amusement business of his wife's family, and in Florida for most of his life before coming to Winchester about 20 years ago. His son-in-law, Joseph C. Forte, was principal of McCall Junior High School.

Meals on Wheels brings cake

Joseph Roderick of Winchester received a birthday cake for 20 persons Monday, to mark his 100th birthday, which was Sunday.

The cake was presented by the Meals on Wheels program, of which he is one of about 24 subscribers in town. He has been a member for nearly two years.

For $1.35 per day, Meals on Wheels delivers two nutritious meals prepared by the food service department of Winchester Hospital.

Started about 10 years ago, the program "serves seniors, mostly, who live alone," said Marilyn Georgis, Meals on Wheels coordinator.

"Persons also subscribe following hospitalization, for an interval when they are home alone or when meal preparation can be difficult," she said.

Winchester residents interested in the program can call Georgis at 729-4646.

COMMENT

Never this young again

By TERRY MAROTTA

The news came in a letter the first part of last week, due to the Challenger accident, it said, all Journalist-in-Space activities had been postponed for an indefinite period.

It would be 1988 before the shuttle was ready to fly again, and well after that before a mission could be identified to include one of us.

I was disappointed, since as one of the 40 Semi-Finalists in the competition, I had been looking forward to the next step in the selection process.

I was disappointed even though I knew that there would be a real wait now.

What the President's Commission on the Challenger Accident asked for would take time: a thoroughly fresh look at all dubious aspects of the shuttle's design, so that never again would we encounter circumstances like those that brought to its blazing end that soaring bird and the heroes who rode her into eternity.

The image of that end is etched forever into our minds. We see it now, trailing those tracers of doom, bits of debris dancing black against the ice-blue sky, a fireball the color of a sunset, with hues of a sickening and incongruous beauty.

We haven't forgotten what we witnessed then. We never will.

A day doesn't pass when I don't think of the seven families who wake in the bitter mornings to a remembered pain that throbs like bone-ache, deep and dull.

When I applied to be the first journalist in space, it was out of a sense of adventure that was almost spiritual. I wanted to see the world the way God sees it, without borders and boundaries, the way a proud phalanx of geese sees it even, from their own low-orbit flight-path.

No one can possibly want to go more than I do, I told them in my application. No one can bring to the experience a greater sense of wonder.

Wonder is a substance I carry with me at all times.

Wonder and delight: I take them wherever I go. I seal them with the warm wax of language into my columns.

Send me up there, I wrote on Jan. 14, and I'll do what I can to see that space travel is never again looked upon as hum-drum or yawningly routine.

Two weeks later, the Challenger blew up and we knew it never would be.

I was named a Regional Semi-Finalist in April and National Semi-Finalist in May. Reporters and television teams started to come around.

Wasn't I afraid, they asked, to open myself to a fate like the one met by those astronauts?

Sure — a little — not in the least, I would think in turn, grappling for an honest answer.

The earth is our home, I would find myself saying finally; space is our front yard. We can't just stay in the house.

We are a race in its infancy just now, dawning with new awareness of the vastly larger world beyond our cloud-curtained firmament.

NASA will resume the selection process two or even three years down the line, presumably. They will look for the 40 of us and ask us if we still want to go for that ride.

Yes, I will tell them when they come to me. I know I will still want to go. If I am the one they select finally, I will bring up with me all that we have learned in the intervening years; all that we have suffered.

And I will bring another thing too: a kind of vindication for that brave young woman with whom I identify so strongly, 37, at the time of her death as I am 37, a New Englander as I am a New Englander, a mother as I am, a onetime teacher too.

I will not be 37 by then of course. I will not be the young woman she was, striding to the launch pad with her long curls billowing behind her.

None of us ever will be quite that young again. It was our youth as much as anything that perished with the Challenger.

But as the poet Tennyson said, though much is taken, much abides.

Though we are diminished now by all that we have lost of late, we will once again travel a straight true path into those heavens. And know them for our safe and rightful home.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

Volume 12-Report No. 29
Massachusetts House and Senate
Late sessions before summer recess

The House and Senate, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' votes on 8 roll calls and local senators' votes on 5 roll calls from late sessions the week of July 7-11.

Malpractice (H 6172)—House 80-59, Senate 29-0, approved and sent to the Governor the House-Senate conference committee version of the medical malpractice reform bill including a controversial provision placing a $500,000 cap on pain and suffering awards unless there is a loss of bodily function, substantial disfigurement or other special circumstances.

Supporters said the bill is fair to all sides and will help stop skyrocketing insurance premiums for doctors.

Some opponents said the bill is a special interest measure which helps doctors and hurts consumers.

Others said the bill was watered down in conference committee and does little for the malpractice insurance problem.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

Deficiency Budget (H 6171)—House 108-29, Senate 29-0, approved and sent to the Governor the House-Senate conference committee version of a $137 million fiscal 1986 supplemental budget.

Supporters said the responsible package will close out the books on fiscal 1986.

Opponents claimed the package was loaded with waste and patronage and said it contained no tax relief.

A Yea vote is for the budget. A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Tax Cap (H 6161, S 2058)—House 104-44, Senate 20-6, rejected deficiency budget amendments inserting the language of the initiative petition sponsored by Citizens for Limited Taxation (CLT), limiting state tax revenue growth to the level of growth in state wages and salaries and requiring any revenues raised above the limit to be returned to taxpayers.

Amendment supporters said this will finally limit state revenues and noted that if in effect this year, the cap would have returned $450 million to taxpayers.

Opponents said the cap is too restrictive and many noted they supported alternative and less restrictive measures.

A Yea vote is for the amendment.

A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Kraus voted no.

Piers (H 2551)—House 109-0, Senate 23-0, gave final approval and sent to the Governor a bill providing for a $15 million bond authorization for the development, construction and maintenance of the East Boston piers for a lobster facility and public park.

Supporters said the bill will help the lobster industry, provide employment and enhance the community.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Surtax (S 2058)—Senate 21-11, rejected a deficiency budget amendment providing for immediate repeal of the 7.5 percent surtax.

Supporters said this will save taxpayers $150 million this year.

Opponents, noting last year a two year phaseout was signed into law, said immediate repeal is unaffordable and fiscally irresponsible.

A Yea vote is for the amendment.

A Nay vote is against it.

Kraus voted no.

Class Size (H 5849)—House 99-41, gave final approval and sent to the Senate a bill making class size a subject of collective bargaining in the case of teachers employed by a school committee.

Supporters said the bill will simply bring this important issue to the local level and to the bargaining table.

Some opponents said agreements on class size will destroy flexibility and can result in children being bused to other schools.

Others said the amendment will lead to negotiation impasses. The House 101-45, also rejected a local option amendment making the bill effective only in cities and towns which accept the provisions.

Both roll calls are listed. The first is on 98-41 approval of the bill. A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it. The second is on 101-45 rejection of the local option amendment.

ment. A Yea vote is for the amendment. A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted no on the first roll call and he voted yes on the second.

School Breakfast (S 2051)—House 68-38, gave final approval and sent to the Senate a new version of a bill requiring several more Massachusetts communities to provide a school breakfast program giving free or low cost breakfasts to certain children.

Supporters said the program will provide breakfasts for up to 40,000 needy kids.

Opponents said the decision to have such a program should be left up to local cities and towns.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Racing (H 5862)—House 84-43, gave final approval and sent to the Senate the bill making several changes in the state's greyhound racing industry. Provisions include a flat 7 percent share of the takeout for Raynham and 150 for Wonderland; and creation of a capital improvement and promotional trust fund.

Supporters said the bill equalizes taxation of the two tracks and also helps them to compete with out of state tracks resulting in eventual increased revenue for the state.

Some opponents said the bill was unfair to Raynham while others said this was special interest legislation to make more money for already highly profitable businesses.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Ronayne views were welcome

TO THE EDITOR:

As a member of the report card task force, I was happy to read Dr. Ronayne's discussion of the issue in last week's Star.

He certainly comes across in writing as far more reasonable and open to suggestion than he did at the school committee meeting that voted down our report card recommendations.

It's gratifying to see him put in writing his obvious care and concern that he has for this important issue and it just goes to prove McLuhan was right — different medium, different message.

As a parent participant in the task force, who's not used to the political methods of the school committee, I attended the meeting in June expecting to hear the task force's ideas received with warm thanks and appreciation for the year-long, arduous task to which so many teachers and parents (and one principal) had devoted so many long hours.

I was shocked to hear: (1) that Dr. Ronayne didn't think there was much interest in any change;

(2) that another member didn't know what the present report card looks like but didn't abstain from voting on the issue; and

(3) that a third member feared if we change the system only 11 years after the last change, we might have to change it again down the road.

The real questions — whether ABC report grades are healthy for very young students and whether the number of categories would help or confuse teachers, parents and students had been discussed at great length by the task force and I naively thought the school committee would accept our recommendations, along with the endorsements of Drs. Mitsakos and Ackerman.

When task force members' comments at the meeting were rebuffed with ruthless finesse, I felt the school committee was denying that our research had value for them.

I went home to lick my wounds and even wonder if, in some Macchiavellian way we had been set up by the administration to come up with a change and get shot down as we inevitably must by the school committee, just so we'd shut up and go away.

Upon calm reflection, I realize there's no plot afoot, there are no committee members who are really hostile to new ideas, and now that Dr. Ronayne has written so well on his real feelings, I await with hope the possibility he offers in his article, of a first-grade trial of the new reporting system.

Sincerely,
Joyce Westner

Saltmarsh will get his vote

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to respond to the letter from Frank Bracken of Winchester.

I believe it was unfair to criticize Speaker of the House George Keeverian and Majority Leader Charles Flaherty for giving their support to Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh of Winchester for his re-election. There is no law or implied rule that an individual of a political party must support a member of that party.

In fact the law of the land, the United States Constitution, does not even mention political parties. The majority of the population of this country who vote in elections do not follow party lines, but vote for the person they believe who represents their views and is the most capable of performing in that function.

Saltmarsh has shown his capabilities in his present position. He has shown he can work with both sides of the aisle to pass legislation for the betterment of Stoneham and Winchester. It is about time an individual in our area, and I don't care if he is a Democrat or a Republican, has a voice in our legislature.

Bracken mentioned the Gregg Hyatt and Royall Switzer affairs in his editorial implying that all Republicans have emerged in immorality. I can not condone the actions these men have enacted upon the public but I am appalled that Bracken would classify all Republicans in with these men.

How soon Mr. Bracken forgets the immoralities of former budget director Bert Lance, former Attorney General Griffin Bell, and presidential candidate Lyndon LaRouche, who just happen to be Democrats.

The point I hope to get across to Bracken and other individuals who agree with his is that an individual should be judged by his accomplishments and not by what political party he is affiliated with. The Democratic leadership of the House must feel that Saltmarsh is representing his constituents 100 percent or I am sure they would not have made an appearance.

I know any individual who represents my views will get my vote. This year Saltmarsh will receive my support in the up-coming election.

Bortman won high honors

TO THE EDITOR:

Inadvertently the following name was listed in the wrong category on the Honor Roll sent to you recently. Would you be kind enough to print this correction in the next issue of the Star? Junior: High honors: Mark Bortman (listed as honor roll, also should have been listed for third quarter but wasn't).

Your attention to this matter would be very much appreciated.

Sincerely,
Susan Y. Moynihan

M. Margret Hanley

Margret Hanley promoted by GEI

M. Margret Hanley has been appointed director of the division of environmental services by GEI, a national geotechnical and geohydrologic consulting engineering firm with headquarters in Winchester.

A graduate of Boston College, Hanley is an engineering geologist who, prior to joining GEI in 1983, was involved in numerous "Superfund" toxic waste site investigations for the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

Her environmental experience at GEI has included litigation-sensitive projects for many Boston law firms. She has also worked closely with many industrial clients, municipalities, real estate developers and other property owners. Her duties have included direction of a diversity of environmental projects, ranging from development site risk assessment through planning and implementing remedial measures at contaminated sites.

GEI, which has branch offices in Concord, N.H., and in Denver, has experienced substantial growth in the last two years, much of it driven by an increasing demand for environmental services. The firm employs more than 80 people including 20 devoted full-time to environmental projects.

Samaraweera is Berklee prof

Vijaya Samaraweera of Winchester has been appointed associate professor of history at Berklee College of Music in Boston.

A graduate of Oxford University with a doctorate in philosophy and the University of Sri Lanka with a bachelor's degree in history, Samaraweera has gained prominence as both author and educator in Sri Lanka and the United States.

Samaraweera, who has enjoyed distinction as a fellow in law and history at Harvard Law School, has taught history at Boston University and Bridgewater State College as well as the University of Sri Lanka.

A member of the board of directors for the International Third World Legal Studies Association for four years, Samaraweera also has garnered critical praise as author of many articles and book reviews. His book "Sri Lanka" is being published by Oxford Press.

Capt. Andrew Twomey

Twomey earns master's degree

Captain Andrew B. Twomey, U.S. Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Twomey of 10 Prospect St., was awarded a Master's of Arts in Political Science from the University of Chicago June 13.

Twomey is a 1973 graduate of Winchester High School and a 1977 graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point.

This fall Twomey will return to West Point as an instructor in the department of social sciences for three years. He will teach "American Politics and Government" and complete his Ph.D. dissertation for the University of Chicago on Congress and defense policy.

Twomey was previously assigned to both the Second Infantry Division in South Korea and the Seventh Infantry Division in California. He participated in military exercises in Europe, Alaska, Panama and Japan.

He served as an infantry company commander, and an operations officer on battalion, brigade and division staffs. His military awards include the Army Achievement Medal, the Army Commendation Medal (three awards), and the Meritorious Service Medal.

Hager graduates at Austin Prep

Gavin Hager of Winchester graduated from Austin Preparatory School in Reading in June. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael E. Hager of Emerson Road.

At Austin Prep, he was active in the computer and weightlifting clubs and participated in school intramurals. He was also a member of the school magazine staff.

Murphy reception planned July 31

Mystic Valley area Democrats, including Alan Macdonald of Winchester, are planning a reception for Evelyn Murphy from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Thursday, July 31.

Murphy, a candidate for lieutenant governor, will be the guest of honor at the event, to be held at the Sons of Italy hall, 168 Lexington St., Woburn.

Volunteer medical drivers needed

Drivers are urgently needed for the medical transportation program of the American Red Cross of Mass. Bay, Eastern Middlesex Region.

Because of summer vacations, staffing is at a critical point and several clients require transportation to clinics twice a week in addition to the usual requests for help.

Drivers must be 18 years of age, hold a valid Massachusetts driver's license and have no violations. Although a commitment of one-half day per week is preferred, volunteers will be accepted who can substitute on an "on-call" basis.

Those interested in volunteering should call Margie Kall at 729-2300 or 665-1351 for further information and an application.

Fidalgo wins Suffolk honors

Laura T. Fidalgo of Winchester, a senior in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, has been named to the dean's honors list for the spring semester at Suffolk University in Boston.

Weir meets education leader

Carol Weir of Winchester, the Newspaper in Education (NIE) coordinator for Dole Publishing and a member of the New England Newspaper Association's NIE task force, recently met Massachusetts' new commissioner of education, Harold Reynolds.

The commissioner attended a task force training session to express his support of NIE programs. Weir spoke at the training session about the challenges and benefits of NIE for a local weekly.

NIE is designed to help teachers and students use the newspaper in their classrooms as a teaching tool. Weir gives training workshops to teachers and develops curriculum.

Manganaro on dean's list

Leah Manganaro of Winchester, has been named to the dean's list at Providence College for the spring semester.

A marketing major, Manganaro is a member of the class of 1988.

Charles Perenick of Winchester, right, state president of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, Order Sons of Italy in America, presents a gift to guest speaker Congressman John Joseph Moakley during the group's 72nd annual convention at Kerhonkson, N.Y. The convention discussed ideas, proposals and business for the order and filial lodges.

Barbara Farrar named board of health nurse

By MARGARET HAYKAL

Winchester board of health's new nurse, Barbara Farrar, is only new to Winchester, not to the profession.

Farrar, who has been in Winchester for one month as a visiting nurse, has worked for Visiting Nurses and Community Health in Arlington, Lexington, Burlington and surrounding communities.

"I give Mantoux tests for TB and read to see if they are positive or negative and advise the clients accordingly," she said.

She also inventories the board of health's "biologicals," which are used to immunize for DPT, tetanus, pertussis, measles, mumps and rubella.

She makes sure supplies are adequate and she calls the doctors' offices to make sure they have reported which vaccines they have taken, the number of immunizations they have given, and the ages of the recipients.

Farrar also does blood screenings. As a visiting nurse she makes health/home care visits in Winchester, Lexington, Arlington, Burlington and some outside communities. Her services at the board of health, however, are available and free only to Winchester residents.

Foster home sought for 15-year-old girl

The Mystic Valley area office of the state Department of Social Services is seeking a foster home for a teen-age female.

Carol is a 15-year-old having problems at home. She is intelligent, very likable and attractive, according to Mary Livingstone of the home-finding unit.

Carol would like a family with whom she could relate and live for approximately six months while she attends high school. Her academic performance is acceptable.

"Carol will need to work on resolving some issues regarding limit-setting and authority," Livingstone said. "It is hoped she will be reunited with her natural family afterward."

Further information is available from 641-1780.

Paul Casey, left, candidate for state representative from Winchester and Stoneham, cuts the ribbon to open his new campaign office at 6A Montvale Ave. in Stoneham.

Paul Casey opens campaign headquarters in Stoneham

Paul C. Casey, candidate for representative of the 34th Middlesex District (Stoneham/Winchester), has recently opened his campaign office at 6A Montvale Ave. in Stoneham.

Casey invites any well wishers and supporters down for a friendly cup of coffee during regular office hours.

As a candidate for public office, Casey declared, "For too long our hometowns have been ignored by the people who are supposed to be representing us. We need someone more responsive to the district's needs, an individual who looks beyond the special interests and towards the needs of everyone."

"I intend to fight for programs that expand our youth's development, protect the rights of our senior citizens, and promote the interests of the often over-burdened middle-aged providers."

"I've dealt with state government as a service provider, an administrator and a taxpayer. I know that it can be made to work better."

"By opening an office in the community, I will have a greater opportunity to meet hometown residents and learn their concerns," Casey continued. "During the course of the campaign, I plan to contact every household in Winchester and Stoneham and to learn first-hand the needs and concerns of this district."

"I feel Winchester and Stoneham deserve a new, honest, and enthusiastic voice in the state legislature. Anyone with questions about my position should contact me at 438-0001 or in person at the office."

Along with his four brothers and four sisters, Casey, a graduate of Harvard, lives at 44 Wedgemere Ave. in Winchester. He recently completed his master's in public administration, taking night courses at Suffolk University while working during the day for the Massachusetts department of Revenue.

LIBRARY NEWS

One of the "Imaginary Landscapes" of the city by Helen Citron Boodman now in an exhibit at the Winchester Public Library art gallery.

'Imaginary Landscapes' now at library art gallery

"Imaginary Landscapes" is the title of Helen Citron Boodman's exhibit of 11 prints and monoprints in the Winchester Public Library's Art Gallery through Sept. 5.

"Imaginary Landscapes" is an exploration of the pleasure and richness found in viewing cities as fantasy. The artist explores form, space and color using pastels, oil pastels, and colored pencils, as well as an etching press and ink to create city and fantasy landscapes.

Boodman, who lives in Lexington, graduated in fine arts from Carnegie-Mellon University. Her work has been exhibited at 15 Boston Printmakers National Open Shows, the Massachusetts Statehouse, Harvard Law School, the DeCordova Museum, and the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston.

The art gallery at the library is open during the library's regular hours. Artists interested in submitting works for possible exhibition in the gallery may pick up an application form at the library, or call 721-7171 for further information.

Kid's Corner campers enjoying a full summer of fun and activities

For the past several weeks, and in the height of summer, 21 Winchester youngsters in grades K-6 have been enjoying daily the Kid's Corner Summer Camp (Winchester Child Care, Inc.) at the Unitarian Church, 478 Main St.

A highlight of the camp is swimming lessons, taught by Red Cross trained instructors mornings at the Medford High School pool. Campers have also enjoyed the beach at Leonard's Pond.

Arts and crafts, organized playground activities, games and field trips are also featured. The approximate ratio of campers to staff members is one to seven. Nutritious snacks are served and children bring their own lunches.

Children are required to attend for at least two consecutive weeks of the 10-week camping period. For further information, call Kay Schodek at 721-1207 Tuesdays from 8:30 to 10 p.m.

STAR SPORTS

Baseball camp openings remain

Openings are left in both sessions of the Middlesex Baseball/Softball Camp to be held July 28 to Aug. 1, and Aug. 4-8 in Winchester.

The camp, run by veteran Somerville High baseball coach Joe DiSarcina, is for baseball players age 6-15 and for softball players 16 and younger.

The camp will stress fundamental skills of hitting, fielding, throwing, baserunning and pitching through close instruction and drills.

For registration or other information, call 721-2361.

Ullrich wins competition at boat club

Nicole Ullrich of Hingham Yacht Club edged out the Winchester Boat Club's Stephanie Keefe to win the Junior Women's Singlehanded Sailing Championship of Massachusetts Bay July 19 at the Winchester Boat Club.

Sponsored by the Yacht Racing Union of Massachusetts Bay (YRUMB), the event was held on Upper Mystic Lake in Laser class dinghies. It was also a qualifying round for the National Junior Singlehanded Championship.

Winchester's Allison Price finished third. Also sailing from Winchester were Jane Williamson and Allison Adams.

Ullrich, Keefe and Price will receive trophies from YRUMB. The national qualifying round began July 21 in Marion.

Swim Classic to aid leukemia war

The Boston chapter of the Leukemia Society of America will sponsor its seventh annual Super Swim Classic Aug. 13 at Holiday Inn pools in Brockton, Dedham, Peabody, Somerville, and Woburn.

In addition to competing in the fight against leukemia, swimmers will compete to win prizes, including 35mm cameras and five-inch portable televisions.

All proceeds support the society's three-fold program of research, patient aid and education.

The society will hold an informational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 21, at the Channel 5 studios in Needham.

For more information, call 482-2239.

Husband, Wife Tournament is scheduled

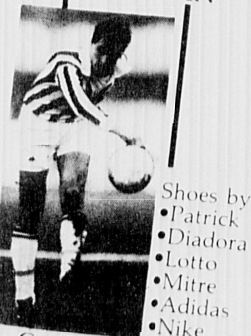

The annual Husband and Wife Tennis Tournament will be Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 2 and 3, at the Packer courts in Winchester.

Action gets underway at 8 a.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. Sunday. A potluck dinner is planned for 7 p.m. Saturday at the Jenks Center. The party will feature legendary spindancer Whit Gray.

An entry fee of $30 per couple covers all playing and entertainment. For more information, call tournament directors Tom and Katherine Dunn at 729-0640.

Buckley, Reno help Belmont Hill to 2nd in Henley

Winchester's Tim Buckley Jr. and David Reno were part of the Belmont Hill School's second-place crew in the Henley Royal Regatta July 2-6 at Henley, England.

Competing in the finals Sunday, July 6, for the prestigious Princess Elizabeth Cup, the crew lost by a mere half-length, or 1.5 seconds, to the Hampton School. Hampton won the cup last year and was heavily favored to repeat.

This summer, the Hampton crew will compete internationally as England's Junior National Team.

Belmont Hill rowed exceptionally well in qualifying rounds, defeating England's Emmanuel School by 2 1/2 lengths, and Shiplake by one length.

The Belmont Hill oarsmen also won two regattas before Henley. At the Marlow Regatta in late June, they beat Eton College and the Thames Rowing Club in the finals by 2 1/2 lengths. One week later, they tied a course record to capture the Reading Regatta.

Jeff Gaudioso

An umpire for 40 years

By DAVID MOORE

He played in Town League games when baseball players wore spiked cleats that flashed in the afternoon sun.

Whether you were the one sliding into base or holding it down, you could always catch a spike.

John Gaudioso, Jeff to anybody who knows him, caught a foot full of spikes in 1945. His ankle swelled to the size of a fire hydrant and he missed several days of work.

He wanted to find a safer way to spend his off-work hours from the old Beggs and Cobb plant in Winchester. But he also wanted to stay around sports.

So in 1946 he stepped behind the plate as an umpire for the Little League and then Babe Ruth league and stayed there for 40 years.

When the games were switched from weekday nights to the weekend this year, he quit — but not before seeing through two generations of players.

"Oh, some kids remind me of their fathers," says Gaudioso. "I look at a kid at the plate and all of a sudden I'm thinking it could be 25, 30 years ago and I'm looking at their father."

Although he has umpired semi-pro baseball and state tournament games over the years, Gaudioso is best known around Winchester and surrounding towns for his work with the Babe Ruth league for kids 13-15.

He worked his own son's games in the early 1950's, but his favorite game was last summer.

"My biggest thrill," says

Gaudioso, shaking his head and laughing, "my biggest thrill as an umpire had to be the Winchester-Lexington game last summer. My grandson, David, was playing second base. Isn't that the greatest?"

Gaudioso says he has seen change in baseball and the young athletes who play it during his long association with the diamond.

"The kids have more going on now," he says. "They have soccer and other sports, television. The game just isn't as important to them. They're cooler than kids used to be, less nervous."

"Everybody used to go to the ballpark on summer evenings. When I was, you know, 17 or so, we'd pack people into one car and make a whole evening out of it. In the early 60's I worked a high school tournament game that drew 2,000 people. Can you imagine that today?"

Gaudioso did not leave baseball because of the smaller crowds, however, and he always loved working the games.

"There's really no in-between in umpiring," he explains. "Either you hate it or you love it. You take some abuse, you get some angry parents, but you get used to it."

Gaudioso, who went 36 years without missing a Winchester High School (football) game, is still a presence around the athletic fields of his home town.

"I don't feel my age," he says. "I feel young because I keep active."

Outside, the early evening air is warm. It's baseball weather.

Fall fair planned

Although Oct. 1 and 2 seem far away, plans have to be made many months in advance of any major event. Those who do creative handwork are urged to knit, embroider, crochet, make pillows, do crewel work, needlepoint and other types of the stitchery crafts to give to the fair.

Once each month, Helen Hodgdon and her kitchen committee serve about 150 people at Soup and Sandwich Luncheons at the Jenks Senior Center. Among committee members are Emma Provinzano, left, and Irma Ganchi, right, who have given dedicated service at each luncheon. Desserts above are ready to be served.

Ann Ciampa, is chairing this important fund-raiser. There will be a gift table, jewelry, women's boutique, men's boutique, holiday, aprons, baked goods, knit goods, children's table, books, white elephants, cheese and a snack bar.

While doing summer cleaning, please save usable items you do not plan to keep. With construction in progress at Jenks Senior center, there is no storage space at present. Perhaps you will be willing to store discarded articles until we call for them just prior to the fair.

Donations of material for any of the tables will be greatly appreciated.

Mike Saraco addresses seniors

At the recent Soup and Sandwich Luncheon at Jenks Senior Center, Michael Saraco, former chairman of the board of selectmen, addressed seniors, explaining various facets of town government in Winchester.

He detailed the line and staff order of administration from the board of selectmen, town manager and the appointments of administrative committees. The school committee and other elected boards were explained.

A capacity crowd was glad to be informed about specific factors of concern to them such as water and sewer plans, the clarification of taxes and abatements on property taxes.

Saraco has always had a personal interest in seniors and has been concerned about their welfare. He advised seniors to assume a more active role in town affairs, expressing themselves concerning important issues.

He reminded the group that there is senior power that should be exerted in helping to determine action to be taken by the town at the regular town meetings.

Saraco is retired, but his assistance is still sought by environmental health officers of the commonwealth. He received the first plaque ever given for outstanding service rendered environmentally. For 22 years, he was the director of Winchester's board of health and his expertise was recognized throughout the state.

Barlow novel wins historical writers' prize

Action writer and former Winchester resident Linda Barlow was recently awarded the coveted "Outstanding New Historical Author of the Year" award for 1986.

Given every year by the trade paper "Romantic Times," the award salutes excellence in the field of historical romance, one of the largest and most competitive areas of publishing.

Barlow's first historical novel, "Fires of Destiny," an August 1986 release from New American Library's new imprint, Onyx Books, is already receiving accolades from reviewers. "Rave Reviews" calls the novel "most impressive... a phenomenal read," and "Romantic Times" describes Barlow as "a powerful writer... the next superstar."

"Fires of Destiny" is set in 16th-century England during the turbulent reign of "Bloody Mary" Tudor.

Barlow invented the main characters for Fires of Destiny when she was a young teenager attending public schools in Winchester. She put the manuscript away while pursuing undergraduate studies at Wheaton College and graduate studies at Boston College.

In 1983 Barlow sold several contemporary romances to the Berkley Publishing Group. They were so widely praised that she was inspired to go back and finish Fires of Destiny, which was enthusiastically acquired by New American Library.

With her career as a published writer firmly established, Barlow resigned her position as a part-time lecturer at Boston College to write full-time in her Acton home. She is currently working on a sweeping saga about a Boston family involved for generations in the tea industry. "Leaves of Fortune" will be published by Doubleday in 1988.

Barlow will travel to New York City this fall to receive the Outstanding New Historical Author award at the annual Book-Lovers' Convention.

"It's a great honor, particularly considering all the other wonderful novels that have been published this year," she says. "I'm very happy and proud."

Barlow is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Robert Barlow of 11 Arlington St.

Winchester to get three times original local aid

Winchester will receive three times more local aid dollars from the state than originally anticipated to replace lost federal funds.

State Sen. Richard Kraus said the governor's signature on the fiscal 1987 budget July 10 assured Winchester $36,643 in local aid funds instead of the $28,214 projected earlier this year.

The amount represents 30 percent of the loss in federal revenue sharing funds lost when the federal government eliminated its "federal revenue sharing" program.

Winchester will also receive $3,671 in additional local aid in the form of incentive aid for the public library, Kraus said. In all, the town will get just under $3.8 million from the state in various accounts.

What To Visit

By David Moore

Greylock sparked Melville's writing

Herman Melville likened Mount Greylock to Charlemagne, for he thought the mountain stood like an emperor among its Berkshire peerage.

In fact, so well did the great writer love the region's rugged, rolling beauty, he bought an old farm in Pittsfield and lived there with his family for 13 years.

The farm ran along Holmes Road, named after Melville's famous neighbor and physician, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes. Melville named the farm Arrowhead after finding Indian arrowheads in the surrounding fields.

Thanks to efforts of the Berkshire County Historical Society (BCHS) to restore Arrowhead, visitors to the house can now see it as it looked 100 years ago when Melville lived and wrote there.

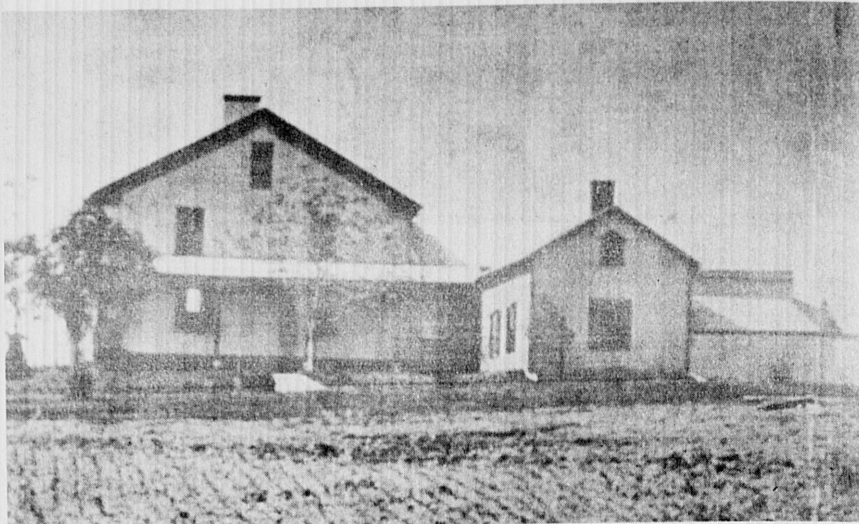

But there is more. The modest yellow house with green trim is a museum, not only for lovers of literature, but for anyone interested in Berkshire County's past.

Long before Tanglewood offered up summer music, or Stockbridge became the boutique capital of Western Mass., the Berkshires attracted artists and writers. The sweeping serenity of the area's lush woods has provided the setting and inspiration for much of America's early poetry and craftsmanship.

At Arrowhead, the BCHS tells the story not only of a house, but of an entire region.

"Even though Arrowhead is important mostly in connection with Melville," says Liselle LaFrance, museum curator, "the furnishings have connections beyond Melville."

"Much of the furniture was either made locally, or used by prominent Berkshire residents during the past 200 or so years."

Arrowhead visitors will not discover great stores of authentic Melville memorabilia here. Most of that is housed in the Melville Museum in New York City, or in other private collections.

Still, the rewards of the visit are many. Arrowhead is a powerful and genuine artifact, whose influence upon Melville appears in some of his stories and sketches. Several structural elements of the house and landscape — the chimney, piazza and Greylock — especially fascinated him.

"I and my chimney, two gray-headed old smokers, reside in the country," began Melville in I And My Chimney.

Although this tale is actually a wry, sardonic reflection on life and fading promise, Melville clearly enjoyed the chimney for the earthier pleasure of warming himself on cold nights in his study.

The central chimney room, with its great open hearth, adorned with iron skillets and assorted cookware, is a model for the change Arrowhead has undergone. Used by the Melvilles as a dining room, the chimney room was originally used as a kitchen when David Bush Jr. used the house as an inn.

Standing among the old wooden benches and chairs, one easily imagines how the room became the house's focal point, the place where travellers or local townspeople gathered to gossip, warming to their stories as the odors of cooking filled the air.

On the north face of the house stands the porch, or piazza as Melville called it, identical to the one in fact built by Melville shortly after arriving in Pittsfield.

Melville loved the countryside around Arrowhead. And yet it seemed to be Greylock, that "purple prospect" to the north, that charmed him most.

In an introductory sketch to "The Piazza Tales," Melville writes: "Now, for a house, so situated in such a country, to have no piazza... seemed as much of an omission as if a picture-gallery should have no bench."

Using descriptions from Melville's diary and other personal accounts, the curators have carefully restored the study to match Melville's own.

In the middle of the room, a large wooden desk faces Greylock. On the desk lie a quill pen and copy of a letter Melville sent from Pittsfield to his brother Thomas, a merchant sea captain.

The letter, in which Melville brings news on the Civil War, shows an engaging letter-writer revealing his hopes and fears during a dire period in history.

"The war goes bravely on," he writes. "McClellan is now within fifteen miles of the rebel capital, Richmond. New Orleans is taken... We beat the rascals in almost every field, and take their ports, but they don't cry 'Enough!'"

Melville spent less than one-fifth of his life at Arrowhead, but he was deeply adventurous and, at times, restless. Until late in life, Melville never completely settled anywhere.

Born 1819 in New York City, Melville moved to Albany in 1830 after financial problems had forced his father to close his business. With his father's death in 1832, Melville, at 13, worked as a bank clerk.

In 1833, Melville spent summer vacation at his uncle Thomas Melville's farm — now the Pittsfield Country Club — and worked there the following year. Four years later, he taught at Pittsfield's Sikes District School.

Melville's first sea voyage was aboard the St. Lawrence, a trader bound for Liverpool. Unable to find other work, Melville signed aboard the crews of various whaling ships during the next three years.

His first whaling expedition, at age twenty, was aboard the whaler Acushnet. After sailing for a year and a half, Melville jumped ship with his companion, Toby Greene. The two then spent several weeks with a native tribe on the Marquesas Islands.

Next, Melville signed on the Australian whaler, Lucy Ann. Several months later at Tahiti, he and other crew members refused duty and were imprisoned by the British Consul. Melville escaped and hid on a neighboring island.

After working his way home on other ships, he arrived in Boston in October, 1844.

The next six years were good ones for the budding writer. He published numerous novels, essays and book reviews and, in 1847, married Elizabeth Shaw. In 1850, the Melvilles moved to Pittsfield.

That year Melville formed his most important literary friendship with Nathaniel Hawthorne, who lived in nearby Lenox. Melville had admired the elder Hawthorne's work, while Hawthorne saw in Melville "the presence of genius."

Legend holds that the two great writers spent hours discussing writing and philosophy in the large barn behind Melville's house. It was certainly no coincidence that Melville wrote Moby Dick during the height of his and Hawthorne's friendship.

The Melvilles' first seven years at Arrowhead seem to have been the happiest for the family and the most productive for the writer. By 1857, however, the strain of his craft had worn at Melville's physical and mental health.

Frustrated by his commercial failure, he became withdrawn and, in the fall of 1856, began a series of extended travels.

LaFrance says the crowded household — which Melville shared with immediate family and in-laws — created great strain upon the family.

"In any case," says LaFrance, "Melville could always lock himself in his study. At least he had his own room."

In 1863, Melville sold Arrowhead to his brother Allan and moved to New York City, where he spent the remainder of his life.

As the museum's curators have continued to furnish and restore Arrowhead, they have also acquired furniture that reflects the different styles and periods associated with the house's long history.

"We'll never have all the original furniture," explains LaFrance, but we'll come close to replicating it."

In the chimney room, for instance, is an English china set with a delicate, Chinese Ching pattern like that used by Elizabeth Melville. Across the room stands a tavern table (c. 1700-1730) and a walnut-ash chair used by the poet William Cullen Bryant.

There is also a Shaker Tilting Chair (c. 1850). Rotating ball-bearings beneath the chair's back legs prevented the chairs from tipping over when tipped back.

Arrowhead contains several original 19th-century Shaker pieces. According to LaFrance, Melville was interested in the Shakers and often visited the Hancock community, where Quaker furniture was made and sold.

Dominating the front hall is a tall case clock made in Pittsfield by Thomas Lyman in 1790. Beside it is an opium chest with many secret compartments. The opium chest was brought back by John Morewood, Melville's friend and neighbor who was involved in the Society events

The Berkshire County Historical Society sponsors several special events in August.

Mountain excursion and picnic. On Sunday, Aug. 3, BCHS leads a climb to the summit of Monument Mountain in Great Barrington.

The climb commemorates the 1850 "champagne" excursion sponsored by the son of Rev. David Dudley Field for a group of friends, including Herman Melville and Nathaniel Hawthorne. Melville and Hawthorne met for the first time on this excursion.

The climb begins 11 a.m. at the base of Monument Mountain on Route 7. Admission is free, but participants are required to supply their own lunch.

Big Apple Circus. From Saturday, Aug. 19 through Thursday, Aug. 24, BCHS sponsors a European-style one-ring circus that in the past has included performing animals, trapeze artists, and plenty of clowns.

Tickets are $6 and $8 for children and $8 and $10 for adults. Tickets for reserved ring-side seats are $10 for children and $12 for adults.

Performances are: 8 p.m. Aug. 19; 4 and 8 p.m. Aug. 20; 2 and 8 p.m. Aug. 21; 4 and 8 p.m. Aug. 22 and 23; and 12:30 and 4 p.m. Aug. 24. Tickets may be purchased up to the day of the performance. For ticket information, call (413) 443-3587.

China Trade.

The museum also exhibits blueprints showing how rooms were used during Arrowhead's various ownerships over 200 years.

The BCHS shows a brief film on the Berkshire Region following tours.

BCHS sponsors several events in August, including a one-ring, European style circus, and a picnic excursion up Monument Mountain.

Arrowhead is open 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

O'Neill artistry still superb, Jack Lemmon heads the bill

O'Neill remains a giant playwright

REVIEW

They don't write plays like they used to, or specifically, like Eugene O'Neill used to!

This was painfully evident during the recent revival of the monumental Long Day's Journey Into Night at Broadway's Broadhurst Theater. O'Neill was a giant of a playwright who wrote with beauty and power and possessed far more than a touch of the poet. And this recreation was a superb mounting of his expertly crafted Chekhovian-like epic drama.

This family portrait (autobiographical) of the disturbed Tyrone (O'Neill) family featured a stellar cast led by Tony Award-nominee Jack Lemmon as James Tyrone, Bethel Leslie as his wife Mary, Kevin Spacey as elder son James Jr., and Peter Gallagher as Edmund (Eugene).

With Jonathan Miller's taut, compassionate and insightful direction, every modicum of anguish, despair and devastation was fleshed out. And although Miller resorted to overlapping speeches and throw-away lines to reduce the running time of the play — three and three-quarter hours — all was for naught and problem areas still remained static.

The tone of O'Neill's engrossing classic is set by Tony Straiges' somber stage design, functional and uncluttered, depicting the family living room in their summer home in New London, Conn. during a long, hot day and evening in August of 1912.

James Tyrone is an actor and a matinee idol who has never had a scandal with another woman. At times he can be mean and petty, at times, despotic, impulsive and acid-toned. He possesses strong passions, deep loyalties and basic humility. The offspring of an ignorant, poverty-stricken Irish family, he is obsessed with money and property — property being synonymous with security. Pinch-penny that he is, when Mary experienced insufferable pain during pregnancy, he sent her to a local quack doctor who prescribed morphine, which later resulted in addiction.

Pathetic, tender, compassionate Mary, of proud, upper-class Irish lineage, dreamed of becoming either a concert pianist or a nun, but became a wife instead. Now she stands poised with arthritic fingers, listening to the lonely wail of fog horns, and brooding over her life with James and their 35 years together — a series of one-night stands, trains without pullmans, and second-rate hotels. She always wanted a real home; here, she feels like a prisoner, with no friends.

Mary was a devout Catholic, and now believes that denial of the Catholic religion has brought about self-destruction. Although she has just returned from a state sanatorium, she is still damned with "the curse." While plagued with guilt, she continues to slip quietly up to her room for further injections to kill the pain. She moves in her own little world. Now only the part of her life that was happy seems real. Mary reflects, "When you start again, you never know exactly how much you need." As she sinks back into the past, James is in fear of losing her forever.

James Jr. is devoid of ambition and incentive. An actor who gets jobs only through his father, he's drunk and whoring most of the time and always sneering at others to hide his own inadequacies.

Edmund — reserved, brooding, honest, callow, perceptive — is a newspaper reporter. Plagued with a bad, hacking cough, he is unaware that he is a consumptive, like Mary's father, who died from tuberculosis.

The plot climaxes when James suggests a state-owned sanatorium for Edmund, to which Edmund rebels. Amidst accusations, confessions and horrors laid bare with savage candor, including the agonies suffered by James — the stoic mother he loved, the weak father he despised and the brilliant Shakespearean career he threw away to tour year after year in an easy-money melodrama — all the bloody wounds surface.

Surely, this was an ensemble effort "of wine and roses."

King And I comes to North Shore

Rodgers and Hammerstein's exotic musical journey to the Far East, The King and I, opens a two-week engagement this week at Beverly's North Shore Music Theatre, running through Aug. 2.

The musical classic, based on Margaret Landon's book Anna And The King Of Siam, is taken from the real story of Anna Leonowens, an English governess who went to Siam in 1861 to tutor the Siamese Crown Prince.

The North Shore Music Theatre production, directed by John Montgomery, features William Chapman as the King. Chapman has played the role in numerous productions during his career, and has also starred on Broadway in Shenandoah.

Jo Sullivan, who starred on Broadway in The Most Happy Fella, will play Anna. Sullivan is the wife of the late composer/lyricist Frank Loesser and in 1980 co-produced and starred in the Broadway tribute to Loesser, Perfectly Frank. This past season Sullivan starred in A Little Night Music at the Merrimack Repertory Theatre in Lowell.

The remainder of the 41-member cast includes many veterans of the 1980-1985 national tour and Broadway run of The King And I, starring Yul Brynner, as well as 10 area children as members of the Court of Siam.

Jerome Robbins' original choreography for The King And I is being reproduced by Rebecca West who reproduced the choreography for, as well as appeared in, the 1980-1985 production with Yul Brynner.

The original production of The King And I opened on Broadway in 1951 and ran a full three years. During the past 35 years numerous revivals, as well as the 1956 film version, have firmly established The King And I as a classic of musical theater, and have placed it beside such Rodgers and Hammerstein classics as Oklahoma, Carousel, South Pacific, and The Sound Of Music. The King And I was the fifth collaboration of the team's 17-year partnership.

Performance times are 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Wednesday and Saturday.

Tickets are $15 Monday through Thursday evening, $16 Friday evening, $18 Saturday evening, and $12.50 for matinee performances. Tickets are available at the North Shore Music Theatre box office, 62 Dunham Rd., Beverly, Mass. 01915. 922-8500.

Zadora, Nicks and Mr. Mister headline Miller series

Concerts by Pia Zadora, Mr. Mister and Stevie Nicks are scheduled for the seventh week of the Miller Music Series at the Great Woods Center for the Performing Arts in Mansfield, Mass. These shows are part of a summer-long concert series featuring popular artists presented under the auspices of the Miller Brewing Company. Additional support is being provided by KISS 108-FM and WBCN-FM.

Pia Zadora brings pop classics to Great Woods on Monday evening, July 28. Though still in her late 20s, she has more than two decades of performing experience, from Broadway musicals to movies to concert stages. Her recent critically acclaimed debut on CBS, Pia And Phil, is a lush collection of standards by Gershwin, Arlen and others, sung to the accompaniment of the London Philharmonic Orchestra.

Also performing that evening is comedy star Norm Crosby, a Boston native. Crosby got his start at New York's famed Latin Quarter, where he became known as the clever comic who used all kinds of "wrong words in the right places." Tickets for the show are priced at $18.50 and $16 for reserved seats, $13.50 for lawn.

Mr. Mister, one of the hottest new American bands, performs at Great Woods Tuesday evening, July 29. The group's latest album, Welcome To The Real World, has produced two Number One singles, Broken Wing and Kyrie. The latter, based on the Greek phrase meaning "Lord have mercy on me," delivers an uplifting melody and message, while showcasing Richard Page and Steve George's spirited vocal harmonies. The band's current single, Is It Love, continues their winning streak of Top Ten hits. Tickets for this show are $17.50 and $15.50 for reserved seats, $13.50 for lawn.

Stevie Nicks, who headlines at Great Woods Wednesday evening, July 30, has been one of popular music's leading female vocalists for well over a decade. Following the split-up of Fleetwood Mac, she launched a solo career highlighted by platinum records and SRO concert tours. At Great Woods, she will be performing Stand Back and other original hits, as well as some Fleetwood Mac treats. Her band will include LA session players Waddy Wachtel on guitar, Rick Marotta on drums and Jai Winding on piano.

Special Guest this evening will be Peter Frampton who's on the comeback trail. Tickets for this show, which promises to be one of the summer's top double bills, are priced at $19.50 and $17.50 for reserved seats, $13.50 for lawn.

All performances in the Miller Music Series begin 7:30 p.m. The Great Woods Center for the Performing Arts is under the sponsorship of WBZ-TV 4, Boston. The 15,000 seat facility is located just off State Road 140 at the junction of interstates 495 and 95; take exit 6A off I-95 to exit 11 on I-495.

Tickets are on sale by telephone charge through Ticketmaster: 1-800-682-8080; or call in Boston 523-6633; in Worcester 754-8800; and in Providence (401) 351-1616. Tickets may also be purchased at the Great Woods box office, 10 a.m.-6 p.m., daily. Ticketmaster outlets are located at the Orpheum Theater in Boston, Garnicks Records in Lowell, Good Vibrations Records Stores, video Connection stores and MVP Sports Stores.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — It may be time for practical action regarding your security and property needs. Look beneath the surface, obey the rules and get your facts straight. Show your versatility — present your progressive, unusual ideas.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Your judgment is sharp, your timing right on so go for the brass ring with confidence! Take the lead and recognition will be yours. Finances are on the up-swing, you're on your own — make a new start in a new direction.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — You're in a strong position and about to make a breakthrough but choose carefully which opportunity to take. Stick to your convictions and be loyal to a person or cause. A financial matter could be settled in your favor.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — An ongoing relationship may need attention — take the initiative. Don't underestimate yourself or let others make you feel inferior. An old worry lifts, restrictions are removed and a message from afar lights up your life.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Improve your present position before you expand into other directions. Don't get involved in personal conflicts. Trust your intuition and use new information wisely. Buy some new clothes, change your image and appearance.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — When you review a current relationship you could recognize that it may be over. In other areas grasp opportunities and show how witty and clever you are. Good news at your workplace could involve a promotion or recognition.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Dig deep for answers to financial matters. Set up a budget and lay solid money foundations. Good time to study new courses or hone up present skills. Romance could blossom and your creative juices are at high tide.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Positive results will occur if you'll apologize and mend a strained relationship now. Show how much you care and be generous with loved ones. Be wary of a scheme that looks too good to be true — you could be ripped off!

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Investigate new ideas in the workplace — you can influence others easily now. Get out and meet people, increase your prestige, promote yourself and you'll get the backing you need. Be accommodating in a domestic dispute.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — The accent is on relationships and sharing but be wary of romantic illusion — don't fall for empty flattery! Dare to move on financial opportunities now. A partnership arrangement could have a promising future.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — The backing you need may come through for you now and you're on your way to the top! Don't let people with a limited outlook dissuade you. Greater self-expression is favored — make that big decision and look to new horizons.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — An important deal could be closed exactly as planned. Pay attention to your personal appearance and dress for success! It may be time to cut some old ties to the past. Get expert advice if you're buying or selling property.

What About Art?

By Meredith Fife Day

In Elizabeth Bichan's oil, Antique Pots, familiar clay vessels are staggered along a stretched horizontal with their distinctive shapes, contrasting values and cast shadows providing quiet visual rhythm.

A look at three exhibits

Winchester Art Association displays the works of four members through July.

The small gallery is filled with watercolors by Christine Loomis and Gloria Giello, oils and acrylics by Elizabeth Bichan and the pottery of Diane Pearson.

The earth browns and neutrals of Pearson's clay works dominate much of the painting as well, with occasional moments of local color, and the notable exception of Gloria Giello's full, pungent yellow-greens and deep, dark umbers.

Several of Giello's works boast a richness of color and layering of value that gives them substance often lacking in the watercolor medium. Even when her touch and value range are lighter, Giello's sensitivity to the medium and response to her subject keep her works from falling into a predictable and formulated mold.

Other strengths of the exhibit include Bichan's sturdy compositions and Loomis' crisp whites in Village in Greece and heady purple eggplants in a small study.

The efforts of Winchester's art community to maintain and support a gallery in town are to be applauded. But the limited space of the 585 A Main St. gallery should be a primary consideration in organizing and hanging exhibits.

The size and number of works, as well as number of exhibiting artists at any one time must be thoughtful and selective if viewers are not to be overwhelmed. More space between the pieces displayed and more selected visual unity of color and theme among them would provide a contemplative setting for works that surely deserve it.

Gallery hours are noon to 4 Tuesday through Saturday. Call 933-2583.

Drawings

Another exhibition too dense in its overall hanging for the full appreciation of its individual pieces is the Seventh Annual Drawing Show at Boston Center for the Arts' Mills Gallery.

A competitive exhibit, the 25 drawings were selected by juror and judge Amy Lighthill from 1300 slides submitted by 450 artists.

Lighthill appears to have made an effort to include an expansive range of style, technique and media that fall into the ever-broadening definition of drawing.

The works on view vary as much in quality as in form.

One fact brought to light in this exhibit is that ambitious, effort-laden, colorful or large works are not necessarily the best drawings.

The initial impact of Lydia Nelson's triptych, Outside My Window, or Mary Good's Phyllis, or Christine Hopkins' High Noon, Center Plaza wears thin long before the latent energy and forceful manipulation of line and space in Timothy Hawkesworth's less showy Birth Series #1 fully reveal themselves.

There are other instances in this show where substance is at least the equal of style. Among them are Nan Wezniak's powerful use of black and white in Scattered Seed; Maggi Brown's locked-in, yet open color shapes in Do Twelve for Natalie #3; and Timothy Harney's dark, expressive The Last Rimbaud.

Mills Gallery is located at 549 Tremont St., Boston, and is open from noon to 4 Tuesday through Saturday. The drawing show will continue through Aug. 9. Call 426-7700.

5 Drawing at Tufts University's Gallery Eleven is an exhibit that gives a much clearer and more cohesive view of what drawing is and how it is approached by artists with very different visions.

The five artists represented are David Campbell, William Flynn, Mags Harries, Jim Ann Howard and Ellen Rothenberg.

"Although these artists work in other media, drawing is for each of them a central and integral part of their artistic activity," says curator Nancy Doll. "The drawings shown here are not studies or preliminaries for other media, but are complete in themselves."

"These drawings manifest for us a sampling of the range and immediacy inherent in the drawing process."

The content and imagery of the five artists are as unlike as the way they approach their work.

Mags Harries' monumental diptychs are surprisingly ephemeral with their big erasure marks as descriptive as their sweeping charcoal counterparts.

Ellen Rothenberg's "visual narratives" fascinate with blunt and spontaneous graphic images in multiple frame sequence that have implications and associations beyond their immediate references.

Jim Ann Howard and David Campbell observe different worlds with attention to the impact of light and naturalistic detail that first startle in their accuracy then support their internal and very individual content.

"Drawing is the simplest way to investigate the world of seeing and your mind's relationship to it; a different language defining and evolving visual ideas into a personal poetry..." says William Flynn of his work.

"The process is about constant change; it's an adventure until the idea is complete."

The evolution of ideas and adventure of process spark Flynn's work with energy and movement and fullness of form that involves the viewer in the artist's excitement and struggle.

Abstract with figurative references, transparently colored with powerful use of the paper's white surface and marked by vigorous handling of line and value, these works fulfill Flynn's definition and show the viewer as well what drawing can be.

Gallery Eleven is located in the Cohen Arts Center, Talbot Avenue, on Tufts' Medford campus. Hours are noon to 5 Monday through Thursday, 5 Drawing is on view through July 31. Call 628-5000, ext. 2800 or 2494.

What's Free Shedding light

Shedding Light

In a single second, the human eye receives thousands of visual impressions. Scientists estimate that each day your eyes expend the same amount of energy as your legs would use during a 50-mile walk.

When the eyes encounter glare, they react defensively. Pupils contract and eyelids close to narrow slits. Outdoor light levels are 50 times greater than indoor light levels; often eyes' natural defenses cannot combat sunlight sufficiently. We squint and strain to see well, and straining fatigues our eyes.

A 14-page guide to selecting sunglasses, Sunglasses and Your Eyes, explains the importance of wearing sunglasses. This scientific and practical guide will open your eyes about what ultraviolet and infrared light can do to your eyes, how to choose the right kind of lens and how to fit sunglasses to your face.

Bausch & Lomb, makers of Ray-Bans (the well-loved and well-worn pilot-style glasses), prepared this full-color booklet. The information it provides probably will shed some light on vision-right and fashion-right sunglasses for you.

Directions: Send a postcard. Ask For: Sunglasses and Your Eyes.

NEWLY INCREASED STARTING SALARIES FOR SUPERVISORY PERSONNEL STAFF AND NURSING ASSISTANTS

Now the rewards are greater than ever for the caring people who choose to work at Mediplex of Lexington. As part of the Mediplex Group—one of the nation's fastest-growing specialists in long-term health care—we offer an excellent benefits package, including paid master medical, dental, disability, and life insurance. And now our increased starting salaries make Mediplex of Lexington an even more attractive opportunity.

We're now looking for supervisory personnel, staff, and nursing assistants. Supervisory positions require RNs with good managerial skills who enjoy working with people. Staff RNs and LPNs must be currently licensed with the State of Massachusetts. Some previous experience is desirable for nursing assistants; however, we will be happy to offer on-the-job training.

If you'd enjoy working in a clean, air-conditioned environment with plenty of free parking, and are looking for an excellent starting salary and benefits package, please call Betsy O'Brien, RN, Director of Nursing Services, at (617) 862-7400.

Vitamins cannot serve as healthy food replacement

LOS ANGELES — Perhaps we're a society preoccupied with the quick fix, the instant solution. Let the computers think for us. Let the calculators count for us. Let the tranquilizers calm us.

And let vitamin pills rescue us from nutritional bankruptcy.

Pop another pill — to our health. May the megadoses of milligrams ensure our immunity.

More than 200 dietitians recently were told by a distinguished array of health professionals and scientists that — in effect — vitamins offer false hopes. They are not substitutes for foods. They are not cures for diseases.

Indeed, the consensus of the symposium — titled "Pills vs. Food: An Emerging Controversy" — was that the person who thinks vitamins will compensate for an inadequate diet is as misled as the person who believes a health spa membership will turn him into a Rambo clone.

Among the salient points:

■ "Human diet and cancer studies are based on food consumption, not on the intake of vitamin and mineral supplements. These studies do not support self-prescribing vitamin and mineral supplements to prevent cancer." — James Marshall, Ph.D., member of the cancer epidemiology research team from State University of New York at Buffalo.

■ "If vitamin and mineral supplements are your solution to such complex problems as stress, cancer, osteoporosis or lack of energy, your solution is not only wrong, it is potentially harmful." — Dr. Victor Herbert, professor of medicine at Mount Sinai School of Medicine at New York.

■ "The Food and Drug Administration should initiate consumer protection measures, including a printed caution on all supplement labels and packaging, warning consumers that vitamins and minerals won't prevent disease and that the consequences of long-term frequent use are unknown." — Dr. David Heber, chief of clinical nutrition at the University of California at Los Angeles School of Medicine.

Added Heber, a nutrition consultant for the California State Board of Medical Quality Assurance: "We're not targeting the one-a-day supplements that 43 percent of Americans take. We're concerned with the single-nutrient supplements that are promoted as treatment for certain conditions."

"We don't know the long-term effects of what, in some cases, amounts to over-the-counter drug abuse. Large doses can affect the body like drugs, upsetting nutrient absorption rates, causing nutritional deficiencies and serious health problems."

"A person should think very carefully before deciding to purchase a single nutrient substance. He should contact a registered dietitian, a physician or a pharmacist."

When does a vitamin pill become a drug?

"When it's taken at 10 times the recommended dietary allowance," said Heber.

"People may view the supplements as a security blanket, which can promote bad eating habits. If we took all the nutrients in a pill, it would be the size of a golf ball."

In addition to such warnings, the symposium — co-sponsored by the California Dietetic Association and the Dairy Council of California — produced a list of consumer guidelines presented by Cheryl Loggins, CDA president.

Designed to reduce consumer confusion, the guidelines specify how a person can meet vitamin and mineral requirements through making choices from the four basic food groups. "It can be done," noted Loggins, "on as few as 1,200 to 1,500 calories a day."

The guidelines acknowledge that "supplementation may be necessary for certain groups of healthy people with special needs." Among them: pregnant and breast-feeding women, infants, teenagers, the elderly, dieters and vegetarians who omit a food group from their diet.

The CDA recommends that these groups use a single multivitamin/mineral tablet not exceeding 100 percent of the RDA for any one nutrient. Because many supplements do not contain calcium, those not consuming recommended servings from milk and milk products should consider a separate calcium pill to meet "no more than 100 percent of the RDA."

The guidelines, which address the need for "problem nutrients," such as zinc, magnesium, vitamin B-6, and calcium and iron for women, emphasize the following:

Milk And Milk Products: Three servings a day for women and children; two for men, and four for teenagers, pregnant and breast-feeding women. Non- and low-fat choices are recommended.

Not only teeth, but dental fears can now be extracted

Cindy Smith of San Diego had the usual dental experiences as a child, but somewhere along the way, "the normal catapulted into a neurotic state." As an adult, the simple thought of sitting in the examining chair traumatized her. She went nine years without a dental visit.

In New York City, the dental phobia clinic of Mount Sinai Hospital treats phobic patients such as Smith, some of whom haven't seen a dentist in 20 years.

In San Francisco at the Center for the Treatment of Dental Fear, some patients have asked to have their teeth extracted because they couldn't bear the idea of continued visits to the dentist.

Fear of the dentist is right up there with snakes on the list of widespread phobias. An estimated 7 percent to 15 percent of the population — as many as 25 million Americans — is sufficiently fearful to be classified "dental avoidant," shunning treatment except for painful emergencies. Many more visit dentists, but with sweaty palms and high stress levels.

Until recently, dentists avoided phobic patients just like the patients avoided them. "(Phobics) are too time-consuming," says J. Gordon Rubin, who as co-director of the Mount Sinai clinic has treated 200 dental phobics in the past six years. "They break appointments. They're late and disruptive."

But some pioneering dentists like Rubin have developed a new sensitivity toward phobics and new tools and techniques. In the least, most dentists now offer earphone radios and "laughing gas" (nitrous oxide), to calm anxious patients, and some decorate their exam rooms with photographs of sylvan settings. One dentist in Buffalo, N.Y., installed a video game on the exam room ceiling to entertain nervous patients.

But these distractions are aimed primarily at the mildly anxious. For serious phobics, a small number of clinics (notably Mount Sinai, San Francisco's Mount Zion and the dental phobia research clinic at the University of Washington) have developed programs that give phobics a chance to talk about their fears, learn to relax and gradually grow accustomed to the world of dentistry. The programs are based on "systematic desensitization," a highly successful phobia technique that progressively introduces feared stimuli (i.e., examining chairs, drills, injections).

In San Diego, dentist and psychologist Dr. Carl Jepsen has used these techniques in his private practice for several years. Now he has expanded phobia treatment with another approach called neuro-linguistic programming. Jepsen, founder of San Diego's Institute for Behavioral Research in Health Care, explains NLP as a method of touching and recalling. Simply put, a patient is asked to recall a bad dental experience and then a positive life experience. After each, Jepsen touches the patient in the same place, say on the wrist. The two experiences become intertwined, says Jepsen, and "the fear will never have the same charge again." NLP, as a phobia cure, has not been validated by research.

"When I heard about it I said, 'Boloney,'" remembers dental phobic Cindy Smith, one of Jepsen's patients. "So I was really stunned when I felt something like a short circuit. All of a sudden the fear was just not so bad. I won't say I trot off happily to the dentist now, but I'm not paralyzed by fear like I was before."

Smith and a growing number of other phobics are testament to the fact that the problem can be successfully treated — and with surprising ease and speed. The good news for phobics, explains Rubin, is that "fears are learned and they can be unlearned." The even better news is it doesn't take a long stretch on a Freudian couch to do it.

At San Francisco's Center for the Treatment of Dental Fear, Dr. Paul Glassman has successfully treated about 60 patients in the last 18 months. All but one were cured with fewer than 10 sessions.

"What we're dealing with here," explains Glassman, "is a fear that is unresolved. The patient treats it by avoidance, but the more he avoids it the deeper the fear becomes. The successful treatment is exposure."

But the exposure comes gradually and the patient says when enough is enough. Programs in San Francisco and New York both begin by asking the patient to detail specific fears, commonly anxiety about pain, choking, drills and injections.

"Say the noise of the drill bothers the patient," Rubin explains. "We would start by explaining why it makes that sound and why we need the drill. Then we might turn it on in a room with no other equipment. We'd let the patient hold the drill and become accustomed to it. When we reach the point when it's making the patient feel worse instead of better, then we back off. We go at the pace the patient can handle."

The programs also teach relaxation techniques — Lamaze-type breathing, self-hypnosis, biofeedback — because as Rubin explains, "it is impossible to be relaxed and anxious at the same time."

The underlying problem for all dental phobics is loss of control, Rubin adds. "Once you let patients know you will stop whatever you are doing exactly when they want you to, then they know they are in control and the fear becomes manageable."

Built on Integrity Backed by Results

Since 1979, Physicians WEIGHT LOSS Centers has helped thousands of Americans lose millions of pounds. We're a national organization with over 175 out-patient centers operating in 19 states.

We've aligned ourselves with your medical community, acting as a bona fide support service by treating the non-emergent, overweight patient. Under close medical supervision our patients lose a guaranteed 3 to 7 pounds each week.

Patients are taught how to plan nutritional, well-balanced meals consisting of grocery store foods. Our Behavioral Guidance programs show the patient how to identify and then modify poor eating habits so that they can stay slim forever.

The real strength of our program lies in our dedicated and compassionate staff... physicians, nurses and staff counselors — caring professionals who understand the frustration of coping with a weight problem. They consider each of their patients' successes as personal victories.

We have restored trust in the weight loss industry. We invite you to come to our Open House to witness the integrity and uncompromising service we provide to all our patients. See for yourself why Physicians WEIGHT LOSS Centers is built on integrity and backed by results.

Dental technology includes denture implanting surgery

For 25 million Americans, so-called permanent teeth have proved to be not so permanent after all. Half the population between ages 45 and 74 have lost two sets of teeth to the tooth fairy and must now endure the hassles of dentures. For them, a third set of natural teeth would be a gift from heaven.

Now dentists have succeeded where nature failed. The newest and closest approximation of natural teeth is now available — dentures implanted permanently into the jawbone.

Implant patients undergo a two-step surgical process, designed two decades ago by a Swedish physician and introduced to the United States in 1982.

The procedure is called osseointegration — osseo from the Latin for bone; and integration, which describes the bonding process that occurs between implant and jawbone. Success rates now top 90 percent.

To the denture wearer, the benefits of permanent teeth are immediately apparent. Permanent teeth can't slip or bounce around in the mouth or fall out over the supper table. Furthermore, teeth implanted like normal teeth chew like normal teeth. Because they press on the gum instead of the jawbone, dentures reduce normal chewing ability as much as 75 percent, dentists estimate.

In the long term, implants may actually improve the course of preventive dentistry. The pressure dentures exert on the gums causes a degenerative loss of jawbone that begins once natural teeth are removed. For some individuals, bone loss becomes so severe that eventually they can't even wear dentures. These patients must undergo expensive and elaborate bone grafting techniques or go toothless. And dentists explain that as the population ages, more and more denture wearers will be faced with these kinds of problems.

"PRESERVING" YOUR FAMILY'S HEALTH

Q: My family loves the homemade jams and jellies I make every year. But as I'm pouring all that sugar into the recipe, I wonder how good it is for my family. Is sugar really so harmful to their health?

A: Summer is filled with an abundant array of delicious fruits and berries just waiting to be made into jams and jellies. These preserves can be loaded with refined sugars. This sugar lacks nutritional value, contains no vitamins or minerals and is a contributing factor to obesity.

This year, you can use your home cooking to control your family's consumption of sugar. The following recipe allows you to enjoy the luxury of preserves while avoiding sugar-laden calories:

2 cups berries
1 cup water
1 package unflavored gelatin
Artificial liquid sweetener,
3 shakes

Crush berries. Combine with water and gelatin. Add sweetener. Boil for one minute. Pour into hot jars and seal. Place jars in boiling water bath for 10 minutes. Cool and store.

Nutrition slows aging

It may be fountain of youth

The search for the magical fountain of youth has continued for centuries as people struggle to find the secret of keeping youth and health through the golden years.

Well, no one has found the fountain yet, but doctors say the closest thing is a nutritious diet.

"Recent increases in life expectancy and a growing population of older Americans have raised important questions about how we can stay healthier and remain younger longer," according to Dr. Hamish N. Munro, senior scientist, USDA Human Nutrition Research Center on Aging at Tufts University. "New knowledge about the role of nutrition in the aging process may help us postpone the changes in the body we now associate with aging."

Besides the leaner, more fibrous and less salty diets currently recommended for Americans of all ages, what factors in health and lifestyle should get special attention from older people? Among suggestions from the Food and Drug Administration and the National Institute on Aging are the following:

— Dental Health: Neglected teeth can actually impair nutritional health. When the older person resorts to soft and fluid foods, vitamin, mineral and fiber intakes may be diminished.

— Exercise: Physical activity is essential for people of all ages, and the elderly are no exception. Weight-bearing movement is considered necessary to prevent bone loss. Exercise is vital to maintaining the level of high density li-poproteins in the blood, to retard or prevent lesions on blood vessel walls and decrease the risk of coronary heart disease.

— Companionship: Senior citizens who eat alone all the time may lose interest in food, some to the point of contracting acute malnutrition. If at all possible, people should have company at mealtime, to share both their interest in food and their mutual experiences. Some solve this problem by heading to a senior citizen center for company and a well-balanced lunch.

— Diminished taste sensation: When the senses of taste and smell decline, as they do with aging, some older people may resort to oversalting food in an effort to increase flavor. It's wiser to enhance flavors by learning to use low-sodium items such as lemon juice, herbs and spices.

— Food-drug interactions: Many older people take daily medications, some as many as six prescription drugs every day. Many drugs and nutrients interact in the body and may cause dangerous side effects or may cancel or intensify each other's actions.

Whenever a doctor prescribes a medicine, the patient should be advised of any foods that should be avoided because of possible interactions with the prescribed drug or with any other drugs — prescription or non-prescription — that a patient might take.

— Nutritional-Medical Fakery: Older people are particular targets for quackery — false treatments sold to cure or prevent disease or to increase well-being or longevity. Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., chairman of the House Subcommittee on Health and Long-Term Care and a devoted champion of the older citizen, has reported to Congress on the impact of quackery on the elderly. The promotion and sale of useless remedies, says Pepper, cost more than $10 billion each year. Diets and drugs for arthritis are big items; so are dietary "cures" for cancer.

Guide to children's teeth care

By JOHN J. CARAVOLAS, D.D.S.
American Academy of Pedodontics
Special to What's Up

A chipped tooth, a severe toothache and bleeding gums are problems that can be part of growing up.

But such problems should not be ignored.

If your child's teeth or mouth suffer an injury, be sure to get him or her the proper emergency dental treatment.

The following is some general advice to help you should an emergency arise:

•If a tooth is knocked out — sometimes a fall or injury knocks out a tooth completely.

The best advice is to wipe the tooth free of dirt, rinse under cold water if possible and stick the tooth firmly back in the socket — as far as it will go.

If this can't be done, then clean the tooth, keep it damp and take both the child and the tooth to a dentist, hospital or medical center emergency room immediately.

Depending upon the condition of the tooth, the dentist will attempt to reimplant it in the child's mouth.

•If a tooth is chipped — in an accident that breaks or chips a tooth but doesn't expose the nerve, wipe the tooth with warm water. Keep it clean and escort the child to a dentist quickly.

The dentist will place a covering over the exposed dentin (the bone-like tissue that lies just under the tooth's enamel), which will facilitate the tooth to heal.

The dentist will use a tooth-colored material to bond the chipped off portion directly on to the remaining tooth.

Usually this restoration is indistinguishable from a natural, whole tooth.

•If there's persistent bleeding of the gums — excessive bleeding is a sure sign of serious underlying damage, such as a bad infection.

•If the child complains of a persistent toothache — this is a danger sign that usually means the tooth has developed an abscess.

In such a case, the tooth is often extremely sensitive to touch or to bite on. This pain is usually accompanied by a swollen area around the tooth and possibly the jaw and face.

In this situation, see a dentist immediately.

If your child must wait a day or so to be seen, the dentist will prescribe an antibiotic to control the infection until it can be treated.

If you're uncertain about what to do when your child complains of discomfort of the mouth or teeth, the best advice is this: when in doubt, call your dentist.

The earlier problems are detected, the less uncomfortable your child will be.

Important tips to prevent eye disease among elderly

The American Academy of Ophthalmology says it's important to keep abreast of the facts to keep your eyes in the best shape possible. Here are some common myths about eye care for the elderly — followed by the facts.

As I get older, I have to expect that vision won't be what it used to be.

This is not necessarily true. There is a great deal that can be done to preserve and protect the eye health of elderly people, although they are particularly vulnerable to certain eye diseases.

Using my eyes too much, or even reading or doing close work in dim light, will damage my eyes.

Not true. The eyes cannot be damaged by being used, not even by watching "too much" television or reading in dim light. The muscles around the eyes, however, may become tired and it might be more comfortable to rest them periodically when fatigue becomes apparent.

If I wear eyeglasses, I can preserve the strength of my eyes.

False. Eyes, like the body's other organs and systems, are affected by the aging process, and glasses will not prevent that process from continuing.

I see perfectly well and my eyes don't hurt, so there is no reason for me to visit an ophthalmologist.

Not true. Regular medical eye exams are essential if eye disease is to be detected in an early stage, before serious damage has been done.

Glaucoma, in particular, is called the "thief of sight" because it often presents no obvious symptoms in its early stages. Glaucoma can usually be controlled by medication, yet it remains a leading cause of blindness. This means that many cases of glaucoma are discovered too late for effective treatment.

I don't have high blood pressure, so there's little chance I will get glaucoma.

False. Glaucoma is not related to high blood pressure. It is caused by an increase in pressure within the eye. It may be controlled by a continuing use of medication or by surgery.

I understand that a cataract is a clouding of the lens, but I'm afraid of surgery.

Today, cataract surgery is easy and safe, and its success rate is extremely high.

Still, I would rather have my cataracts treated with pills or drops.

Not possible. Surgery is the only effective treatment. No matter what you hear or read, nothing else works.

Can cataracts be removed by lasers?

Lasers are used only for procedures before or after cataract surgery, but not for the removal of the cataract itself.

I hate to bother doctors, especially if I don't have a real problem.

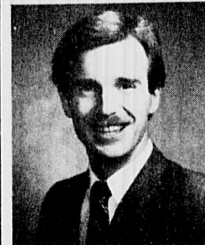

The best time to visit an ophthalmologist is before an eye problem has become severe. Early detection of an eye disease offers the best chance for effective treatment. Regular exams are especially important for people with a family history of eye disease and for diabetics, whose systemic problems often also affect their eyes.

Helpful hints for seniors: pills and when to take them

Taking medications is often a juggling act when seniors are taking several, each with different instructions.

When a person feels good, it almost seems silly to take medicine at all; when he's sick, he often can't get enough. But no matter how a person feels, pharmacists say following instructions on the prescription is rule No. 1.

"It's very important that you take prescription medication as directed," says Alan Crill, pharmacist for a nationwide retail drug chain. "If you miss taking a tablet or take it at the wrong time of day, the drug might not be as effective — and you'd be back at the doctor's again."

Studies show more than half the patients prescribed medications fail to take the full amount the doctor ordered. Many say they didn't need it, others say they got well before the medicine was gone.

"That's not always true, even though you may have no symptoms when you stop taking your medicine," Crill says. "Your doctor decides how long an antibiotic will take to kill 'the bug.' If you stop taking the antibiotic before it's gone, that bug has a chance to regroup and make you ill again. The second time around, the bug may be used to the antibiotic, and your doctor must prescribe a stronger drug to make you well."

Some medications, like those prescribed for high blood pressure, are meant to treat, not cure, an ailment. It doesn't matter if the patient has taken medication for two years or 10. In the case of high blood pressure, it must be treated for life, according to the Citizens for the Treatment of High Blood Pressure.

Sometimes, taking the medicine isn't the problem — it's the side effects that follow. It's important to be aware of these effects and take precautionary measures when possible. Some medicines, like antihistamines, will cause drowsiness, so plan to take a nap or get in bed a little early if possible. Keep in mind that alcohol, a depressant, will work with the antihistamine to make the patient even sleepier.

Some medications bring on nausea. Taking medication with food or milk will prevent or decrease this effect, Crill says.

High blood pressure patients often complain the medicine they take makes them tired, dizzy, depressed and impotent. A new class of anti-hypertensive medication called ACE inhibitors is being introduced that acts specifically on a system in the body that regulates high blood pressure with minimal side effects.

Colorful labels on prescriptions often give additional instruction to what the doctor ordered. Common ingredients in over-the-counter medications may cause side effects or decrease the effectiveness of a prescription medicine when taken together. Some medications should be taken on an empty stomach because they react with food. Others must be taken at a certain time of day to be most effective.

What about vitamins? With senior citizens, less activity may mean fewer calories are needed, but the amount of essential nutrients required stays the same or can even increase, according to the Vitamin Nutrition Information Service.

By getting the right nutrients daily through balanced meals, some of the problems that could be caused by nutritional deficiencies may be avoided. A vitamin mineral supplement may be the way get nutrients not provided through diet.

If you're uncertain about your nutritional status and how it may be affecting your health, check with your physician, pharmacist or dietitian for advice about taking vitamins. Checking the label of a supplement will tell you the specific nutrients it contains and the percentage of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for each. And remember, as with any other medications, vitamins can be dangerous if taken in excess.

By taking medications correctly, the prescription juggling act will become easier. Patients are bound to be healthier and probably will feel better.

UPDATING THE MARKET

You may have heard of the nearly unbelievable increase in property values recently. Prices of most homes west of Boston actually increased about 2% per MONTH during the last year!

Professional appraisers all agree, however (and Realtors substantiate this) that this record-breaking inflation of house prices has slowed down since the start of this past June. Presently, property values are staying relatively even. What for $180,000, yours is not likely to sell for more — at this time.

Keep in mind, however, that real estate trends change rapidly! We make it our business to keep abreast of all changes that affect your property value, from inflation factor to mortgage rate, to the number of homes presently for sale that might compete with yours. Even if you've had a market analysis recently, ask us for an update.

Make a list,

Compare Place Lane with any others—it won't be much of a comparison. Consider the choice of over 35 floor plans, luxurious master suites, and designer kitchens. Many units with jacuzzis, fireplaces, and skylights. Compare the secluded location minutes from Route 128, the tennis court, swimming pool and 50 other luxury features. Cap it off with the lowest taxes in Massachusetts.

If the quantity and quality of your list doesn't convince you to come to Place Lane, our competitors' will.

Do You Remember?

This "30" Race-about was a rare sports model of the well known auto maker.

Back in 1912 you relied on Moon to make a quality automobile. Nowadays, we make it our business to uphold that quality in everything we sell.

Good News for the Weekend Mechanic

Audi 5000S Sedan

If you do your own repair work, do the job right with genuine Audi replacement parts. First of all, they fit, so if you take your Audi apart Saturday morning, you know the parts you bought will get you back on the road without another trip. Second, every part has a 6-month, 6,000-mile limited warranty. At Audi, we care as much about your car as you do.

Police seek two for $15G robbery

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Winchester police are looking for two black men who held customers and tellers at gunpoint at the Washington Street branch of Winchester Savings Bank late Tuesday morning.

One masked robber vaulted over the counter and ransacked money drawers while a second masked robber, described as obese, held six bank employees and one customer at bay.

According to Det. Lt. Joseph N. Perritano, the two suspects stole $15,590. No shots were fired. More than $10,000 in cash was recovered at Hancock and Washington Streets minutes after the hold-up.

Police said as many as four people may be involved in Winchester's first bank robbery since March 22, 1980. The same bank was robbed of $28,440, which was recovered.

At 11:13 a.m., the robbers fled the bank and police responded to an alarm. According to Perritano, police initially thought the robbers fled into the Fells via Hillcrest Parkway because the 1986 white Pontiac Trans-Am in which they fled was abandoned on Reservoir Street near an entrance to the Fells.

State police, Metropolitan District

"They probably got some out before the dye packs went off. We found the bag wide open," said Perritano.

Commission (MDC) and Winchester police combed the Fells area by foot and cruiser. Two German shepherds were also used to track the robbers.

About one-half hour after the robbery, residents told police they had seen a rust-colored car parked on Reservoir Street. Perritano said it was probably the "switch" car used by robbers after they abandoned the Trans-Am on Appalachian Road. The Fells manhunt was called off.

Less than two minutes after the robbers fled, Perritano said they dumped some money.

"They probably got some out before the dye packs went off. We found the bag wide open," he said, adding that money was "blowing around the street."

Dye packs are placed in each packet of bills in a teller's money drawer. About two minutes after the packs are taken outside the bank, they explode tear gas into the air.

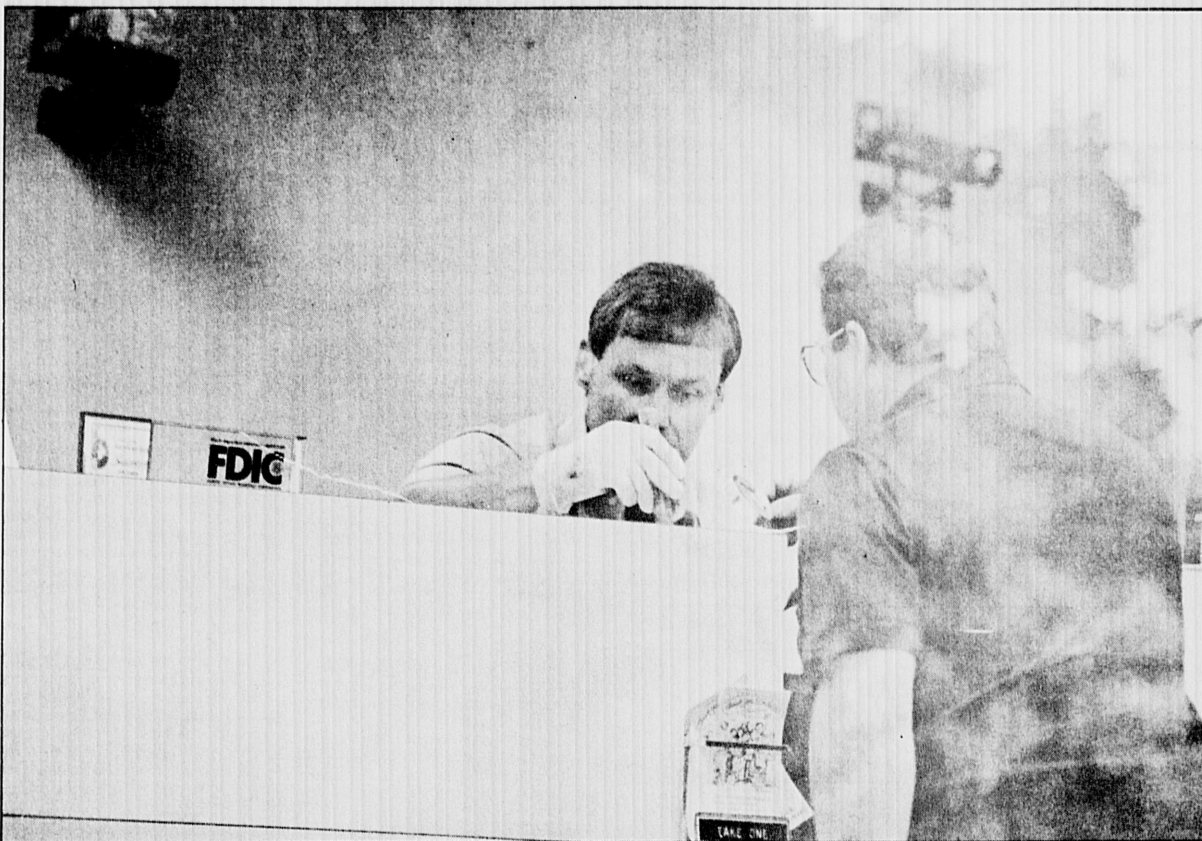

Police found money inside a dark blue canvas gym bag at Hancock and Washington Streets. The explosion burned a large hole in the bag, Perritano said. Also seized was a sawed-off shotgun and a holster to a handgun, both used in the hold-up, Perritano said.

The Trans-Am was stolen in Boston Sunday, July 27. The owner lives in Framingham.

Winchester police are working with the Bank Robbery Task Force, based in Boston. The force consists of FBI agents, state and local police. Their sole purpose is to investigate bank robberies. The force is less than a year old.

The bank branch was closed Tuesday while members of the task force questioned witnesses and dusted for fingerprints.

Police are following leads of suspects involved in recent area bank robberies.

An unidentified Massachusetts state trooper and Winchester police detective Dan McGee cooperate to dust for fingerprints at the teller's window used by bank robbers Tuesday at the Washington Street office of Winchester Savings Bank. The same office was the victim of a trio of robbers March 22, 1980, but a new "bank robbery task force" of state troopers like the man above, FBI agents and local police officers was created less than a year ago to reduce the number of robberies.

Oil slick mars Mill Pond as ducks are found dead

Last weekend two ducks were found dead at the Mill Pond.

Joe Tabbi, director of the board of health, said he received several calls from residents and the town manager's office about traces of oil on the pond's surface.

Tabbi and town engineer Jake Ciarcia surveyed the pond Monday morning.

"We found slight traces of oil opposite the Knights of Columbus but not a significant amount like we found a couple of months ago," said Tabbi.

Oil apparently leaked into storm drains during repaving of a parking lot May 7 at the Tar Realty Trust building off Washington Street, near St. Mary's Church. Absorbent pads were placed in the duck pond then.

Tabbi said he and Ciarcia found another dying duck on the island Monday. Tabbi said the duck could not be saved.

The Tufts University Veterinary School will perform tests on the duck Tabbi found Monday morning.

He said chances are slim that the oil caused the three deaths, but he will have to wait for the test results.

Tabbi hopes to purchase an absorption boom in the future for the pond. "It prevents pollution from going beyond a certain point," he said.

The boom is made of a material that absorbs any chemicals, oils or other pollutants on the water's surface.

State answer awaited for Loop housing plan

By MARGARET HAYKAL

The Winchester Housing Authority awaits approval from the Executive Office of Transportation and Construction (EOTC) to build low-income family housing on the Woburn Loop.

The abandoned railroad right-of-way, now owned by the town, is impractical for rail traffic due to the removal of the Swanton Street bridge and the subsequent filling-in of the right-of-way, town officials say.

Proposed housing will not preclude the access to the remaining right-of-way, according to the housing authority.

Construction of two units, in one duplex structure, of low-income family housing on the former property will accomplish two aims of the Dukakis administration, said Jerry Keefe, executive director of the housing authority.

State land will be used for family housing, thereby increasing the number of low-income family houses.

Also, the units will be part of the seven units of "affordable" family housing which Winchester and the Massachusetts have agreed to build in Winchester.

The Executive Office of Communities and Development informed the housing authority that the property is acceptable for its intended purpose if the EOTC approves. (Please see LOOP, page 7)

Robert Winn Square dedicated

"The story of Bob Winn indeed provides a bright beacon for those who follow after him," said master of ceremonies Ed O'Connell during Saturday's dedication of Robert M. Winn Square.

O'Connell's tribute made note of Winn's many contributions to his town. Rep. Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh, the principal speaker, said the new name of the square at Main and Swanton streets was appropriate because it would remind all of one man's dedication to his family and community.

Wade Welch, chairman of the board of selectmen, also spoke during the ceremony. Mrs. Robert M. Winn, widow of the honored man, and Mike Saraco, chairman of the Robert M.

Winn Memorial Committee, unveiled the plaque officially renaming the square.

Members of the memorial committee included chairman Saraco, Andrew Bilotta, Anthony Cassaro, James Castagno, Howard W. Chase, Anthony Cusro, Joseph Colella, Ralph Fiore, Randolph L. Kazarian, Ricco Nicotia, O'Connell, Michael Procopio, Saltmarsh and Michael D. Saraco Jr.

The Christopher Columbus Club, which hosted a reception at the Sons of Italy hall after the ceremony, was a driving force in the dedication. Its president, Colella, and other members of its board served on the memorial committee.

Funds were not solicited but were donated by Aberjona Post No. 3719, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Aberjona Civic Association, Sons of Italy.

The Rev. George J. Dufour of the Church of the Immaculate Conception delivered the invocation and benediction at Saturday's ceremony.

The text of O'Connell's tribute, as printed in the dedication program, follows:

Bob Winn had a zest for life. He came charging out of Medford High School as a letterman in four varsity sports in 1926 and he was able to sustain that competitive spirit the rest of his life. In 1940 he established residence in Winchester and began his long record of community service. He was to be a founding father of the Winchester Little League and the Winchester Police Athletic League and an active supporter of the Babe Ruth League. A good role model for his family, he served as president of the Holy Name Society of the Immaculate Conception Parish.

For 43 years Bob Winn was an employee of the U.S. Postal Service. He was much more than a mailman; he was an ambassador extraordinaire of good will. I first got to know Bob when he used to deliver mail to the Fletcher School at Tufts University. Every delivery was a lesson in human relations. Bob took his duties seriously but never took himself too seriously and was never afraid to display his warm and humorous qualities. He gained (Please see WINN, page 7)

The Rotary Barn on Elmwood Avenue, now dwarfed by the Stonehenge Heights Apartment next door, will close forever in the next few days when club members sell all remaining merchandise. The club's auction and its barn will no longer be the main source of funding for Rotary's charitable work but a new effort will be determined soon, club officials say. (George Derringer photo)

End of an era: Rotary Barn will close forever

Years of Winchester tradition will close this week when the Rotary Barn liquidates all its inventory and closes forever.

The barn and the Rotary auction are, in part, victims of the growth of yard sales and have themselves become "white elephants," said club president Neal Harte.

Final sale of all items is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday and from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Monday at the barn on Elmwood Avenue.

"Although it will be a sad day for the many associated with the auction and barn, it marks a new beginning and direction for the Winchester Rotary Club," said Harte.

The Rotary barn property has been sold to Dom DiVicenzo, Harte said.

Thirty-three years ago, the club began an old-fashioned country auction to raise funds. Members rummaged through their own attics, basements and garages to provide items at first, later coaxing donations from relatives, friends and neighbors.

As the auction grew, so did the inventory. Club members soon filled their own garages with merchandise and trucked it to the town hall each auction day.

In 1958, the club decided to centralize its storage. The barn was purchased. It allowed year-round storage and a continuing sales operation each Saturday morning. The choicest items, however, were saved for the auction.

With experience came expertise, Rotarians said. They became adept at moving pianos, refrigerators, washers, dryers and all kinds of furniture.

The day before each annual auction was moving day, when all items were moved to the town hall in a single "back-breaking effort," Harte said.

Compensation for the work was enough funds for the club to continue its charitable work during the year. Wives of Rotarians participated in the auctions, preparing food and staffing the food table. Auxiliary firemen donated time at the coffee and punch tables while auxiliary policemen gave time to direct traffic on Mount Vernon Street.

A bean supper, served by Rotarians, completed and highlighted years of auctions.

But yard sales significantly reduced the number of items available for both the auction and the barn, Harte said. Reluctantly, the club, unanimously decided to sell the building and to "use its ingenuity to replace the auction with some other form of fund-raising project."

"This does not mean the end of Rotary's charitable endeavors, only a change in the source of income," Harte said.

"The club thanks all citizens of the community who, through the years, supported the auction through donations of merchandise and purchases," he said. "With this type of support, the club will continue to be a viable source of funding for many worthy projects in Winchester."

Finance committee reappointed

Five people have won a second appointment in a repeat meeting of town officials.

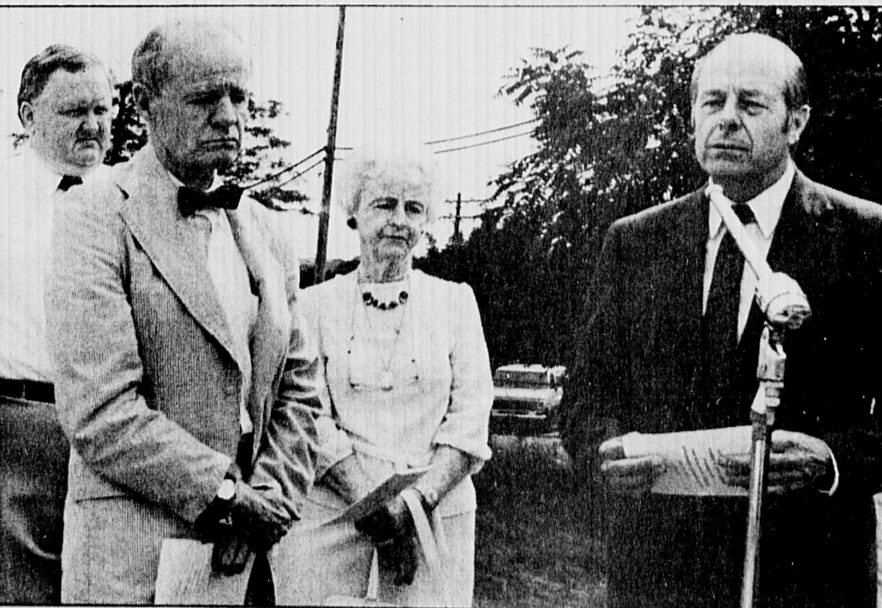

Town moderator John Sullivan, selectmen's chairman Wade Welch and finance committee chairman Gerard Polcari met again Monday night to reaffirm their appointments of a week earlier.

The previous week's meeting was not posted on the town hall bulletin board, as required by law, and therefore a violation of the state's open meeting law. This week's meeting was duly posted.

Results were nearly the same. Harry Chetalo, Chester Haskell and Ralph Johnson were again unanimously selected.

Anna Frattaroli, whose appointment drew criticism a week earlier from selectman Mark Lombardi, again received the support of Sullivan and Polcari. She and her husband own Ristorante Lucia on Mount Vernon Street.

During a meeting of selectmen (Please see FINANCE, page 7)

The Winchester Star POLICE LOG

Tuesday, July 29

At 1:32 a.m., a Church Street resident's car was vandalized. Police found a yellow Pontiac Grand Prix parked on Central Street with the driver's side window smashed.

Monday, July 28

At 12:32 a.m., police found a $100 10-speed bicycle that was stolen from Purity Supreme parking lot June 25. The bicycle belongs to a Winchester resident.

At 6:41 p.m., a Charles Road resident told police someone stole a $25 bicycle from his front yard. The incident occurred Sunday, July 27.

At 5:58 p.m., a Charles Road resident told police someone stole a $70 pink bicycle from his front yard.

Sunday, July 27

At 6:05 p.m., police responded to an attempted house break on Grove Place. Nothing was stolen, police said.

The father of one of the owners discovered the break and called police. He told police he was at the home feeding the cat. The owners were away.

Entry was gained by smashing a basement window. Police said kitchen cabinets, closets in the bedroom and the study room were ransacked. A video cassette recorder was taken from the bedroom and moved to the living room.

The incident occurred between 4 p.m. July 24 and 6:05 p.m. July 27.

At 12:38 a.m., police placed a 21-year-old man in protective custody.

Police observed a Forest Street resident at the corner of Thompson Street and Main Street under the influence of drugs.

He was taken to the station and later released to his father.

Saturday, July 26

At 11:27 a.m., police assisted the fire department at a car fire at Manchester Field lot.

The car, a 1964 Dodge Omni owned by an Arlington resident, was towed from the scene.

At 3:18 p.m., a Main Street resident was taken to Winchester Hospital's emergency room after a car accident at the corner of Swanton Street and McKay Avenue.

According to the report, a Yale Street resident, driving a 1984 Oldsmobile, was making a left turn onto McKay Avenue when she stopped abruptly, causing a car driven by the Main Street resident, to hit her from behind.

The Main Street resident bumped her head and was taken to Winchester Hospital. Her car was towed.

At 7:57 p.m., a Harvard Street resident told police someone stole two 12-speed bicycles valued at $400 from his yard. The incident occurred between 7 p.m. July 24 and 8 p.m. July 26.

Friday, July 25

At 7:11 a.m., a Woburn resident was taken to Winchester Hospital emergency room after a car accident on Main Street.

An Everett resident told police he looked away from the road and ended up on the other side of the road.

Police cited the man for failure to use care and caution.

Damage to both cars was minor.

At 8:24 a.m., a Holton Street resident told police someone stole his $270 Schwinn blue bicycle from his backyard. The bicycle was locked, police said.

At 2:17 p.m., police reported a break at a Ravine Road residence. Stolen were a jewelry box containing two gold chains, a pearl necklace, a pair of pearl earrings and a pair of gold earrings.

At 11:13 p.m., a Waltham resident, owner of a Pepper Hill Drive residence, told police someone hit his 1982 Audi, causing severe damage. The incident occurred between 9 and 11 p.m.

Thursday, July 24

At 8:47 a.m., a Highland Avenue resident told police someone hit his car in White Hen parking lot on Main Street. Damage was under $100, police said.

At 9:20 a.m., police reported a car accident at the corner of Cambridge Street and High Street. A Reading resident, driving a Buick, was making a left turn from Church Street onto Cambridge Street when an Arlington resident, driving a 1979 Ford truck, was coming down High Street. Minor damage was reported.

At 12 p.m., police reported a minor accident at the corner of Holton and Cross Streets. Both cars were trying to make a right turn onto Cross Street when they collided. A Worcester resident's car suffered damage to the right side. An Elmwood Avenue resi-

At 1:25 p.m., a Medford resident told police someone scraped the sides of his 1984 blue Corvette while it was parked in Waterfield lot.

At 11:26 p.m., a Winchester resident was placed in protective custody for disorderly conduct.

Police found the man sitting on the ramp at the train depot drinking beer. Officer Philip Coss took the man to Winchester station. He was later released to a friend.

Cancer rehabilitation unit at Woburn hospital to expand

The 18-month-old pioneering Cancer Rehabilitation Unit at the 200-bed New England Rehabilitation Hospital, Woburn, is providing dramatic encouragement and new hope to cancer patients.

Dr. Edmond Charrette of Lexington, medical director and one of the co-founders of the new unit, will travel to Budapest, Hungary, to outline phases of the new technique at the International Cancer Congress. He predicts the initial success "is demonstrating the need for doubling the size of the facility in the near future."

The new unit is the vision of Charrette and Dr. David O'Toole of Clinton, associate medical director. The Budapest gathering will bring together several thousand cancer ex-

Area pro-choice group plans strategy for fall

"Pro-choice advocates" met in Winchester to mobilize efforts to defeat an amendment to the state's constitution which would allow the legislature to prohibit abortion. The measure will be Question One on the November ballot.

"Vote no on One may be the most important vote you cast in November," Carol Doherty, director of the Campaign for Choice, told supporters from Arlington, Lexington, Winchester and Woburn.

"If this ballot question passes it could be devastating to the health and lives of women," Doherty said. "It would allow the state legislature to prohibit medical facilities, including clinics and hospitals, from providing abortions. Rape and incest victims could be prevented from obtaining abortions. It would allow the state legislature to prohibit insurers from covering abortion services. Women with serious medical problems may be forced to undergo dangerous pregnancies."

Doherty said her organization needs volunteers. For information, call 451-8170.

The Campaign for Choice includes more than 60 organizations, representing a broad spectrum of religious and political views.

There's more than one way to finance an education!

With educational expenses on the rise and financial assistance more restrictive, families are looking for alternatives to pay for school. At Winchester Savings Bank, you'll find loans specifically for students... loans for parents of students... and even loans for students or parents who own homes. And in most cases, there are no restrictions on age, the type of school you're attending (or plan to attend), or if you're a half-time or full-time student.

HELP Loans: Administered by the Massachusetts Higher Education Assistance Corporation, this federally sponsored program offers low-interest loans to undergraduate and graduate students. Parents are not required to co-sign, the first payment is deferred until after graduation and you have up to 10 years to repay.

PLUS Loans: This is also a locally administered, federally sponsored program that offers below-market rates to parents of dependent undergraduate students as well as to independent undergraduate and graduate students. Payments start within 45 days and the repayment period is negotiated.

Home Equity Lines of Credit: With a Winchester Savings Bank Home Equity Line of Credit, homeowners can use the equity in their homes to pay for the cost of education... or for whatever else they want. Lines of credit are available up to $150,000.

To find out more about financing your education, call 729-2130 or visit any office of Winchester Savings Bank.

HELPING YOUR REALTOR SELL

Every home is unique in some way. Nobody knows this better than the owner. Perhaps the construction was made superior by certain additions or materials. The heating system may be extremely economical. It's possible that the drapes, carpeting or other fixtures are of unique or expensive quality. It could be that adjacent land will never be developed because of certain zoning. The point is—if there are important unseen assets to your home, let your Realtor know. It will help sell your home. This is especially true in the kitchen area if you have modern, updated appliances.

During the showing, it is helpful if you are available to answer questions, but let the agent lead the tour and do the showing. Following the showing, a professional agent will provide you with feedback on the client's reaction. Often, the comments will give you valuable hints if some minor upkeep or cosmetic improvements will help make the sale easier. Selling is a team effort.

Why Juneau conjures up a vision of a small Norwegian village beside a fjord, an artse town in the Berkshires, and a wild frontier. Just 900 air miles from Seattle, Juneau meanders for 3,108 square miles around mountains, through wooded valleys, onto an island, and up an ice field. The city sits in the twin shadows of Mt. Juneau and Mt. Roberts (3,600 feet). Thirteen miles from downtown is the largest and most accessible of the several dozen glaciers within the 1,500 square mile Juneau Ice Fields. It is a marvel of crystalline beauty. From Juneau's recently expanded airport, the rest of Alaska is only a flight away.

Rely on our professionally trained staff at FAIR WINDS TOURS to help you plan a trip that satisfies your personal yearnings and budget requirements whether or not they include a trip to Alaska. Take advantage of our experience and know-how...it never costs you any more. In fact very often we have even saved our clients money. Ample free parking is available behind our building.

While in Juneau, go aboard a chartered plane to see the ice fields from the air.

Selectmen, planning board to discuss Woburn Loop fate

Winchester selectmen will face a busy agenda Monday night, starting with consideration of the Woburn Loop's fate.

Members of the planning board and the board of selectmen will meet during Monday's 7:30 p.m. session. Selectmen want to learn the planning board's views about ways to dispose of the abandoned railroad right-of-way.

Selectmen have already agreed to view the long, narrow property as rectangular "sub-lots" which could be easily added to abutters' land.

Abutters will be given preference in the bidding process, selectmen said. At first, only the portion of the Loop north of Swanton Street will be considered.

Whether all of the Loop property will be sold has not been decided, however. Selectmen have not decided whether to keep some of the land and have invited neighbors to comment.

Also Monday night, selectmen will conduct a public hearing regarding several complaints of barking dogs.

A representative of A & T Realty, owner of a subdivision parcel on the south side of Sussex Road, has been invited to Monday's meeting. The developers have requested town water and several town departments recommend supplying it through a new pipe under an existing trail in the town forest.

Also on the agenda will be reports from town manager Chad Maurer, including one about the structure of the department of public works. The department is currently divided into four divisions including water and sewer, grounds, buildings, and highways.

Hockey rink sold, may be demolished for condo project

The old hockey arena off Cross Street has been sold and may well be the site of a new condominium development.

Ironically, former Boston Bruins star Bobby Orr is a one-eighth owner of the rink, purchased April 1 by Conant Road Nominee Realty Trust for $1.25 million. Louis E. Faresse of Medford has a one-half share in the trust, according to the Middlesex County Registry of Deeds.

The property includes almost 152,000 square feet. The hockey rink, located at 7 Conant Road, is closed. Development of the property for condominiums would require approval of zoning changes at a town meeting. Paul Amico, attorney for the purchasers, said the group will decide soon whether to apply for zoning variances needed for housing.

Others in the purchasing group, each with a one-eighth interest, are Victor A. Nicolazzo Jr., John Battaglini and Salvatore Macera, who is listed as the trustee.

The arena was formerly owned by Universal Sports Arenas, Inc., which had Ralph G. Tedesco as its president.

Child support system may be improved

A new system to improve collection of child support payments promises to make compliance with child support orders "the norm rather than the exception," according to Rep. Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh.

Some of the highlights of the child support enforcement measure include: centralized state agency collection, enforcement and monitoring of payments; an expedited process for obtaining and enforcing support orders; and the creation of an advisory committee to recommend new steps for more uniform amounts of support orders.

Also included in the legislation is a requirement for wage assignment when necessary, automatic payroll withholding of support monies if two payments are missed, development of a new paternity proceeding in the district, probate and juvenile courts, decriminalization of the support process, and the reporting to credit agencies of child support arrearages in excess of $1,000.

Saltmarsh voted in favor of the new legislation.

Bloodmobile to visit Wednesday

An American Red Cross bloodmobile will visit the Knights of Columbus Hall on Mt. Vernon Street from 3 to 8 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 6.

Appointments are appreciated and can be made by calling the Red Cross office but appointments are not necessary. All donations will be appreciated.

Stonehenge Heights Apartment takes shape on the corner of Park Street and Elmwood Avenue. R. A. Johnson, Inc., is the developer of the new complex.

Kids and animals will top 4-H Fair

Anyone who likes kids and animals will love the Middlesex County 4-H fair Aug. 22-24 at the Westford fairgrounds.

Talented young people will compete for ribbons and prizes for the best horses, livestock, rabbits, apple pies, corn husking, bread baking, pie eating, arts and crafts, flowers, vegetables, photography and more.

There will be a "party cake" competition to commemorate the 30th anniversary of the fair in Westford.

For more information, contact the Middlesex County cooperative extension office, a division of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, 105 Everett St., Concord 01742 or call 862-2380.

Club to host hospital tourney

The Winchester Golf Club will be the setting for the third annual Lawrence Memorial Hospital Golf Tournament to benefit the Medford health care facility.

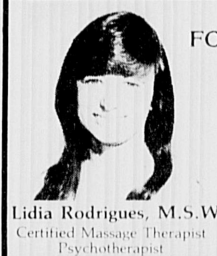

Play will begin at 12:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 6, and concludes with a dinner and raffle. The entry fee of $150 includes greens fees, electric golf cart, dinner, prizes and gifts.

This year's tournament was planned by Edward J. Gaffey and a committee of community and hospital representatives.

Cardiovascular assessments set

Many factors which play roles in the development of cardiovascular diseases are controllable.

People can make changes in their lives to reduce risks of developing cardiovascular diseases. Scientists must determine individual current levels of risk so patients can minimize their chances for developing these diseases.

Wednesday morning, Aug. 20, the Symmes Hospital in Arlington and the Choate Hospital in Woburn will run blood tests for cholesterol/HDL, triglycerides, and glucose.

Follow-up visits will be scheduled with health care educators one week after blood work is completed for blood pressure tests and individual lifestyle counseling to minimize heart disease risks.

Pre-registration is required. To make appointments and for information regarding fees, call the community health education department at either Symmes Hospital, 646-1500 ext. 2291, or Choate Hospital, 933-6700 ext. 377.

Evening counseling appointments are available. Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Sachem Woods to be reviewed

Norman Grossman, vice president of engineering and planning for Green, presented initial plans to the conservation commission last week. Some previous proposals for development of the site had included more than 500 units of housing. The 110-unit proposal, however, was originally made by the Whitten family in 1980. Their interest was sold to the Green Company.

Conservation commissioners said they pay special attention to the drainage in the area during their Aug. 11 tour.

The conservation commission may set conditions for development of properties adjacent to wetlands.

The Sachem Woods 110-unit condominium project, first proposed in December 1980, will come before the town's conservation commission meeting Tuesday, Aug. 12, to seek commissioners' ideas and suggestions.

The Green Company plans to build 110 condo units on the 65-acre parcel west of Wainwright Road. At 6 p.m. Monday, Aug. 11, one day before the next meeting, conservation commissioners will tour the site with the developers.

Green Company has changed the original location of some buildings to keep them further from wetlands in the area. A swamp is located on the western boundary.

SHOULD YOU REMODEL OR MOVE?

Your family has outgrown your home, but you love the neighborhood and schools, and you've established roots that make it hard to move. Is remodeling the solution?

Before you jump into a major renovation project, get some professional advice. First, decide what changes you want to make and contact several contractors for bids. Once you get some idea of the costs involved, ask your Realtor if your plans would over-improve the house for the neighborhood, making it impossible for you to get your money back if you must resell anytime soon. Talk to friends who have remodeled their homes in order to get a true picture of what you might expect in dealing with contractors. Can the work be completed around your family? How disruptive will it be to your lives and for how long? Remodeling a home is a major undertaking, and may not be the best solution to your space needs.

The professionals at Bixby & Porter Company Realtors are ready to serve all of your real estate needs. Please give us a call at 729-7000 or visit our offices at 33 Thompson St., Winchester.

Winchester CC boasts pair of holes-in-one

By DEIRDRE DRUMMEY

A hole in one! Not one but two. At the Winchester Country Club on Saturday, two members scored holes in one during regular play at the club.

According to Jim Lane, golf pro at the club, a hole in one is "very rare." Marat "Midge" Santini of Arlington made his hole in one at the sixth hole, which is par three. He shot a distance of 178 yards.

A seven-year club member, Santini says he plays golf quite often. He shot his first hole-in-one three years ago, also at the Winchester Country Club.

Although he has gotten a hole-in-one before, he calls Saturday's achievement "as exciting as your wife telling you 'It's a boy!'"

Winchester resident David Estridge shot a distance of 138 yards on the 14th hole. The par for that hole is also three. He used an eight iron to make the play.

Estridge, who plays at the club a couple of times a week, had also made a hole-in-one before, in 1979. He made that shot the first time he ever played at the country club as a member.

He found making the perfect shot even more exciting this time. The first time he was in shock that he was actually watching the golf ball go in; this time, he said he could really appreciate the experience.

Ironically, Estridge made the shot on the 14th hole both times. The sixth and the fourteenth holes, though, are the among the easier holes on the course since they are both par three and shorter than some of the other holes.

Santini and Estridge will compete against each other in the Men's Fall Cup Tournament at the club, which is a net version of the club championship.

The 32 players in that tourney will play against each other and stroke differentials will be figured into the scores.

'Shades' aren't really as necessary as ads say

"Shades" or sunglasses, are integral to the mysterious, glamorous look so many desire. But how important are they to a comprehensive program of vision care?

Advertisers would have us believe we need to protect our eyes from every glimmer of ultraviolet (UV) radiation. The truth is that vision experts' opinions vary widely on whether the public needs special UV radiation protection.

Experts agree protective lenses should be worn in high reflective areas such as the beach, mountains, desert areas, pool, or while playing outdoor sports, such as tennis.

Eyes have a built-in natural protection against the sun's brightness, glare, and radiation.

According to optometrist Albert Sherburne of Winchester, "Individuals should experience some degree of discomfort when they go outside. Blinking and squinting are normal reactions of the visual system as it adapts to the change in environment. This minor discomfort is normal."

Sherburne said there is cause to be concerned if you feel you cannot go outside at anytime without protection. "I would advise that such individuals see a local behavioral optometrist. Individuals who experience continual discomfort are likely to be suffering from a visual dysfunction."

Donors Stevens and Wilde near century mark

Current records of local Red Cross blood donors show impressive figures.

Lloyd Stevens and William A. Wilde, Jr. have each donated 12 gallons and one pint, or 97 pints, while James J. Boone Jr. and Richard T. Donovan have passed the 10-gallon mark.

Ten others have given five to 10 gallons each, and 33 have given three to five gallons apiece. The total donated by these 47 is 236 gallons and they are still going strong.

Looking back 12 years Red Cross officials found that Mrs. Claire Mullens topped present figures by donating 108 pints. Now 77 and in excellent health, Mrs. Mullens lives in Stoneham and is a full-time secretary at the Boy Scouts' Minuteman Council headquarters.

Little is heard about the 16 women and 31 men of Winchester or about hundreds of others who have made less numerous but very important donations. All shun publicity, and say no outward recognition or reward is in keeping with their motives.

In spite of their reticence and distaste for acclaim, these individuals have amassed extensive experience of value to prospective donors and those who set up bloodmobile visits.

Briefly interviewed, leading donors gave remarkably similar responses. Sixty-three year old William A. Wilde Jr., Winchester insurance broker, cited many experiences and fellow acquaintances over the years. It had been "an entirely pleasant and inwardly most rewarding experience," which he intended to prolong indefinitely, he said. He had charge of the Winchester blood program at one time and knows the angles of both getting donors and giving blood.

Lloyd J. Stevens Jr., also 63, is engaged by General Electric as an aerospace engineering physicist. He reported no complications or problems related to years of participation in the blood program.

Ronald J. Donovan, 69-year-old Winchester engineer, was emphatic. Any lure or reward is "inappropriate for dedicated individuals involved in the donor program," he said. He often finds it more practical to donate in Boston rather than one of eight or 10 dates of the Winchester bloodmobile visits each year. This is true of many Winchester residents. Donors residing in Winchester are credited in Winchester Red Cross files, regardless of the site of donations.

James J. Boone Jr. recently moved to Malden and has not been available for comment.

In discussions with the veteran donors, several questions arose that apparently need clarification:

•Donor Age: 18 years is the standard lower limit, but 17-year-olds are admitted with written permission of a parent. The upper limit is less easily defined. Claire Mullens ended her donating career at 65 because regulations in force then demanded it.

Donovan has continued to donate, and at 69 expects to keep right on. The former age rule has been changed but confusion still exists. The official written rule says individuals over 65 years may donate if they pass the standard list of questions on the history form.

However, this rule appears to be so new that some bloodmobile questioners are not clear about it. At this time, anyone who has become 65 recently and has donated blood during the last two or three years probably will be deemed an acceptable candidate.

Those who have not donated for several years or have never donated are apt to encounter confusing delays or erroneous flat refusal, and are not urged to volunteer until the rule is more generally understood.

•AIDS: About three per cent of the U.S. citizens believe there is danger of contracted AIDS by giving blood. Although much is still unknown about this disease, it is certain you cannot become infected with AIDS by donating blood.

Joseph J. Riga, Francis J. Selvitelli, Antonio Saraco, Angelina E. Tuttle, Florence E. Varley and Kathryn M. Winterson.

•Frequency of donation: Some believe they should not give blood more than once yearly. The hemoglobin of the blood is restored to its normal level in less than two months, and the Red Cross Blood Services has designated 56 days as the safe interval between donations.

Most individuals may safely donate six times yearly, and several Winchester donor veterans do so. In case someone's blood does not regenerate this quickly, it will not pass the falling drop test and he or she will not be allowed to donate, so there is no danger in volunteering at the two-month interval.

•A chief complaint is time spent in the process of donating. All agree it is aggravating to spend an extra hour waiting one's turn to be interviewed when drawing blood only takes 15 or 20 minutes. This is the subject of greatest concern in the current programs.

If the number of donors was known ahead of time and each given a definite appointment, the appropriate number of Red Cross personnel could be requested and all should proceed more quickly.

An attempt is always made to have candidates make scheduled appointments, but this is seldom possible for more than half. Those unable to predict when they will be able to come will appear in "clumps" and cause delays.

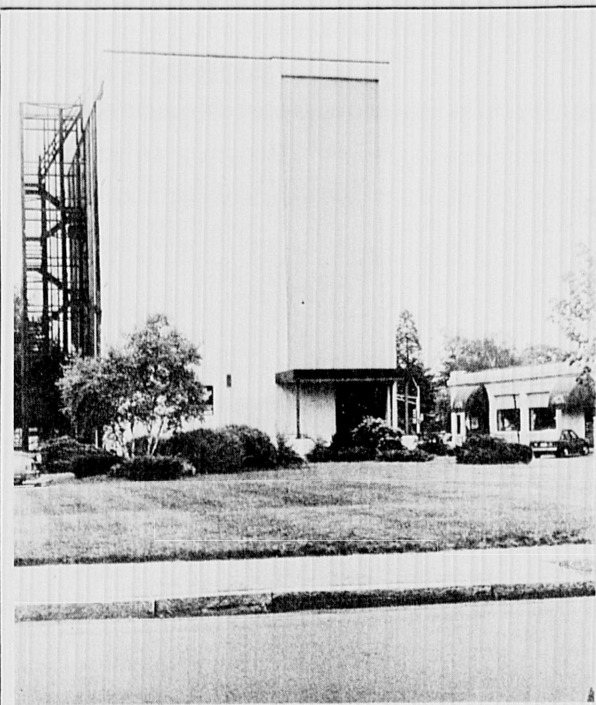

Extra personnel could reduce or eliminate delays but bloodmobile personnel are supplied at the most economical level.

Instead of allowing extra personnel for crowded periods, the team that is barely adequate for normal flow of donors is reduced by one during a large part of each program in order to allow each nurse a half-hour rest break.

To reduce this problem, several local members have been trained in bloodmobile methods other than the drawing of blood to take the place of nurses during breaks. The procedure has improved things appreciably during recent months, Red Cross officials say.

In spite of serious efforts of those running the programs and the contributions of leading donors, totals have fallen off significantly each of the past three years.

"Please remember that in summer the need is greater, and donors are harder to find. The only thing it costs you to save a life is an hour or two of your time, and you feel great afterward," said Dr. Robert M. Smith, chairman of the Winchester chapter. Please make an appointment.

Conservation commission members voted last week to support the efforts of selectmen to purchase at least part of the green space on the south side of Mount Vernon Street between Converse Place and the Aberjona River bridge. Selectmen voted unanimously to approach Mohammed Akbarian, owner of the property, about a negotiated land purchase. The plan also won unanimous support of the planning board. Remember!! Forest Crest Farm School??

For twenty-four years, the School on a Farm for 3-5 year olds. Calling all former students, parents, grandparents, children of students and the many friends of Farm School.

I have written a very small manuscript consisting of twenty-two pages of narrative poems. They will be illustrated with pen and ink drawings or small pictures. Each little "story poem" tells either an endearing, humorous or interesting incident that really happened at Forest Crest. The title is "Hoofbeats from Forest Crest Farm."

Most Publishing Houses claim that there is no interest in narrative poetry, especially for children. Didn't your children love all their Nursery Rhymes (with the special lilt)? How about Longfellow's and Whittier's narrative poetry? Couldn't we just, momentarily, escape from Children's Books containing nothing but Monsters, Robots and Mechanical toys?

My little manuscript has been accepted by one publisher, but he cannot carry out my wishes to make the book enhancing in all its aspects.

Now I am seeking and asking for Your Help! If your child attended Forest Crest Farm at any time, would you simply drop a post card in the mail to me, saying that you would be interested in such a book? Also, please, please contact any friends that you know who attended our School. I need this Help to prove my point about Narrative Poetry. I don't think you will be disappointed.

With your Help on this project, we can succeed. If this little book is published, it will be a tiny memorial to our "much loved" Farm School. Now I am starting to work on little short story books for children.

I thank you all and hope and pray for many post cards. Do please put your name and address on the cards.

Whether your vacation takes you across the state, across the country, or around the world, whether your needs are more toward the economy vacation, or luxury, is no object, or whether you prefer the excitement of the last lane, or serenity of seclusion, Colonial Travel, located at 564 Main St., Winchester, can customize a vacation to fit your wants and needs.

With more than 27 years of experience as travel agents, between them, Colonial's co-owners Elaine Mahoney and Tony Sampson have tailored vacations for thousands of satisfied clients to all corners of the globe.

"What many people don't realize is travel agents don't charge a service charge," explains Elaine. "Our fee does not affect the price our client pays."

Instead, booking through a travel agent is not only easier, but it can also be cheaper. With access to plane fares, hotel rates, and car rental fees at their fingertips on computer, Tony and Elaine can assure you the best rates and can book a reservation simultaneously.

In addition to helping you get the best rates, Colonial can make your vacation more pleasant by meeting your needs with corresponding accommodations ranging from standard to deluxe or superior.

"Some people prefer to travel alone, while others want the security of a group," explains Elaine. "Some travelers want a more free schedule while others prefer a guided tour. In any case we will make the arrangements to fit their needs."

Some other benefits of booking through travel agents include their knowledge of special discounts, their awareness of the atmosphere, weather conditions and economic state of the place you are traveling to, and their ability to assist you in planning and getting ready for your vacation.

Tony and Elaine can assist you with passport needs, rate of exchange, and will make you aware of any other necessary information to make your trip easier and more enjoyable.

Has Colonial Travel seen any effects on European bookings as a result of the situation abroad?

"Bookings to Europe are down," explains Elaine, "but that has led to a noticeable increase in bookings to places like Hawaii, the Caribbean, Bermuda, cruises, and U.S. destinations."

In any event people are vacationing and the smart ones are letting Colonial Travel find them the vacation they desire at the price they want to pay.

To have Colonial Travel arrange and fit your vacation to your needs, call Tony or Elaine at 729-4700 or visit their office at 564 Main St., Winchester. They are open Monday through Friday 9-5, Thursdays till 8 p.m., 11-3 on Saturdays, and both Tony and Elaine are available any other time by appointment.

Finance committee reappointed

last week, Lombardi criticized Frattaroli's appointment on two grounds. First, he said, she had moved to town only in April and registered to vote July 8. Frattaroli said both statements were correct but also said she had owned property in Winchester for three years.

Second, Lombardi said, the appointment was too "cozy" because Frattaroli rents an office to the Rep. Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh reelection campaign, led by John Polcari, brother of the finance committee chairman.

In a change from the previous week, former selectman John Williams was again elected to the finance committee but not unanimously. Welch and Polcari each voted for Williams but Sullivan did not.

Two other candidates each got one vote and were not elected. John Henriques won support from Welch while John Matarese received a vote from Sullivan. Other candidates included Vito Giarizzo and Dominic Testa.

Also Monday night, Sullivan, Welch and school committee acting chairman Michael Ronayne appointed Lana Williams, Susan Lennox and Walter Dignam to three-year terms on the personnel board. Marie O'Neil Flaherty was elected to a one-year term.

The four were the only candidates for the positions.

Winn Square dedicated

fame as the super cheerleader of the Tufts athletic teams and his exploits were chronicled on major television channels. Tufts presented him its Distinguished Service award and, probably more meaningful to him, a varsity letter.

Bob Winn was a long-time elected member of the Winchester Town Meeting. He represented old Precinct 6 with verve and diligence; his comments on the floor of the Town Meeting always punctuated with humor and insight. He also served on the Finance Committee and the Recreation Department Advisory Committee. In the latter capacity he took great satisfaction from having established a summer day camp for handicapped youngsters. This, in essence, was the kind of person he was and underscored the sense of values that guided his life.

Bob Winn was a man who gave his family and his town much reason to be proud. I am a better person for having been able to call him my friend and countless others can say the same. It is fitting that Winchester dedicated to his memory this square that overlooks his first Winchester residence. The story of Bob Winn indeed provides a bright beacon for those who follow after him. We are fortunate that he helped to light our ways. We might well apply to him the words that Shakespeare's Mark Antony used to describe Julius Caesar:

"His life was gentle
And the elements so mixed in him
That Nature might stand up
And say to all the world
This was a man."

State answer about Loop anticipated

The housing authority and town manager Chad Maurer wrote letters July 14 and July 17 respectively to EOTC secretary Frederick Salvucci, requesting hearings for building permits on this land. Hearings are required before any use of a former transportation right-of-way.

Salvucci has not responded. Maurer and Keefe said Tuesday afternoon.

Salvucci's response is also important to the town's plan to sell portions of the Loop property. If the hearing is conducted and buildings may be constructed on the old Loop, the property will clearly be more valuable than it would if only "passive uses" are allowed.

Extension television series wins awards

Jill Desmarais, consumer home economist with the Middlesex County Cooperative Extension, Division of the University of Massachusetts of Amherst, has garnered another award for her half-hour television series, "Consumer Impact."

This latest honor, the 1986 Consumer Education Award, was sponsored by the Dow Chemical Company, Texize Division and the American Home Economics Association, and was given to Desmarais at the annual meeting of the American Home Economics Association recently in Kansas City.

The series has also received recognition from the National Association of Extension Home Economists, the Society of Consumer Affairs Professionals in New England and as a finalist in the National Federation of Local Cable Programmers Community Programming Contest.

Since its creation in 1983, Consumer Impact has reached consumers in two ways. First, by distribution to 16 cable systems in Middlesex County on a monthly basis, it has aired in 32 communities with a potential viewing audience of over 500,000. Second, by presentation to various community groups, it has been used as part of a complete training program supplemented by teaching materials.

More recently, the Boston Public Library has included part of the series in their video lending library. The tapes are now available to over 200 libraries in the Eastern Regional Library System.

Cable systems within Middlesex County will begin showing the series again this summer. There have also been many requests for use of the tapes throughout Massachusetts and

PRAYER & SUPPLICATION TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, who light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you, ever and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days, after 3 days the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mention of the favor. Only your initials should appear at the bottom. F.D.S.

Lawrence Ladd appointed

Lawrence R. Ladd of Winchester has been appointed to the additional position of dean of the College of Special Studies at Tufts University.

The College of Special Studies, founded in 1941, includes the Museum School program, continuing education and other forms of non-traditional academic programs.

In addition to coordinating these programs, Ladd will continue as dean of administration for arts and sciences. Ladd is the chief financial aid officer for arts and sciences. He also oversees the physical education and athletics programs, the financial aid office, student employment, continuing education and summer school, the day care center and health services.

Before coming to Tufts in 1978, Ladd was assistant provost for administration at Boston University and assistant to the president at Duke University. He is a former trustee of the University of Massachusetts and has served as a consultant on academic budget planning to various universities.

in other states.

Desmarais has discontinued regular production of the series, but she hopes to receive funding to help produce more teaching programs in the future.

Copies of Consumer Impact accompanied by informational packets related to the show's topics are available for loan to community groups. Anyone interested should contact Jill Desmarais at the Middlesex County Cooperative Extension, 105 Everett Street, Concord, 01742, or call her at 369-8845 or 362-2330.

Fitness class helps pregnant women exercise, stay in shape

Imagine a sun-drenched sandy beach on a faraway Pacific island with coconut palms swaying. A fantasy? Well, sort of, especially if you're pregnant. It's all part of a relaxation technique in a special night class designed to help pregnant women stay physically fit.

"Relaxation is a matter of learning to control your physical state," says Mickey Harris, a physical therapist at New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham. "Picture yourself on a lonely beach or some other place that's calm. Concentrate on something and try to cool yourself down."

"It's a skill you can use forever," Harris says. "You need it when the kids start running around." She should know. Her son Danny is 18 months old.

Harris was pregnant with Danny when she signed up for the class called "Fitness Through the Childbearing Year" at NEMH. She was so impressed that she helped teach two more sessions of the six-week course until she had to quit three weeks before Danny was born.

"A lot of women who work out or exercise will stop everything when they find out they are pregnant," says Elinor Donovan, a registered physical therapist at NEMH. "We try to teach expecting mothers how to exercise safely."

According to Donovan, women who continue a modified exercise program throughout pregnancy can expect to deliver more easily and get back into shape faster.

"The body goes through a lot of changes during pregnancy," Donovan says. "We try to educate the mother about what changes she can expect." Pregnant women in their second trimester are invited to join the class (with their physician's permission) which meets Thursday evenings in the NEMH physical therapy room. The cost is $30.

The class covers nutrition, circulation, body mechanics (how to lift a baby out of a crib without hurting your back), why pregnant women have aches and pains, and ways to counteract those pains. Nutrition lectures were prepared by Kristin McIntosh, a registered dietician at NEMH.

The exercise training teaches mothers gentle stretching, overall body conditioning and, of course, relaxation. Harris cautions pregnant women to be extra careful when exercising because of added strain to the lower back. Another factor to consider is that hormonal changes within the body during pregnancy tend to loosen ligaments.

"Being pregnant is very similar to having a back injury," says Harris. "You have to be extra careful. We teach exercises important during the whole childbirth process. Muscle fatigue is a great problem during labor and these exercises help build up endurance by stretching the pelvic muscles, hamstrings and lower back muscles."

"If women continue these exercises after childbirth they will get back into shape a lot faster," Harris says. She says the exercises have aerobic benefits because they use different muscle groups and the class works out at a steady pace.

"Women who join the class find it a fantastic support group," Harris says. "Pregnant women love to talk to other pregnant women. Everyone has the same concerns, the same expectations."

The next session begins Aug. 14 and runs until Sept. 18. For more information, call Elinor Donovan at 665-1740, ext. 316.

First aid class set in Woburn

The community health education department of Choate-Symmes Health Services in Woburn will offer a standard multimedia first aid program from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 6, 13 and 20.

The American Red Cross program for three-year certification will be followed by an optional one-evening program especially geared toward coaches. This special session will be Wednesday, Aug. 27, and will provide information about preventing sports injuries and treatment of many common problems encountered by athletes.

Pre-registration is required. Class size is limited.

For additional information, call 933-6700, ext. 377.

Day program set for drug abusers

Choate-Symmes Health Services has opened a new day treatment program for alcohol and drug abusers.

The recently established Caulfield center day treatment program for substance abuse is also one of the only five programs for alcoholic and drug rehabilitation approved by Blue Cross/Blue Shield in Massachusetts.

The program began June 1 and is located at the Caulfield unit, a 19-bed psychiatric inpatient unit at Choate Hospital in Woburn.

For information or referral, contact Dr. Richard Higgins or nurse Nancy Manzik at 933-6700, ext. 165 or ext. 373.

Omega plans training program

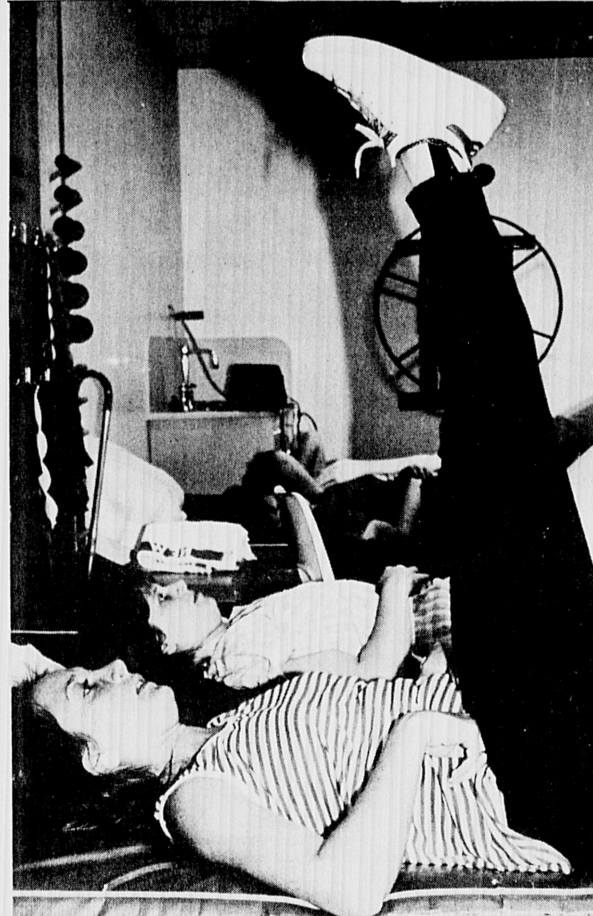

The loss of a loved one can be very difficult to bear. Omega's trained volunteers offer individual support through home visits and telephone calls to those living with a life-threatening illness, or those grieving a death, whether from illness, accident, suicide or homicide.

Applications are being accepted for new direct service volunteers at Omega. Interviews will be scheduled during August and training will begin in late September. Training focuses on issues of death, dying and bereavement and emphasizes development of basic counseling skills.

Mary Jacobsen of Belmont, a recent graduate from the training program, describes her work with Omega as "very rewarding." Along with other volunteers from the area, she participates in regularly scheduled supervision meetings.

Omega is a department of Catholic Charities of Cambridge-Somerville and is nondenominational and nonsectarian. Omega serves Cambridge, Somerville and Winchester.

For further information, call 776-6369 or 625-1920, ext. 51.

Students exercise during a fitness class for pregnant women at New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham.

Parents Without Partners to meet

Parents Without Partners, an international, non-profit organization for single parents and their children, will conduct a "newcomer orientation" open to the public at the Holiday Inn in Woburn the second and fourth Tuesday of the month at 8 p.m.

Call 667-2220 or 667-4351 for more information.

Michael Krupa

Krupa to lead psychology unit

Michael Krupa, of Belmont has joined the human services department at New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham as director of outpatient services and chief of psychology.

He will be responsible for psychological testing, individual and family psychotherapy, and the development of employee assistance programs.

Krupa most recently served as an outpatient psychologist and consultant to businesses and school systems for the Charles River Counseling Center in Newton.

"I was eager to come to NEMH because of its great reputation," Krupa said. "Other hospitals feel very good about referring patients here. I hope to continue the ongoing emphasis on training and clinical expertise."

Krupa hopes to add employee assistance programs (EAP) in which staff members would serve as consultants to local companies on issues such as drug dependency, absenteeism and depression.

CPR courses set in August

Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) basic life support courses will be offered 7-10 p.m. Aug. 6, 13 and 20 at the Symmes Hospital in Arlington and Aug. 7, 14 and 21 at the Choate Hospital in Woburn.

Techniques used in CPR include artificial breathing and artificial respiration for use in treating victims of heart attack, drowning, choking and other life-threatening emergencies. Participants earn the American Heart Association's one-year certification.

CPR recertification classes for those with cards due to expire within the month are offered 7-9:30 p.m. Aug. 7 and 14 at the Symmes Hospital and Aug. 18 and 25 at the Choate Hospital.

All classes require pre-registration and class size is limited. For information, call the community health education department. The telephone number at Symmes is 646-1500 ext. 2291 and the number at Choate is 933-6700 ext. 377. Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

STAR SPORTS

Aerobics instructor Holly Tingos works with a barbell.

Aerobics give instructor whole new outlook on life

By STEVE NORTON

Special to the Star

She was both startled and frightened by the tremendous excitement so few steps could generate. The earth seemed to move with her.

She was stirring now and a fresh rhythm entered her body. No longer conscious of her movement, she discovered a new unity, a symbiotic relationship with nature.

She had found a new source of power, beauty and grace, a source she never knew existed.

During this peak of tremendous, victorious effort, blood pounding in her head and adrenaline surging through her body, all suddenly becomes quiet and peaceful.

As everything becomes clearer and whiter than ever, she is aglow in the sunlight of her soul. She possesses all power. Her capabilities are limitless.

For Holly Tingos, aerobics is more than a Vogue or Cosmopolitan road to fitness. In her arena of hardwood floors and mirrored walls lies the means to Truth, self-discovery and personal fulfillment.

An intense, go-for-it woman, Tingos confronts the ordinary and pushes herself relentlessly in pursuit of individual perfection.

She offers herself little self-congratulation. Today will lead to greater expectations tomorrow. "In front of excellence, the immortal gods have put sweat," someone said.

For Tingos, sweat is an outward sign of inward happening. As she gives her all through cycle after cycle, the body becomes the mind and the mind the body.

Chinese Taoists call this kind of effort "wu-wei," roughly "doing without doing" or letting an action do itself.

One dilemma of the age, psychiatrists say, is a loss of heroes. We are trapped by a 9-to-5 existence and know neither victory nor defeat.

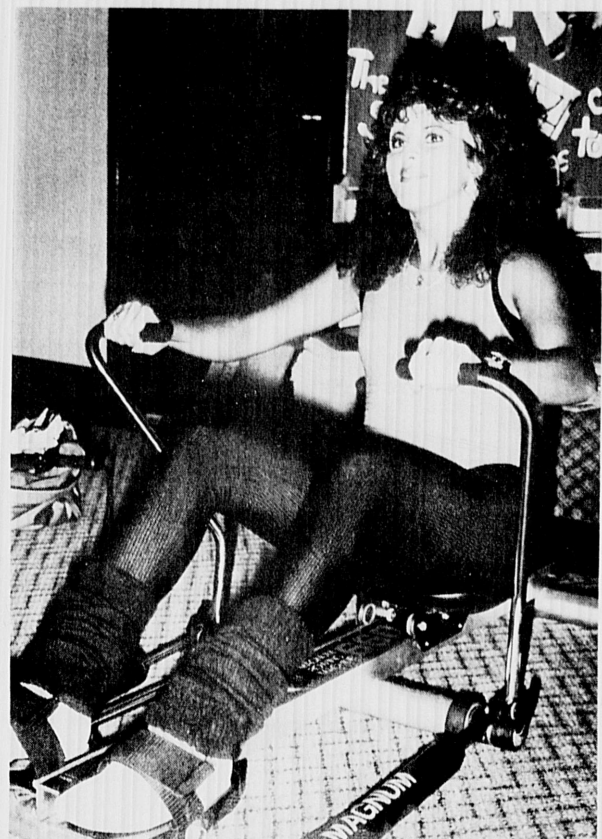

Holly has obliterated this myth. "We are, in fact, all heroes," she says. She choreographs that message to all. "One only needs to search within."

"One must go beyond the usual limits to enter the realm of the impossible, to challenge the body, mind and soul, however we can through any possible means."

Tingos' philosophy is a message for all facets of our lives, at home, work, school, with family and in all our relationships.

We must be our own hero, be all we can be. We must discover a purpose and a consequence within.

This recognition can lead us to an awareness of the profound depths of our existence.

Junior tennis event planned Aug. 4-6

A junior tennis tournament for boys and girls 15 and younger will be conducted Aug. 4-6 in Winchester. The tournament will be singles competition and will be played at the Packer courts.

The tournament will be held in association with the New England Lawn Tennis Association and is sponsored by a grant from the Youth Tennis Foundation of New England, with intent to provide competition for beginning and intermediate players. In order to maintain this level of play, any youngster who is now, or has ever been, a member of NELTA/USTA is ineligible.

A separate draw will be held for the boys' and girls' competition. Identical prizes of a free one-year membership in NELTA/USTA will be awarded the four boys and four girls who reach the semifinals, thus making these players eligible for New England junior league and tournament participation.

To be eligible, a youngster must be 15 or younger on the first scheduled day of tournament play. There will be a $1 entry fee for the event.

For additional information contact the tournament director, Donna Tanner by calling 721-7125. This tournament is open to boys and girls registered for the recreation department tennis program only.

Many still unclear about nuclear medicine

A few years ago, New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham sponsored an information session about the hospital's "nuclear medicine" services.

However, as the professionals in the field celebrate "Nuclear Medicine Week" July 27-Aug. 2, many people are still not sure what goes on when a patient goes in for a nuclear medicine test.

"The majority of people don't understand much about nuclear medicine," says NEMH nuclear medicine technician Patty Farago, who is one-third of the department's staff which also includes director Blain Boyd and secretary Chris Clattenburg. "We'd like to offer an open invitation for people to come in and find out what we do."

"What they do," briefly, is inject patients with radioactive isotope dyes which are then photographed as they pass through various parts of the body. The biggest percentage of the approximately 2,000 tests performed annually by the NEMH nuclear medicine staff are for heart-related disorders, but bone scans and scans of every organ are commonly performed.

Following the test or scan, the photo images are analyzed and manipulated by an imaging computer which provides physicians with a colorful display of that organ's function. Since these procedures are tests of function (as opposed to CAT scans or X-rays which examine structure) the timing is important and it is often necessary for patients to fast, or for several contiguous exams to be performed in one day.

Farago and Boyd agree that, even though the radiation materials used by nuclear medicine are low-energy and short-lived, patients, family members and other health care workers should be taught how to handle patients who have been through nuclear medicine procedures.

"They should be aware of where the radiation is located and how it is eliminated," says Farago. "They should know when it's appropriate to wear gloves and how to avoid exposure to unnecessary amounts of radiation."

"If you're careful and take precautions, there's little danger," says Farago.

"What most people don't realize is that they're exposed to radiation every day," says Boyd. "The only time we hear of concerns from anyone is when a nurse finds out she's pregnant and is afraid of being exposed to radiation." Boyd points out that the materials are safe when treated properly, noting that a former nuclear medicine technician stayed on the job throughout her pregnancy.

Nuclear medicine is located opposite the rehabilitation services gym on the hospital's subground level. Visitors are welcome.

Blain Boyd, director of the nuclear medicine department at New England Memorial Hospital, and technician Patty Farago study an image produced by a radioactive dye. Visitors are welcome at the department, which is trying to make people more aware of nuclear medicine.

LIBRARY NEWS

McClain to tell stories to kids

Storyteller Sumner McClain will bring to life tales from around the world when he visits the Winchester Public Library at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 6.

Specializing in stories that "celebrate the human spirit," McClain's programs address multicultural appreciation and black history by highlighting African folk tales and original stories from around the world. His appearance here is aimed at children entering grades K-6.

McClain is an actor and director as well as a storyteller, and has worked with the Theatre Company of Boston, the People's Theatre, Inc., in Cambridge, and the New African Company, among others. Locally, he has appeared at the Boston Globe Book Festival, the Children's Museum, Evening Magazine, and at the New England Arts Festival.

This week's Thursday night movie at the library is "The Ladykillers," a comedy classic concerning five bank robbers posing as a string quintet and elderly Mrs. Wilberforce who accidentally discovers their plot.

The question facing the gang is who is going to dispose of the old girl. The task becomes more urgent as it becomes clear that Mrs. Wilberforce may get rid of them first. The film stars Alec Guinness, Katie Johnson, Peter Sellers and Herbert Lom.

The film is free and will be shown in the library meeting room at 7 p.m. "Reel Entertainment" at the library continues through Aug. 28 with a film every Thursday night. Alec Guinness, Stanley Holloway, and Audrey Hepburn star in "The Lavender Hill Mob" Aug. 7.

Starting Aug. 14, three Noel Coward films will be shown — "Blithe Spirit" Aug. 14, "Brief Encounter" Aug. 21, and "Bittersweet" Aug. 28.

Jenks offers exercise classes

June Cannon, director of the program at Jenks Senior Center, recommends physical activities at least three times a week. She introduces variety at a level without strain to provide for different parts of the body. Exercising legs, arms and trunk help the heart and lungs. For those who want strenuous exercise, several stationary bicycles are available.

The exercise program at the center is very popular with all participants who attest that increased vigor and better general health result with regular physical activity.

The classes continue through the summer, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 9 a.m.

Today, increasing numbers of older Americans who were never particularly active physically in their more youthful years are taking up exercise with vigor.

Millions who are over the age of 50 throughout the country are cycling, swimming and walking their way to a healthier, more fulfilling life.

Physical activity appropriately practiced at any age can unquestionably add years to life by improving physical and mental well-being as long as the exercise is not too strenuous.

Three types of exercise are advised by health specialists to maintain the highest possible quality of life for as long as a person lives. A report in the New York Times on June 11, 1986, written by Jane E. Brody, lists the following:

•Endurance Activities condition the cardiovascular and respiratory systems to enable a person to do more physical work with less effort and less strain on vital organs.

•Strengthening Exercises increase muscle power which helps protect the joints against injury.

•Flexibility or Stretching exercises keep aging joints from stiffening. Researchers have shown that most of the joint stiffness and aches and pains that accompany aging are the result of disuse.

Yoga classes are offered at the center through the summer, at 10:15 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Yoga classes set for August

Yoga, an age old physical and mental activity originating from the culture of India, continues at Jenks Senior Center under the leadership of Paulett Taggart. The class will meet Wednesdays, August 6 and 20 at 10:15 a.m.

Participants find that yoga restores vital energy physically, mentally and spiritually. It stretches the muscles and allows the blood to flow over them bringing nutrients and removing waste products.

Together with cardiovascular exercise, it provides an excellent balance for walking and active sports. The stretching exercises plus some cardiovascular activity keeps the whole person fit.

T-shirt dance is August 9

The monthly dance at the Jenks Senior Center will be held Saturday, August 9 from 8 p.m. to midnight. Casual attire is invited and men need not wear ties.

Come and enjoy moving to the rhythmic tunes of Dick Brogna and his band. Tickets are available at the center reception desk from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, or they can be purchased at the door.

Cribbage game every Wednesday

John Giuliani, a life-long resident of Winchester, participates every Wednesday afternoon at the Jenks Senior Center in a program entitled, "For Men Only."

About eight men play cribbage, enjoying both the spirit of competition and the sociability.

Giuliani began to play the game almost 50 years ago after observing his father-in-law participating in the game.

A cribbage board, colored pegs for each player and a deck of cards are all that is needed for the strategy of competing with an opponent.

Giuliani entered with 332 other cribbage experts in the twelfth Annual National Open Cribbage Tournament held at the North Raleigh Hilton Hotel in North Carolina last July where 26 states and Canada were represented. He came in 64th.

Giuliani also participates in many other activities at the center. He leads a group that addresses and mails nearly 3000 newsletters monthly which go to all seniors in town, age 60 and over. He is a volunteer visitor with the C.O.A.'s Senior After Care Project.

This dedicated volunteer keeps the cribbage group active and interested in gathering weekly to play a game that requires mental agility.

All men who enjoy games where skill is needed are invited to join the group who meet on Wednesdays at 1:00 p.m.

New supper club opens for seniors

Older adults are enjoying the new Choate-Symmes supper club.

Coordinated by the Choate-Symmes health services center for health care and development of the older adult, the supper club offers a tasty, nutritious meal in a healthy setting at a low cost.

The supper club, beginning Aug. 4, will be held twice a week, Tuesdays and Thursdays, at the Choate Hospital division in Woburn and Mondays and Wednesdays at the Symmes Hospital division in Arlington.

Older adults don't have to make reservations to enjoy the supper club which is open 4:30-5:30 p.m.

Dinners range in price from $4.75 to $5.25. A la carte selections such as soup and salad begin at $2.

For more information, call the community department/elder services at 646-1500, ext. 1441.

Winchester resident John Giuliani plays cribbage with a group at the center every Wednesday.

Doris M. Nelson

Doris M. (Neal) Nelson, 82, formerly of Winchester, died July 25 at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital after a short illness.

Born in Nottingham, England, Mrs. Nelson was a Winchester resident for 15 years before moving to Melrose 20 years ago.

Mrs. Nelson leaves her husband, Anthony J. Nelson of Melrose.

She was a member of the Parish of the Epiphany.

Among her survivors are: three daughters, Eileen M. Duffy of Reading, Shirley A. Crawford of Kennebunk, Maine, and Linda Angell of Atkinson, N.H.; two sons, Paul A. Nelson of North Reading and Neal K. Nelson of Stoneham; and 19 grandchildren.

Funeral services were private and held from the Robinson Funeral Home in Melrose. Burial was at Wildwood Cemetery. The Rev. Jane S. Gould from the Parish of the Epiphany officiated.

Lyndon Burnham

Lyndon B. Burnham, 77, a resident of Winchester for more than 50 years, died July 22 at Winchester Hospital after a lengthy illness.

Born in Lynn, he had been a resident of Stoneham for the past three years.

Mr. Burnham was a manufacturer's representative for 20 years and had his own business, L. B. Burnham Associates, in Winchester.

He was active in the paint and oil business before his retirement in 1974 and was president of the New England Paint and Oil Club.

He graduated from Deerfield Academy in 1926 and from Brown University in 1932.

Mr. Burnham was active in the Winchester Boy Scouts, was a founder of the Winchester Group Theater and a member of the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church of Winchester.

He was also a director of the Mount Vernon House, a member of the Everett Chamber of Commerce and a former director of the Worcester Pressed Steel Co.

He is survived by his wife, Annette (Lansing) Burnham, and two sons, Robert L. Burnham of Dover and John L. Burnham of Richmond, Va.

His survivors also include a brother, David W. Burnham of Brookfield, N.H., a sister, Jennie B. Cameron of Leicestershire, England, and three grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted July 25 at the First Congregational Church with the Revs. Walter Davis and Oliver Black officiating. Interment was private.

Memorial donations may be made to the American Cancer Society, 247 Commonwealth Ave., Boston 02115 or to the Winchester Hospital, 41 Highland Ave., Winchester 01890.

Arrangements were by the Lane Funeral Home of Winchester.

Dorothy Burt

Dorothy (Muir) Burt, 87, of 2 Hollywood Road, wife of John H. Burt, died peacefully July 25 at Winchester Nursing Home.

She is survived also by their son, Alan D. Burt, daughter-in-law Susan (Master) Burt, and grandsons David and Keith, all of Needham.

She was born in Framingham Nov. 4, 1898, and had lived in Dorchester and Arlington.

Before her marriage, she was eight years at Widener Library, Harvard Yard, and later with the Department of Public Libraries at the State House, Boston.

Married in 1929, they lived in Winchester since 1937. In 1949 for a few years she conducted in her home the "Little Folks Play School," for four and five-year olds.

Later she was secretary at the department of psychology at Tufts University, retiring in February 1967.

A service was conducted July 29 by the Rev. Jane Gould at the Chapel of Praise of the Church of the Epiphany.

Burial was private at Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Arlington. Memorials, if desired, may be sent to the charity of one's choice.

Arrangements were by Richard F. Norris.

Commonwealth Quintet to perform at Mill Pond

The Commonwealth Brass Quintet will present the next Mill Pond Park free concert organized by the recreation department at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 6.

The group was formed in 1980 and played its first concert a year later. Three of the original members, including tuba players John O'Toole and trumpeters Bob Fleck and John Snell, are still active in the quintet.

Horn player Myra Porter and trumpetist Georgia Bulls are the newest members of the group.

The quintet is active throughout the year, playing at concerts, parties, weddings and ceremonial occasions. Most recently, the quintet was the featured music at Maria Shriver's wedding in Hyannis.

Music on the Aug. 6 program will include a variety of American compositions, including ragtime, popular, jazz and light classical styles.

Schedules and further information about the concert series are available at the recreation department.

In case of rain, concerts are held in the town hall auditorium.

LEGALS

TOWN OF WINCHESTER
Middlesex County, MassachusettsBOARD OF APPEAL
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Winchester Board of Appeal will hold a Public Hearing on Tuesday, August 19, 1986 at 7:00 P.M. in the Board of Health Room at Town Hall on the following matters:

1) Petition No. 220 — That of One Arlington Institute, Inc. concerning the property at One Walnut Street Winchester, MA. The petitioners are seeking a Variance from the provisions of Chapter 40A, Section 6 of the Massachusetts General Laws and Section 4 of the Town of Winchester Zoning By-Law so as to be permitted to maintain an existing building that is too close to the side property line. The property is located in the R.D.A. (Residential A) zoning district and contains 2,750 square feet.

2) Petition No. 221 — That of Richard L. and Elizabeth A. Sampson concerning the property at 8 Sheffield Road, Winchester, MA. The petitioners are seeking an appeal in accordance with Chapter 40A, Section 6 of the Massachusetts General Laws and Section 7.4, Chapter 9 of the Town of Winchester Code of By-Laws from the decision of the Acting Building Commissioner Zoning Enforcement Officer to maintain an illegal sign which is not allowed in the R.D.B. (Residential B) zoning district.

3) Petition No. 222 — That of The Golden Sun Trust concerning the property at 96 Johnson Road, Winchester, MA. The petitioners are seeking an appeal in accordance with Section 4, Chapter 40A of the Massachusetts General Laws and Section 6 of the Town of Winchester Zoning By-Law so as to be permitted to maintain an existing building that is too close to the side property line. The property is located in the R.D.A. (Residential A) zoning district and contains 2,750 square feet.

4) Petition No. 223 — That of James V. and Donald M. Campbell concerning the property at 8 Parker Road Winchester, MA. The petitioners seek a Special Permit in accordance with Sections 1.4, 2.5 of the Town of Winchester Zoning By-Law or in the alternative Section 6 of the Zoning By-Law in accordance with Section 6, Chapter 40A of the Massachusetts General Laws so as to be permitted to construct an addition that would be too close to the front property line and also, to an existing outbuilding. The property is located in the R.D.B. (Residential B) zoning district and contains 10,000 square feet.

5) Petition No. 224 — That of Gabe F. and Paul E. Robinson concerning the property at 12 Jefferson Road Winchester, MA. The petitioners seek a Dimensional Variance from Sections 1.2 of the Town of Winchester Zoning By-Law in accordance with Section 10, Chapter 40A of the Massachusetts General Laws so as to be permitted to construct a wooden deck that would be too close to the side property line. The property is located in the R.D.B. (Residential B) zoning district and contains 10,000 square feet.

Lost Legends, not the best of for pair, Peters

By Dann Kosow

Legends sinks Martin and Channing

Review
The distinctly unpleasant odor wafting through the suburbs these days is emanating from the stage of the Hub's Shubert Theatre, where James Kirkwood's stinker, Legends, is holding forth through Aug. 9.

Oh, it's fun to see Mary Martin and Carol Channing on the boards again, but if this vehicle is to be their swan song, especially in the case of Martin, it would have been better to let sleeping dogs lie!

Indeed, it isn't until one hour into the show, when Eric Riley appears as a male stripper and struts his stuff (which, incidentally, has nothing to do with the whisper of a plot), that the audience awakens from its catatonic slumber.

The cast tries hard, but Kirkwood's dialogue is so inane in this trifle of stupidity of grammar school dimension (years ago it was referred to as summer fare) that there is little the performers can do but embarrass themselves, playing characters that are all surface—plastic, cardboard, cartoon caricatures.

It's difficult to understand how stars of such magnitude as Martin and Channing could get trapped in such a turkey (and it's only mid-summer) unless they were desperate—which is not unlike the plot of the play itself.

Martin Klemmer (Gary Beach) is a high pressure, hyperventilating off-Broadway producer whose claim to fame is a show called Craps. He has a new script in hand which features two elderly women and he cons over the hill screen stars Sylvia Glenn (Channing) and Leatrice Monsee (Martin) to discuss appearing in the play.

Both women are almost destitute, but continue to put on the dog to save face. Channing borrows an expensive East Side apartment for the meeting, while Martin is obviously able to trade in food stamps for a couturier ensemble.

The two women supposedly hate each other and what follows is a couple of hours of "dishing" (tossing tired barbs at each other). They also discuss the demise of a fellow actress, devoured by her cats, the woes that befall Leatrice (Martin) as a child when her mother caught her looking at her bare behind in the mirror, and other such pertinent subjects.

This review should probably appear on the obituary page, for Legends will surely pass into oblivion!

Bernadette Peters shines in Song & Dance

Review
Andrew Lloyd Webber's Song & Dance, at Broadway's Royale Theatre, W. 45th St., is an unconventional musical told entirely in song in Act I and totally in dance in Act II.

Actually a light comic opera, it features a virtuoso performance by Tony-Award-nominated Bernadette Peters, a bevy of fine compositions by Webber (music) and Don Black (lyrics) and scintillating, almost literal choreography by Peter Martins brilliantly executed by Christopher d'Amboise and Gregg Burge. A solid chorus of seven is woven dramatically together by Richard Maltby, Jr. The net result is a delightful entertainment.

Emma (Peters) is the only character on stage in the hour-long first act and it is her vivid interpretation—carried forth by her letters to "Mum"—that allows the audience to follow the experiences of a young English girl who has just arrived in the states bursting with ambition and confidence. She relates her impressions of New York (ice cubes in drinks, all waiters say "enjoy," and "outrageous" means "fine"), of California, and of American men. As she learns about America, she also learns about herself—how New York can change a person, the loss of innocence, and the struggle to recapture real feelings and a sense of self.

Emma's trip is predicated primarily upon her desire to continue her relationship with Chuck, a flaky drummer and part-time art student she met in England, but a few hours in his apartment confirms that Chuck is a swinger with a number of girlfriends. When Chuck lectures her on how to live and then informs her that "he has to go out," Emma bolts ("Spare me, please, the song and dance.") at 3 a.m., with no place to stay, no return ticket, no money and no green card (work permit). A relationship that is dishonest is not for Emma.

Emma moves in with Viv and soon meets dynamic, glamorous and "strangely handsome" Sheldon Bloom, a film producer working on a musical of Rommel as a boy, who likes the accent of "funny English girls" and whisks her away to his Bel Air mansion, La Bohème, with its iron gates and armed guards.

Emma finds all American men neurotic, "buzzy and electric," and psychotic about growing old; that Californians dress in costumes, life in Los Angeles is a series of brunches and lazing around pools, scenery and palm trees, and that "Women shop till her chauffer drops" that it's "lovely being loved in the hay" and that it's a far cry from Soho to Beverly Hills.

Soon Emma realizes that Sheldon uses women as adornments, especially English girls—"English girls have got a head start/Joan Collins? I ask you./That's why English girls keep milking the part."

As Emma prepares to return to New York she notes ruefully, "You make me think you were in love!" She is learning to take it as it comes and accept such encounters as "just a thing."

With renewed hope Emma meets a young man from Nebraska, Joe, in Macy's, who sells software. Joe makes Emma forget and Emma falls hopelessly in love. Emma is now living in the "trendy part of New York... Greenwich Village," sharing a loft with someone named Dwight.

But Joe, new to New York and afraid to make a commitment, tells her he has to leave town for awhile. Emma cannot handle it.

In Tell Me On A Sunday, the show's most beautiful and most poignant ballad, Emma weeps, "Don't write a letter when you want to leave/Don't call me at 3 a.m. from a friend's apartment/Don't get drunk and slam the door/Let me down gently/I'd like to choose/How I hear the news/Take me to a park that's covered with trees/Tell me on a Sunday, please."

When Viv informs Emma that she's seen Joe around, Emma lashes out, "Couldn't wait to bring all of that bad news to my door./Well, I have news for you... I knew it before!"

Emma finally gets her green card and an office job with Paul, a married man with four kids who lives in Westport. On the rebound, Emma enters into a "safe relationship" with Paul, partaking of afternoon trysts—"after all, it's better than being alone!"

When Paul arrives at her door at midnight announcing that he's left his wife and children, Emma turns him away. Now she is doing the song and dance. She explains that she never loved him that way, but that "I'll always be here for you anytime you need me." She reflects bitterly, "Show me a dream and I'll show you a nightmare!" Emma has changed. She's grown hard and doesn't like herself. Now, in control of her life, she vows to find her way back... "I will succeed... or you don't know me!"

The second act is the story of Joe's subsequent life in New York—a reaching of maturity and a realization of what he has lost in Emma, now a successful milliner, and his determination to win her back.

It is told eloquently in dance alone, incorporating strong and spirited modern jazz, lively tap dancing, abstract routines, amazing lifts and comic segments brimming with variation, diversion and novelty.

There are far out, wild, hand-painted, glitzy costumes (Willa Kim), a widely varied mix of music ranging from rock to Near Eastern to Latin American, and a fusion of stimulating lighting by Jules Fisher.

Off-Broadway's Friends premieres at GSC

The New England premiere of Lee Kalcheim's Friends, an Off-Broadway hit, opens at the Gloucester Stage Company Wednesday, July 30 and will continue through Aug. 10.

This two-character comedy focuses on the friendship between two men, Harold "Okie" Peterson and Mel Simon.

Performances are at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday and 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. Saturday. Tickets are $10 on Wednesday and Thursday and $12.50 on weekends. All performances are held at 2 Main St., Gloucester. For information and reservations, call 281-4099 or contact the Gloucester Stage Company office at 90 Prospect St., Gloucester, MA 01930.

A Tale of Two Cities premieres at ASF

The American Stage Festival is mounting a world premiere of epic proportions with artistic director Larry Carpenter's adaptation of the great Charles Dickens' classic, A Tale of Two Cities, which runs through August 9.

"The production of Tale... is an ambitious one, probably the most ambitious ever undertaken at the State Festival, at least during six-year tenure," Carpenter says.

"So many students—from grade schools through college—have expressed interest in this show, we're offering them tickets the day of the show, for just $5 each, with a student ID and providing there are seats available," Keaton said.

Tickets for all performances are now available at the ASF box office (1-603-673-7515).

Monday nights at Harvard-Radcliffe Summer Theatre

The popular Harvard-Radcliffe Summer Theatre Monday Night

Series is back, featuring improvisational theatre and original plays and adaptations.

The Monday Night Series is designed to complement the regular HRST 86 season (Cloud 9 by Caryl Churchill, Woyzeck by Georg Buchner, and Buried Child by Sam Shepard). Directed by HRST 86 company members and guest performers, they are generally short and experimental, prepared intensely with small casts and each performed twice on one night only. Falling on notoriously untheatrical Mondays, when there is little else offered on Boston stages, they have in the past proven immensely popular, and have been a haven of standing for HRST actors' pet projects.

On Aug. 11, Linus Gelber, whose 1986-87 directing projects include Tom Stoppard's Rosencrantz And Guildenstern Are Dead and The Dybbuk by Solomon An-sky, will direct City Life, an original adaptation for theatre of short stories by American author Donald Barthelme.

All shows are performed at 8 and 10 p.m. in the Loeb Experimental Theatre, 64 Brattle St. in Cambridge. Tickets are $3. Season Passes are not valid. The box office is open daily 1-9 p.m. Call 864-2630 for further information.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — You can bolster your insecurities by seeking advice from someone more experienced than you. . . . A good friend is helpful. Reevaluate an old idea or ambition and go for it! You make gains by getting tedious chores out of the way.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Keep your eye on the future and don't get caught up in the past! Trust first impressions, don't let sudden changes upset you and display your ability to stay cool in a crisis. Get going forward and your project will succeed.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Listen carefully to some valuable information about finances. Changes are in the air, roll with the punches and you'll come out on top. A new relationship with someone who holds you in high esteem can develop now.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — You may have to revise an important plan to be sure of a more firm foundation. If money is owed you, now is a good time to collect it, don't be discouraged if something occurs. . . . You'll benefit in the long run.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Others may come to you for answers or advice. . . . Give freely of your time. Good luck is all around you and new beginnings are indicated. A promotion or a raise is possible since you're in an excellent and highly productive cycle.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Follow the straight and narrow. . . . Don't get involved in shady things or intrigue of any kind. Try the light approach with a relationship that is too intense, your judgment is good and whatever you initiate should succeed.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Your past efforts should pay off for you and now may be the time to make that important move! You may feel hemmed in and need a broader scope for your talents. A secret new romance could become public knowledge now.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Be alert for new opportunities in new areas that could open up now. Take classes if additional training will be helpful. Show your enthusiasm, energy and willingness to work hard, and important people will be impressed!

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Keep your attention on the long-term goals and don't get bogged down in the present petty non-essentials. Don't be limited by the past or spend time in vain regret. Cash in on your popularity for career advancement.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — You could be starting a significant new relationship. . . . Don't wait for a second invitation! Cooperative efforts now can make your dreams come true. Cut through red tape and overcome obstacles by sticking with a project.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Handle moody or touchy associates with kid gloves and avoid conflict. Be willing to work cooperatively and curb your natural independence. A special talent you have should pay off handsomely with increased popularity.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — You could receive encouragement to break loose from a confining circumstance and may consider changing jobs. An old romance could be rekindled and past differences put to rest. Follow your hunch about a money matter.

Cape has more to love with summer music fest

By Cathy McCarron

Vacationers fond of sand dunes and salty air have something more to love on old Cape Cod.

Every August, a cultural wind blows through the dunes of the Cape's saltiest communities when Hyannis, Woods Hole, Wellfleet, and Edgartown host the Cape and Islands Chamber Music Festival.

The seventh annual celebration begins Aug. 6, 8 p.m., at the Cape Cod Synagogue in Hyannis. It runs the musical gamut with concerts, open rehearsals, master classes, and a young peoples' concert.

This unique series is the project of highly acclaimed pianist and chamber musician, Samuel Sanders.

Sanders has performed with lauded musicians such as Itzhak Perlman, Beverly Sills, and Yo Yo Ma. His teaching career at the Juilliard School in New York spans 20 years.

Throughout the festival will be traditional chamber music pieces by Mozart, Beethoven, Bach, Stravinski, and Debussy, as well as contemporary works of the festival's composer-in-residence, John Corigliano.

The composer-in-residence program is an exciting feature of the festival, as audiences will hear a fresh interpretation of the traditional genre of chamber music.

Corigliano, an Academy and Emmy Award-nominee, has earned commissions with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the New York Philharmonic.

Corigliano also wrote the score for the critically acclaimed film, Altered States.

Also featured in the festival is the world class, all female, Colorado String Quartet.

This year's quartet is from University of Colorado. Since its start in 1978, the foursome has captured first prize at the Banff International String Quartet Competition, and received the prestigious Naumburg Award.

The festival kicks off with the first of the three program series.

It is followed by an opening night champagne reception where audience and musicians can talk.

Afterwards, the festival begins a nomadic existence, stopping at Lillie Auditorium in Woods Hole Aug. 8 and the Wellfleet Congregational Church Aug. 9 for 8 p.m. repeat performances of Program 1.

Bass-baritone Jan Opalach, winner of the Metropolitan Opera National Audition, highlights the first program.

On Aug. 12, the Colorado String Quartet returns to Hyannis to headline the Annual Young Peoples' concert at 2 p.m.

Concerts featuring violist Rivka Golani and pianist Sara Wollensohn begin Aug. 13 in Hyannis. Aug. 15 in Wellfleet, and Aug. 16 at the Old Whaling Church in Edgartown on the Vineyard.

Violist Golani is a versatile player and has mastered both contemporary and traditional repertoire.

Wollensohn is a piano student currently working on her masters degree at the Juilliard School.

The final program stars clarinetist James Campbell, with an open rehearsal in Hyannis 2 p.m., Aug. 19, and performances beginning in Hyannis, at 8 p.m. Aug. 20.

Campbell and his clarinet have graced both sides of the Atlantic, performing with the National Radio-Television Orchestra of Spain and the Toronto Symphony.

The last program continues in Wellfleet Aug. 22, and Woods Hole Aug. 23.

The festival completes its agenda with master classes.

Piano classes taught by Samuel Sanders, and a master string class with the Colorado String Quartet will be offered but the date was not yet set.

Concert tickets are $8.50. The young peoples' concert and master classes are $3. Series tickets for all three concerts are $20; $30 covers all of the festival's events.

What's Free Postcard collecting

Postcard Art

What do chromes, linens, topicals and Union Oils have in common? How about a gruss aus, an undivided back and a pioneer? Confused? They're all types of postcards!

Hobbyists began collecting postcards as long ago as 1893, when a private company printed commemorative postcards for the Columbian Exposition in Chicago. Over the years, collectors have sought cards with attractive images and messages; they look for condition, quality of design and printing, usage and interesting subject matter. Today, deltiology—the collecting and study of postcards—offers hobbyists an opportunity to preserve fascinating collectibles that document our changing social, political and cultural attitudes.

To learn more about this unusual hobby, send for a copy of What's Postcard Collecting All About? This 14-page illustrated booklet will give you a little history, a little terminology and a little taste of the fun you can have collecting postcards.

You can start your collection with Cousin Kirby's postcard from Sioux Falls or Aunt Mabel's postcard depicting Mickey Mouse at Disneyland. Postcards can be good investments, so later you may want to buy and sell more valuable cards at postcard shows.

Directions: Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 39 cents postage.

What About Art?

By Meredith Fife Day

Silvestro Lega's 1868 painting, The Trellis, shows one of the symbolic forms of villa life, the "pergola," or shady arbor which offered respite from Tuscany's afternoon heat. The equilibrium established between the hostess at leisure with her guests and the strong presence of the servant at work was a motif used by Lega in several paintings of this period. A reflection of the ideology of the painter was characteristic of the Macchiaioli.

Italy's Macchiaioli

The Macchiaioli were a group of 19th century Italian artists who broke away from the historical, academic painting style dominant in the country at that time.

Embracing a love of the Italian countryside and its palpable light with a desire to depict contemporary life in Tuscany, where they worked, a diverse group of painters produced works that now rank them the most important group of Italian painters of their century.

For the first time, a major exhibition of these paintings is on view in the United States. Organized by the Wight Art Gallery at the University of California, Los Angeles, The Macchiaioli: Painters of Italian Life, 1850-1900 is currently on exhibit, through Aug. 6, at Harvard University's Fogg Art Museum and Arthur M. Sackler Museum.

Clearly and thoughtfully organized, the exhibition begins with a time line chart in the Fogg which places the movement in national and international, historical, political and cultural context.

Paintings are then grouped in galleries by their chronology, depicted locale, and in some instances by artist.

Tuscany is broken down into the Maremma Region, Castiglione, Pientina, Leghorn and Florence — all important to the artists and their work.

Concluding in the Sackler Museum with Later Tuscan Realism, over 160 paintings give the viewer a sense of the movement itself, its progression from the 1850s, the artists involved, and the styles and issues that both unified the group and accounted for their individual diversities.

Like the Impressionists, working and revolting against the established order in painting at the same time in France, the Macchiaioli acquired their name from unsympathetic critics.

Derived from the Italian word "macchia" meaning, among other things, "patch" or "splotch," the painters accepted rather than rejected the derisive term used by critics in the 1860s.

For the Macchiaioli, the label expressed their desire to break with traditional academic formality and polish, and to identify with the technique and process of painting itself.

Early in the movement, some of the group focused on the effects of sunlight by building compositions from broad, spontaneous patches of color. And there are an abundance of "plein-air" paintings in the exhibit.

But unlike the Impressionists, the Macchiaioli were less intent on capturing the surface effects of light than on depicting a visual narrative of their immediate world, with great emphasis on the use of chiaroscuro — extreme light-dark patterning.

The painter Signorini explained, "the macchia was initially an accentuation of chiaroscuro in painting, a way of freeing oneself from the basic fault of the old school, which by excessive transparency of form sacrificed the solidity and sense of perspective in painting."

Cecioni, one of the movement's primary theorists, wrote "this organization of light and shadow, this macchia, is what really stirs the spectator, not the expression of the figures or the sterile materiality of the naked subject, as is often supposed to be the case."

Another unifying element for the Macchiaioli — unlike Impressionist concerns — was their involvement with the political and social events of the Risorgimento from the late 1840s through the 1860s.

The Risorgimento was the struggle for freedom from Austrian rule and unification of the separate states of the Italian peninsula. It was a significant force that gave meaning to the lives and works of Macchiaioli painters. Many responded to the events of the Risorgimento with paintings that reflected their nationalist sympathies.

Odoardo Borrani's canvas, The 26th of April, 1859, is a statement of the personal commitment of individuals during the period of democratic fervor that accompanied the Austrian Grand Duke's flight from Tuscany April 27, 1859.

The young woman who is the subject of this painting sews an Italian flag in the attic of an old palace the day before public demonstrations that caused the Grand Duke to flee.

As important as the revolutionary ideals of the Macchiaioli was the development of a style of realism reflecting the intimacy and agrarian character of life in Tuscany. From the depictions of the "buttero," the Tuscan cowboy by Giovanni Fattori, to lovely, small light-drenched landscapes by Raffaello Sernesi, to the interior genre paintings of Silvestro Lega, these artists were intent in capturing with immediacy and concreteness their own local, personal environment.

Some of the major Macchiaioli artists were Giuseppe Abbati, Cristiano Banti, Giovanni Boldini, Telemaco Signorini, Vincenzo Cabianca, Adriano Cecioni, Vito D'Ancona, Fattori, Lega, Sernesi, and Borrani.

The relative unfamiliarity of the names is an obvious result of a lack of public exposure to the work outside Europe and Japan, where exhibitions have been held.

The current presentation of the Macchiaioli gives the American viewer public an idea of the achievement of this group as well as an in-depth, first-hand look at their work.

The Fogg and Sackler museums are on Quincy and Broadway streets on the Harvard campus. They are open Monday through Saturday from 10 to 5, Sunday hours are 1 to 5.

The first major English language scholarly catalogue of the Macchiaioli movement is available in conjunction with the exhibit.

Guided tours of the exhibition are conducted 2 p.m. Wednesdays, starting at the Fogg Art Museum. Call 495-2387.

Also on view at the Sackler Museum is the fourth installation in the series, New Works. Featured artist is Jonathan Borofsky, known for his site-specific installation work.

Borofsky maintains his links to conceptual art while bringing to his work an expressionistic and personal attitude.

The installation, including a large screen video presentation, is in striking contrast to the nearby Macchiaioli exhibition galleries.

Faneuil Hall: Shopping through history gives Boston landmark an anchor in then and now

The time to visit Faneuil Hall Marketplace is Aug. 7-31, when the usual carnival atmosphere becomes even more festive.

The marketplace celebrates its 10th year of rebirth as well as its 160th birthday with free concerts, dance, art and many other activities.

Faneuil Hall Marketplace is an architectural Cinderella story.

It went from riches to rags to riches during its 160-year existence.

The market, the earliest grand scale commercial development in America, began when merchant Peter Faneuil gave Boston a two-story, bronze-domed building in 1742.

Faneuil Hall served as a public meeting hall and marketplace.

The spirited debates and historically important forums in the upstairs meeting hall led Daniel Webster to dub it "the cradle of liberty."

With the Boston Harbor trade boom of the early 1800s, the city expanded the marketplace with three 535-foot granite Greek revival arcades — Quincy Market, named for Boston mayor Josiah Quincy, and the North and South Markets.

Boston's decline as a critical Eastern port at the turn of the century was soon reflected in the marketplace.

The once-lively complex became a shabby, desolate block of old warehouses that narrowly escaped the wrecking balls of urban renewal in the 1960s.

Thanks to grassroots lobbying, the marketplace became the catalyst of efforts to revitalize downtown Boston.

Restoration of the outside facade started in 1969, with a grant from H.U.D. In 1973, city council selected the now-famous Rouse Company as the developer of the project.

The dramatically restored marketplace officially reopened Aug. 26, 1976.

It set a trend for urban revitalization across the country. More than 140 million visitors have been through the marketplace in the past 10 years, and annually, the marketplace sees more visitors than Disneyland.

The 6½-acre marketplace houses over 150 shops and 23 restaurants.

The marketplace's birthday party begins Aug. 7, 5:30 p.m., with a serenade by a 1200-member choir, led by Tanglewood's John Oliver.

The concert includes a celebrity singalong, accompanied by the 18th US Army Band of New England, and a high wire act.

On Aug. 8, and continuing 5:30-9:30 p.m. every Friday through August, one of Boston's best swing orchestras provides the music for a free night of dancing under the stars. Dick Johnson's Swing Shift Orchestra kicks off the first program.

A Boston neighborhood parade, Aug. 10, combines marching bands, local heroes and politicians in a march through the city. The parade culminates with a Community Action Awards presentation to local outstanding citizens.

Prominent Boston artists display their works Aug. 13-26 in the upper rotunda of Quincy Market Building.

Nationally renowned Boston authors Robert Parker, Anne Bernays, Justin Kaplan, James Carroll, Robert Cormier and Sam Shem present readings and autograph their books in the Quincy Market upper rotunda 11 a.m. - 6 p.m., Aug. 20-21.

Boston Ballet presents a world premier ballet, choreographed by Bruce Marks in honor of the anniversary celebration, 8 p.m. Aug. 23 and 25. The new ballet is called Shake It Up and features music by the Cars. Four other ballets are also performed.

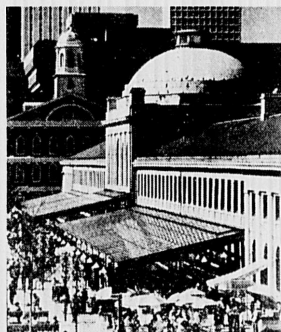

From the top: Faneuil Hall Marketplace, circa 1826, provided merchants, importers and farmers with a center to sell their wares; outdoor performers are a current part of the marketplace landscape; today, the Faneuil Hall Marketplace draws over 14 million visitors each year.

A Grasshopper Ball to benefit Arts/Boston takes place Aug. 24, 8 p.m. - midnight. The marketplace will be closed for the benefit gala, which hopes to draw up to 5000 attendees. The Count Basie Orchestra and Arts/Boston groups will entertain. A silent auction of merchandise and collectibles will also be held throughout the evening.

On the official birthday, Aug. 26, the marketplace holds a giant birthday party, beginning at noon. This year's birthday cake is expected to serve 30,000 people.

That evening, Boston Pops performs a free concert 8 p.m., in tandem with a laser light show and other surprises.

The Faneuil Hall Marketplace is open seven days a week. Stores are open 10 a.m. - 9 p.m., restaurants 11 a.m. - 10 p.m., and taverns 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.

When to go, what to see

Opening day. John Oliver, director of the Tanglewood Festival Chorus leads a 1200-member choir in a variety of popular American music 5:30 p.m., Aug. 7. The program also includes accompaniment by the 18th U.S. Army Band of New England, a celebrity singalong, and a high wire act.

Swing dance series. Boston's swing orchestras, including Dick Johnson's Swing Shift and the Ed, Bo and Bill Winker Orchestra, provide music for a free night of outdoor dancing, 5:30 - 9 p.m., Aug. 8, 15, 22 and 29.

Neighborhood parade. Governor Michael Dukakis and Mayor Ray Flynn join other politicians, citywide neighborhood representatives, local heroes and marching bands in a march through the city. The parade starts at 1 p.m. from Boston Commons, on the Charles Street end, proceeds down Beacon Street and winds up at Faneuil Hall Marketplace. The parade concludes with a Community Action Awards presentation to outstanding citizens.

Salute to Boston artists. Renowned area painters and artists display their works in the Quincy Market upper rotunda Aug. 13 - 26. Participating artists include Doug Anderson, Gina Fiedel, Jon Imber, Ralph Helmick, Brenda Starr, Joe Lourie, Bob Lewis and Elsa Dorfman. The rotunda is open during shopping hours.

Boston's best authors. Nationally-known local authors will read from their works and autograph their books 11 a.m. - 6 p.m., Aug. 20 - 21, in the Quincy Market upper rotunda.

Boston Ballet. Boston Ballet presents Shake It Up, a new ballet choreographed by artistic director Bruce Marks in honor of the marketplace's anniversary. The new ballet features music by the local and nationally-acclaimed rock group, The Cars. Other featured ballets in the program include Square Dance, Rodeo and Stars And Stripes. Free performances are 8 p.m. Aug. 23 and 25, outdoors between Faneuil Hall and Quincy Market Building.

Grasshopper Ball. The marketplace closes for a benefit gala, 8 p.m. - midnight for Arts/Boston. Up to 5000 guests may attend, entertainment includes the Count Basie Orchestra and performances by Arts/Boston groups. A silent auction of marketplace merchandise and collectibles is held throughout the evening. Tickets are $50, available by calling Arts/Boston at 423-4454.

Birthday festivities. On Aug. 26, the official anniversary day, the marketplace celebrates with a gigantic public birthday cake, to be served at noon. While a large and elaborately decorated cake, provided by Montilio's Bakery, has become a tradition, this year's cake promises to be the biggest ever — serving up to 30,000 slices.

The day will continue with sidewalk performing artists and other surprises.

At 8 p.m., the Boston Pops perform a free concert on the grounds between Faneuil Hall and Quincy Market Building. The Pops concert will be accompanied by a laser light show.

For more information, call Allyson Reed at 523-1300.

WE'LL MANAGE!!!

If you own an apartment house, you will have hired a management firm to relieve you of the duties of collecting rents, arranging for maintenance and repairs, finding new tenants, and paying the bills.

If you rent a condo or a single or multi-family house, however, you have to assume these time-consuming burdens yourself. If you do not live in the neighborhood, you may find these tasks quite a chore at times.

So, let us manage! Our rental manager will manage small rental properties at very modest monthly costs. When you are leaving the area temporarily and wish to rent your own home, or are the proud owner of a profitable two or three-family property you wish to keep without retaining the hassles, call our management agent, Lois Ardito.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee.

Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston
Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

THE 55 LIMIT

The biggest tax break for homeowners goes to those who have reached 55 years of age. They should be selling a principal residence that they have occupied for at least three out of the five years preceding the date of sale. If 55 or older, a once-in-a-lifetime tax exclusion can be taken on up to $125,000 of profit. The profit on the sale is the difference between the "adjusted sales price" and the "adjusted basis." The adjusted sales price is the gross selling price less the broker's commission and other selling expenses.

The adjusted basis is the contract price plus closing costs not deductible at time of purchase and the capital improvement costs. If one is planning to sell a house that is worth much more than was paid for it, it may be of great advantage to wait until age 55.

Our staff at CENTURY 21 COLLINS REALTY, INC. is pledged to further and maintain the highest ethical standards of the real estate industry. Whether you are buying a new home or a re-sale or are planning to sell your property we give guidance so that your transaction is completed to your satisfaction. Our office is located at 783 Massachusetts Ave., 648-6900. We are open daily, evenings and weekends.

HINT: Begin to think about refinancing your mortgage when rates fall at least two points below your current rate.

Audi Remanufactured Parts.

Built Like New.

Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuild" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit — alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts — is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts. The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

*Ask for Autobahn or Audi Limited Warranty at Our Parts Department.
